This report was filed sometime last year. No legislation has yet been offered to correct that condition by anybody in this Senate, neither by the gentleman from Blair, nor by anyone else. But when a condition which existed such as exists in Philadelphia was disclosed to the public mind and to the public view, then once again the agitation came forward. Apparently the imagination of the people is limited. No one believes that there is suffering on relief, no one believes that a person is injured, and no one believes that institutions are mismanaged until they see the blood run before them. In Philadelphia today there is a great to-do about the fact that four people were scalded to death at Holmesburg. If it weren't for the fact that those bodies were carried out in the presence of a great many witnesses, no one would even believe that a terrible condition existed at Holmesburg, and gentlemen of the Senate, they have existed at Holmesburg and in other prisons for years. The only thing that happened is that they didn't have the imagination to know it until it had been laid before them.

I suppose the only way we can convince people of the necessity of what is being done here today is for us to go out and disinter the six hundred bodies which have been buried from Byberry every year, 50% of them, at least, due to neglect and incompetence and mismanagement. That might raise an agitation. If we parade them through the streets then everybody will throw up their hands in holy horror and say that something should be done about it. But in Philadelphia today, the man who is responsible for those conditions, which continue day in and day out, is still in charge of that institution, in charge there because he is a political appointee, in charge there because no one has the fairness and decency, no one in authority can stand up and say that he be removed, with the exception of one person, Dr. Keegan, who came here before the committee.

In that institution today, the supervising night nurse, who has charge of several hundred children, has to be guarded by two Philadelphia policemen, paid by the city, because an attendant who gets fifty dollars a month has enough political influence to keep himself there in spite of the fact that his removal has been recommended. In this case the supervising nurse is not the woman who has had the training for it, but is the attendant from whom she has to be protected. Those conditions will continue as long as Philadelphia and other counties control the management of these institutions, and warrants what I am saying—that State control is the only thing that can reduce these conditions to a minimum.

What is your picture in Blair County? Are you supporting the insane today? Are you doing that which you say you do? Certainly not! In Blair County in 1937, you spent $97,000 to care for the few patients that you have there. Out of that $97,000, you got $30,000 from the State and $17,000 from your patients, so that your total expenditure was $50,000. In Blair County, you have no bonded debt but you say you spent for the poor, the indigent poor and insane persons, $197,000, to build these institutions. Very well, when the State of Pennsylvania takes these over, the $50,000 which you have been contributing will be removed from your county budget and you will be saving $50,000. Within five years you will have your money back and immediately after the 31st of May, you will be enabled to reduce your taxes in Blair County to the extent to which you are today appropriating annually for the care of these insane. And yet you say to us that the State is trying to be bureaucratic, that it is trying to take something away from you which is an asset. There isn't a county in the State that can say that their institutions aren't a liability, and when you consider that in your own county and in my county today there are people walking the streets that are a menace to the community that should be in the institutions, and are a sad sight to see because they are not receiving proper care, your institutions become a great liability, and your vote against these bills makes you responsible for the perpetuation of a condition of which we should all be ashamed.

Let me say to you men, that this bill was studied, and submitted to this Senate on the 3rd of August, that it was sent out for second reading and went back into committee on the 9th of August, that public hearings were held, and outside of Senator Mallery's amendment, there has not been a single amendment nor a single suggestion from the floor as to how these bills should be corrected. Today was the first time that this has been done, after we have been wrestling with this problem for so long, a problem which is a real problem and one to which these bills can serve as the only solution. Today I was asked to appear before a committee of which Mr. Mallery was one, and Mr. Fertig another, to explain these bills and to see what could be done about them.

The reason for the amendment which was offered last night was because I am personally troubled about the fact that there is a dual condition existing and something must be done to protect the various counties. So we have provided that all of the ground and buildings used for the insane go to the State, and the buildings used for the indigent remain in the county. That isn't as big a problem as you think when you realize that in all the counties except Pittsburgh, there are only 1,600 indigent patients involved. In Pittsburgh, there are 2,500 indigent patients involved, but the County of Allegheny and the City of Pittsburgh have endorsed whole-heartedly this plan.

Dr. Keegan, the only member of the Philadelphia City Council who was sufficiently interested to appear, although the Mayor and all the members of the Council were given information as to the effect of the bill and invitations to appear here, never showed up,—Dr. Keegan said, regarding Byberry, "We would like you to give us some money, if you can, but if you can't, take it and God bless you."

What about giving you some money? You will find that the Constitution says, "The Commonwealth shall not assume the debt, or any part there of, of any city, county, borough or township, unless such debt shall have been contracted to enable the State to repel invasion, suppress domestic insurrection, defend itself in time of war, or to assist the State in the discharge of any portion of its present indebtedness."

How can we assume in view of this provision, that the State is obligated in this respect to any county? Why should we, in exchange for what we are giving you, a release from an annual burden, and the permission to reduce your taxes annually—taxes which I reiterate we have all been crying about as needing reduction? If there is any more than can be said in favor of the passage of the bill I would like to hear it.

Aside from that I say there is still a problem. We find that some of these institutions have merged their hospitals for mental cases and homes for the indigent. I have said to the gentlemen that are dealing with this, that if they will give me a solution that will solve it, if it can be constitutionally inserted in the bill it will be done. If there is a solution, why not put it in now? I have waited for a month for a solution from anyone and I haven't received any. I firmly believe that you can't correct the condition yourself and I am convinced that even if we do it in its worst form and take these buildings and farms and leave you with no nurses' homes, you will still be a thousand per cent better off financially and morally. You will be able to look at yourself with greater respect, with greater respect than if you vote against these bills and permit these people not to get the treatment to which they are entitled.

I am perfectly satisfied that there are a number of these institutions which should not be taken over. Constitutionally, these must all be taken over at once, but a provision can be inserted in the bill that can provide that the State, between now and the 31st of May, determine whether or not to take over an institution, and the ground and buildings could be deeded back to the county, if the State decides the institution need not be taken over. I am assured by some gentlemen that that is constitutional. I have agreed that I will have the matter looked into independently so that the bill will not be endangered. If anyone else can suggest any other amendment, no matter how late it is, if it can be done, we will ask the members of the House to submit those amendments.

Why the hurry? Because the 30th of September is the last day on which this plan must be submitted to the State Authority. The State Authority will contribute $32,000,000, seven and a half million dollars of which will be used in Philadelphia, and $25,000,000 throughout the State to create hospitalization for 8,000 more patients. Gentlemen, if you want to vote against this bill under those circumstances, it is your privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I had the honor of serving on the committee with my colleague the Senator from Philadelphia and I want to say a brief word of congratulations to him and express my admiration for the very thorough piece of work he has done. I do not care whether it is a Democratic measure or a Republican measure, I will vote for it because I think it is right. I have been for years brought up with the idea that it is all wrong to house the indigent and mentally afflicted under one management. This is not a New Deal measure. This proposition as far as Philadelphia hospitals are concerned passed this Assembly during Pinchot's administration. Pinchot vetoed the bill, but I do not want my Republican colleagues to consider this as a partisan measure. It is not.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the argument of these two Senators from Philadelphia entirely overlooks the most important question here. These properties belong to the counties. If you want to deal fairly with them, submit to them whether they want to give them up to the State without consideration. This talk about haste seems to me is what we hear day in and day out from the men on the other side. What if the State Authority should cease its operations at the close of this year? If this institution at Byberry was so bad, surely the people of Philadelphia knew it and could have ferreted it out during the last three years. There ought to be an amendment put into this bill to permit a submission to the people of the counties as to whether or not they are willing to turn over their properties, free and without any consideration.

The Senator from Philadelphia who is the sponsor of this bill, a few weeks ago in apologizing for the conduct of our Governor in seizing a State police plane and going off to Mexico, said that he was going down there to investigate police methods. Well, of course we know that the methods in force in Mexico are the firing squad and imprisonment without trial. It has been suggested by the Senator from Blair that perhaps Mexico was the first country on this continent to seize property without payment. Possibly the Governor was going down to investigate their methods of seizing property without payment, and of course it will be necessary, if this bill is carried to its logical conclusion, to introduce those police methods in this State.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I wonder if I may ask the Senator from Somerset, one question.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to know from Senator Ealy whether the institution in Somerset has been receiving any State aid?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, it has been—the same aid as any county would receive.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, does the Senator know how much that would amount to per annum?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I have the figures here somewhere.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, about what would it be?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, it will be hard to determine that exactly because there are, in this institution, patients from Blair, Cambria, Fayette, Greene, Indiana, and Westmoreland counties, besides Somerset. To separate the amount for our own patients. is something I cannot do.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—30

Barthold,	Henney,	Lanius,	Rodgers,
Cavalcante,	Heyburn,	McCreesh,	Ruth,
Dando,	Howell,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,
Dent,	Jacobs,	Mundy,	Sipe,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	Pytko,	Stiefel,
Frey,	Kahle,	Reed,	Thompson,
Gilson,	Kilgallen,	Rice,	Woodward,
Haluska,	Kunkel,

NAYS—7

Buckman,	Deitrick,	Eroe,	Owlett,
Chapman,	Ealy,	Mallery,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

ADJOURNMENT IN MEMORY OF THE LATE SENATOR JOHN G. HOMSHER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I have a sad duty to perform at this time. I must announce to the Senate the death of one of our colleagues at 2:15 P. M. today at the Lancaster General Hospital, where Senator John G. Homsher passed away.

I therefore move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, September 19, 1938 at 8:00 o'clock P. M., (E. S. T.).

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of Senator John G. Homsher at 3:28 o'clock, P. M., (E. S. T.) until Monday, September 19, 1938, at 8:00 o'clock, P. M. (E. S. T.)

L. 2869), which committee was provided with an appropriation under Appropriation Act No. 9-A, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 102, approved January thirteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
Harrisburg, September 12, 1938.

Whereas, The 1935 Session of the General Assembly passed a Resolution creating a Pennsylvania Commission to Arrange for the 75th Anniversary Reunion of the Blue and Gray at Gettysburg and Governor Earle, in accordance with this Resolution, appointed a number of Pennsylvania citizens to cooperate with a similar commission created by the Federal Government to make the necessary plans for this celebration, and

Whereas, One of our collegues in the General Assembly, the Honorable John S. Rice, the Senator from the Adams-Franklin Senatorial District was appointed Chairman of the Pennsylvania Commission and also Chairman of the joint Federal-State Commission and in this capacity served most efficiently, ably and tirelessly and gave generously of his time to direct the various activities which culminated in a most appropriate and successful final reunion in honor of the Heroes of the Civil War, and

Whereas, The Honorable Joseph F. Guffey, United States Senator from Pennsylvania and the Honorable Harry L. Haines, a Member of Congress from the 22nd Pennsylvania District were Pennsylvania citizens ably serving on the Federal Commission, and

Whereas, The Honorable Edward G. Shannon, the Honorable William A. Schnader, the Honorable Gerald P. O'Neil, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, the Honorable William S. McLean, Jr., the Honorable Frederick B. Kerr, the Honorable Victor C. Mather, and the Honorable Willis D. Hall, also ably assisted Senator Rice as Members of the Pennsylvania Commission, and

Whereas, The President of the United States honored this Commonwealth by participating in the most impressive ceremonies dedicating the Eternal Peace Monument,

Therefore, Be It Resolved, if the Senate concur, that the General Assembly extend their most deep appreciation to the President for his active participation in these ceremonies, and

Be It Further Resolved, That the General Assembly extend its appreciation and most hearty congratulations to our Collegue, Senator John S. Rice, for the able manner in which he guided to a successful conclusion this everlasting memorial to the Heroes of the Civil War, and

Be It Also Further Resolved That our appreciation and congratulations be extended to all the other Pennsylvania citizens who were members of either the Federal or State Commissions who ably assisted our Collegue in this Memorial Reunion, and

Be It Further Resolved, That the other members of the Federal Commission who are not residents of the State of Pennsylvania be extended our sincere thanks and appreciation for their cooperation and assistance to our Collegue in this Memorial Reunion and Celebration, and

Be It Also Further Resolved, That the Chief Clerk send copies of this resolution to the President and to all Members of the Federal and State Commissions.

BILL SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 14.

An Act providing for the adjournment and readjournment of county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands that were to have been held in the years one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven or one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight for nonpayment of taxes in counties except those of the first and second class and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. PERRY. RESOLUTION No. 14.

A RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION RELATIVE TO THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE TUNNEL HIGHWAY AUTHORIZED BY THE 1937 SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Harrisburg, September 13, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor's call for this special session of the General Assembly included as one of the additional subjects for the consideration of the General Assembly "appropriations to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to provide for payment of salaries, rights-of-way and other expenses;" and

Whereas, Act No. 211, of the session of 1937, creating the Turnpike Commission provided that the Department of Highways may make unlimited expenditures for emergency and other purposes, to be repaid to the Department if, and when, bonds were sold; and

Whereas, The total of such advances, made for the preliminary expenses of the Commission to date are currently estimated at more than $1,000,000; and

Whereas, The payment of these continuing advances is a serious handicap to the necessary normal construction-repair and maintenance work of the Department of Highways; and

Whereas, In the absence of convincing proof that there is a possibility that tolls from the road may amount to enough to repay the proposed loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the loan may have to be paid out of the Motor Vehicle Fund and thus further cripple the future construction and maintenance of the primary and secondary road systems of the state; and

Whereas, The Hurnpike Commission, despite more than a year of effort, failed to convince private capital that investment in the toll highway bonds would be a sound investment and was forced to turn to the Federal Government; and

Whereas, Both the continued advancement of Motor License funds and the ultimate collapse of the project as toll highway constitute a serious threat to the greatly-needed normal road program of the future; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives call upon the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and the Department of Highways to furnish the following information for the General Assembly and the people of the Commonwealth:

(1) The amount of Motor License Fund moneys actually spent to date in connection with the preliminary surveys, tunnel clearance and other work done in advance of the start of the construction of the tunnel highway;

(2) The cost of, and necessity for, the elaborate office building in Harrisburg which bears the name of the "Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission;"

(3) The amount of such expenditures, returnable and now owing to the Motor License Fund under the Act of 1937, together with any available figures on the cost of Highway Department's facilities on the tunnel highway;

(4) The latest available, official estimate regarding the final cost of the tunnel highway, showing estimated costs of rights-of-way, tunnel clearance, property damages, actual road construction, and interest and amortization costs, as well as current estimates of the annual debt service and administration costs incident to the operation of the toll highway;

(5) The latest available estimates of the traffic likely to be diverted to the proposed toll highway, together with previous estimates included in Federal and State surveys covering the Lincoln Highway and William Penn Highway, together with an interpretation of the information by the Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Pennsylvania Department of Highways; and

(6) The latest available proposed schedule of toll rates for passenger cars and commercial motor vehicles, together with current estimates of toll revenue over the full period of the proposed bond issue.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN from the Committee on Judicoary Special, reported as committed, House Bill No. 65, entitled:

An Act creating a joint legislative commission to study and report on use of devices and methods of transmission of information for advices in furtherance of gambling, and making an appropriation.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. RUEBEN E. COHEN asked and obtained uninimous consent to have the ollowing bill read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 65, entitled:

An Act creating a joint legislative commission to study and report on use of devices and methods of transmission of information for advice in furtherance of gambling, and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside or second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

The motion was agreed to.

STATEMENT BY MR. REISING

Mr. REISING asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House:

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, after listening to considerable debate with respect to committees, committee reports and expenses in connection therewith, I feel it is proper at this time, that I give my views on this subject.

When people are in distress, they must be comforted and helped in order that their existance in the future may be worth while for them, both here, and hereafter. The obligation of helping one another is recognized by almost every one, and as a result, we have organization—government agencies, national, state and local; churches and church societies; fraternal, labor and farm groups, along with the presence of numerous civic enterprises who are chiefly concerned with the rendering of aid and comfort to persons who are in need, physically, mentally, economically, socially and morally.

It is reasonable to state that what is true of an individual is also true of groups of individuals as corporations. For the past nine years, at the present time and for some time to come, we have had and will have the problem of helping distressed people, whether singly, or in groups. In attempting and succeeding in giving help, our national government has conducted many investigations, through obtaining appropriations from Congress to finance and for the expense of the committees making the investigation. Reports are made and recorded. Some are acted upon immediately, others are merely shelved for future use. But the fact remains that some where along the line, money was obtained to pay for the investigations whether they were ever acted upon, or not.

The same thing has occurred again in the state administrations. It is, however, definitely true here in Pennsylvania, where investigations are constantly going on at practically all seasons of the year, covering all branches of private and public activity; the administration of government in certain cities and counties; business practices of banks, trust companies, loan corporations and other financing concerns; public utilities; the oil industry; causes of depression and recession; relief, relief administration; the coal industry, and most notable, the present investigation of the conduct of certain civil officers of the Commonwealth, now in progress.

Many appropriations providing large sums of money to pay for the several investigations, and often supplemental appropriations after the principal requests are granted, are asked for, to complete the work of the committee, or often to settle unpaid bills of the committee which have accrued as a result of the investigation. But although there have been innumerable reports submitted by these committees, there has never been an itemized account furnished to the members of the House of Representatives or the people of Pennsylvania, showing just what the money was spent for, or who received it. I therefore feel that the members of the House should be furnished with such an itemized account of all money received by investigating committees indicating for what it was paid, to whom it was paid, and what service or goods was given the committee in exchange.

Another highly important question I feel impelled to raise at this time on the same subject of investigations is: Does the committee, when these inquiries are made, particularly regarding corporations that are in need of assistance from an outside source such as a government agency, go into the question of determining the status of the capitol structure of the enterprise from the date of its incorporation to the present time, thereby effecting a disclosure of the capital load placed upon the business, by the business its-self, through the time worn custom of adding water to its stocks at the time of incorporation and periods of reorganization and mergers, and at other periods when capital structures are pyramided for the purpose of providing dividends.

Anyone seriously interested in the question of unsound business practices need only to read the history of the American Railroads to be amazed at the business skullduggery employed to load the industry down with a capital structure so great that the railroads cannot carry their own capital load. The Railroad Industry can carry all of the nations passengers, and all of its tonnage safely, but it cannot carry its own paper weight-capital foundation—watered stock.

This brings us to the question of the anthracite coal industry, and if the report which was submitted in a magazine on that business and its fanaegeling and contorted malpractices over the period of its existence is even approximately correct, it is my opinion that the chief trouble with the industry is its match-box underpinnings based on watered capital structures.

I would therefore insist upon the capital structure of the distressed industries that are crying for help, being run through a wringer and relieve it of that vicious and fictitious part of its capital which has caused it to bleed itself white.

I am not willing to have the taxpayers of Pennsylvania assume any financial obligations for which they do not receive any satisfaction as to the purpose of the collection, or the ultimate use to which it is put. Must the taxpayers pay for "pigs in pokes" that are bundled onto them with the bare explanation, if any at all is given—of "Investigations."

If an individual is in distress because he wants to continue to drink, gamble, and carouse, and if by discontinuing the bad habits and practices, he can in some way relieve his own distress, even though it might mean giving up these vices, in order to receive the assistance that society will offer him, so let industry give up its insidious vice of watering stock and set in order its house, economically, then there will be less cause for distress and more willingness to provide a channel of assistance to bring aid.

Then, and only then will the people know just where help is needed and can apply the remedy.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 58, entitled:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines appointed pursuant to the joint resolution approved the fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws one thousand six hundred eighty-nine) entitled "A joint resolution creating a commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines defining its powers and duties and making an appropriation" together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered. To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 51, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by adding thereto section twenty

WHEREAS The Congress of the United States in section twelve of the Hayden-Cartwright Act of June eighteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four known as 48 Statutes 993 said "It is unfair and unjust to tax motor vehicle transportation unless the proceeds of such taxation are applied to the construction improvement or maintenance of highways" now therefore

Section 1 Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof

That article nine of the Constitution be amended by adding thereto section twenty as follows

Section 20 All motor vehicle registration fees operators' license fees gasoline excise taxes and other similar special taxes fees duties and excises imposed by law on motor vehicles and trailers and the owners and operators thereof and on liquid or motor fuels and dedicated for highway purposes shall be appropriated and used only to pay for the cost of laying out constructing reconstructing maintaining repairing improving and policing the public highways and bridges for the costs of administration in connection therewith and for the payment of the interest and principal of any State and local debt incurred for highway and bridge purposes and for no other purpose whatever

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection, House Bill No. 10, Printer's No. 46, was passed over at the request of Mr. SCHOR.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair will declare a recess for five minutes. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and a recess is declared for five minutes.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Committee on Rules will meet immediately in the Conference Room in the rear of the House.

The Committee on Municipal Corporations will meet immediately in the Senate Caucus Room to conduct a public hearing on House Bill No. 26, known as the Tax Abatement Bill.

AFTER RECESS

The SPEAKER. The time of the recess having expired the House is called to order.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TUMELTY. RESOLUTION No. 15.

In the House of Representatives, September 13, 1938.

Whereas The constitutionality of many acts passed by the last session of the General Assembly were attacked; and

Whereas The Judges of the Supreme Court and other subordinate courts have seen fit to hold many of these acts unconstitutional although they were enacted for the general welfare and interest of the majority of the people of this Commonwealth; and

Whereas The amendment proposing the calling of a Constitutional Convention for the purpose of drawing up a new constitution was defeated, no doubt due to lack of familiarity with the constitution and its provisions; and

Whereas The pupils have never been properly educated in the public schools of this Commonwealth as to the great principles involved or presented in the constitution; and

Whereas It is highly desirable that the knowledge of the public be increased in regard to the constitution and the provisions thereof in order that they may be in a better position to decide whether they wish to be governed by ideas of 1874 should an amendment be presented to them in the future; therefore be it

Resolved That the Department of Public Instruction is hereby requested to require every school district in this Commonwealth to include in their required instruction "A graded course of studies on the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" so that the provisions of the constitution may be introduced and incorporated in the work of each grade from the fifth to the last grade of the public school system of this Commonwealth, and be it further Reseolved That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Public Instruction.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. SIMON. (Concurrent), RESOLUTION No. 16.

In the House of Representatives, September 13, 1938.

Errors occur in printing pink bills and are repeated in subsequent printings.

Errors may creep in at the time of any reprinting, and reprinting is sometimes necessary solely for the purpose of correcting error.

The number of reprints can be reduced greatly, and a very substantial saving made in the cost of legislative printing, by an orderly procedure in inserting amendments and in reading bills for typographical and other errors, and by fixing the responsibility therefor in one place.

The time of members of both Houses can be conserved by reducing the number of times bills appear upon the Calendar for consideration on the floor; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the preparation of copy for all bills reported by committees and the preparation of copy for all amended bills be made a function of the Legislative Reerence Bureau; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau read for errors all pink and white bills as delivered by the printer, assuring correction of errors on subsequent reprint if one is made necessary by amendment in either House, and obtaining a correct reprint from the printer, without charge to the Commonwealth, if the bill is not amended.

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau be given the authority and the necessary funds to augment the force of the Bureau to the extent required to properly discharge these responsibilities.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1938. No. 18.

SENATE

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1938.

The Senate met at 8:00 o'clock P. M., (E. S. T.).

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor, Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Our God and our Father, as we assemble for the duties of another week, we ask for Thy presence and Thy guiding hand. We pray for our Commonwealth, and for our sisterhood of states. May the wisdom from above lead us into right paths, and in the wideness of Thy mercy, we await the dawning of a brighter day. With a sense of kinship and common loss, we would stand for a moment in silence and stillness before Thee.

We are thinking of a new made grave in God's acre, a quiet church yard in Strasburg. The body of an honored comrade is resting there. The silver cord is loosed; the golden bowl is broken; the pitcher is broken at the fountain. Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, the body will soon return to earth, and mingle with the dust of many gone before but he is not there . He is in our hearts in our memories in the bosom of his God. He lives forever!

We thank Thee for the life of this good man. The heavens declare Thy glory, and the firmament sheweth Thy handiwork, but an honest man is the noblest work of God. Sustain the widow and loved ones by Thy Grace. Comfort those, his intimates here, who reciprocated with him their confidence and affection through years of collaboration in affairs of state. Help us to be true to the higher self, to one another, to our country and our God. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. Rice asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. HUFFMAN on account of illness.

Mr. Buckman asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. HOWELL.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, to my mind the Democratic Party in the Earle administration has been entirely too modest concerning the accomplishments of the last four years, particularly the accomplishments with reference to the fiscal affairs of our government.

We have hidden our light under a bushel so to speak and I think it is high time, with all of the dribble that is coming from the mouths of Republican thunder-makers, that we throw off our cloak of modesty and tell the people of Pennsylvania some of the things that have been accomplished in this State during the last four years.

When the Earle administration came into office in January of 1935, it came in at a time that was unquestionably the low point in our entire State history. The State government had been so plundered by the preceding Republican administration that there was practically no money in the State Treasury. The balance in the Treasury in January 15, 1935, was not much over $700,000, a sum that was utterly inadequate to meet a two-weeks pay-roll of the State. Practically all of our special funds had been plundered; our highway funds were practically exhausted; the firemen's relief fund had been taken; special funds for relief of distressed school districts had been stolen; almost every way you turned the Republican administration had used the funds of the State for some purpose other than that for which these funds had been raised.

In order to keep the State government from collapsing utterly it was necessary for the officers of the Earle administration to go out and beg from the larger corporations of the State that they advance taxes, which were not due until March, so that we could save the State from an entire collapse.

Not only was the Treasury of the State empty, but we were so far in debt that it looked as though the State would never get back on an even keel. The preceding Republican administration had left nearly $40,000,000 of unpaid current bills. In addition to this, the preceding Republican administration had involved the State in $85,000,000 of additional bonded indebtedness and had made no provision for the payment of any part of the principal or the interest on the State debt. We had $28,000,000 of debt service to provide almost immediately, in addition to this, there were five months left of the Republican biennium which extended until the 31st of May, 1935, for which no provision had been made. The relief bill in Pennsylvania at that time was running in excess of $20,000,000 a month and there was no money in the State Treasury to pay relief and when the Republican administration went out of office, they left the five months relief bill of the remaining part of their biennium unprovided for. In other words, Mr. President, when the Earle administration assumed office in January of 1935 they found this State $168,000,000 worse off than broke.

How can the Republican party ever pretend to governmental sagacity or boast of the business ability of its leaders in the face of a record such as this?

It is with a great deal of pleasure, Mr. President, that we can report to you that every bill of the Earle administration during the last three and a half years has been faithfully met when it was due, every obligation of the State of Pennsylvania faithfully discharged, even including the obligations which we inherited from our predecessors and, Mr. President, when the Treasurer of the State of Pennsylvania issued his monthly statement on the 31st day of August, 1938, he revealed a balance in bank of $94,827,287.96. I say to you, Mr. President, that this is the greatest piece of good business that has ever been carried out in the history of Pennsylvania. Nothing like this has ever been accomplished in the history of this State before and probably will never have to be accomplished again in our life time, and, I say to you, Mr. President, that the Democratic Party is justly proud of a record of this sort and needs make no apologies when it goes before the voters of this State today for its business-like conduct of the affairs of our State government.

Almost every day we pick up the newspapers and read where the "False Front" Breaker Boy has attacked the Earle administration on its tax program. It is an interesting note in this connection that about a month ago when the "False Front" and I spoke at the same meeting, I publicly challenged him to meet me on the platform any place that he should desire to debate this question of taxes and to this day there has been no acceptance of the challenge. I don't believe that "False Front" has the slightest conception of what taxes are levied by the State of Pennsylvania, even though he did serve four years as Lieutenant-Governor as the spearhead of all anti-labor legislation during that period. Have any of you ever read a speech where "False Front" refers to any particular tax?

Just to digress one moment, Mr. President, from the thought of this speech, I want to call the attention of yourself and this Senate to something which I borrowed from one of my Republican friends on the way down here this afternoon. I took it off of his automobile. It is one of the familiar bumper cards reading "James for Governor." I want you to notice that among other things there is no union label on that bumper card.

Our section of the State today is being flooded with the bumper cards, and I think that for the first time in the history of Pennsylvania we have a major political party and a candidate for governor who is too cheap to spend the extra funds necessary to get a union label on his campaign advertising.

Let's consider in the first place what the new taxes levied by the Earle administration consist of. Only two new taxes have been levied during the four years of the Earle administration, and during that time a number of nuisance taxes, such as the tax on building and loan shares, have been repealed. A 2 cent tax on cigarettes was placed, and cigarettes are selling for less in Pennsylvania today than they were when this tax was enacted. At the time this tax was enacted cigarettes were selling for seventeen cents and today they sell almost universally for fifteen cents. It is, of course, absurd under these circumstances to say that such a tax was confiscatory.

The other new tax that was levied during this administration was the tax on theatre admissions. This tax was levied in 1935 and was repealed in 1937 and, of course, it is equally silly to maintain that this tax is confiscatory.

There were some increases in taxes in this State during the last four years. At the request of the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce the corporate net income tax was raised to 10% rather than have another tax enacted, but certainly no business when it is making money could object to sharing its net income with its State government.

The gross receipts tax on untilities was raised to twenty mills but this certainly couldn't be confiscatory because utility rates, as a whole, throughout the State have been reduced at least 15% during the period this tax has been in effect, and, during this period some of our utilities have had the greatest earning of any in their history.

The personal property tax in this State was put on a business-like basis and is now being collected in this State for the first time, although it was originally enacted in 1913, and every County in the State has benefited by it. As a matter of fact, all of the well-managed Counties of the State by reason of the State's business-like administration of personal property taxes have been able to reduce their millage upon real estate in their Counties three or four mills, on account of the additional income which the County has received by virtue of the personal property tax.

There are none of the Republican orators who want to go into detail about state taxation because they realize that the argument is all against them when facts are really presented. Let me say, Mr. President, why the Republican party is really concerned about taxation.

For a great many years the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association regularly each year contributed about $2,000,000 to the Republican State Committee which kept the wheels of Republican politics well oiled. Now, the Manufacturers' Association didn't do this out of the goodness of their heart, but they received a magnificent return on their investment. The Republican party as a return for this $2,000,000 investment maintained the exemption, which Pennsylvania manufacturers enjoyed, from the payment of the five mills capital stock tax levied against all other forms of corporations in this state.

The coal companies in my district had to pay this tax; the clay companies in my district had to pay this tax; the lumber campanies had to pay this tax; insurance companies had to pay this tax; in fact, every form of corporation in this state had to pay this tax except the group that was with regularity furnishing the fuel for the Republican furnace.

In 1935 when we found this State in the deplorable financial condition in which it had been left by the Republican party the Earle administration repealed this discrimination which this group had enjoyed for so many years as one of its first fiscal measures. For twenty years the public of Pennsylvania had been trying to get a bill out of committee to repeal this discrimination in favor of the one class of corporations and had never succeeded, and, when it finally came upon the floor of the Senate there was so much public pressure behind it that twelve Republican Senators were forced to vote in favor of the repeal of this discrimination (Senators Aron, Ealy, Harris, Homsher, Howell, Prince, Salus, Staudenmeier, Thompson (Westmoreland County), Trainer, Woodward, Ziesenheim).

This tax has been yielding thirty to thirty-five millions of dollars a year. Isn't it a handsome investment when you can pay $2,000,000 a year and receive back in return $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year which belongs to the people of Pennsylvania. Is it any wonder that the people who are wailing so loudly about taxes in Pennsylvania can get together a $5,000,000 slush fund to buy Pennsylvania back where they can again save this $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 a year favoritism in their own behalf?

Did anyone ever hear of a Republican administration doing anything to reduce the burden of local taxes on real estate? Certainly it was never attempted in this State for a period of forty years, but instead, the good old Republican principle was applied of loading all tax burdens on to real estate.

The Democratic Party in its platform of 1934 promised a shift of this tax burden and has come a tremendous distance in fulfilling its promises.

In the first place, we have seen that the burden of the maintenance of out-door poor relief is no longer borne by the real estate of the Commonwealth. Real estate has been completely freed from this item of taxation. The administration has likewise taken over the burden of the maintenance of township and county roads which need no longer be borne by local taxation.

In the third place, we have seen of recent weeks a program initiated which will take the burden from the real estate of the Commonwealth of school building construction.

In the fourth place, Mr. President, last week we passed here in the Senate of Pennsylvania, a bill which will relieve our counties from the maintenance of those who are mentally ill in our state sanitoriums. This burden will no longer have to be borne by the real estate tax-payer, and, in the fifth place, as stated before in well-managed counties, the County Commissioners have effected very substantial reductions in county tax on real estate on account of their increased income from the personal property tax.

I say to you, Mr. President, that for the first time in the history of Pennsylvania, an administration of our State government has reached into our local communities to assist the individual burdened with a load of taxes upon his home, his farm, his small place of business. Let these Republican vaporizers show where their party ever did anything but load these taxes upon the real estate taxpayer and let them admit, as they must admit, that if they expect to re-instate a preferred tax free class in Pennsylvania, that such preference must go right back on the real estate of the Commonwealth.

For all of these reasons, Mr. President, I say that the best business management that this Commonwealth has ever seen in its history has occurred during the last four years. We have seen an administration which by modern and business-like methods could restore this state from a fiscal position of being $168,000,000 worse off than broke to a point where it is carrying the largest treasury balance in its history.

We have seen that with all of this there has been no real tax burden imposed upon the people of this Commonwealth and we have seen how that for the first time in this State we have eliminated a class which heretofore went substantially tax free. We have seen, Mr. President, how for the first time in the history of this State a political party has truly and honestly initiated a program to relieve real estate from its burden of local taxation.

I say, Mr. President, that the above reasons, if for none other, the people of Pennsylvania on November 8 will reaffirm their confidence in the Democratic Party.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, Senator Thompson in his fine discourse referred to the great work that has been done by the Administration in the relief of real estate from the tax burden. I am glad to know that he says that something has been done in that respect but with all that has been done the burden still remains extremely heavy on the little home owner and on the farm owner and I want to again call the attention of the Senate to two resolutions that the real estate owners have been crying for for years; that which has to do with homestead exemptions and that which has to do with a graduated income tax, both of which are on the Real Estate Association's program. And yet, Mr. President, I am sorry to say and I call the particular attention of my colleagues on the Democratic side to this fact, that many of them last week voted contrary to what Senator Thompson has said in killing both of these very fine, efficacious real estate reduction resolutions. I hope that when they come up again my colleagues will follow the Democratic platform and vote favorably on both of them.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it is easy enough for any administration to accumulate a full treasury if they are perfectly reckless in their methods. That is the situation in Pennsylvania, which is popularly known as the Little New Deal.

The Senator from Centre has spoken about real estate, also the Senator from Washington. I happen to be in the real estate business. I have houses to rent, and I would like to say that I have lost about half a dozen tenants who have deliberately moved away from Pennsylvania on account of the eight mills personal property tax. Now that is a small item perhaps in the shrinkage of the real estate values in Philadelphia but I have in my hands some figures given me by the Board of Education showing that between 1930 and 1938, there has been a shrinkage of real estate values in Philadelphia of one billion dollars.

Now I cannot explain that but I can give you a little advice from my own experience. You cannot have your cake and eat it. I clipped the following from the New York Times of September 15th. "The reorganization program of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal & Iron Company proposed to close five mines and throw three thousand men out of employment. The referee in the case told the Court that in general it must be allowed that hardship more or less substantial would result from the discontinuance of all five of the mines, but he declared however, that the time has come when the company must end excessive expenditures if the debtor is to survive."

Now the Senator from Centre leaves out of the story the survival of the debtor. It reminds me of the story of the French aristocrat in the French Revolution who was not guillotined, and some friend, after the Revolution, asked him what he had done for his Country in the French Revolution and he said, "I survived." Just so, many people will be lucky, I think, to survive the Little New Deal.

headed, "Something for Nothing." "The worst thing that can be said of the Roosevelt administration," and of course that applies to Pennsylvania, "is that it has encouraged numbers of American people to believe that they can grow richer by working less. It has done this by putting so little emphasis on the necessity of working himself and so much emphasis on the theory that there exists a great fund of wealth which has only to be divided more equitably in order to make everybody happy."

In all the past history of State income taxes, of which Massachusetts is a good example, the top notch rate for a graduate income tax has been six percent. In Pennsylvania today we have in fact, (I was talking to an officer of the Department of Revenue, and he frankly admitted that the personal property tax is a capital levy), a levy on capital, not on income, but if you translate four mills, as it used to be, it makes an income tax of ten percent, and the Earle Administration has doubled that to eight mills so that Pennsylvanians are now paying twenty percent, translated in terms of an income tax. Well, if you are going to do that kind of thing and exact capital a levy, of course any Senator can stand up and point with pride to the amount of money in the treasury of the State.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would observe that the Senator from Philadelphia has a psychic personality and has anticipated what Senator Thompson was to say here this evening.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

APPROVAL OF SENATE BILL NO. 14

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, September 16, 1938.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed Senate Bill No. 14, Printer's No. 12, entitled "An Act Providing for the adjournment and readjournment of county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands that were to have been held in the years one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven or one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight for nonpayment of taxes in counties except those of the first and second class and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. MALLERY read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 52, entitled:

An Act placing on the Commonwealth the liability for the cost and care of maintenance of indigent mental patients in State institution district and city mental hospitals; and repealing inconsistent laws.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

EMPLOYE OF THE SENATE

Mr. JACOBS offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, September 19, 1938.

RESOLVED, That Paul C. Trout, Mifflin, Juniata County, be elected Page to the Senate, vice Banks Ol Jacobs, Mifflin, Juniata County, resigned.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. McCREESH offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, September 19, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, September 26, at 9 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adiourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, September 26, at 9 o'clock.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 10, entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws sixteen) entitled "An act making an appropriation to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines which have been flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters during March one thousand nine hundred thirty-six" by making a further appropriation to supply the deficiency incurred and needed under the provisions of said act.

which was returned from the House of Representatives with amendments.

Said amendments having been twice read, and printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, as I understand this bill it is to provide additional money for pumping water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines. I remember very distinctly receiving a telegram from Governor Earle asking me whether I was for an appropriation for pumping water out of the coal mines flooded during the great flood of 1936 and I replied that I would be, but when the bill came to be amended I found that it was amended to include slate quarries so I stood up and said I had not bargained to vote money to pump water out of a quarry hole and I am in that same position tonight, and therefore must vote against this bill.

I understand that one of the arguments for pumping water out of quarry holes is that at the bottom of every quarry hole there is a dead body and I know when I traveled in Northampton County I was very careful not to stand on the brink of any quarry hole for fear I might be pushed in.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the amendments?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—37

Barthold,	Gilson,	Lanius,	Rice,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Law,	Rodgers,

NAYS—6

Buckman,	Mallery,	Scarlett,	Woodward,
Chapman,	Pierson,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 25, entitled:

An Act relating to and removing the remaining additional persons now serving as Pennsylvania members of the Delaware River Joint Commission by virtue of appointment by the General Assembly under the act approved June twelfth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (Pamphlet Laws five hundred seventy-five) entitled "An act providing for joint action by Pennsylvania and New Jersey in the development of the ports on the lower Delaware River and the improvement of the facilities for transportation across the river authorizing the Governor for these purposes to enter into an agreement with New Jersey creating The Delaware River Joint Commission and specifying the powers and duties thereof including the power to finance projects by the issuance of revenue bonds transferring to the new commission all the powers of the Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission and making an appropriation" and providing for the appointment of their successors.

which was returned from the House of Representatives with amendments.

Said amendments having been twice read, and printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like the privilege of interrogating the sponsor of this bill, the Senator from South Philadelphia, Senator DiSilvestro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelpnia, Mr. DiSilvestro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I will be delighted.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senaotr if this is not a ripper bill somewhat similar to many bills that were passed at the Session of 1937.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I would like to use a more polite term in this case. This is a removal bill.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, is it not a fact that these are Republican members that they seek to remove?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, the men are named in the bill and I would like to inform him that the men to be removed are Thomas B. Smith and Richard Weglein.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, may I ask the Senator why he wants to remove them other than the fact that they are Republicans.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, it is not because they are Republicans but for the information of the Senator from Bucks and the Senate, it is because the Commission of New Jersey and the Commission of Pennsylvania defined that under the Act of 1931, which specified that the eight members from Pennsylvania were comprised of the Governor, the Auditor General, the State Treasurer and the Mayor of Philadelphia and four citizens of Pennsylvania, that those serving on the Commission should serve for no more than five years. Now when Governor Earle asked Mr. Smith and Mr. Weglein to resign they would not resign so Governor Earle removed them and placed two other gentlemen from Philadelphia on that Commission. Afterwards the men that Governor Earle displaced from the Commission protested and brought their case up in Common Pleas No. 5. Common Pleas No. 5 ruled that the Governor was in full right when he removed Thomas B. Smith and Mr. Weglein. The Supreme Court reversed the decision of the Common Pleas Court, for the information of my colleague from Bucks, and stated that the Legislature had the power to remove these men, and tonight I ask the members of this Senate to vote favorably on this bill so that we can make it an Act and remove Thomas B. Smith and Mr. Weglein.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the amendments?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—31

Barthold,	Henney,	Law,	Rupp,
Dando,	Heyburn,	McCreesh,	Ruth,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 36 (House Bill No. 8) as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects

Whereas By Act Number Eighty-nine A adopted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and approved by the Governor July second one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven the sum of two million seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($2,750,000) was appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies of the Commonwealth for the payment during the period ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine by the Commonwealth of annual rates and rentals and other charges for the use and occupancy of or the right to use or occupy the projects structures buildings and facilities leased by the General State Authority and

Whereas Leases and contracts to lease have actually been entered into which will require payment of approximately one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) out of the said appropriation to The General State Authority as rent for projects which have been and are being constructed and improved by the Authority for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and

Whereas The Executive Department of the Government of the Commonwealth is about to apply to The General State Authority for the construction of projects additional to those which were undertaken by the Authority on behalf of the Commonwealth and the Pennsylvania State College during the years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and one thousand nine hundred an thirty-eight in the financing of which additional projects the Authority will be aided by United States Government Grants amounting to forty-five (45) per centum of the cost of construction and

Whereas Such additional projects though commenced prior to January first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine will not be completed and leased to the Commonwealth until after May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine Therefore

Section 1 The sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000) or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment during the period ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty one by the Commonwealth of annual rates rentals and other charges for the use and occupancy of or the right to use or occupy the projects structures buildings and facilities leased by The General State Authority or for services rendered by the Authority or its projects construction of which projects structures buildings and facilities may have been commenced after the date of this act and prior to January first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine payment of such annual rates rentals and other charges shall be made in equal monthly or quarterly installments or otherwise as required by the respective leases

Section 2 The appropriation made by this act shall be budgeted and expended in accordance with the requirements and provisions of the leases referred to in section one and shall be allocated by the Governor to provide payment of the rentals reserved in such leases The Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall honor the requisitions of the Secretary of Property and Supplies in accordance with such allocations

Section 3 The appropriation made by this act or as much thereof as may be necessary shall be earmarked and retained as a fund in the General Fund to meet the payments which may become due during the period from June first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine to May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one under the terms of such contracts as by virtue of the provisions of the General State Authority Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five as amended may be entered into by the Commonwealth acting by and through the Department of Property and Supplies as lessee and The General State Authority as lessor to lease such additional projects to be undertaken by the Authority

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, my position on this bill is perhaps a peculiar one. This bill makes an appropriation of two million dollars, I think, to pay rental for the properties occupied by the General State Authority. The reason I am going to vote for this bill is not because I believe in the General State Authority, which was thrown out the window by the Supreme Court once and then for reasons which have never been satisfactorily explained to me, the Supreme Court reversed itself and now holds that the General State Authority is constitutional. But the reason I am going to vote for this bill is that I know that it is going to be a great deal of help to Pennsylvania State College, or perhaps I should now say Pennsylvania State University.

At the end of the Session of 1937 I was greatly honored by the President pro tempore of this body in appointing me as a minority member of the Commission to go to State College to study the subject of having it made a real State institution, in the first place, by changing its name, which I understand has been done, and in the second place by having the title to the property, the very valuable real estate occupied there by that institution, turned over to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. And I had the honor of serving on that Commission with the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, my close personal friend and political antagonist, and also my close personal friend the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, who is now my left handed political colleague.

In the performance of our duties, the three of us went to State College last November. I want to express my gratitude not only to State College but to the Senator from Centre for the royal manner in which we were entertained there. We went over the institution as best we could in the short time we were there and also took in a football game. I learned many things while I was there and the Committee of which I was a minority member seems to be unanimous in the opinion that the name should be changed and that the title to the real estate should be turned over to the Commonwealth. I learned that we would be able to change the name alright, as has been done, but that we would probably not be able to have the title turned over to the Commonwealth for what seems to me to be the very poor reason that at present there is in State College a line of insurance of some five or six million dollars, I am told, and as long as the title of State College is in the name of a private institution insurance is carried in private companies and someone benefits from the commissions on that insurance of from somewhere between twenty-five and thirty thousand dollars a year. I learned that perhaps it would not be permitted at this time to have the title of that very fine institution turned over to the Commonwealth for the reason that all of the insurance of property owned by the Commonwealth is carried by its own insurance fund rather than by the writing of insurance in private companies.

Now Mr. President, that seems to me to be entirely wrong and out of order and I am not afraid to speak for fear I might be subpoenaed before the Committee which is now functioning in the House. I shall not call them a Whitewash Committee—they seem to resent that name. I am not sure it is appropriate; I would rather term them the Peroxide Committee, because once a thing is turned white by peroxide that thing will never turn back but when it is whitewashed it will eventually resume its former color.

I understand that in the building operations being carried out up there, Mr. McCloskey already has some five or six million dollars of contracts and perhaps they are not through yet. I do not know who will carry the insurance on those State Authority buildings that they are putting up up there but it does seem to me a shame that an institution like State College should be held back for the reason that someone is getting a large amount of annual commissions out of that place. I am going to vote for this bill but I intend to do so for that reason and for that reason alone.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to get some information from Senator Thompson about the General State Authority.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I understand that when the super-highway bonds mature that the super-highway will revert to the highway system of the State. Is that not true?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I must confess that I am not as well informed on the super-highway as perhaps I should be and I will not attempt to either verify or deny that assertion.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, then may I ask the Senator from Centre about the seven hundred and fifty schools he is going to build. I am told, mere gossip of course, that at the maturity of that loan the schools will be left up in the air, and they will not go back to the school boards. Is that true?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, well that is not exactly true at all. The unfortunate part about one phase of our jurisprudence in this State is that the Supreme Court, when it underwent that magnificent somersault that the Senator from Bucks referred to a few minutes ago when passing upon the General State Authority Act, said that if you provided for a return of title at the end of a rental period it made it an installment contract and would make the operation of the Authority unconstitutional. Consequently the General State Authority is going through the form of not stipulating, in accordance with the mandate of the Supreme Court, any particular return of title at the end of the period of amortization of the financing for which they provide. But I think that I can assure the Senator from Philadelphia that at the end of the period, the titles to all of the lands will revert to the places where they should properly go.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, one more question about State College. I do not understand how the General State Authority can spend money on an institution which does not belong to the State. I understand about the super-highway belonging to the State and about the schools belonging to the State, but State College does not belong to the State, as I understand it.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, let me say that the erudite Senator from Philadelphia is apparently not as well informed about some of the mechanics of our State Government as he should be.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I never will understand the State Authority.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, as far back as 1864 the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania entered into a compact with the United States government. The United States Government passed what was known at that time as the Morell Act, an Act granting—

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, that was in 1862.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the Morell Act was passed by the Federal Government in 1862. In 1864 the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania passed an Act adopting the provisions of the Morell Act and promising to maintain in Pennsylvania such an institution as Pennsylvania State College is, and in compliance with this covenant with the Federal Government the State Government has since that time, Mr. President, maintained State College as a sort of quasi-public institution.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I am all for State College and expect to vote for the bill.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, may I inquire whether that answers the Senator's question? Does it enlighten the Senator in the way that he desired?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, yes, but I am sorry that the Senator from Centre made a mistake in the date of the Morell Act.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Deitrick,	Mallery,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence,

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill 31 (House Bill No. 17), entitled:

An Act to amend Article two of the act, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736), entitled "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment; establishing an elective schedule of compensation; and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder," as amended, by adding a new section two hundred and one and one-tenth thereto; imposing the presumption of negligence upon employers; providing for admission of certain evidence and providing for double damage under certain circumstances.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. RODGERS. Mr. President, may I arise in explanation of my vote on this next measure? May I be permitted to read two news items which appeared recently on House Bill No. 17?

"Work Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said today that WPA rolls reached a new high of 3,066,953 during the week ended August 27, and indicated that they soon may reach the tentative maximum of 3,100,000 which he previously estimated as the peak load this year.

"WPA officials disclosed they were relying largely on fall business improvement to reduce unemployment figures. Unless the upward trend is arrested by private business, they said, the relief agency may exhaust its $1,425,000,000 appropriation in January. Originally the funds were intended to run to March 1, or February 1, at the earliest.

"The number of WPA employes for the week ended August 27, was 28,078 more than for the previous week, Hopkins said.

"The figures showed that more than twice as many workers were employed by WPA during this period compared with the corresponding period a year ago, when the agency was contracting and 1,479,836 persons were employed. The previous weekly high prior to the week ended August 20 was in February, 1936, when 3,036,000 persons were on WPA rolls."

Again I read from a news item. "The Emergency Council of State Association reports, on the authority of Secretary of Labor Perkins, that while factory employment in the United States as a whole increased in July, with 26 states showing gains, it decreased in Pennsylvania.

"The Federal Reserve Board states that industrial activity in the United States increased in July, but the Pennsylvania Departmemnt of Public Assistance reports that relief cases have increased in sixty counties, indicating an industrial slump.

"Pennsylvania payrolls show a much greater falling off from last year than payrolls for the nation as a whole, and according to the Federal Census of Unemployment, unemployment in Pennsylvania is twenty-five per cent above the national average.

"Something peculiar to Pennsylvania is retarding our industrial recovery."

Mr. President, I am convinced in my own mind that the greatest need today in Pennsylvania is work, employment, re-employment. Nothing should stand in the way of re-employing men and women at this time. I am sure, and you are, that able-bodied men and women are not going to be satisfied with relief wages, and House Bill No. 17 in my judgment acts as just a sprag in the wheels of industry. The disastrous effect of this bill may be entirely psychological so far as industry is concerned but the effect upon the workers of this State will be less jobs. The cure of industrial recovery has just started to move upward. Business never was more sensitive to the actions of this Legislature. Let us do something to re-establish confidence in the industrial group. Let us do nothing to stop a rapid recovery of business. It is necessary to bring all industry under compensation and I would favor some sort of a compulsory compensation act. But surely there is some reason for the great number of industries that are out from under compensation at this time and are in the position that we find them, but I say that through some kind of an act we should bring all industry under workmen's compensation.

The Dent Resolution which was passed last week unquestionably gives this Senate an opportunity between now and the regular session in January to study this bill thoroughly and to find out what is the reason that industry is going out from under compensation, and I feel that we are doing nothing right now in the passage of this bill that will be of particular value to the working man within the short period of time between now and January 1st. In those three months we may have an industrial upturn that will reflect credit on all of us and particularly re-employ a vast number of men and women,—a greater number, I am quite sure, than would be benefited by the passage of this bill. This Commission which we authorized last week should ascertain the reason for the rejection by so many companies which should be under workmen's compensation and recommend to the next regular session of the Legislature any proposed changes in the Act if any are necessary for the best interests of the people of the State.

We threw out prohibition because the people rejected it. Maybe there is a real reason for industry rejecting the present Workmen's Compensation Act. The industries of Pennsylvania have taken a little spurt forward in September. Let us do nothing that will slow the progress of industrial recovery at this time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, I cannot understand how the failure to pass this Act will increase employment in any way in Pennsylvania. I only know that this bill does not add one cent of cost to compensation carriers in Pennsylvania. It does not in any way increase the burden of cost for those who pay compensation costs in Pennsylvania. Therefore the arguments given by the good Senator from Allegheny do not phase the voting on this bill in any manner. This bill only makes it possible for those men who are the victims of circumstances, working for companies who have rejected the Compensation Act to have their day in court. It gives them a better opportunity to go into court and get damages for injuries sustained during employment. It does not effect any company carrying compensation.

I do not feel that this Senate can pass over this bill lightly. I worked as hard as any man in the Senate to try to get a workable compensation bill at the last session. I am interested also in getting down to the evils that there are in the Compensation Act that may be brought up later by some other Senator, so that you may see some of the things that are wrong, that may not be in the Compensation Act, but do pertain to compensation.

I want to say to the Senators that if they are interested in Pennsylvania's welfare not only from the employees' standpoint but from the employers' standpoint, they should pass this bill this evening. Compensation can not be carried by just a few companies. To make it successful they must all pitch in and carry it. When the larger companies reject the Act it makes the burden greater for those who are carrying insurance. Smaller companies can not afford to reject and go into court in many cases, as the larger companies can do.

I say to you that this is a fair piece of legislation. We are not changing the structure of the Compensation Act itself. We are not in any way increasing the cost and as far as putting men to work or out of work, that has nothing to do with this amendment. This amendment makes it possible for the man injured in employment to go into court and gives him a better chance of getting into court in order to get his case before the court.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I should like to vote for this bill. It seems to me that every workman ought to be protected by compensation or insurance in some way against injury, but I think that the passage of this bill is in a way dishonest to labor because every lawyer here knows that this bill is unconstitutional and the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania will necessarily have to declare it so. A proper Compensation Law properly administered is valuable both to the employer and to the employee but there is something wrong with either the compensation laws or their administration, or both, in Pennsylvania.

I have in my hand the record of experience of a coal company of western Pennsylvania for the years 1936 and 1937. This record is typical of other years, as I understand it, and is typical of the experience of other employers. In the year 1936 there was paid to the employee of this company for injuries received, the sum of $681.22 and there was paid for medical and hospital claims the sum of $426.80. This is one of the smaller companies. Now these two items, the payment to employees as compensation and the payment for medical and hospital bills, totals $1,108.02, but this company paid as premiums to the insurance carriers, I think in this case it was the State Fund, the sum of $15,865.54.

The next year, I understand, the company secured a private corporation as the insurance carrier and during the year 1937 there was paid by this insurance carrier to employees for compensation the sum of $880.70 There was paid for medical and hospital payments the sum of $700.50. The company set up a medical reserve of $159 and a compensation reserve of $1,360.71 or a total of $3,100.91. But during the year the company paid as premiums for this insurance $18,411.44.

It seems to me that by the beginning of the next session of this legislature the Department of Labor and Industry of this State and the Insurance Department of this State ought to find out and tell us why there is such a vast difference between the amount which the employer pays for insurance and the amount which the employees get as compensation. There is something radically wrong here and until we get the reason for this we can not adequately and efficiently determine our compensation laws.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I do not think any of us should deceive ourselves in not admitting that within the past year there has been one of the greatest conspiracies throughout Pennsylvania in connection with the application of our Workmen's Compensation Act. Last year we had in this body a Compensation Act which was calculated to make the workmen's compensation of this State compulsory. The employers of this State principal among which were the anthracite coal operators came down and, before the committee of this Senate, plead with us not to make the act compulsory but to continue the act on the voluntary basis which had been in effect in this State since 1915. In deference to the wishes of these employers we kept the act on a voluntary basis. This Legislature had hardly adjourned before practically all the principal anthracite operators rejected the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Act in deliberate contravention of the implied promise that they made to this Legislature last year.

Not only that, Mr. President, but the act that we passed last year should not in any event have caused an increase in the rate of compensation insurance in this State of more than 10 or 15 percent. What do we find going into effect almost immediately, in fact as soon as the act itself went into effect? We find increases in the rate of compensation insurance by the Compensation Rating Board of this State which, Mr. President, is a group of men controlled by Republican Insurance companies, which raised compensation rates 35 to 40 percent without absolutely any justification for those increases on an actuarial basis.

In 1936, Mr. President, to carry out Senator Ealy's figures a little further, there was paid in Pennsylvania by all classes of people paying compensation payments, that is, the State Fund, mutual and stock insurance companies and self insurers, $11,504,742 worth of compensation. And in 1937, $13,306,405 of compensation. During the same period, and I have the figures here for the last five years in this State but I will only read the last two years in order to shorten things, in 1936 there was paid in insurance premiums for compensation in the State of Pennsylvania, $20,264,285, and in 1937, $24,039,838. That is the amount of compensation premiums paid in Pennsylvania the last two years, and all that in the face of the fact that 45% of the employees of Pennsylvania are covered by self insurance.

In other words, what is happening in this State today? The insurance companies who write compensation coverage are expending about three times as much in premiums every year as the actual underwriting cost of compensation insurance in Pennsylvania and I say that that fact is part of an arch conspiracy on the part of this Compensation Rating Board which is controlled by these insurance companies, on the part of a group of reactionary employers of labor in this State to ruin compensation in Pennsylvania, to kill, if you please, once and forever Workmen's Compensation in this State.

Mr. President, while probably it isn't apropos of the debate on this bill I want to tell you when this issue will be settled. This issue as to whether we are going to to continue compensation in Pennsylvania or whether be settled. This issue as to whether we are going be settled on the eighth day of November of this year by the people of Pennsylvania at the polls. The people of this State are going to go to the polls and vote this fall and vote on a major issue between the two parties in this State as to whether they want workmen's compensation continued in Pennsylvania or whether they do not want workmen's compensation continued. The history of these two major political parties and their subordinate agencies like the Workmen's Compensation Rating Board bears out this theory.

Look at the background of the Republican candidate for Governor in Pennsylvania today. The Republican candidate for Governor was put on the Superior Court to cut the Workmen's Compensation Act in this State out from under its very foundation and he was not on the Superior Court of this State more than a few months before the Superior Court handed down that decision in Romig vs. The Blower and Forge Company, which literally wiped the foundation out from under compensation in Pennsylvania. That man is running for Governor of Pennsylvania today on the same basis although he is not courageous enough to declare to the people of Pennsylvania that he is pledged to kill workmen's compensation in this State. And these insurance companies and the Workmen's Compensation Rating Board of this State and these companies who are rejecting the Workmen's Compensation Act in Pennsylvania, I say, Mr. President, are all a part of an arch conspiracy to kill Workmen's Compensation in Pennsylvania.

Will you let me call your attention to an instance in my own district that is going on right tonight? In a little town in my district there are about 400 miners out on strike because the coal company they work for rejected the terms of the Workmen's Compensation Act and those men have not worked for over a month since they went out on strike because their company rejected the act. And do you know what that compensation cost that company? It is a self-insured company and the most that their compensation has cost them any time in the last ten years has ben 2.19 cents a ton on the part of production of their coal as a self-insurer. We all know, as we heard testified last year and this year, that West Virginia's companies pay 4.5 cents and 5 cents a ton for Workmen's Compensation on coal. That company from a fiscal standpoint had absolutely no reason for rejecting the terms of this compensation act but that company is controlled by a group of reactionary Republican politicians in Pennsylvania and I say they are a part of this conspiracy, Mr. President, to destroy workmen's compensation in Pennsylvania. How can any one stand up and say that this company by refusing the terms of this Compensation Act when it has cost them so little in aiding employment in Pennsylvania? They throw 400 men out of their jobs when it cost them little or nothing, as little as almost any employer in this State to carry their workmen's compensation and I say they rejected the terms of the act for no good reason whatsoever.

These figures show what should have happened. We were fooled in this Senate last year and our Republican brethren were the loudest in that policy. We had before us in this Senate last year a bill which removed the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from the control of the State Rating Board, allowing the State Workmen's Insurance Fund to fix its own rate, and largely out of deference to our Republican brethren in this Senate who were so much interested in the affairs of the insurance companies in this State, we did not pass this bill and it was the biggest mistake that we made, because all of this situation could have been corrected if we could have gotten workmen's compensation in Pennsylvania out from under the noose of this Compensation Rating Board which is cheating every employer and every employee and even every citizen of Pennsylvania.

I say, Mr. President, that at this special session, if it is within the Call of the Governor, we should pass an act before we leave here this year, to allow compensation to be written on an actuarial basis, and in accordance with the underwriting cost and not in accordance with the claims of this Compensation Rating Board, because you can see from these figures that we are paying a compensation insurance in this State today at least three times as much as the actual compensations actually are. Unfortunately with all the programs that this administration is attempting, we missed on this one. We have got to face it and I say to you that if the electors in my district return me to this Senate next year one of the things I am coming down here to fight for is to get the State Workmen's Insurance Fund in a position where it can write compensation on an actuarial basis and on a basis of underwriting cost and not according to the rates of that rating board.

Getting back to the bill, there is no provision in this bill that will add one item of overhead to any employer in the State of Pennsylvania but it will prevent a bunch of conspirators like that coal company in my district which is driving people out of work because they will not protect them with compensation insurance—it will make it hard for conspirators of that kind to impose on their laborers. Certainly my voice could not be raised in anything but praise of this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this is one of the few occasions on which debate on the floor of the Senate about a bill has brought to light some real facts. I think from my own experience that you can talk yourself into voting for this bill without much difficulty. When I first saw this bill I was somewhat afraid of it and I expressed my fears to a number of my colleagues.

Over the weekend I have thought about workmen's compensation and I listened tonight to what Senator Ealy said and I listened particularly also to what Senator Thompson said and it recalls to my mind that when I was engaged in business some years ago we used to pay, in the early days of compensation, a premium of about $250 a year. With the advancement in legislation and new bills, they raised our premium to around $1100 a year. Some of that may of course been due to the increased payroll because compensation is based primarily on payroll. In the years that we have paid compensation we have not paid a dollar in lawyers' fees and when I think back to the time when I was associated with that business and recall that in the years we did not have compensation we paid more in lawyers' fees than we did in damage claims against the company. I begin to see just what compensation means.

All we did in the early days when we had some one injured in the plant was to send the matter over to the lawyer and the lawyer looked up the books and found the various defenses that could be raised for the purpose of showing that this workman could not recover for the injuries sustained against the firm because he had committed some act over which he had no control. For instance, he had a fellow worker with him and some negligence on the part of that fellow workman would give the injured person no compensation, or he was told by some court or figured it out himself that there was a voluntary assumption of risk that he had taken in becoming employed, or he would be told that because he had turned too sharply in moving around the floor he contributed to the negligence that caught his arm in the belt that was whirling the machinery. The Workmen's Compensation Act was passed for the purpose of avoiding just those cases. I am quite sure that if the question of constitutionality had not been raised we would have today a compulsory workmen's compensation law.

The reason for making it optional was based solely on the fact that the claim was made that this new advance in legislation would violate the provisions of the Constitution with regard to the freedom of contract, and so it was made optional. In the State of Pennsylvania today the comparisons were given here tonight, and the reasons back of them are shown by the fact that many of the companies, the larger companies, who were afraid to go under the terms of the Compensation Act paid their own compensation and you will find that in these larger companies no matter what law we pass legalizing the Workmen's Compensation Act, and no matter what we are told about it by the insurance companies as to how these premiums would increase to such an extent that it would compel the people to go out of business or compel them to drop their compensation, not a single one of these larger companies has discontinued their workmen's compensation self-insuring plans. Why? Because they have enough employees and have a large enough spread so that the condition that the gentleman from Somerset was talking about would not occur.

Does not it strike anyone forcefully when they hear that $1100 was paid out for injuries and $15,000 was paid as an insurance premium to protect against losses in that very factory? Two things are obvious from that. First, there is undoubtedly an overcharge in the insurance, and secondly, there is a condition that exists in this State that should not be tolerated. Naturally the spread of compensation insurance is growing less every day by the refusal of the companies to come under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and the reasons for refusal as shown during the last two years, in my opinion are purely political, for the purpose of destroying one of the most fundemental principles of the social laws of the State. It is the duty of industry to protect the persons who in the performance of their duties receive an injury, to the same extent that they would normally receive in an accident in the course of employment. Under the present law, the person who is injured has no sure way of receiving the damages which he suffered unless you have some law which gives him compensation irrespective of contributory negligence or other negligence. You will never strike at the root of that evil and correct it, unless you compel everyone to behave in industry in the same manner as his competitor and compel every industry to come within the terms of the law. If it is not a statute law you will always have the condition to which the gentlemen refer.

These $15,000 premiums were set up and created by virtue of the fact that the moment we passed the law the insurance companies immediately said "that is going to triple your rate," and they immediately tripled the rate and set up a reserve that they used up in the payment of salaries of officers, and to stock-holders in many cases. Unless you maintain a spread you will have that condition. It is not only true in Workmen's Compensation, it is true in life insurance and fire insurance. In Philadelphia you can get a polcy of insurance on an automobile for $40 if you live in South Philadelphia, and if you live on Girard Avenue it costs you $90. But if you happen to have a summer residence in a suburban town and insure your car there your rate will be much less even than in South Philadelphia.

Life insurance companies will sell you an ordinary life premium policy at age 35 for $20 a thousand and they will tell you the story that after fifteen years you will have a $500 surrender value. But when you borrow that and pay them 6 per cent, and you happen to die, when your wife collects your insurance she collects $1000 less the $500 which you borrowed which was supposed to be your money. But if you borrow the money and do not pay, you lose the policy. If you keep the policy you lose the so-called surrender value. These surpluses that are set up beyond the necessary amount for protection in insurance are accumulated and taken by the companies for distribution under what is known as the surplus, into which the salary fiends creep.

The same thing is true when you compare Philadelphia with Boston, Massachusetts. In Boston throughout the depression there was no necessity for any of these savings bank insurance companies which issued insurance in $1000 policies to ask relief from the State but in Pennsylvania, in spite of these large surpluses which they had accumulated on account of bad investments they had to get the help of the State to protect them so that they could protect the policy holders. In Massachusetts you have compulsory automobile insurance and the rate is less in Massachusetts than it is in Pennsylvania, but when we tried to pass a compulsory law here the insurance companies brought their lobbyists in and killed every effort to put the bill through. We have every excuse for a compulsory law but if you attempt to enact compulsory insurance you will never get it through the Senate as long as you have people threatened with the statement made by lobbying insurance companies.

The same thing is true of workmen's compensation. Unless you make it a compulsory act the insurance rate will be high and you will give insurance companies and industry a right to cry about it. Certainly insurance companies, as the Senator from Centre pointed out, are glad to take advantage of the occasion to increase the rates. I do not know whether it is a conspiracy, but I certainly know it is a habit by now to increase the rates and bring discredit upon what I think is one of the finest social advancements put through any legislative hall.

When you read this bill in this light, that a man pays $1100 now and pays no money to lawyers but does pay compensation of thousands of dollars to injured persons where before this act he paid more than $1100 to lawyers and no money to injured persons, you realize what this means. You read in the papers when there has been a mine cave-in about how solicitous the mine owners are for the poor families and for the poor men who are injured in the mine. Once the excitement is over and the miners are buried, then the lawyers begin to raise the defenses against the claims that are brought for recovery compensation and provisions for these widows. I think that this picture warrants us in putting a stop to all that kind of an argument and saying once and for all that nobody has yet gone out of business because of compensating an injured workman under our Workmen's compensation plan. Nobody will go out of business if we do our duty, and it seems to me that the time is ripe for the Senate to invesigate, and as soon as possible, just as the Senator from Centre pointed out, investigate not only this but every form of insurance in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so that we will not always be in the position of locking the stable after the horse is gone.

I have no objection to this bill. I have convinced myself that this bill is a step in the right direction. This bill merely does what we did in the original Workmen's Compensation Act when we said to these men—you can choose about coming in because the Supreme Court has said that unless we make it voluntary it will be unconstitutional. Very well, you can come in but if you don't come in the three defenses of fellow servant, voluntary assumption of risk, and contributory negligence, are out. The elimination of those three defenses did much to make recovery real for an injured person. Now we are adding another law which says to the injured person, that all these excuses about your having violated a rule and been injured, all these defenses of regulation, are out, when you come to work. And to the employer we say, when a workman is injured in your place if you don't take this compensation then when you go into court you start in and take the burden of proving that the man is not entitled to recovery. That is all we have said here. We remove another defense. In other words, we have accessed a presumption, and instead of making it the burden of the injured person to prove that the defendent was negligent, we have said that the burden is on the employer, and we have presumed that he is negligent. For the employee wouldn't have gotten hurt.

I see nothing wrong in this bill. I think it is a step in the right direction, and I think when you view that bill in that light, there is no reason why this bill should not be voted for unanimously by the members of this Senate. I don't think that clause B is going to help. I think that clause B should have been left out of this bill. It opens up the defenses we have been talking about by allowing statements of injured persons to be offered in evidence within a maximum of twelve hours. Nobody, knows the state of mind of the injured person during that period of time, and he may say something that can be used as a defense by the employer. Such, as "it was my fault."

But in principle, this bill is in line with the progressive proceedings of the Democratic party since it had a chance to get into power in Pennsylvania. And every Democrat regardless of his own principles is bound as a party matter to go forward with the party in more liberal workmen's compensation.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in looking over this bill tonight a new thought has occured to me. I am not speaking for the mine operators or the insurance companies, but I am speaking for the farmers and householders of this State. And as I read this act, this act will apply to the farmers and the householders who are supposed to be exempted from compensation just the same as it would apply to the the coal operators, or manufacturers or any other person in the State. This is for the reason that Section 201.1 very clearly refers to any action brought to recover damages for personal injuries to an employee in the course of employment, and for deaths resulting. It goes on to take away first the res justa rule, and it provides for presumption of negligence and in some cases provides for double indemnity, and I say that the members of this Senate had better look to their knitting because if they are going to pass this act, in my judgment it is going to apply to the farmers and householders just as well as it will apply to the mine operators, and as far as the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, has spoken of the underwriting board, as I understand the law, the Democratic insurance commissioner has entire veto power over all compensation rates that are promulgated in this State. I see no reason why the rate should be improper, and I should like to interrogate the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator whether in his judgment the act applies to farmers and householders of this Commonwealth, just the same as it applies to other employers.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, it does not.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, why not?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, because it only amends the original compensation act, which doesn't apply to the farmers and householders.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I understand the gentleman's answer, but I still think that what I have said is correct, and until I am advised by the Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law, that I am not correct, I am of that opinion.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests that it would save a lot of arguments if we leave that question to the Supreme Court.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I had not intended to say anything on this bill. I was in hopes that it might be a discussion of the bill itself, and not a discussion along political lines, but I presume that that was too much to expect, with the Senator from Centre in the room. I do want to challenge, however, what the Senator says with reference to the policy of the Republican party regarding the Workmen's Compensation Act, and particularly do I want to call the Senate's attention to the New Deal idea of what is adequate compensation.

I hold in my hands a government pamphlet issued in Washington, by the Government Printing Office, setting forth the compensation provided for injured employees working for the federal government. And this is what the New Deal in an Act passed in 1934, thinks is adequate compensation for an injured employe. The schedule that the pamphlet gives goes on to say that the compensation allowances for permanent, total, and partial disability were approved by President Roosevelt, as provided in the Act of 1935. And this is the rate which they made: "For the first three days during which you are disabled and lose pay because of injury, no compensation is paid. Beginning on the fourth day of pay loss, you are entitled to compensation benefits at the rate of two-thirds of the monthly wage you are receiving at the time of injury, and now note this, "but not at a rate in excess of twenty five dollars per month."

In other words, not in excess of six dollars per week. That is considered by the New Deal in Washington as adequate workmen's compensation. No one under the compensation act of 1934 is entitled to more than twenty-five dollars a month while he is disabled from working because of injury, and not more than a total of thirty-five hundred dollars may be paid in any case. Now when a Senator on the floor of this Senate stands up and says that this is a conspiracy to wipe out compensation and claims that the New Deal is so interested in compensation for injured employes, I think it is very pertinent that I call the Senate's attention to what the New Deal really does consider adequate compensation as determined by the act approved by President Roosevelt.

It seems to me that this whole question has been approached from the wrong angle. We are all interested in compensation and the idea that the workmen of this State should be under compensation laws is a proposition which every member of this Senate can subscribe to. This act was made not compulsory not for the reason stated by the Senator from Centre, if my memory serves me correctly, but because Mr. Devers, the counsel for the United Mine Workers, stated to the Committee that he thought the bill would not be constitutional if it was made directly compulsory.

Now what do we have facing us here tonight? A situation exists in this State where hundreds of thousands of our workers are not under compensation. It is a deplorable situation. It is a situation that there isn't a man on the floor of this Senate would subscribe to. Everybody accepted the principles of adequate workmen's compensation but because it was believed by Mr. Devers, and other lawvers, that this act if made directly compulsory would not be constitutional, they put in a bill here that violates every precept of the common law of this country, and provided in this bill, as Senator Buckman pointed out, that in any case where suit is brought there is a presumption of negligence.

There isn't a Senator on the floor who would vote for a bill that would change the common law rule that when a man is charged with a crime he is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty, but that is what you are doing in this bill. You are saying that a man merely because he commits the crime of employing labor is presumed to be guilty, until he is proven innocent and then you violate every fundamental rule of evidence by providing that declarations made within twelve hours are admissible in evidence. I can't see how any lawyer in this Senate can vote for this bill.

I want to say, Mr. President, I am going to vote "No" on this bill and I want to make it clear that I am just as much interested as any man in this Senate in seeing a Workmen's Compensation Law which is workable, which pays adequate compensation, and is drawn in such a way that every employer of labor will have to come under that bill. That is proper and right because we all know that when men are injured in industry it is an accepted principle that industry owes care and compensation to those men. But to ask us to pass this bill on the pretense of great interest in labor, when the very people that are asking us to do this pass a bill in Washington giving only six dollars a week compensation, and to come into this Senate and tell us that we are against labor if we vote against this bill, just isn't fair. It isn't fair, and it is along the lines of the demagoguery that we have been used to hearing in the last your years in Pennsylvania.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I, too, am deeply concerned about the industries of Pennsylvania. If I were to consider this from a selfish point of view perhaps my vote would have to be registered against this bill, but I believe that each Senator should consider this bill from the wider scope of the humane stand-point, considering the fact that men who labor day by day are entitled to protection under the law.

I derive a great deal of humor out of a situation where I see suddenly rise up a self-styled champion to decide immediately the great and grave causes of unemployment. Let me say that I recall that in the latter days of the Hoover Administration, Mr. Hoover summoned business men to Washington and gave a great many other men invitations to come to Washington to discuss the grave economic conditions of the country. While a hundred and one of the best trained minds in this country responded to that invitation, and they labored for about a week, they came out of the conference with absolutely nothing to offer as a cure for the evils which were besetting this country. So I say it is distinctly humorous to me to see somebody suddenly, after all this turmoil and all this confusion that has existed in this country for so long a time, get up on the floor of this Senate, and say, "I say to the Senate of Pennsylvania that this condition is distinctly due to a single act."

I come from a territory where we have a very very sick industry, the anthracite coal industry. But I would hesitate to get up on the floor of this Senate and say that all the evils that beset that great industry are due to the fact that certain taxes were levied on it. I might say without fear of contradiction that the anthracite industry went through an era when the products of the mines of Pennsylvania sold themselves all over the United States and Canada, and that it had very little competition. The industry itself did not anticipate what might occur in the future, and was not on a sound business basis, and that industry today is simply plugging through that changing period to accommodate itself in a business way to the pursuit of things which are entering into competition now.

I, too, am very greatly interested in the anthracite industry, but I want to say definitely that the present condition of that anthracite industry is not due in any measure, as many would have it believed, to any distinct taxes levied upon it. I would like to see a little more of business principles, just a little more of activity, just a little more pursuit of the things with which we have to contend today. I was a member of the Labor Committee of which Senator Dent is chairman. I took a very deep interest in the compensation bill when it was before this Senate, because I was deeply interested in it, and I think that that committee and Senator Dent himself extended to the people of my community and to the people of other communities extreme courtesy and very great kindness.

We brought into that committee members of labor and members of industry and listened intentively to the things they offered, and in addition to that we employed expert statisticians to give us the proper figures upon which to base our final conclusion, and we came back to this Senate as a committee reporting out a bill which we were given to understand would be thoroughly tried by the industry itself. But to my personal consternation and surprise, only a short time elapsed before these gentlemen, I say, broke faith with this Senate and this committee and me personally by immediately rushing into court to break the promise which they had given. I say to my Democratic colleagues, that regardless of what the Senator from Tioga says about the national policies, we in Pennsylvania have gone forth through all the communities and all the hamlets in this State, and gentlemen of the Senate, we have been elected on a definite program. We have gone out and promised to the people of Pennsylvania certain definite things. As a part of a great party, each a cog in that machine, we have dedicated ourselves to adhere to the policies of that party.

I say to you, my Republican colleagues, that only last week at Pittsburgh there was borne out by the Republican platform committee, a platform that stated that they too, approved of a great many good things that have been accomplished under the New Deal. But only three days after that platform was made known, your candidate for Governor openly repudiated that, and said "I favor execution of the New Deal and everything it means." He is the man who leads your ticket and he repudiated your platform.

Now, I say it is up to you Republican Senators of Pennsylvania to add the second repudiation of that platform by a united vote against this bill. I call upon my colleagues the Democratic Senators of Pennsylvania and say to you that you have a firm pledge with the people of Pennsylvania; your pledge is to go out and do the things which are of benefit to the greatest number of people. and you cannot break that pledge. Despite the fact that my Republican colleagues like to get up when they are in a hole and defend the Constitution of the United States. I say that this gives to an individual a prime right that is given him under that Constitution. And if you are so anxious to defend the Constitution then I say you must vote for this bill because this simply gives a man the right to appear before a jury of his peers who decide whether he is entitled to compensation or not.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I have never held myself out as an authority on labor legislation and it comes somewhat as a surprise and an embarrassment that the gentleman from Bucks should ask me to advise him as to the effect of this blil upon agricultural and domestic labor, especially in view of the fact that at the time the compensation act and the special act exempting agricultural and domestic labor was passed, the gentleman from Bucks was a member of this Senate, back in 1915. However, I want to call that gentleman's attention to the fact that this bill which we have before us tonight is an amendment to the second Article of Act No. 338, of the Session of 1915, the original Workmen's Compensation Law approved on the second day of June, 1915, and that the question of the exemption of domestic and agricultural labor is covered by a separate act which was passed and finally approved on the next day. This was very carefully done at that time, I have been told, for the purpose of making sure that agricultural and domestic labor were properly excluded and constitutionally removed from the effects of the Workmen's Compensation Law. There is no change in Act No. 343, approved on the third day of June, which exempts agricultural and domestic labor and which is a general exemption from all the other provisions of the act.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Law.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator whether he considers this amendment as a compensation act or whether he considers it as applying to people who do not go under the compensation act?

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, this act is an amendment to the compensation act, but specifically provides for the case of actions involving employers when they do not come under the compensation act.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, then why would not this apply to farm and domestic labor in view of the fact that this was passed at a later date than the Act of 1915, which was passed by a Republican administration and which I had the honor of voting for?

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, for the simple reason that this Act only purports to be an amendment to the first Act, and is not general legislation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President,—

The PRESIDENT. The Chair recognizes the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, who is not a lawyer.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will read Section 104, "All actions of persons including minors who perform services of any kind, except agricultural or domestic services." So that answers the question of the Senator from Bucks.

I want to say to the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, that if my memory serves me right the Federal government passed that act in 1934 to cover relief workers specifically. Civil employees of the Federal government are paid on a basis of 66-2/3 percent of their wages, and there is no maximum to the amount that they can draw per week. If their wages are sufficient they can draw as high as fifty dollars a week. So that covers the New Deal attitude on compensation in Washington. They were liberal enough to think of these on relief.

The PRESIDENT. As a matter of parliamentary information, I would say that the Senator from Westmoreland is absolutely correct with respect to the act mentioned by the Senator from Tioga.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 34, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to Article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by adding thereto Section twenty.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have been very much pleased by these remarks of the gentleman from Centre on his question of personal privilege when he made mention of the motor license fund, and I was pleased by the remarks of the gentleman from Centre, wherein he condemns the practice of robbing and depleting the motor fund and then not paying the money back. We now have on the calendar this resolution that is now before the Senate, a resolution that calls upon the Democratic members of this Senate to decide whether they actually mean that they don't want the motor fund robbed and whether they will put this administration on record to that effect right now and not wait until 1941 or 1939,—that the Democratic Administration absolutely means that the motor fund shall not be robbed and that we will stop it now, not after November the 8th, and that we mean what we say by voting for this resolution, which will allow a constitutional amendment forbidding the use of the motor fund for anything else than the purposes for which it is dedicated.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I think that the drafting of this resolution has neglected one very important thing which to my mind, if nothing else, would compel me to vote against it. As it is now in this session it would only be a declaration of policy by reason of the fact that the passage of this resolution would have no legal effect at the present time. But even as a declaration of policy I would say, Mr. President, that I would be compelled to vote against this resolution in its present form for this reason: the drafting of this resolution has ignored a very important and a very fast growing industry in Pennsylvania which out of necessity participates in the distribution of the liquid fuel tax, and that industry is the aeronautical industry.

We are going to have to take large sums of money in this State from our tax on liquid fuel to build up the industry of aeronautics. The industry itself is now beginning to contribute to the fund in very generous sums, and we certainly can't take away from the industry at least the money which the aeronautics industry contributed to the fund itself. In the second place, in the infant stage of this industry, it appears to me that it is not unwise to take even a portion of the funds that come from highway transportation and devote a portion of that fund to the building and priming of the aeronautic industry in this State. I say this, Mr. President, that if a resolution of this sort should pass this Senate it should be adjusted so that the funds from our liquid fuel tax should include every form of transportation and not simply highway transportation alone.

Mr. RUPP. Mr. President, the proposition which this joint resolution expresses has been before the Senate in various forms during the past few years. The purpose of it is expressed in the preamble of the joint resolution as set forth in the Hayden-Cartwright Act as passed by Congress, wherein it says that it is unfair and unjust to tax motor vehicle transportation unless the proceeds of such taxation are applied to the construction, the improvement or the maintenance of highways.

I am glad the Senator from Centre states that he believes in this resolution as an expression of policy. Personally, as one of the sponsors of this bill, I am agreeable to having this resolution amended so as to include the construction and maintenance of airports.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

REQUEST TO PUT BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. RUPP. Mr. President, I ask that this bill go over in order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objection.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, last week I made a motion that several proposed amendments to the Constitution be returned to committe as nothing could be gained by passing them at this session, since they could not be voted on again, according to a ruling by the Attorney General, before the session of 1941. I think it well that all of these constitutional amendments be held over until the regular session so that they will be given more consideration. In the case of this resolution, this proposed amendment in particular, I see nothing which provides for any exemption for farmers who are paying gasoline taxes on tractors which are used exclusively on the farms. I proposed such a bill to exempt farmers from such taxation at a previous session of the legislature, and I was informed that such a bill would be unconstitutional. Now, if we are going to amend the Constitution in any form relative to this gasoline tax, I certainly think that farmers should be exempted from paying a tax on tractors and farming implements that don't use the highways. Since no time can be gained in passing this resolution at this time, it would simply be an expression of policy and would prevent further consideration at the session of 1939.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that this bill be remitted to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I think there are a number of angles on this resolution and one of them which appeals to me particularly is this: For a number of years we have tried to make it clear to the electorate of Pennsylvania that the Legislature is restricted in the kind of taxes that it can levy to meet the unusual demands that have been forced upon the Legislature in the last few years and apt to recur every time there is any change in the normal business conditions of this State.

The rank and file of people have regarded the tax levying function of the Legislature as some trick of legerdemain by which, with some peculiar magic, the members of the House and Senate and the Governor and those responsible, can pull taxes out of a hat without affecting anybody and relieve the condition of everybody. It must be demonstrated again and again that as a consequence of the refusal of the electorate of the State of Pennsylvania individually and personally to share the burden of the cost of government in all its forms, the Legislature will continue to be hampered by a public point of view which absolutely precludes the levying of the only sensible, logical, fair, burden-sharing tax that there is.

I can see the difficulty in this particular resolution but I believe that it is saying again to the public in Pennsylvania—"Until each of you are willing to share the fair burden of taxes the Legislature has got to notify you that it will not continue to relieve your burden by passing it on to some special particular class which appears to have the ability to pay." Now the reason I am for this resolution and against recommitting this bill to Committee is that I think that we ought to say here and now to the people of Pennsylvania, "We are through with all kinds of subterfuge. It is absolutely necessary for the members of the Legislature to enact kinds of taxation you do not like. It is necessary for us by Constitutional amendments to make it impossible for this Legislature to go from one fund to the other in the State of Pennsylvania to borrow money in order that the man who has an income may not have to pay simply because he does not like the idea of an income tax."

I think that this measure is a fine measure. I am ready to concede that there is a constitutional inhibition against its becoming immediately effective but I think that, as a declaration of policy, as a matter of educating the voters in Pennsylvania to the inevitable result that they must become tax conscious, that they must be willing to bear the fair share of the tax burden whether it is for relief of the operation of government or for any other public purpose, this resolution is simply another form of notice in a fair and frank manner to the public in Pennsylvania that the Legislature is through trying to pass the buck from one place to another and is telling them that that day is over and until the citizen does his part by sanctioning a constitutional amendment which will permit of a sensible and fair levy of taxes he must know that we are through trying to pass taxes where they do not belong.

For that reason I think that this bill ought not to go back to committee. I think we ought to vote on it and I can see no harm in serving that notice and emphasizing that fact every chance we get.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I agree entirely with the gentleman from Erie as to the fact that we should make a declaration of policy on this. However I do feel that there is nothing to be gained by action at this time especially in view of the fact that there seems to be such difference of opinion as to the exact form of the resolution and I fear that if this resolution is passed at this session the next session will pass a somewhat similar resolution going a little bit further or perhaps a little less further into the matter of gasoline taxes received from the farmer and the aviator and that we will have confusion when we come into the 1941 session, or possibly have a situation which we had once before in recent years when we had before the public two amendments covering practically the same thing at the same time.

Personally I do not think it goes far enough in simply protecting the Motor License Fund. I think that there are some other special funds in Pennsylvania that are also entitled to protection. The fishermen and the sportsmen of Pennsylvania contribute to funds which are raised for the special purpose of taking care of the interests of those wanting to go after game and fish in Pennsylvania. There is also a Firemen's Fund and I would like to see this amendment made broad enough to cover all of these special funds which are raised from special sources for special purposes.

And the question recurring?

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RODGERS and were as follows, viz:

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring?

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to call attention to the fact that the way this bill is drawn no county can receive any portion of the fuel taxes which now under the law are received by the county. All the moneys that have been paid in by various counties must be subject to return to the counties in a proportionate amount. This bill provides; "All motor vehicle registration fees, operators' license fees, gasoline excise taxes and other similar special taxes, fees, duties and excises on motor vehicles and trailers and the owners and operators thereof and on liquid or motor fuels which by laws in force at the date of the adoption of this provision of the Constitution are dedicated and appropriated to pay for the costs of laying out, constructing, reconstructing, maintaining, repairing, improving and policing the public highways."

Therefore none of this money could be used by the county.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I must take exception at this late hour to the remarks of the Senator from Philadelphia. I would not vote for this amendment if I thought it would take the money away from the counties. According to law now the money which is paid by the counties must be used for general road purposes and if that is being done now it will be done under this resolution just the same as at present. It would not interfere with the return of the moneys to the counties.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to call the Senator's attention to the fact that although it may be true the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania cannot appropriate any money to the City of Philadelphia for highway purposes since this bill provides that the money would be appropriated only for the cost of laying out or improving our highways and bridges, etc., the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has never yet been able to appropriate money to the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, how would the reading of that resolution prevent the General Assembly allotting to a county money out of that fund for the purposes stated in the resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it may be true that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania may appropriate to the City of Philadelphia for highways but it cannot appropriate a specific portion of the tax as it does now and I do not propose as coming from Philadelphia to allow the Legislature to say every year how much will be returned to the City of Philadelphia. Today we have the amount of that return to them stated. Under this Act we would be subject to every Session of the Legislature and having had the experience with my good friends from upstate of trying to get money for roads in Philadelphia and having gotten only one million dollars in six years and that only after much haggling, I do not propose to vote for a bill that will make the City of Philadelphia dependent on the Legislature for the amount returned to it each year.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence,

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 46 (House Bill No. 38), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the expenses of the special committee appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives the second day of August one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight pursuant to a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives on the thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight by authority of the act approved the thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (Act No. 2) entitled "An act defining the procedure for and regulating the investigation by the House of Representatives and its committees of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment, authorizing the Speaker of the House to appoint a special committee for any such investigation, authorizing the presentation of evidence by the Attorney General and other counsel and the officers investigated, providing for the summoning of witnesses and for the punishment of persons refusing to appear, produce evidence or testify and authorizing the employment and compensation of counsel and other assistants."

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Rice, as chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, is not this appropriation bill drawn in support of an investigation under Article VI, Section 1 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania which provides that the House of Representatives will have the sole power of impeachment?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, as I understand this appropriation bill it is drawn pursuant to the act which was passed by the General Assembly creating the Investigating Committee and for which this bill provides for the expenses.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, wherein is it necessary in support of that investigation to have such an appropriation bill passed?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, very obviously if the Committee is going to do a thorough job of investigating it will have to have money to pay for its operating expenses the same as do the other investigating committees that have been approved by the Legislature in the past.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, what expenses does the Senator have in mind?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, the act provides for expenses including the compensation of counsel, investigators, stenographers, reporters, and other employees that may be necessary for the conduct of its work, postage, telegraph and telephone, the cost of subpoenaing an attachment of witnesses, witness fees, supplies and printing, and any other expense of every kind and description which may be authorized by a majority of the Committee in connection with the conduct of its work.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, the power of impeachment was reposed in the lower House both in this country and in England many centuries ago. In the reign of Edward III in 1376 the liberal statesmen of that time rested from the King the right of the power of impeachment and placed it in the House of Commons. After that time one of the first cases to come before the House of Commons was the impeachment of Lord Bacon in 1621 and after a hearing Lord Bacon pleaded guilty and then in 1640 under the fine leadership of John Pym one of the liberal members of the House of Commons, Lord Strafford and Archbishop Laud were investigated by the House of Commons. Then in 1788 Warren Hastings who was then the ruler of India was brought up for investigation and three liberal members of the House of Commons, Edmund Burke, Fox and Sheridan, carried on over a period of seven years an investigation of Warren Hastings' activities in India.

Now coming down to our State, in 1846 there was a man by the name of Daniel McCook who was brought up before the lower house of this Commonwealth on the charge of offering bribes to members and his case was thoroughly investigated by the lower house. Then in 1879 a bill known as the Riot Bill created quite a stir in Pennsylvania and corruption was supposed to be rampant in the House at that time in connection with the passage of that bill and a long investigation was carried on by the lower house through a committee selected by the Speaker.

Now, Mr. President, I offer those several historical illustrations for the purpose of showing that in all my historical investigation of these cases I find no reference to any appropriation bills. If you will go back to the time before the reign of Edward III, you will discover in this connection that the people were clamoring for a method of impeachment and as a result that power was placed in the House of Commons and later in the lower house of our own Federal Government and also in our State Government, because that was the body that was the closest to the people, because that was the body which had the greatest representation from among the people.

Referring to this bill for the purpose of determining whether there is any necessity for this appropriation, are the facilities of today any different from what they were at the time that Daniel McCook was investigated in 1846 or the time of the investigation of the Riot Bill in 1879? If there are any changes I would say that they would militate against the passage of this bill because today we have a fine telephone system, today we have a fine system of State constabulary, the Motor Police, we have in the lower house a fine group of attorneys. Even on the Committee, as I sat and listened the other night, I noticed three or four prominent attorneys of the State. Now, has there been such a change from the times I have referred to when these questions were up in both the House of Commons and the lower house here, to warrant the passage of this appropriation bill? Some people may say, "Well, it is only $50,000." I know that to some of those who came from the bigger centers of population $50,000 is not much money but to us from the small districts $50,000 is a lot of money and I say if there is no necessity for the passage of this appropriation in connection with this investigation in the lower house then it falls within the class known as governmental extravagance and I believe that no one in this body, if it does fall in that category, should lend its aid to its passage. If they need in connection with this investigation more legal ability than they have in the House, then this bill provides for it—it says that the Attorney General can also be called in, and not only the Attorney General but a large corp of assistants can also give aid to this very important investigation.

So in conclusion, Mr. President, I want to raise this as the issue, whether or not there is any necessity for this appropriation bill as a matter of fact. That is the question as I see it and if there is a necessity then we should pass the bill. If there is no necessity then I repeat it is a matter of governmental extravagance and I say at all times that governmental extravagance should be discouraged.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, this appropriation bill should be defeated for the following reasons:

(1) The Committe that will spend this money is an intrenchment upon the constitutional powers of this Senate.

(2) The Committe was appointed to deal with a matter beyond the scope of Act No. 2, of this Extraordinary Session and

(3) The passage of this bill will impeach the integrity of this General Assembly and the Attorney General and destroy public confidence in both.

I will discuss these reasons in the order given:

Section 1 Article VI of the Constitution provides:

"All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; when sitting for that purpose the Senators shall be upon oath or affirmation; no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present."

This provision, without any equivocation, constitutes this Senate the Judicial tribunal before whom all impeachments must be tried. It is this Senate that must pass upon the admissibility or inadmissibility of the evidence in all impeachments. It is this Senate that must pass upon the sufficiency or insufficiency of the evidence. It is this Senate that must determine the guilt or innocence of the accused. The evidence upon impeachments must satisfy the minds of 2/3 of the Senators present and who are upon their oath or affirmation.

Let us see what are the duties of the Committee for which this appropriation is demanded. In the "resolve" clause of the Resolution it is stated that the Committee:

"Shall inquire into, and concerning, the official conduct of those named and charged, touching their conduct in regard to matters mentioned in the aforesaid petitions of the District Attorney of Dauphin County, and especially whether the said Governor and other civil officers aforementioned or any of them, have been guilty of any impeachable offense—"

Section No. 2 of the Act No. 2, of this Extraordinary Session, and mentioned in the bill now before us and in the House Resolution creating the Committtee, provides: "The Committee investigating such charges may hold executive sessions to discuss plans, give directions to investigators and other employes of the Committee, review the evidence, reach conclusions, and draft its report, but all evidence shall be presented to the Committee at hearings open to the public."

Section 5 of the same Act provides:

"All civil officers against whom charges are being investigated by a Committee of the House of Representatives, may appear before such Committee in person, and may be represented by counsel, whether or not he appears in person; and the Committee shall hear such evidence as such civil officer may wish to present to refute the charges made against him."

Section 6 of the same Act, gives the Committee the power to adopt the rules of practice except that the rules governing the admissibility of evidence before the Committee shall be the same as those prevailing in judicial proceedings. In short, the appropriation bill now before us demands that we give $50,000 to a Special House Committee which is, at this moment, usurping the constitutional powers of this Senate. No one who dispassionately and with reason reads the House Resolution and the Acts therein mentioned can deny that this House Committee is endowed with all the attributes of a judicial tribunal sitting upon the trial of impeachments. This is a flagrant entrenchment upon the powers of this Senate and our constitutional form of government.

A person may justly ask at this point this question:

If the Special House Committee, by some miraculous whim, should find that those charged are guilty of impeachable offenses, what then will the Senate be required to do and will the Commonwealth be called upon to pay for the expenses of another extended trial of the same defendants, on the same evidence before the bar of this Senate?

I now come to the second reason why this appropriation should be defeated. The House resolution creating the Committee does not set forth specific charges against any person. Under Act No. 2, of this Extraordinary Session, no Committe can be created by the House of Representatives unless some civil officer is charged with misdemeaner in office. Section 1 of that Act provides:

"Whenever the House of Representativs of the General Assembly shall undertake the investigation of charges of, or involving, misdemeanor in office, against any civil officer who is liable to impeachment such investigation shall be made through a special committee of the House, consisting of seven members, to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, for the purpose of investigating any particular charge or charges....."

At this point a very marked difference can be seen in the Resolution appointing the Committee and the provisions of this Act. The Resolution requires the Committee to find out if any of the persons mentioned, "have been guilty of any impeachable offense." The Act authorizes the investigation of "misdemeanor in office."

It is apparent that those who are tinkering with the constitutional limitations of our government in creating this Special House Committee, do not realize that what may amount to an "impeachable offense" may fall considerably short of a "Misdemeanor in office." A civil officer may be impeached even though he is not guilty of "Misdemeanor in office."

The averments in the petitions of the District Attorney of Dauphin County do not arise to the dignity of charges contemplated by Act No. 2. Nowhere in this Commonwealth has anyone formally made or lodged any charge of "misdemeanor in office" against the persons mentioned in the District Attorney's petitions. No such charges have been made in the House of Representatives or this Senate. The only possible matter that the House Committee can investigate is a mass of political prattle and rumor. This august Senate should not lend itself to the passage of this bill. On the third reason why this appropriation should be defeated, may I be allowed to make the following observations:

The whereas clauses of the resolution creating this Committee say among other things that, "such charges intend to destroy public confidence in the integrity of the government itself and thus threaten the ability of the government to function."

Does not the employment of strangers to conduct the examination of witnesses create the logical inference that the brilliant legal talent of many a member of the House of Representatives is not equal to the task before the Committee?

Does not this impeach the integrity of the House itself and destroy public confidence in the ability of its members to conduct its functions with honor and sincerity?

Does not the employment of outside counsel impeach the integrity of the Attorney General and destroy public confidence in his ability to assist and counsel the House Committee with honor and sincerity?

I regard the members of the House to be men and women of integrity and honor. I regard them as possessing the calm and coolness of reason to discharge their duties patriotically and conscientiously and to inspire public confidence.

As to the Attorney General I entertain the highest regard for his integrity and honor.

Why should we then destroy public confidence in him by imputing to him the inability to assist and counsel the House Cmmittee with honor and sincerity?

Mr. President, the very dignity and honor of this Senate requires that this appropriation bill should not be passed. I cannot guide the vote of my colleagues but again I call to their attention these observations and say most frankly that to vote for this bill impeaches the very integrity of this General Assembly to conduct an investigation without the aid of outsiders.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, at this late hour I do not want to unduly prolong discussion but it seems to me that this Legislature would be acting in bad faith if after having created a Committee and specifically authorizing that Committee to incur expenses such as the employment of counsel and other expenses, I repeat that this Legislature would be showing bad faith if they did not give that Committee money to pay the bills which the Legislature authorized them to incur.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 45 (House Bill No. 23), entitled:

An Act to amend paragraphs (d) and (e) of Section 202, paragraph (a) of Section 409, Section 412, paragraph (a) of Section 601, Sections 702, 704, 808, 1201 and 1311 of the Public Utility Law (Act of May 28, 1937, P. L. 1053), entitled: "An act relating to the regulation of public utilities; defining as public utilities certain corporations, companies, associations, and persons; providing for the regulation of public utilities, including, to a limited extent, municipalities engaging in public utility business, by prescribing, defining, and limiting their duties, powers, and liabilities, and regulating the exercise, surrender or abandonment of their powers, privileges, and franchises; defining and regulating contract carriers by motor vehicle and brokers in order to regulate effectively common carriers by motor vehicle; conferring upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty of supervising and regulating persons, associations, companies, and corporations, including to a limited extent, municipal corporations subject to this act, and administering the provisions of this act; authorizing the commission to fix tempory rates; placing the burden of proof on public utilities to sustain their rates and certain other matters; authorizing a permissive or mandatory sliding scale method of regulating rates; providing for the supervision of financial and contractural relations between public utilities and affiliated interests, and supervision and regulation of accounts and securities or obligations issued, assumed, or kept by persons, associations, companies, corporations or municipal corporations subject to this act; conferring upon the commission power to vary, reform, or revise certain contracts; conferring upon the commission the exclusive power to regulate or order the construction, alteration, relocation, protection, or abolition of crossings of facilities of public utilities, and of such facilities by or over public highways, to appropriate property for the construction or improvement of such crossings, and to award or apportion resultant costs and damages; authorizing owners of such property to sue the Commonwealth for such damages; providing for ejectment proceedings in connection with the appropriation of property for crossings; conferring upon the commission power to control and regulate budgets of public utilities; imposing upon persons, associations, companies, and corporations (except municipal corporations) subject to regulation the cost of administrating this act; prescribing and regulating practice and procedure before the commission and procedure for review by the courts of commission action; giving the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County exclusive original jurisdiction over certain proceedings; prescribing penalties, fines, and imprisonment for violations of the provisions of this act and regulations and orders of the Commission, and the procedure for enforcing such fines and penalties; and repealing legislation supplied and superseded by or inconsistent with this act," by further defining and limiting exemptions, the transfer and acquisition of property, the crossing of facilities, the issuance of securities, relations between affiliated interests, the imposition of costs of administering the act, and otherwise clarifying and supplementing the provisions of the said sections of the act.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation for the expenses of the Joint Legislative Commission investigating certain courts of this Commonwealth and created by Joint Resolution No 11 approved the ninth day of March one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws thirty-five)

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

HOUSE MESSAGES

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, September 19, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, September 26, at 9 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, September 26, at 9 o'clock.

RESOLUTION URGING GOVERNOR TO ACQUIRE FEDERAL FUNDS TO RECONDITION FLAGSHIP "NIAGARA"

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 6, 1938.

Whereas, On September 10th, 1938, we will celebrate in this country the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of "The Battle of Lake Erie;" and

Whereas, The "Battle of Lake Erie" was one of America's most decisive naval victories; and

Whereas, In the consequence of the winning of this battle all the territory west of the Allegheny Mountains was saved for this country; and

Whereas, The half of this mighty fleet which won this victory was built at the city of Erie, then known as Erietown, and the fleet was under the seamanship of Pennsylvania citizens, and therefore especially the State of Pennsylvania should take a preeminent position in the celebration, and endeavor to have restored the Flagship "Niagara" to a proper condition; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby urges the Governor of the Commonwealth to secure the necessary Federal funds or, if unable to obtain the Federal funds, to urge upon the proper Federal agency, the desirability of undertaking and completing the work of restoration, so that the Flagship "Niagara" shall be in the original condition she was in at the time of the Battle of Lake Erie, and shall for all time be maintained as a historic memorial of a glorious page in American History.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILLS NOS. 8 AND 17

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 8, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies, for the payment of rates, rentals, and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed by such department with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy by the Commonwealth of various projects, structures, buildings, and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

He also presented communication from the House of Representatives, informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 17, entitled:

An Act to amend Article two of the act, approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled "Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915" as amended, by adding a new Section two hundred and one and one-tenth thereto; imposing the presumption of negligence upon employers; providing for admission of certain evidence and providing for double damage under certain circumstances.

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence bill of the House of Representatives, as follows:

House Bill No. 10, (Senate Bill No. 53), entitled:

An Act authorizing the Secretary of Highways to change the width, grades and lines of Vine Street in Philadelphia, from the Delaware River Bridge approach to Parkway; the expense thereof and damages occasioned thereby to be paid by the Commonwealth. Authorizing the City of Philadelphia, persons, associations and corporations to enter into agreements with the Commonwealth to bear a portion of such expenses and damages and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

BILLS SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 10, entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the sixteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (P. L. 16) entitled "An act making an appropriation to the Department of Health to defray the cost of pumping the water from slate quarries and anthracite and bituminous coal mines which have been flooded directly or indirectly by the high waters during March one thousand nine hundred thirty-six" by making a further appropriation to supply the deficiency incurred and needed under the provisions of said act.

Senate Bill No. 25, entitled:

An Act relating to and removing the remaining additional persons now serving as Pennsylvania members of the Delaware River Joint Commission by virtue of appointment by the General Assembly under the act approved June twelfth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 575) entitled "An act providing for joint action by Pennsylvania and New Jersey in the development of the ports on the lower Delaware River and the improvement of the facilities for transportation across the river authorizing the Governor for these purposes to enter into an agreement with New Jersey creating The Delaware River Joint Commission and specifying the powers and duties thereof including the power to finance projects by the issuance of revenue bonds transferring to the new commission all the powers of the Delaware River Bridge Joint Commission and making an appropriation" and providing for the appointment of their successors.

House Bill No. 8, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

House Bill No. 17, entitled:

An Act to amend Article two of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 736) entitled "An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder" as re-enacted and amended by adding a new Section two hundred and one and one-tenth thereto imposing the presumption of negligence upon employers providing for admission of certain evidence and providing for double damage under certain circumstances

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, September 20, 1938 at 11:00 o'clock, A. M., (E. S. T).

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:59 o'clock, P. M. (E. S. T.) until Tuesday, September 20, 1938, at 11:00 o'clock, A. M. (E. S. T.).

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1938.

The House met at 8:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, the prophet of old declared the day would come when swords would be beaten into plowshares and spears into prunning hooks. But we see no significant evidence of such a day within the near future. On the yesterday, throughout our land, in churches, in special convocations, and by use of the radio, petitions were offered unto Thee to restrain those who would cause war. Prayers too, unheard, possibly inaudible prayers, from those who bear the brunt of war ravages and receive no benefits thereby, are now going up from all parts of the world unto Thee, to stay the hand who brandish the sword and make for wars. Tonight we just commend unto Thee all those petitions, and prayers. We know Lord if half the effort to make force rule the world were spent to promote universal brotherhood of man, there would be no need of great armies and navies.

With malice towards no people, we do pray unto Thee. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Tuesday, September 13, 1938.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, September 13, 1938, when, on motion of Mr. McELROY the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 22

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, September 16, 1938.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 22, Printer's No. 22, entitled "An Act to confirm and validate past tax levies or assessments made by school districts of the first class and liens filed thereon."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

COMMUNICATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication which was read by the Clerk.

The House of Representatives of Pennsylvania:

The family of Francis Thompson Baker acknowledge with sincere gratitude the very beautiful flowers sent at the time of Mr. Baker's death and, during his illness.

The presence of such a large delegation from the House of Representatives at the funeral servics, as well as the many personal messages of sympathy from the individual members, spoke eloquently of the friendly esteem in which Mr. Baker was held by his associates.

Such a fine tribute has brought great comfort and will remain an enduring memory.

Very sincerely,

VIRGINIA L. BAKER.
EDNA M. BAKER.

The SPEAKER. The communication will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Legislative Journal.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. ZAPPALA.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 17.

In the House of Representatives, September 19, 1938.

Whereas, The newspapers have published the recent correspondence between the American and the Mexican Governments and we believe that all the statements of fact made by Secretary Hull are true; and

Whereas, From that correspondence it appears that soon after the success of the Mexican revolution in 1914, the Mexican Government started confiscating properties belonging to American citizens, for which no compensation has ever been awarded; and

Whereas, Although in 1923 the United States of America and Mexico entered into a convention by virtue of which an American-Mexican Claims Commission was created, and although the claims of American citizens for compensation for said confiscation were referred to it for one reason or another, it has not been possible for said commission to pronounce any decision on said confiscations and the respective compensations; and

Whereas, Since 1927 new confiscations have taken place, and many small American owners have been deprived of their properties; and

Whereas, After twenty-four years of patience and forbearance, the American Government has finally undertaken to obtain compensation for past confiscations and to stop future confiscations without compensation; and

Whereas, The Mexican Government refuses to take any serious step toward compensation for the past confiscations and to stop confiscations in the future; and

Whereas, Mr. Hull's policy consists in obtaining compensation for past confiscations and in stopping future confiscations without prompt, adequate, and fair compensation; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate Concur), That the General Assembly approves of the position taken by Secretary Hull and the policy adopted by him to bring about the settlement of American claims for compensation for lands and properties of American citizens seized by the Mexican Government and urges upon Secretary Hull that he advises the Mexican Government of the desire of the citizens of the United States that future seizures shall not be made unless fair and adequate compensation be paid immediately; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be duly engrossed and be transmitted to Secretary of State, Cordell Hull.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. HOUSE BILL No. 72.

A Supplement to the Act, approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven," making a deficiency appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of certain expenses, for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Appropriations to meet during the session of the House.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair declares a recess for five minutes.

Are there objections?

The Chair hears none and a recess is declared for five minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

SENATE MESSAGES

SENATE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 28 (HOUSE BILL No. 73).

An Act relating to institutions of counties, cities, and institution districts for the care, maintenance and treatment of mental patients; providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth; providing for the management and operation, or closing thereof, and the maintenance of mental patients therein; conferring and imposing upon the Governor, the Department of Welfare, and counties, cities and institution districts certain powers and duties; prohibiting cities, counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients; and repealing inconsistent laws.

Referred to the Committee on Welfare.

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, September 13, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor in Section 2 of his Second Supplemental Proclamation of the twenty-fifth day of July, 1938, designated as one of the subjects for the consideration the amending of Article 2 of the Workmen's Compensation Act (Act of June 2, 1915, P. L. 736, as re-enacted amended or further amended by Act of June 4, 1937, P. L. 1552), and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, Senate Bill No. 31, covering this subject has been introduced and is now on passage through the Assembly, and

Whereas, It is the concensus of opinion of men adequately informed that this subject should be thoroughly investigated with a view of ascertaining whether legislative action can be employed to conciliate the views of employers and employees and thereby promote the general welfare, and

Whereas, A thorough investigation can only be made by bringing together representatives of the parties affected now be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House who shall constitute a committee to bring together such representatives of Labor and Industry and other interested parties as wish to be heard, to affect a conciliation among them and make a report of its activities, findings and recommendations to the next General Session.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There will be a Democratic Caucus immediately in the Senate Caucus Room.

RECESS

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 62, entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee to investigate governmental costs of Philadelphia, Concurrent Resolution No. 2, approved the thirteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, (P. L. 2869), which committee was provided with an appropriation under Appropriation Act No. 9-A, entitled "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 102, approved January thirteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 52, as follows:

An Act to amend section one hundred and seventeen as amended and section two hundred and six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by providing an additional method for creating independent school districts and the appointment of school directors therein

Section 1 Section one hundred and seventeen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by section three of the act approved the twentieth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 1023) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 117 After the approval of this act a majority of the taxable inhabitants of any continguous territory in any school district or school districts as herein established may present their petition to the Governor or to the court of common pleas of the county in which each contiguous territory or a greater part in area thereof is situated asking that such territory shall be established as an independent school district which petition shall set forth a proper description of the boundaries of the territory to be included in such proposed independent school district and the desire of the petitioners for better school facilities than are or would be provided and maintained by the district or districts of which such proposed independent school district is a part whereupon the Governor or said court as the case may be after a hearing of which hearing the school district or districts out of whose territory such proposed independent school district is to be taken shall have ten (10) days' notice after taking into consideration the welfare of the pupils and taxpayers of such school district or school districts as well as of such proposed independent school district may make a decree establishing an independent school district and fix the boundaries thereof which may be more or less than those set forth in such petition Where the territory described in any such petition is to be taken from two or more school districts such petition shall be signed by a majority of all the taxable inhabitants of the part of each school district which is to be included in such independent district The Governor or the said court as the case may be shall also determine the amount if any of the indebtedness of the school district from whose territory such independent district is taken that it shall assume and pay In all cases where such school district if created or the remaining part of the original district would constitute a fourth class school district the merits of the petition for its creation from an educational standpoint shall be passed upon by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and it shall not be granted unless approved by him Provided That in case any such independent district so created shall include the territory of any former independent school district abolished by this act having any indebtedness such indebtedness shall be assumed and paid by such newly created independent school district Any independent district thus created shall belong to the class of school districts herein provided to which it is entitled to belong by its population as determined by the last United States census

In all cases where such procedings result in the creation of a new school district the cost and office fees shall be paid by said new district but if otherwise said costs and office fees shall be paid by petitioners themselves

Section 2 Section two hundred and six of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 206 Every independent school district established as herein provided shall have its affairs except as to the election of school directors who shall be appointed as hereinafter provided administered by a board of school directors subject to all the provisions of this act relating to the class of school districts to which such independent district belongs And the Governor or the court as the case may be establishing such independent school district shall at the time of so doing appoint a board of properly qualified residents of the district of like number and for the same terms as is herein provided for such class of districts and in November of every odd year the Governor or such court as the case may be establishing such independent school district shall appoint the proper number of directors for the full term of six years whose terms shall begin on the first Monday of December following their appointment and any vacancy in such board shall be filled by the Governor or by the court as the case may be establishing such independent school districts for the unexpired term

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 10, as follows:

An Act authorizing the Secretary of Highways to change the location of State Highway routes in cities of the first class constituting part of the approaches to interstate bridges including the terminal points thereof Authorizing the abandonment of such relocated sections of State highways Authorizing the Secretary of Highways to enter into agreements with cities of the first class Interstate Joint Commissions persons associations and corporations for the sharing of the cost exclusive of property damages of widening streets and relocating highways forming part of the State highway system and constituting approaches to interstate bridges Authorizing cities of the first class Interstate Joint Commissions persons associations and corporations to enter into agreements with each other for the sharing of the cost of property damages direct and not merely consequential thereto in connection with the widening of said streets and relocating said highways and with the Secretary of Highways and each other for the sharing of the cost of widening said streets and relocating said highways exclusive of property damages and making an appropriation

Section 1 The Secretary of Highways may enter into agreements with cities of the first class Interstate Joint Commissions persons associations and corporations public or private for the sharing with the Commonwealth of the cost exclusive of property damages of widening such streets and relocating such highways as form part of the State highway system and constitute approaches to interstate bridges in cities of the first class And cities of the first class and Interstate Joint Commissions are hereby authorized and empowered to enter into agreements with the Secretary of Highways and with persons associations and corporations for the purposes of sharing the cost of widening said streets and relocating said highways exclusive of property damages and said cities of the first class and Interstate Joint Commissions are further authorized and empowered to enter into agreements with each other and with persons associations and corporations for the purpose of sharing the cost of property damage direct and not merely consequential thereto in connection with the widening of said streets and relocating of said highways

Section 2 All moneys received by the Commonwealth under any contract or agreement for sharing the cost of widening such streets and relocating said highways shall be deposited in the Motor License Fund and so much of the money in the Motor License Fund as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act on the part of the Commonwealth is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Highways for the purpose of this act

Section 3 Whenever it shall appear to the Secretary of Highways that any part or portion of a State highway route or routes in a city of the first class which constitutes or constitute a part of the approaches to an interstate bridge are dangerous or inconvenient to the traveling public in their then location either by reason of width grade lines curves or other conditions or that the expense to the Commonwealth in the construction or maintenance thereof could be materially lessened by a change of location the Secretary of Highways may with the consent of the Governor and of the city expressed by ordinance or resolution change the location of such State highways route including the terminal points thereof to pass over existing streets or new streets laid out and opened by the city in such manner as in his discretion may seem best in order to correct such danger or inconvenience or lessen the cost to the Commonwealth A plan showing the new location approved by the Governor and the Mayor of the city shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds in the county in which such city shall be located

After the relocation has been opened to traffic the Secretary of Highways by notice to the local authorities may abandon as a State highway route all or any part of the section of highway between the terminii of the relocation

Section 4 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Schor, explain to the House the provisions of the bill.

Mr. SCHOR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill in its present form is an enabling act purely and simply. It allows the Secretary of Highways to enter into an agreement with the city of Philadelphia, corporations, individuals and any other municipal authority or Federal creation, to permit new approaches to be made to the Delaware River Bridge, so that the vehicular problem in the city of Philadelphia can in some way be solved.

It entails no cost on the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania outside of some clerical work which may be involved in the preparation of such agreements. All condemnation proceedings shall be taken care of by the individuals named in the bill, exclusive of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The bill further provides that the Secretary of Highways and the City Council of Philadelphia may agree on some day of diverting traffic outside of Vine Street. We have refused to name streets in the bill in order to avoid any constitutional difficulties which may arise as a result of the special legislative feature or prohibition in the constitution. At present the proposals are in a tentative stage. This bill would enable a great deal of preliminary work to be done so that we can actually get some solution to this great traffic problem.

As the bill was originally drafted it would have involved a terrific cost in condemnation proceedings on real estate located in Vine Street. As presently drawn it constitutes a great saving to whatever authority, whatever corporation, whatever individuals enter into such an agreement. Again let me say there are no condemnation costs put on the State.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 10, Printer's No. 52.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, August 16, 1938.

Whereas, The space in the Capitol building at present occupied by the legislative branch of government, is less than was orginally allocated to that branch when the Capitol was first occupied thirty-four years ago; and

Whereas, The volume of bills introduced and the variety of subjects requiring consideration by the General Assembly have multiplied many times during the last thirty-four years; and

Whereas, The functions under the supervision of the Secretary of the Senate the Clerk of the Senate and the Clerk of the House are located on various floors of the Capitol not contiguous to the executive responsible for their administration thus making it impossible for the efficient and economical discharge of the duties of these officials and

Whereas, The rooms at present available for the use of the Senate and House committees are inadequate both in number and equipment, making it necessary to assign several committees to each room, restricting the time each committee may occupy the room, and thereby preventing orderly and adequate consideration of bills which have been referred to the committee, resulting in the reporting out of bills in such form that amendments on the floor are necessary to a far greater degree than would have been had proper facilities been available to the various committees; and

Whereas, The Legislative Reference Bureau, created to serve the Members of the Senate and House, to aid in drafting legislation and the preparation of amendments to bills introduced to serve department heads in connection with legislation affecting their respective departments, etc., is located outside the Capitol building, thus substantially reducing its ability to perform its present functions, and making it quite impossible for it to discharge the added responsibility of assuring the accuracy of legislative bills therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That so much of the space in the basement of the Capitol building now occupied by the Treasury Department on the first floor now occupied by the Treasury Department the Department of the Auditor General and the Pennsylvania Motor Police on the entrosole now occupied by the Bureau of Standards and other agencies of the Department of Internal Affairs on the third floor now occupied by the Department of Revenue as is indicated on the accompanying schedule be set aside for the use of the legislative branch of our government and its related agencies as soon as the Finance Building is available for occupancy by the departments which are to be housed therein and be it further

Resolved That the Department of Property and Supplies be authorized to have removed the vault now in Room 140 to have made such minor alterations as are essential to the purposes for which this room will be used to properly equip upon requisition from the proper officers this and other rooms for the purposes for which they are to be used and be it further

Resolved That the Legislative Reference Bureau be moved to and established in the Capitol building in quarters adequate to the performance of its present and added responsibilities

Ordered, That the resolution as amended lie over for printing.

RESOLUTION NO. 12

Mr. WAGNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 12, Printer's No. 51.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 6, 1938.

Whereas On September 10 1938 we will celebrate in this country the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of "The Battle of Lake Erie" and

Whereas The "Battle of Lake Erie" was one of America's most decisive naval victories and

Whereas In the consequence of the winning of this battle all the territory west of the Allegheny Mountains was saved for this country and

Whereas The half of this mighty fleet which won this victory was built at the city of Erie then known as Erietown and the fleet was under the seamanship of Pennsylvania citizens and therefore especially the State of Pennsylvania should take a preeminent position in the celebration and endeavor to have restored the Flagship "Niagara" to a proper condition therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby urges the Governor of the Commonwealth to secure the necessary Federal funds or if unable to obtain the Federal funds to urge upon the proper Federal agency the desirability of undertaking and completing the work of restoration so that the Flagship "Niagara" shall be in the original condition she was in at the time of the Battle of Lake Erie and shall for all time be maintained as a historic memorial of a glorious page in American History

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Messrs. WOOD, TROUT and ROYER offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, September 19, 1938.

Whereas, Senator John G. Homsher, the dean of the Pennsylvania State Senate, a member of this House from 1901 to 1909, and of the Senate from 1909 to the present time, passed away at the Lancaster General Hospital on Tuesday, September 13, 1938 after an illness of two months. His illness had marked his first absence in the 38 years from his desk in the Legislature; and

Whereas, Senator Homsher was born and spent all his life in Lancaster County. His first political experience came in 1897 and 1898 when he was elected to the Republican State Convention as a delegate. He was serving his 16th year as Justice of the Peace when he resigned to enter the Legislature. His services there extended during the terms of ten Governors; and

Whereas, Senator Homsher was very popular with his home people as well as his colleagues in the Legislature. No man more faithfully and accurately typified the community and the people he represented than he. No time during the 38 years could any one point to any suspicion of misconduct in office. His colleagues in the Senate honored him by electing him twice President Pro Tempore, an honor accorded no other man in the history of the Commonwealth; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this House express its deep felt sorrow over the loss of an able and valuable Senator, one that we could not afford to lose at the present time; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk to the widow and family of the late Senator.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 8.

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies, for the payment of rates, rentals, and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed by such department with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy by the Commonwealth of various projects, structures, buildings, and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend the title, page 1, line 4, by striking out after the work "executed" the words "by such department"; also in line 5 and 6 by striking out the words "for the use and occupancy by the Commonwealth."

Amend the preamble, page 2, line 3 by striking out after the word "Authority" the words "to the Commonwealth".

Amend section 1, page 3, line 1, by inserting after the word "of" the words and figures "two million dollars ($2,000,000)"; also line 9, by striking out after the word "Authority" the words "to the Commonwealth."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the House do concur in the Senate amendments.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill, when it left the House, had no amount stated therein for the appropriation to carry out the provisions of the bill. The bill returns from the Senate with an appropriation of $2,000,000 for the balance of this year, up to January 1st. I thought the members ought to know that, when voting upon its concurrence.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

SENATE COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE MEMORIAL SERVICE AS A TRIBUTE TO THE LATE SENATOR JOHN G. HOMSHER

Mr. BUCKMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, September 20, 1938.

Whereas, the Senate of Pennsylvania adjourned last week out of respect for the memory of the Honorable John G. Homsher, oldest in point of service of all the Senators, and

Whereas, the fine personal character and kindly manner of the honorable dean of the Senate endeared him to all regardless of political belief and affiliation, therefore be it

Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of five members of the Senate to arrange for a memorial service to be held in the Senate of Pennsylvania at a time to be fixed by the committee and the officers of the Senate as a tribute to Senator John G. Homsher, who died, Tuesday afternoon, September 13, 1938.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House being introduced, presented for concurrence bill of the House of Representatives, as follows:

House Bill No. 58, (Senate Bill No. 54), entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines, appointed pursuant to the joint resolution, approved the fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1689), entitled "A joint resolution creating a commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines; defining its powers and duties; and making an appropriation," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

Which was committed to the Committee on Mines and Mining.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO TRANSFER OF LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE BUREAU OFFICES TO CAPITOL BUILDING

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the House of Representatives, August, 1938.

Whereas, The space in the Capitol building at present occupied by the legislative branch of government is less than was originally allocated to that branch when the Capitol was first occupied thirty-four years ago and

Whereas, The volume of bills introduced and the variety of subjects requiring consideration by the General Assembly have multiplied many times during the last thirty-four years and

Whereas, The functions under the supervision of the Secretary of the Senate the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House are located on various floors of the Capitol not contiguous to the executive responsible for their administration thus making it impossible for the efficient and economical discharge of the duties of these officials and

Whereas, The rooms at present available for the use of the Senate and House committees are inadequate both in number and equipment making it necessary to assign several committees to each room restricting the time each committee may occupy the room and thereby preventing orderly and adequate consideration of bills which have been referred to the committee resulting in the reporting out of bills in such form that amendments on the floor are necessary to a far greater degree than would have been had proper facilities been available to the various committees and

Whereas, The Legislative Reference Bureau created to serve the Members of the Senate and House to aid in drafting legislation and the preparation of amendments to bills introduced to serve department heads in connection with legislation affecting their respective departments etc. is located outside the Capitol building thus substantially reducing its ability to perform its present functions and making it quite impossible for it to discharge the added responsibility of assuring the accuracy of legislative bills therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That so much of the space of the Capitol building now occupied by the Treasury Department on the first floor and in the basement now occupied by the Treasury Department the Department of the Auditor General and the Pennsylvania Motor Police on the entrosole now occupied by the Bureau of Standards and other agencies of the Department of Internal Affairs on the third floor now occupied by the Department of Revenue as is indicated on the accompanying schedule be set aside for the use of the legislative branch of our government and its related agencies as soon as the Finance Building is available for occupancy by the departments which are to be housed therein and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Property and Supplies be authorized to have removed the vault now in Room 140 to have made such minor alterations as are essential to the purposes for which this room will be used to properly equip upon requisition from the proper officers this and other rooms for the purposes for which they are to be used and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau be moved to and established in the Capitol building in quarters adequate to the performance of its present and added responsibilities

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I have here a letter from the president of Pennsylvania State College, Doctor Hetzel, advising me that four scholars that I recommended for scholarships this year were turned down, because, he said, the freshman class is filled up. I have been advised by other Senators on this floor that the same thing has happened to them although in some cases their applications had gone in during July. As I understand the purpose of this privilege given the Senators of naming scholars to four universities it is to take care of the poor students, young men and women who are ambitious but do not have the funds to go to college.

If State College is filling up its freshman class with those who can pay and keeping out these students who cannot pay I think that State College is not doing the right thing. Temple University does not do it, the University of Pennsylvania does not do it and neither does the University of Pittsburgh. I understand that Doctor Hetzel was here today. I am very sorry that I did not know that he was here. However, Senator Buckman is here and Senator Thompson, who have so much concern about State College and I think that as far as I am concerned the thing at least ought to be aired and we should have an expression perhaps from some of the other Senators and find if State College is keeping these poor students out and letting in a flood of other students.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, for two reasons I am very glad to air the subject. The first reason is that I am waiting for some amendments for two bills that are on the calendar that I would like to introduce today on tax abatements which everybody is interested in getting passed, and those amendments are not ready. The second reason is that this is a subject which should not and is not confined only to State College.

For a number of years the Senate has been in the habit of passing appropriation bills for various institutions and doing it in a perfunctory manner and getting no real results from these appropriations. The question which has been raised by Senator McGinnis involves the attitude of the heads of the various institutions to which we make appropriations.

In Philadelphia and Pittsburgh students for years have been encouraged to take pre-medical courses, helped by our appropriations to the various institutions. More men have been admitted to the pre-medical course than could possibly be admitted to all of the medical colleges in the Commonwealth and after these young men have focused their attention and desires and ambitions on getting into medical college they are psychologically prevented from being able to adjust themselves to any other work and they find themselves left on the street without any place to go. As a result of that situation a subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee was appointed at the last session of the Legislature and that sub-committee met with the heads of the various institutions and they suggested that something should be done about that very situation. We suggested at the time that the so-called pre-medical course be abolished and at a meeting held in Philadelphia by the sub-committee with the Philadelphia colleges of medicine we were shown the catalogues of Temple University and of the University of Pennsylvania and we were told and found it to be true that the pre-medical course in those institutions has been abolished as such and that they now advertise not that they have a pre-medical course, but that there are courses for medicine, law and the various other professions that may be pursued at these universities. The University of Pittsburgh told us today that while they have not followed this course yet, they propose to do so within the coming year and that they also will abolish the pre-medical course at some time which they will determine as they go along by a course of procedure in which they will segregate these students and advise some of them that have no chance, who are not fitted for the medical profession, that they had better prepare themselves for something else. That, in some measure will reduce the number of medical students.

We give contributions to Jefferson Medical School and to Hahnemann. These two institutions receive contributions from us and do not confine their students to Pennsylvania but they take students from outside of the State of Pennsylvania, and at my request the Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital gives me this information which I think is of real interest to the members of this Senate. Although we contribute, I think, to Hahnemann one hundred thousand dollars, this is the record from 1933 to 1938: In 1933, Pennsylvania students, 81; from other states, 61; total, 142. Percentage of Pennsylvania students, 57 per cent. In the years 1934 and 1935 the percentage was 62 per cent and in the year 1936 the percentage was 62 per cent. In 1937 it was 58 per cent. In 1938 it was 45 per cent, in other words, in 1938, 68 Pennsylvanians were admitted to the college and 82 outsiders. I have not yet received the information from Jefferson Medical College but I am expecting to get it and I am quite sure that from what was said at the meeting, that their ratio is about the same. On the other hand, the University of Pennsylvania and Temple University are under-graduate schools and have obligations to those who take their courses in college to admit some of them to the medical course and of course their ratio cannot be the same, but it might be well for this body to consider that it would be better to transfer the appropriations from these two institutions to the medical schools of Penn and Temple and enable us to get a greater percentage of Pennsylvania students into those colleges or else to make it obligatory for these two institutions who do receive our aid and do not have under-graduate courses to increase their percentage on a reasonable basis.

This morning we had a meeting with the heads of these institutions and, in addition, the gentleman from State College who was referred to by Senator McGinnis, and we brought up all the complaints which the various Senators had brought to our attention. I am very sorry that Senator McGinnis was not present because in response to the complaint that a number of Senatorial Nominations were not accepted, Dr. Hetzel said that that was due to two facts. First of the fact that the Senators were so busy exchanging some of their scholarships with other colleges in the State that they did not get their nominations in on time, and one Senator in particular did not send in his nominations until after the list had been made up. They have their financial problems and problems of management which certainly were interfered with by the negligence of the Senators. The question of course is whether or not the Senator was negligent or whether Dr. Hetzel told us the truth about the picture. We could not tell because the Senator was not present although the opportunity was given him to meet Dr. Hetzel. In any event I think that there has been some good drawn out of the appointment of this committee but a greater good can happen through the Senators taking an active interest in these appropriations and putting a stop to the habit of making perfunctory appropriations.

It would be better to examine into these appropriations and see just what the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania gets for the large amount of money which has been expended every biennium in an effort to make it possible for these institutions to do something for Pennsylvania, and I think the habit has been for these institutions to try to spread their reputation in other states by taking in students from other states as against the applicants they have from Pennsylvania.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, what has been said on this floor with reference to State College emphasizes the remarks that I made last night with reference to that institution. I have had in years gone by, some 15 or 20 years ago, the same experiences that some of the Senators are having now but I learned my lesson many years ago. The State College is not strictly a State institution although it is practically State supported. I learned in giving out scholarships to that institution that we had to dance for their amusement and I have not had any trouble in the past ten years because I have always said to my candidates for appointment for scholarships that they could only be used by students who had been accepted for admission to State College and if the new Senators would learn by the experience that I have had they would save themselves a great deal of grief and a great many headaches.

With reference to some of the other institutions a great deal can be said about supporting out-of-the-State students or contributing to that support. Of course the amount that we give to Jefferson or to Hahnemann or to a number of other institutions that I could mention is comparatively small compared with the cost of running those institutions. I have in mind an institution in my own district which is largely State supported, the National Farm School at Doylestown. I understand that the majority of the students come from outside of the State, from New York, San Francisco, New Orleans, from all over the country, and yet our appropriations to that institution are made in a lump sum without regard to the number of Pennsylvania students who receive the benefit of those appropriations. I had a good deal of experience with these appropriations over twenty years ago when I was chairman of the Appropriations Committee, in 1915 and 1917, which did at that time try to work out a basis for making appropriations for the benefit of Pennsylvania students alone.

Of course these medical schools are in a class almost by themselves. They have to consider other states and probably from a national standpoint it is better so. I do not know how many of the members of the Senate know that today the state of New Jersey has not within its borders a single medical school and if all our institutions were to close their doors to students from New Jersey in a few years there would be no doctors in New Jersey. Of course that is no reason why we should support and educate those young men from New Jersey but it is a problem that these medical schools have to consider. I hope that the Senator from the home district of State College will have something to say on this subject as I know he is familiar with it and I yield to the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I certainly regret that this situation has arisen between the distinguished Senator from Allegheny and Pennsylvania State College. I do think that the Senator from Allegheny would probably be doing the College more justice if he would not insist on picking out those poor students that he talks about. Now I think if the Senator had taken time to inquire, he will find in the first place that owing to the tremendous number of applications to Pennsylvania State College every year, they limit their enrollment to those that have been in the first two-fifths of their class in high school. They do not accept applications from any students unless they have been in the first two-fifths of the class. Then, on the other hand, there is a large proportion of those applicants who are required to take what is called a scholastic aptitude test and the weeding-out process of this aptitude test at Pennsylvania State College often results in the elimination of many of those who are applicants for admission.

I think that if the Senator from Allegheny would not pick these poor students that he has nominated (I believe he said, "I nominated four poor students"), he would not have so much difficulty in having them qualify and having them admitted. I have followed the policy of the Senator from Bucks in making my nominations for scholarships, namely, I will not consider any person an applicant for a scholarship unless he or she has already been granted admission to the college for which he or she applies for a scholarship. I think that is the only satisfactory way of dealing with this situation. We cannot expect these colleges to take these poor students. They have a certain academic standard that they must maintain and which in reality, Mr. President, we want them to maintain.

I agree with a great many things that the Senator from Philadelphia says about our professional schools. I do not know how many of you ever stop to realize that in this body we each have three nominations, to Pitt and Temple and Penn. They all have medical schools. Those medical schools each admit about a hundred students each year. If we should all make nominations to the medical schools of these institutions in the same year we would have four hundred and fifty nominations to medical schools that would only admit three hundred students. In other words the medical schools in these three State universities could not admit all of the scholarship applicants in any one year if we should all decide to send all of our scholarship applicants to Pitt and Temple and Penn medical schools. Consequently we should not expect that they should take all of the nominations that we would make to any school like this.

I have always followed the policy in making nominations to Pitt and Temple and Penn, insofar as I could, that those scholarship nominees should matriculate at an accredited State school and I have tried to restrict my policy in regards to Pennsylvania State College as far as possible on this basis.

When we get right down to it this whole controversy revolves about just one issue, that we have been in our Legislature too miserly in the treatment of all these institutions. We think we give a lot of money to educational institutions but when we come right down to it the money that we actually give these educational institutions is just chicken feed. There is no reason why the State of Pennsylvania should not see to it that the University of Pennsylvania and Temple and Pitt should not have just as large and just as well equipped medical schools and dental schools and law schools as the traffic in Pennsylvania in those institutions demand, and we should pay the bills that are necessary right here in the Legislature of Pennsylvania.

You cannot isolate these medical schools or the students of this State. I know a great many students who go to Harvard or to John Hopkins from Pennsylvania. The University of Toronto and McGill, even up in Canada. and the University of Chicago, receive students from Pennsylvania, who go particularly to postgraduate institutions all over the United States. We should not attempt to restrict our admission to students of this Commonwealth because in the long run we even up at least, and perhaps go a little better, in this matter with the other states.

Pennsylvania State College follows a definite policy with respect to the admission of out-of-State students. They have an absolute percentage of out-of-State students that they can take each year. They do that so they can keep contact with other sections of the United States, which they should do, and they try to adjust that percentage in accordance with their State load.

Even if Hahnemann Medical School should run a higher number of students from out of the State than in the State it seems to me that is readily understandable. We know that Hahnemann is a so-called homeopathic school, and the psychology of this State has always been toward the allapathic course of medicine, and it may be that Hahnemann gets a number of students from western portions of the country where homeopathic treatment is more popular. Fundamentally, all of this situation gets right back to the question that the State of Pennsylvania does not begin today to spend nearly enough money on its institutions of higher education.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think in fairness to the University of Pittsburgh that I should say that their class of medical students is composed entirely of residents of Pennsylvania. They have found no difficulty and no injury to the reputation of their institution by confining their medical students to Pennsylvania.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I merely want to state that I am surprised that any Senator on this floor would think for one moment that I would insist on or even ask State College to take students that were not thoroughly equipped or qualified to go into that institution. When I used the word 'poor' I used it in the sense of a boy or girl coming from a poor home and in no other sense. Not for a moment did I even hint to Doctor Hetzel that he should take a poor boy or girl if he was a poor student. The students that I recommended were qualified. The only excuse was that the class was full and to my mind that is a poor excuse and no other university in Pennsylvania has done it so far to me.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, on the basis of the explanation from the Senator from Allegheny I withdraw my remarks.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 20, on third reading, postponed.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 20, as follows:

An Act abating certain tax penalities and interest on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 All penalties interest and costs imposed but not actually paid out on delinquent city or school taxes in cities of the first class and in school districts of the first class for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and for all previous tax years and the penalties and costs imposed but not actually paid out on such taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five or any parcel or parcels of real estate shall be abated without the necessity of further action on the part of the council of such city or by the board of public education of such school district as the case may be if the following provisions are complied with.

(a) That all of the said respective delinquent taxes are paid in four equal installments as follows one-fourth on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight one-fourth on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine one-fourth on or before the thirtieth day of June one thousand nine hundred and forty and the final one-fourth on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty

(b) The respective current taxes for the years during such installment period shall be paid before they become delinquent

(c) In case any taxpayer shall default in the payment of any installment of taxes or in the payment of current taxes as required in section one of this act the penalties interest and costs on the installments of such delinquent taxes remaining unpaid shall not be abated but shall remain due and payable as provided by existing law

Section 2 Any taxpayer may on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight pay the entire amount due on delinquent taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five and all previous years whereupon the penalties interests and costs on such delinquent taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and previous years and penalties and all costs on delinquent taxes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five shall be abated and all liens filed for delinquent taxes shall be satisfied of record

Section 3 Any taxpayer may at any time during the installment period pay the balance due on said delinquent taxes provided for in this act Provided That at the time such payment is made the conditions of section one (a) have been complied with And further provided That the taxes for the then current year have been paid

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at a sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above-mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied

Section 5 Any taxpayer shall have the right to pay delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel of real estate and receive the benefits of this act without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate

Section 6 The abatement of penalties and interest on such taxes shall be made whether or not liens for such taxes have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection of such taxes shall have been instituted in any court of such county and the taxpayer and the real estate shall not be liable for the payment of any costs incurred in filing such liens or in prosecuting such proceedings

Section 7 Any taxpayer who on the effective date of this act is making payments on delinquent taxes under the provisions of the act of July twenty-second one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws 67) or the act of May twenty-sixth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 893) may secure the benefits of this act by making payments on the balance due on such delinquent taxes at the times and in the fractional parts prescribed herein

And said bill having been read at length the third time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the title of the Act, page 1, line 1, by striking out the word "and" and by inserting after the word interest and before the word on the words "and costs"; amend Section 1, line 1, by inserting after the word all and before the word penalties the word "unpaid", and by inserting after the word penalties and before the word interest the word "and"; amend Section 1, line 1, by inserting after the word and and before the word costs the word "all"; amend Section 1, line 2 by inserting after the word on and before the word delinquent the words "paid or unpaid"; amend Section 1, page 1, line 5, by inserting after the word the at the end of the line the word "unpaid"; amend Section 1, page 1, line 6 by inserting after the word and and before the word costs the word "all"; amend Section 1, page 2, line 6, by striking out the words "said" respective" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "unpaid"; amend Section 2, page 2, line 27 by striking out the words due on and inserting in lieu thereof the words "of the unpaid"; amend Section 2, page 2, line 29 by inserting after the word the and before the word penalties the word "unpaid", and by inserting after the word penalties and before the word interest the word "and"; amend Section 2, page 2, line 29 by inserting after the word and and before the word costs the word "all", and after the word costs and before the word on the words "imposed but not actually paid out"; amend Section 2, page 3, line 1 by inserting before the word delinquent the words "paid or unpaid"; amend Section 2, page 3, line 2 by inserting after the word and and before the word penalties the words "all unpaid"; amend Section 2, page 3, line 3, by inserting after the word costs and before the word on the words "imposed but not actually paid out", and by inserting after the word on and before the word delinquent the words "paid or unpaid"; amend Section 2, page 3, line 5, by inserting after the word for and before the word delinquent the word "such", and after the word taxes and before the word shall the words "interest penalties or costs or any portion thereof"; amend Section 3, page 3, line 7, by inserting after the word said and before the word delinquent the word "unpaid"; amend Section 6, page 3, line 23, by striking out the words "of penalties and interest on" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "herein provided for"; amend Section 6, page 3, line 25, by inserting after the word taxes and before the word have the words "interest penalties or costs"; amend Section 6, page 3, line 26, by inserting after the word taxes and before the word shall the words "Interest penalties or costs"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I wish the Senator from Philadelphia would tell us the effect of these amendments on this bill without making a long speech.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in these tax abatement bills that we passed this year and last year the various county commissioners have had the habit of creating a condition which to my mind seems unfair. If you did not pay your taxes for four years prior to 1934 and paid as authorized by the Act, in Philadelphia one-fourth of it and in the other counties, one-fifth, you were allowed an abatement of your penalty but if you had paid all your taxes but had not paid the penalties you could not get any abatement under the Act. These amendments have the effect of giving to the taxpayer who has paid everything the same privilege that the man who has not paid anything on his taxes could get by paying one-fourth or one-fifth as the case may be.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 15, on second reading, postponed.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 15, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years and all penalties imposed on such taxes for the tax years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided This section shall not be construed to abate the interest accrued on the taxes for the years of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven but no further interest shall be imposed on such taxes after the payment of the first installment as hereafter provided so long as the taxpayer complies with the provisions of this act.

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for all previous years and of the accrued interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the final twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-two And provided That the respective current taxes (the institution district taxes in lieu of the poor taxes) on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sum theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the Section?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move to Amend Section 1, page 1, line 1, by inserting after the word all and before the word penalties the word "unpaid" and by inserting after the word on and before the word delin- the words "paid or unpaid"; Amend Section 1, page 2, line 2, by inserting after the word on and before the word delinquent the words "paid or unpaid"; Amend Section 1, page 2, line 5, by striking out the word said and inserting in lieu thereof the words "the unpaid".

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

PRAYER

The Rev. MARSHALL L. SHEPARD, a member of the House, offered the following prayer:

Dear Lord and Father of mankind, we pray for the peace of the world. May the nations of this earth follow the precept of the Prince of Peace rather than the dictatorship of the warlords of this earth. We pray Thee that America, our own land, through tolerance, patience and brotherly love, may lead the way to this new pathway of peace. Bless, we pray Thee, the officers of our State Government. We pray for the President of these United States, and may he be guided by Thy wisdom and strengthened by Thy right arm. Bless all of our officers and workers here in this House. May we, ourselves, in our own hearts, know the peace of God that surpasseth all understanding. In His name and for His sake. Amen.

SENATE MESSAGES

CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 12.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 6, 1938.

Whereas On September 10th 1938 we will celebrate in this country the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of "The Battle of Lake Erie" and

Whereas The "Battle of Lake Erie" was one of America's most decisive naval victories and

Whereas In the consequence of the winning of this battle all the territory west of the Allegheny Mountains was saved for this country and

Whereas The half of this mighty fleet which won this victory was built at the city of Erie then known as Erietown and the fleet was under the seamanship of Pennsylvania citizens and therefore especially the State of Pennsylvania should take a preeminent position in the celebration and endeavor to have restored the Flagship "Niagara" to a proper condition therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby urges the Governor of the Commonwealth to secure the necessary Federal funds or if unable to obtain the Federal funds to urge upon the proper Federal agency the desirability of undertaking and completing the work of restoration so that the Flagship "Niagara" shall be in the original condition she was in at the time of the Battle of Lake Erie and shall for all time be maintained as a historic memorial of a glorious page in American History.

HOUSE BILLS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 38.

An Act making an appropriation for the expenses of the special committee appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives on the second day of August one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight pursuant to a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives on the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight by authority of the act approved the thirtieth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (Act No. 2) entitled "An act defining the procedure for and regulating the investigation by the House of Representatives and its committees of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of civil officers liable to impeachment authorizing the Speaker of the House to appoint a special committee for any such investigation authorizing the presentation of evidence by the Attorney General and other counsel and the officers investigated providing for the summoning of witnesses and for the punishment of persons refusing to appear produce evidence or testify and authorizing the employment and compensation of counsel and other assistants"

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bill from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 57.

An Act to provide for the expenses of the extraordinary session of the Legislature assembled July twenty-fifth Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight in pursuance of the proclamation of the Governor of the Commonwealth dated July twenty-second Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight and the supplements thereto

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives, is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 28, by inserting after the word "same" the words "the chairman to file an account with the Auditor General thirty days after the adjournment of the extraordinary session of the Legislature;" also page 4, line 12, by inserting after the word "same" the words "said chairman to file an account with the Auditor General within thirty days after the adjournment of the extraordinary session of the Legislature."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

STATEMENT BY MR. MOOMAW

Mr. MOOMAW asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have two matters which I briefly want to call to the attention of this membership at this time. One deals with the matter that the Attorney General's office several months ago recognized and took certain steps to eliminate, and that was in the matter of delinquent tax collectors throughout the State using the seal of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in taking over the delinquent head taxes in various political subdivisions, using that as a bluff and a threat to the effect that it was the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania attempting to collect those taxes.

I have before me here an exhibit of what has transpired since they were stopped using the seal of the Commonwealth. Instead of now using the seal of the Commonwealth they are doing something which is possibly legal but it most certainly leaves the impression with those who receive such a notice that it is the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania appearing on their notice, which is the notice for the payment of the head tax covering distraint and sale for taxes, and then in very large black letters they use the words "Commonwealth of Pennsylvania." This particular case that I have reference to shows you how far they will go to bludgeon some poor individual into paying the head tax.

This comes from my own borough, the Borough of Waynesboro, where one Don Wilkinson, who has been known to tramp around these Legislative halls for several sessions, in a lobbying expedition, has taken over the delinquent taxes of the Borough of Waynesboro, the school head taxes. In this particular case to which I have reference he sent one of these threatening notices to an old age assistance recipient, of Waynesboro, and I happen to know that the Borough of Waynesboro and the school board have for the past several years, and I presume the same thing exists in many other municipalities where a person is on relief, they will exonerate them from the head tax. This poor old lady received the sum of twenty dollars a month, and yet he sends such a notice out to this particular party on or about August 2nd, citing the amount of the head tax and adding $1.60 as the cost and the mileage of serving this notice, and they have written in a notation that these costs will be deducted if the bill is paid within five days. It has attached also a very large red glaring notice, stating that this remittance by mail of that tax shall be the only legitimate reason for your failure to appear in person.

I want to say this much, not only from the standpoint of beating or browbeating an old age assistance recipient or other forms of assistance recipients into paying these taxes, but I also want to say that I think the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should take steps through the Department of Justice to see that these statements and such printing are not allowed to be carried on in statements of any kind. I do not know whether other tax collectors are carrying on this same method as is the case with this man Don Wilkinson. I want to say that the people of my own community at least resent such efforts on the part of any delinquent tax collector.

The other matter that I want to present to the attention of the membership of this House is also of very grave importance. We here have been appropriating very large sums of money for various things. We are all faced with the necessity of raising revenues to pay those expenses. I have supported such revenue raising measures to cover these legitimate expenses of the State Government, but I want to call to the attention of the membership of the House the expense of this special grand jury investigation that has been going on in the city of Philadelphia. Now, no one is more interested in the elimination and eradication of vice and crime than I am. I feel that every member of this House is likewise interested, but when it comes to a purely political matter within a certain political subdivision conducting a grand jury investigation, then I think that that particular subdivision should pay the bill, because the people of my own county, and I feel the people of the counties, whom the rest of the members here represent, also feel that the counties carrying on a purely local investigation should pay their own expenses in those communities without saddling it on the people of the entire Commonwealth.

I am not saying or attempting to say that this Grand Jury is not doing a fine job. I hope they will bring about very good results. I am going to give you some expenses which the General Assembly, through the passage of legislation will be compelled to pay, or which will be paid out of appropriations already made. This statement comes from the Attorney General's office. It shows as of July 1st, when the Attorney General's office, I believe, stopped paying any more bills, there was a total expenditure from the Department of Justice of $30,885.94. In addition to that the investigation of Pennsylvania Motor Police spent $12,955.83. There were still unpaid bills in the amount of $11,793.72, making a total of $55,635.49, as of July 21st.

I am informed further that since July 21st the Pennsylvania Motor Police has been compelled to spend approximately $30,000 in addition to that amount, making the total expenditure of over $85,000, on something which is purely a local matter within the County of Philadelphia, and yet that is to be borne by the taxpayers of the entire State. This Grand Jury investigation has been going on for about a year, and I do not believe there is any indication today as to when that will end. I, for one, want to go on record as being opposed to the State of Pennsylvania paying for any more grand jury investigations, and I believe the same thing is true of the rest of the membership of this House.

Most certainly, if we hold an investigation of that kind, for instance if Franklin County should hold a grand jury investigation, the people of Franklin County will pay for it, and I also believe that if such a grand jury is conducted, like the one that is to be conducted in Dauphin County, such as proposed by Mr. Shelley, the people of Dauphin County will pay for that investigation. Most certainly, if the people of Dauphin County are paying for a grand jury investigation which may be brought forward in this particular instance, the Commonwealth has more right to pay for that than it has for one which is called to investigate crime and vice and which is a purely local matter in the County of Philadelphia. I trust every member of this House will recognize that and see to it that purely local matters are paid for out of purely local funds.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOOMAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, in the statement of the amount of money spent by the Pennsylvania Motor Police, in connection apparently with this investigation, does the gentleman from Franklin know whether this was in connection with the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board where they were investigating places that had licenses to sell liquor and were also running gambling devices?

Mr. MOOMAW. I do not, Mr. Speaker. I only know that these expenditures by the Pennsylvania Motor Police were incurred in their activities in connection with this special grand jury investigation.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, believe that the Attorney General has the right to supersede in a grand jury investigation, where there are two sides "in the powers that be" in a particular county, where the parties are investigating each other?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman kindly be a little more explicit?

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, know that the Mayor of Philadelphia was on one side of the investigation, and the District Attorney of Philadelphia County was on the other side of the investigation, and that the only way you could get anywhere was to have the Attorney General supersede?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I believe that there are practically two sides to any investigation on any question. I would say in all probability, if the Attorney General were to send a deputy or go himself into the County of Franklin, that that county would still pay for the grand jury investigation or the grand jury proceedings.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Franklin be of the opinion when those people of Franklin County have decided they were not going to pay any more and the investigation had gotten to a high spot where they were about to get results, does the gentleman from Franklin say that he would have the investigation stopped, when they were about to get results in an effort to eradicate vice and crime?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, the government of Franklin is a living corporation, never dies and if they incurred those expenses they would have to be paid eventually at any rate.

STATEMENT BY MR. TUMELTY

Mr. TUMELTY asked and received unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I have no doubt that the figures of the gentleman from Franklin, which he has produced, are proper figures. I happen to be rather closely connected with the grand jury investigation in Philadelphia. I know that on September 15, 1937 the grand jury investigation started, one day after the primary election. The District Attorney of Philadelphia came in and asked for a grand jury investigation, and on the same afternoon the Mayor of Philadelphia, who was not exactly on friendly terms with the District Attorney, came in and asked for another investigation. In order to do the thing properly it was necessary to have somebody who was not on either side, to step in, and for that reason the Attorney General stepped in, and took over the situation.

The city council of Philadelphia appropriated money up to a certain amount to continue the grand jury investigation, then they refused to appropriate any more money to continue the investigation. I believe, and I think he will find this to be true, if he examines the matter, wherever the State Police were working, they were working for the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, going into licensed taprooms, or whatever you would like to call them, to discover whether or not there were gambling devices in them. I believe that is the duty of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, and the State Police are the men who enforce their laws, and, therefore, they should step in and pay that expense.

I believe that vice and crime will never be eliminated, but I do believe that they can be more or less controlled. Philadelphia was running wild, and at the present time there has been indicted in Philadelphia almost every person of any prominence. The grand jury is doing a fine job and it would be a terrible thing to stop the few pennies that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is going to pass on to continue that investigation, especially when we have been spending so much money on other investigations. I believe that this investigation should continue in order to put the City of Brotherly Love back into a position where it will be a City of Brotherly Love and not a city of vice and crime.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Franklin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MOOMAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw whether or not be knows that the money which is now being spent by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to conduct a grand jury investigation in Philadelphia is being spent with the knowledge and consent of the Governor?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I have no definite knowledge concerning that particular point.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire from the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, whether he knows from what source this money is now being realized?

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I believe it is coming from the general appropriations made to those respective departments.

STATEMENT BY MR. WOODSIDE

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I have had information for some time, which I consider reliable, to the effect that the Governor was consulted and approved of the payment of the Commonwealth's share of the grand jury investigation in Philadelphia. That information goes further and shows that he approved the expenditure of this money out of the Motor License Fund. That money is not being spent for State policemen alone but it is being spent for attorneys and the various officials connected with the Grand Jury investigation of Philadelphia, and it is being spent with the consent and with the approval of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I would like to call to the attention of the members of the House, since this question has been raised by the other side, by a Democratic member, that that Grand Jury has been for some months investigating the civil officers behind closed doors, in order to bring about indictments against them. I want to call to the attention of the members of the House to the fact that the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has approved and consented to the expenditure of funds out of the Motor License Fund that ought to go on the highways of this Commonwealth, in order to have an investigation of civil officers behind closed doors in a grand jury investigation in the city of Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

STATEMENT BY MR. HERBERT B. COHEN

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, lest the record contain an incorrect report from the gentleman from Dauphin, I wish to call to the attention of the members of the House to the fact that there has just been introduced and reported out of Committee on Appropriations an appropriation in the sum of $42,000 to the Attorney General of the Commonwealth to take care of the expenses incurred by the Attorney General's office, paying the Deputies employed in the Grand Jury investigation conducted in the City of Philadelphia.

The reason I am calling this to your attention is due to the fact that the gentleman from Dauphin, I fell sure, by inadvertance, indicated that the counsel employed by the Attorney General's office in the conduct of the Grand Jury investigation were being paid for out of funds that should have been allocated for road purposes. The appropriation bill that has been introduced is a bill that will take care of the deficiency incurred by the Attorney General's office in making those payments out of the funds appropriated by this House to the Attorney General's office.

I might further state that in the general appropriation bill passed in the 1937 session that this House adequately debated the allocation of the funds that will be made by the Commonwealth in the payment of the criminal work and the road policing duties which were being done by the Motor Police. At that time and since that time there has been set up methods of accounting which will adequately protect and has adequately protected the Road Funds from any diversion. Investigations that are criminal in their nature, I understand from this, is not an imposition upon the Road Funds.

I am also calling to the attention of the members of the House that today, which is just within four years of a very momentous special session of October, 1934, in which this House agreed to divert the funds from the Highway Department to take care of relief. This House will remember and will recollect that at that time the majority, both in the House and in the Senate, was a Republican majority. This House will also remember and recollect that with the diversion of those funds by the Republican House and the Republican Senate and a Republican Governor that no adequate means for replenishing the diverted funds were passed or made by the Republican Administration at that time. But today, within four years after that sum, approximately $25,000,000, of a diversion from the Highway Funds, today, four years afterwards, during which time we have had a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate and a Democratic Administration, those funds, including all funds that have been diverted from the Motor Vehicle Funds and from the Highway Funds have been returned, and every diversion, every borrowing, every dipping into those funds that have been made by the Democratic House, Democratic Senate and a Democratic Administration, always had an appending bill to provide revenues whereby those diversions, those borrowings, could be replenished.

I call this to your attention at this particular time since the discussion has reached this point on the record, that as to the diversion of Highway Funds, the Democrats have to their credit the fact that they have replenished all the diversions that have been made by the Republican Administration; they have repaid all of the borrowings that have been made by the Democratic Administration, and today, for the first time in approximately the past six years, under the leadership of a Democratic Administration the Highway Funds have had restored to them all of the moneys taken under the Republican Administration and all of the moneys borrowed under the Democratic Administration.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 73, (Senate Bill No. 28), entitled:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein conferring and imposing upon the Governor and the Department of Welfare and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Subject to the provisions of this act all the property real and personal constituting any institution including the grounds annexed thereto erected or acquired and dedicated by any county city or institution district for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients is hereby transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Provided That where any such institution is used in part for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients and in part for the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients such buildings as are used only for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients together with the entire grounds of such institution any auxiliary structures or facilities comprising such institution and used to furnish in whole or in part such buildings aforesaid with light heat power water laundry kitchen sewage disposal and coal supply facilities and any farm connected with such institution are hereby transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania In the event that any such auxiliary structures and facilities were on the effective date of this act used in common at any such institution with respect to the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients and the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the Department of Welfare shall continue to furnish to the proper institution district such services at actual cost to the extent that such services may hereafter be required and used for the care in such institution of indigent persons who are not mental patients

Any property so transferred or vested shall if suitable be used as a State mental hospital or if unsuitable shall be used as provided in this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Welfare for the purpose of amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. SHAW asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Welfare to meet during the session of the House.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 52, Printer's No. 39 was passed over at the request of Mrs. HORTING.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 58, entitled:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines appointed pursuant to the joint resolution approved the fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws One Thousand Six Hundred Eighty-nine) entitled "A joint resolution creating a commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines defining its powers and duties and making an appropriation" together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 21, Printer's No. 55 was passed over at the request of Mr. OSTROFF.

RESOLUTION

RESOLUTION No. 10.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 10, Printer's No. 56.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, August, 1938.

Whereas, The space in the Capitol building at present occupied by the legislative branch of government is less than was originally allocated to that branch when the Capitol was first occupied thirty-four years ago and

Whereas The volume of bills introduced and the variety of subjects requiring consideration by the General Assembly have multiplied many times during the last thirty-four years and

Whereas The functions under the supervision of the Secretary of the Senate the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House are located on various floors of the Capitol not contiguous to the executive responsible for their administration thus making it impossible for the efficient and economical discharge of the duties of these officials and

Whereas The rooms at present available for the use of the Senate and House committees are inadequate both in number and equipment making it necessary to assign several committees to each room restricting the time each committee may occupy the room and thereby preventing orderly and adequate consideration of bills which have been referred to the committee resulting in the reporting out of bills in such form that amendments on the floor are necessary to a far greater degree than would have been had proper facilities been available to the various committees and

Whereas The Legislative Reference Bureau created to serve the Members of the Senate and House to aid in drafting legislation and the preparation of amendments to bills introduced to serve department heads in connection with legislation affecting their respective departments etc. is located outside the Capitol building

thus substantially reducing its ability to perform its present functions and making it quite impossible for it to discharge the added responsibility of assuring the accuracy of legislative bills therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That so much of the space of the Capitol building now occupied by the Treasury Department on the first floor and in the basement now occupied by the Treasury Department the Department of the Auditor General and the Pennsylvania Motor Police on the entrosole now occupied by the Bureau of Standards and other agencies of the Department of Internal Affairs on the third floor now occupied by the Department of Revenue as is indicated on the accompanying schedule be set aside for the use of the legislative branch of our government and its related agencies as soon as the Finance Building is available for occupancy by the departments which are to be housed therein and be it further

Resolved That the Department of Property and Supplies be authorized to have removed the vault now in Room 140 to have made such minor alterations as are essential to the purposes for which this room will be used to properly equip upon requisition from the proper officers this and other rooms for the purposes for which they are to be used and be it further

Resolved That the Legislative Reference Bureau be moved to and established in the Capitol building in quarters adequate to the performance of its present and added responsibilities

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION

MEMBERS INVITED TO ALLENTOWN FAIR

Messrs. SHOEMAKER, HOLSTROM and McDERMOTT offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 20, 1938.

Whereas, Today marks the opening of the Great Allentown Fair; and

Whereas, No man, woman or child can afford to miss the splendors, the attractions, the thrills of this great Fair; and

Whereas, The three Members from Lehigh County, namely—James J. McDermott, George R. Holstrom, William A. Shoemaker join with the Allentown Fair Association in cordially inviting you to attend the Fair as their guests. They assure each of you a grand time; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House and the officers connected therewith hereby accept the kind invitation of our colleagues, James J. McDermott, George R. Holstrom and William A. Shoemaker, Members from Lehigh County, and of the Allentown Fair Association, to attend the Allentown Fair; and be it further

Resolved, That the Members of this House wish to express to the Members from Lehigh and to the Allentown Fair Association their appreciation for the kind invitation to attend their Fair.

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. FINNERTY and SHEPARD offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 20, 1938.

Whereas, The great secret is out—in that one of the Members from Philadelphia is celebrating his birthday today; and

Whereas, This distinguished Member comes from one of the most cosmpolitan districts in the State, and without a doubt one of the most tolerant districts, where every man is a king; and

Whereas, This distinguished Member from Philadelphia works incessantly, and is never known to play, nevertheless he is held in the highest esteem and regard by every one who knows him; and

Whereas, On this occasion, so that his birthday shall not go by without note or celebration, his wife has come to Harrisburg to insure that at some time during this day she will be able to make it a little enjoyable, in this intention, the Members of this House join her; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House extend to their colleague, the Honorable Joseph Ominsky from Philadelphia, their heartiest congratulations, and wish that he shall have many, many more happy birthdays, and that they, on many occasions shall be able to join with his wife and his friends in wishing for him all good things; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk shall transmit to our friend, Joseph Ominsky, a copy of this resolution.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask that action on this resolution be deferred until the gentleman is in the House. I never believe in throwing flowers at anybody's back. I believe in putting them in front of him where he can smell them.

The SPEAKER. The Resolution will be laid aside until the member returns to the Hall of the House.

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. WALSH offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 20, 1938.

Whereas, the booming and zooming oration delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday evening, September 12, 1938 by the Honorable Leonard J. McGee, was so moving, that the members decided to look into the background of their distinguished colleague and thus it was discovered that he had had a birthday on August 27th which had not been properly marked by the passage of a House Resolution congratulating him upon his 35th birthday; hence without further adieu, it is hereby Resolved, That the House of Representatives herewith congratulate their colleague, the Honorable Leonard L. McGee upon his 35th birthday and wish him many, many years of continued success and happiness.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs, OSTROFF, SHEPARD, THOMPSON, McDEVITT, WOODSIDE and LEWIS,

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 18.

In the House of Representatives, September 13, 1938.

Whereas, International complications caused by internal strife, racial and religious intolerance, dictatorial avarice, and reversion to barbarian instincts jeopardized civilization and the peace of the world; and

Whereas, We in Pennsylvania have an historically noble heritage of religious freedom, civil liberties, racial equality, and democratic processes; and

Whereas, Pennsylvania, the Keystone State of the Union, is one of the thirteen original colonies who founded the magnificient democratic government which has placed the United States apart from all the nations of the world as an example of religious tolerance, civil liberty and a government of law and order; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania petition the President of the United States to call a conference of representatives of all the nations of the world to be held in Philadelphia as early as conveniently possible, where the nations of the world, in international conference met, may peacefully and amicably discuss the re-establishment of the fundamental principles of decency and civilization, and where the nations of the world may amicably reach mutual understandings which will give rise to a lasting peace.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, duly engrossed, be transmitted to the President of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. OSTROFF, from the Committee on Welfare, reported as committed, House Bill No. 75, (Senate Bill No. 27), entitled:

An Act to amend section two of the act approved the eleventh day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws four hundred eighty-seven) entitled "An act authorizing the Department of Welfare to determine the legal residence of indigent insane feeble-minded and epileptic persons returned to this Commonwealth by the authorities of another State or transferred from one poor district to another by the department and requiring he proper district to pay the costs of the care and treatment of such persons in accordance with the laws relating to indigent insane persons" by relieving poor districts of certain costs and placing such costs on the Commonwealth.

Mr. OSTROFF, from the Committee on Welfare, reported as committed, House Bill No. 76, (Senate Bill No. 29), entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the eleventh day of July one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (Pamphlet Laws nine hundred ninety-eight) entitled "An act for the prevention and treatment of mental diseases mental defect epilepsy and inebriety regulating the admission and commitment of mental patients to hospitals for mental diseases and institutions for mental defectives and epileptics governing the transfer discharge interstate rendition and deportation of mental patients providing for the payment by individuals counties or the Commonwealth of the cost of the admission care and discharge of mental patients and imposing penalties" as amended by further defining and limiting the institutions in which persons mentally ill may receive care and treatment relieving counties and poor districts of the payment of the cost of the admission care and discharge of mental patients with certain exceptions imposing such costs on the Commonwealth and repealing inconsistent laws.

Mr. LONG, from the Committee on Welfare, re-reported as amended, House Bill No. 73, (Senate Bill No. 28), entitled:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation of closing thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare and counties cities and institutions districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws.

RESOLUTION

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I understand we are about to adjourn and as the gentleman from Philadelphia has not appeared, and as we all want to have the opportunity of passing this Resolution on his birthday, I ask that it be taken up now.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 20, 1938.

Whereas, The great secret is out—in that one of the Members from Philadelphia is celebrating his birthday today; and

Whereas, This distinguished Member comes from one of the most cosmopolitan districts in the State, and without a doubt one of the most tolerant districts, where every man is a king; and

Whereas, This distinguished Member from Philadelphia works incessantly, and is never known to play, nevertheless he is held in the highest esteem and regard by every one who knows him; and

Whereas, On this occasion, so that his birthday shall not go by without note or celebration, his wife has come to Harrisburg to insure that at some time during this day she will be able to make it a little enpoyable, in this intention, the Members of this House join her; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House extend to their colleague, the Honorable Joseph Ominsky from Philadelphia, their heartiest congratulations, and wish that he shall have many, many more happy birthdays, and that they, on many occasions shall be able to join with his wife and his friends in wishing for him all good things; and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk shall transmit to our friend, Joseph Ominsky, a copy of this resolution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, it was unfortunate that Mr. Ominsky was not present when I presented the resolution. I feel that there is an important member of his home present, and so that the members will know that Mr. Ominsky is represented, I would ask the Speaker to request Mrs. Ominsky to stand up, so that the Members may see her as here representing her husband.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The public hearing before the Sub-committee on Mines and Mining, on House Bills 43, 44, 45 and 46, known as the Anthracite Mining Bills, will be held tomorrow, September 21, 1938, at 2:00 o'clock p. m. Eastern Standard Time, in the Forum of the Educational Building instead of in the Senate Caucus Room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. AUKERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, September 26, 1938, at 9:00 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 2:02 p. m.) the House adjourned until Monday, September 26, 1938, at 9:00 p. m.

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1938. No. 20.

SENATE

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

O our Father and our God, bless us as we gather here! But we are here tonight, not to say our prayers, but to pray and to seek counsel and communion with Thee. Our hearts are anxious. Thy beautiful heavens which declare Thy glory are obscured by ominous clouds. We know not if Thy morning sun may rise upon a world in cruel conflict. If it be possible, spare us from the devastations of the sword. God bless our President. Sustain him as he speaks for our millions, and for generations yet unborn. May we dedicate ourselves to the ministries of humanity. We would be peacemakers, we would be called the children of God.

But if war there be, after the hateful transactions of the shambles have ceased and din and smoke have passed, grant that it may be ours to see a United States of Europe, punished, repentant, chastened, free; a restored Ethiopia; a Spain no longer confused; a disillusioned Russia; a vindicated China; a Japan disenchanted from the "Sun of Heaven"; a sobered Italy; a Germany truly free; and that ancient people, to whom we are indebted for the oracles of God, no longer victims of scornful persecution because of race or creed.

By Thy Spirit and counsel lead us into paths of peace, a parliament of the Brotherhood of Man. We ask it in His name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, the former Attorney General of this Commonwealth, Charles J. Margiotti, who, some time ago, was dismissed as unworthy of the trust reposed in him by the Governor of Pennsylvania, appeared on Wednesday, September 21, as a witness before the House Investigating Committee.

Mr. Margiotti testified that the Senator from Philadelphia who now addresses the Chair, had told him that Matthew McCloskey of Philadelphia had passed around $1,000 bills to certain members of this body at an outing of Democratic Senators on the farm of Senator Shapiro in the Summer of 1937.

Mr. President, I wish it written indelibly into the records of this body that this statement of Charles J. Margiotti is false in every respect—an accusation from a man in whom all sense of honor is dead—a man who has gone mad in his own confusion.

It must be evident to all that Charles J. Margiotti has gone insane; that a mind distorted by the sting of defeat, hungry for revenge, is attempting to shanghai the truth and turn it to his wicked ends.

Charles J. Margiotti stands among us today a knave and political adventurer, a new Baron Munchausen, varnishing nonsense with a tissue of obvious falsehood, and I say here to Margiotti tonight, that while sin has many tools, a lie is the handle that fits them all.

There is no pain which cuts a man's heart like that which comes with destruction of faith in an old friend, and I say to this body tonight that I once had great affection for this man. In the early stages of his candidacy for Governor of this great Commonwealth his hope was my hope.

Then came the day that it became my duty to choose between my friendship for Charles J. Margiotti and my loyalty to my party, and my State. You know my decision. Out of it grew the bitterness which reached the revengeful heights you have just witnessed in the fantastic flight of Margiotti's imagination on Wednesday, last week—the new Margiotti—playing fast and loose with the truth.

I say to you, gentlemen, that this duplicity is without equal in the records of this Commonwealth. I say to you that Margiotti lies. I say to you that no word has ever crossed my lips that could even be remotely construed as having the slightest connection to this testimony given by Charles J. Margiotti, as God is my Judge.

I turn to "Paradise Lost" to remind Charles J. Margiotti that when "the scourge inexorable and the torturing hour calls us to penance" he must go on his knees through the limitless years of eternity to find forgiveness for his damnable effort to destroy honorable men.

Let me repeat that Charles J. Margiotti has gone mad in his confusion; has abandoned truth and courage, to assume the role of a driveling idiot wallowing in the quicksands of deceit.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I object to those remarks of the Senator from Philadelphia being posted on the records.

The PRESIDENT. The objection will not keep the remarks from going on the records. The Senator from Cambria has a perfect right to rise to a point of personal privilege and answer the Senator from Philadelphia if he cares to.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I move that the remarks made by the Senator from Philadelphia be expunged from the records.

The PRESIDENT. In the opinion of the Chair the motion is not in order. The Senator from Philadelphia has the right of personal privilege to address the Senate.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WOODWARD read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 55 entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to Article nine, Section eight, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

EMPLOYE OF THE SENATE

Mr. RICE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, September 26, 1938.

Resolved, That Hugh Coll be elected Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, vice Thomas Kennedy, Jr., resigned.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. KILGALLEN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, September 26, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 3, 1938, at 9 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 3, 1938, at 9 o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, on the 16th day of August, 1938, I introduced a resolution requesting information relative to the aeroplane used by Governor Earle on his trip to Mexico and South America. I would like to ask the Senator if he is not the chairman of the Committee on Aeronautics.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I am the Chairman of the Committee on Aeronautics.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if he has yet called a meeting to consider that resolution.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I have not yet called a meeting of the Committee on Aeronautics for the purpose of studying that resolution.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, does the Senator intend to call a meeting?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I have been very busy studying the topography of this State to see the places that would be most logical for airports and have really not given any attention to this resolution. But I assure the Senator from Tioga I will give it thought.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, will the Senator advise the Senate when he will call the Committee on Aeronautics to consider this resolution?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I will do my best to call it in the very near future.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, can the Senator be a little more definite?

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, well, I would like to but I have not looked at my calendar and my memorandum book is not on my desk. But I will be glad to inform the Senator from Tioga as to the time and place where we will have the meeting.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, very affably.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator say whether it is not true that when he made his first inquiry to the Revenue Department concerning the departure of the Governor to Mexico, that he was informed by that department that the Governor of Pennsylvania was paying the salary of the pilot, that the Governor of Pennsylvania was paying for the use of the plane and that the Governor of Pennsylvania had taken full responsibility for all repairs and for all uses and costs of gasoline and transportation?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I was not so informed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator say whether it is not true that he spoke to Mr. Krekstein of the Revenue Department who gave him that information?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, before this resolution was introduced I went to the Auditor General's office and there was advised that they knew nothing about this plane. I then, through their cooperation, got in touch with the Revenue Department. With whom I spoke I do not know. Finally they said that it was all in the hands of the State Police, that the aeroplane had been bought out of motor license money and the State Police had complete charge of this aeroplane. So then I got in touch with Mr. Foote of the State Police and he told me that he supposed that probably the Governor would pay the State Police for the use of the plane but that no definite arrangements had been made.

I then asked him about the expense of the plane and he said "well, I presume the Governor will pay the expenses." I asked him if there was a definite contract to that effect but he said it was just a conversation with the Governor in which the Governor expressed the opinion that the expense of such a trip should be so arranged.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it not true that he was informed by the same department that the pilot was on his vacation at that time and was not in the employ of the Commonwealth?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I was not. I was informed that the pilot had been given a leave of absence to pilot the Governor down to Mexico. Further than that they said nothing at the time of the Governor finding it necessary to investigate the police system in Mexico.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I simply want to register my opinion that I would have no objection if it had been a one way trip. My only objection is that it was a round trip.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I rise to remark that I believe that the attitude of some of the gentlemen here is as much up in the air as the Governor was.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 20 as follows:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend Sections one hundred eight, five hundred six, five hundred seven, eight hundred thirteen, eight hundred fourteen, and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws, three hundred nine), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," as amended, by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts; redefining indebtedness of school districts; empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation; increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors; and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I would like to call the attention of the Senate to some far-reaching provisions of this bill. Down in the extreme eastern portion of Delaware County there is a small borough by the name of Millbourne Borough. They have no school; they have no school teachers. The first eight grades are educated in the schools of East Lansdowne. High school education is received by sending the pupils to the high school of Lansdowne Borough for which a substantial tuition is paid. However, the tax rate is only four mills in this borough. Under this act this borough will be forced to merge with other school districts and the tax rate will be increased from four to twenty mills. For instance, in the only store in the borough—quite a large store—it is estimated that taxes on that store alone will be increased $4500. It seems to me that this is simply a matter of home rule and the Legislature has no right to dictate to any local school district. I think that the bill should be voted down.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 40, go over in order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation for the expenses of the Joint Legislative Commission investigating certain courts of this Commonwealth and created by Joint Resolution No. 11 approved the ninth day of March one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven

For the State of New Jersey whenever a vacancy in the office of commissioner shall occur such vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term by the Legislature If the Legislature shall not be in session when the vacancy occurs such vacancy shall be filled by the Governor and such appointee shall hold office until the Legislature convenes

All commissioners shall continue to hold office after the expiration of the terms for which they are appointed or elected unless and until their respective successors are appointed and qualified but no period during which any commissioner shall hold over shall be deemed to be an extension of his term of office for the purpose of computing the date on which his successor's term expires

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 49, as follows:

HOUSE MESSAGE

JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE TO ASCERTAIN AND CONCILIATE THE VIEWS OF EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYES ON WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LEGISLATION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House had concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, September 13, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor in Section 2 of his Second Supplemental Proclamation of the twenty-fifth day of July, 1938, designated as one of the subjects for the consideration the amending of Article 2 of the Workmen's Compensation Act (Act of June 2, 1915, P. L. 736, as reenacted, amended, or further amended by Act of June 4, 1937, P. L. 1552), and

Whereas, House Bill No. 17, Senate Bill No. 31 covering this subject has been introduced and is now on passage through the Assembly, and

Whereas, It is the consensus of opinion of men adequately informed that this subject should be thoroughly investigated with a view of ascertaining whether legislative action can be employed to conciliate the views of employers and employees and thereby promote the general welfare, and

Whereas, A thorough investigation can only be made by bringing together representatives of the parties affected, now be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House who shall constitute a committee to bring together such representatives of Labor and Industry and other interested parties as wish to be heard, to affect a conciliation among them and make a report of its activities, findings and recommendations to the next General Session.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 3, 1938, at 9 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 3, 1938, at 9 o'clock.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Cambria, Mr. Haluska, will state his point of order.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, a short while ago I offered a motion to expunge from the record of this Senate certain unwarranted remarks made by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. DiSilvestro, concerning the Honorable Charles J. Margiotti, former Attorney General. The Chair declared my motion to be out of order before opportunity was had for any of my colleagues to second the motion. I wish in regard to that motion to call the Chair's attention to Section 71 of "Jefferson's Manual" where such motions are declared to be in order, and call the Chair's attention to that so that motions of this kind may receive just consideration in the future.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is familiar with the passage referred to but the Chair is also familiar with the point in parliamentary law that no motion is acceptable unless seconded.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, my remarks were to the effect that none of my colleagues had an opportunity to second that motion.

The PRESIDENT. It is not the fault of the Chair that there was no second for the motion.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KILGALLEN from the Committee on Education reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 39, entitled:

An Act to amend and re-enact Section five hundred and twenty-four of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws, three hundred nine) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof; that are or may be inconsistent therewith," as amended by limiting and prescribing the method of fixing the levy of school taxes in school districts of the first class.

Mr. SONES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SONES from the Committee on Highways reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 53, (House Bill No. 10), entitled:

An Act authorizing the Secretary of Highways to change the location of State Highway routes in cities of the first class, constituting part of the approaches to interstate bridges, including terminal points thereof, authorizing the abandonment of such relocated sections of State highways, authorizing the Secretary of Highways to enter into agreements with Cities of the First Class, Interstate Joint Commissions, persons, associations and corporations for the sharing of the cost exclusive of property damages of widening streets and relocating highways, forming part of the State highway system and constituting approaches to interstate bridges, authorizing Cities of the First Class, Interstate Joint Commissions, persons, associations and corporations to enter into agreements with each other for the sharing of the cost of property damages, direct and not merely consequential thereto in connection with the widening of said streets and relocating said highways and with the Secretary of Highways and each other for the sharing of the cost of widening said streets and relocating said highways exclusive of property damages and making an appropriation.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KUNKEL from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 47, (House Bill No. 40), entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures of the commission to make a thorough and impartial investigation into the operation of the oil industry in this Commonwealth, appointed pursuant to the joint resolution, approved the twenty-ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, (P. L. 540), entitled "A joint resolution authorizing the appointment of a commission to make a thorough and impartial investigation into the operation of the oil industry in this Commonwealth with special reference to the adequate, efficient and economical supplying of lubricating oils and gasoline to the people of this Commonwealth; conferring upon the commission full power to issue subpoenas; requiring the commission to make a report of its findings to the Governor, together with its recommendations as to such regulatory legislation as may be needed to correct any abuses and evils connected with such industry which are prejudicial to the interests of the citizens of this Commonwealth; authorizing the commission to employ counsel and employes; and making an appropriation," and its amendment.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, at the special session of 1936, during the last week of November, we passed the Unemployment Compensation Bill. One of the features of that Unemployment Compensation Bill was the matter of civil service examinations.

I remember distinctly preparing an amendment striking out preliminary qualifications for applicants desiring to take the examination for civil service jobs under that Act. I find now, after almost a year of administration of this Act, that the Compensation Board through its Civil Service agency has set up its own preliminary qualifying standards, which is in direct opposition to the desires of the Legislature. I have before me a letter I have received this evening from one of my constituents who has been working for this Board for the past six months and presumably doing her work well. This letter, signed by one known as Melvin L. Jacobs, Director of Civil Service, states that:

"As a result of this decision you remain ineligible for employment with the Unemployment Compensation Division and Employment Service for this position.

"The basis for this decision is that you lack the required (3) years of special experience for Position 1416—Junior Interviewer.

"Special experience is defined as "full-time paid employment with the last ten (10) years in work definitely providing familiarity with employment problems and practices, such as are entailed in establishments and organizations in industrial, commercial, professional and labor fields."

I believe that to be a maladministration of the Act of 1936. I believe that the Legislature knew what it wanted when it passed the bill. I believe that the Legislature is entitled to have the legislation that is passed administered according to the letter of the law. I find in this act the very amendment that I provided. It says, "No applicant shall be required to be possessed of any scholastic education or training in order to be permitted to take any competitive examinations or to be appointed to any position."

I find that this Unemployment Compensation Board is ruling a good many worthy citizens of Pennsylvania who did not have the opportunity of attending some special social service school, out of employment although their experiences while they have been working for the Board, have qualified them for the jobs that they took examinations for. I claim that if a person takes an examination and passes it, anything or any duties that they have performed in the past have nothing to do with their present status.

This is supposed to be a democratic government. If preliminary qualifications were required of the Senators and the House members in this particular body I know that I for one would not be serving here. I never went to college and neither did I have any opportunity to go to high school but I prepared myself the best I could at home with the books I could read and get into my hands at night by studying them at home.

I do not think it is fair to the many citizens of this State who have not had the opportunity to attend some college that they should be ruled out of employment in any field of endeavor.

Tomorrow I intend to introduce in this body a resolution—I did not have time to do it tonight but I will do it tomorrow—that all rules and regulations that this Board has made pertaining to employment under the Civil Service status of the Unemployment Compensation Board will be ruled out and that any person who takes the examination and qualifies will be given the job according to their status on their examination.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Westmoreland repeat again the name of the gentleman that signed the letter that has been read into the record?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, the name is Melvin L. Jacobs, Director of Civil Service. I may add for the information of the Senator from Fayette County, that I have not addressed this body without first taking the matter up with this particular person and the Board asking them to reconsider their action not only in this case but in other cases in order that decent honorable citizens that have taken the examination and passed it may have the right to employment.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Westmoreland know whether a State employee here by the name of Zappola is connected with that setup?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, if I remember rightly the same disease is applied to the Public Assistance Board and Mr. Zappola handles that end of it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the reason I made that inquiry is because I have information that this man Zappola connected either with Unemployment, or whatever he is around this Capitol, is doing that same thing, requiring these preliminary qualifications when this Senate and the House of Representatives enacted a law which excluded those qualifications.

RECESS

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for five minutes.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SECRETARY

The Committee on Appropriations will meet immediately in Room 265.

Immediately following, the Committee on Executive Nominations will meet in the same room.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHAPIRO from the Committee on Appropriations reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 57, (House Bill No. 62), entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee to investigate governmental costs of Philadelphia, Concurrent Resolution Number Two, approved the thirteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws two thousand eight hundred sixty-nine) which committee was provided with an appropriation under Appropriation Act Number Nine A entitled, "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number One hundred two approved January thirteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 73, (Senate Bill No. 28), entitled:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 All buildings acquired or erected by any county city or institution district for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients the personal property within such buildings or incidental thereto and any and all other grounds and lands connected therewith or annexed thereto are hereby transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except that where any such buildings for mental patients are operated in conjunction with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the buildings used for the care of such persons the land actually occupied by such buildings the lands or yards presently set apart for the use of the indigent persons cared for in such buildings and the lands necessary for ingress and egress thereto and therefrom shall not be deemed to be hereby transferred but shall remain vested in the county city or institution district as theretofore

Where any lands and property so transferred are presently used by any institution district as a farm and woodlands in connection with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor shall set apart and reconvey to the institution district through deed executed by the Secretary of Property and Supplies of the Commonwealth so much of such ground as the ratio of indigent persons bears to the total patient population of the institution as shall be determined by the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth The metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed shall be determined by agreement between the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the institution district In case the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the institution district cannot agree as to the metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed to the institution district the matter shall be laid before the court of common pleas of the county where the lands are located by petition of either the Secretary of Welfare of the Commonwealth or the authorities in charge of the institution district which court after hearing all parties in interest on such notice as it shall direct shall determine the metes and bounds of the lands which shall be conveyed to the institution district and shall enter an order accordingly The action of the court shall be final

Where auxiliary structures and facilities furnishing light heat power water laundry kitchen sewage treatment services and coal supply are so transferred to the Commonwealth which were theretofore used in common for the buildings devoted to mental patients and also the buildings devoted to indigent persons the Commonwealth shall thereafter continue to furnish the proper institution district with such services at the actual cost thereof to the extent the same may hereafter be requested by the institution district

Any property so transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth shall if found suitable in accordance with this act be thereafter used as a State mental hospital but if such property shall within one year thereafter be found unsuitable for such purpose or shall within one year after transfer to and used by the Commonwealth as a State mental hospital be thereafter abondoned by the Commonwealth as such a hospital before substantial improvements thereto have been made then in either event such building lands and personal property so transferred to the Commonwealth shall absolutely revert to and vest in the county city or institution district from which transferred and the Commonwealth shall have no further claim or title thereto

The words "substantial improvements" as used in this section shall be construed to mean capital investments involving an expenditure of at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000)

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifth to the seventh sections inclusive were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 5 When the Commonwealth through the Department of Welfare assumes the control and management of any institution subject to this act the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of any such institution shall thereupon become employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare

Section 6 In the event it shall be determined that any institution subject to this act shall be closed the Department of Welfare shall take charge of such institution and the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of such institution shall thereupon become the employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare when their services are no longer required No new patients shall be admitted to any such institution after the date specified for its closing The Department of Welfare shall as soon as practicable transfer the patients in such institution to any other State mental hospital including any institution transferred to and being operated by the Commonwealth under this act as a State mental institution As far as practicable the department shall transfer such patients to such State mental hospital nearest to the locality in which the institution to be closed is located After the patients in such institution are transferred therefrom the Department of Welfare shall with the approval of the Governor turn the institution and its grounds over to the Department of Property and Supplies for use for any other State purpose as may be deemed necessary and advisable by the Governor unless such institution under the provisions of section one of this act would revert to a county city or institution district in which event such institution shall be turned over to the proper authorities thereof and shall thereafter be used for such purposes not inconsistent with this act as the county city or institution district may determine

Section 7 After the effective date of this act and until the management and operation of a particular institution is formally assumed by the Department of Welfare or until a particular institution is closed under the provisions of this act but not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine the county city or institution district engaged in the operation and management of that institution shall continue to bear the expense of administering and operating the institution and the Commonwealth shall contribute towards the expense of indigent patients therein to the same extent and in the same manner as pertained under existing laws on the effective date of this act

The eighth section was read as follows:

Section 8 (a) All obligations incurred by reason of the erection acquisition or maintenance of a mental institution by the county city or institution district which are outstanding on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or shall order such institution closed shall remain the obligations of such county city or institution district and shall be paid in the same manner as though said operation and management still remained in said county city or institution district For the payment of such obligations the proper authorities of such county city or institution district shall continue to have the power to levy and collect taxes as if control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city or institution district

(b) All amounts due any county city or institution district for the care of any mental patient in any institution transferred to the Commonwealth by this act that have accrued and remain unpaid on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or the date such institution is closed may be collected by the county city or institution district in the same manner and to the same extent as if the control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city or institution district

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 8, page 11, line 27 by striking out after the word "manner" and before the word "as" the following: "[and to the same extent]"

Amend section 8, page 11, line 29 by inserting at the end of the line the following: "Provided however That where there is a claim against the estate of any such mental patient both on behalf of the Commonwealth and on behalf of any county city or institution district and there is not sufficient in the estate to pay the claim in full the same shall be paid pro rata to the Commonwealth and the county city or institution district in the proportion of the amount of maintenance legally recoverable by each"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The ninth and tenth sections and the preamble were separately read and agreed to a follows:

Section 9 The following acts and parts of acts are hereby repealed

The act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven (Pamphlet Laws eighty-three) entitled "An act to provide for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions" as amended

The act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred nine (Pamphlet Laws five hundred thirty-five) entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to provide for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions' approved May twenty-five one thousand eight hundred ninety seven increasing the weekly sum therein authorized to be paid from one dollar and fifty cents to two dollars"

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 10 Section nine of this act shall become effective on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine and in all other respects this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

Whereas experience has proven that the care and maintenance of indigent mentally ill persons mental defectives and epileptics should be centralized in the State Government in order to insure their proper and uniform care maintenance custody safety and welfare and

Whereas complete care for such persons in institutions operated exclusively by the State Government will effect great economies for municipal subdivisions

The title was read as follows:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend page 1, line 7 of the title, by inserting after the word "therein" the following: "including the collection of maintenance in certain cases"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 52, Printer's No. 39 was passed over at the request of Mrs. HORTING.

There being no objection House Bill No. 21, Printer's No. 55, was passed over at the request of Mr. LEWIS.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 62, entitled:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee to investigate governmental costs of Philadelphia Concurrent Resolution Number Two approved the thirteenth day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws two thousand eight hundred sixty-nine) which committee was provided with an appropriation under Appropriation Act Number Nine A entitled "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number One hundred two approved January thirteenth one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven" together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEVY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, whether the purpose of this act is not to ratify, confirm and make valid the acts and expenditures of the joint legislative committee to investigate the cost of the government of Philadelphia.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the gentleman from Philadelphia, that is exactly what the bill says.

Mr. McDEVITT. May I ask the gentleman, from Philadelphia, what the expenses were?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the money was appropriated by the Legislature in 1937.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, has there been any report of the expenses.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, there has been, during the session of 1937.

Mr. McDEVITT. How much was that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the figures handy.

Mr. McDEVITT. Does the gentleman know who does, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, a report was filed with the Chief Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman what has been spent since that report was filed.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I think there have been no additional expenditures since that report was rendered.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, what remains unpaid?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I don't believe there are any unpaid bills.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he has any objection to passing this bill over until such time as the House may have some information as to just how much money was spent, what it was spent for and how much the unpaid debts are.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I don't believe that that is at all necessary at the present time, in view of the fact that the bill merely ratifies and validates the committee appointed by the 1937 session of the Legislature, as we have done with another bill on the floor of this House at this special session. We are not so much concerned with expenses, in view of the fact that this bill does not provide for an additional appropriation. We are not asking for any money in this bill, we are simply asking for a validating act. That is all we particularly care about.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, in view of the situation and the feeling that this House should have this information before ratifying the act of any committee, I move that the bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McDevitt.

This bill, as has been stated by Mr. Levy does not make any further appropriation. The appropriation for this committee in 1937 was made by an act of the Legislature and there was some thought in the minds of the members of the committee and the minds of the members of other committees that in view of the fact that the question had been raised and not passed upon by the Supreme Court as to whether a joint committee created by resolution had the power to expend the money appropriated for it and felt that this would be protective legislation against some wicked person's going ahead and getting judgment against the members of the committee for such expenditures of money.

I therefore oppose the motion of the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEWIS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, whether or not he was on the committee?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I was.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman state how much money was spent.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, there is an unexpended balance of roughly $8,500, with all bills which have been rendered to the committee paid.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Philadelphia state how much was spent.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, $8,500 from $25,000, if my calculation is correct, amounts to an expenditure of about $17,000.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, and there are no unpaid bills?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, there are no unpaid bills that have been rendered to the committee. Any unpaid that there might be, will be for stenographic services not completed, which will only amount to a small item of expense. The testimony of various hearings held has been paid for.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, has an itemized account of those expenditures ever been filed.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, not an itemized account, but the amount of the total expenditures of the committee up until the end of May, 1938 was filed with the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House. There is now being prepared by the committee an itemized account of all expenditures up until the end of the last hearings held by the committee.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, would it not be a good idea to have those itemized expenditures before we vote upon ratifying the acts of the committee as well as this expenditure.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I do not agree with the gentleman, for the simple reason that we are not asking you to approve the money we spent. We feel you gave us that appropriation. We are only bringing into question the fact that a joint resolution created this committee, and the question might be raised as was done with the Oil Commission before the Supreme Court, as to whether we had the right, by joint resolution, to create such a commission, although it has been done since time immemorial as in this case. So many of our acts have found, by so many who don't agree with us, unconstitutional, and this is a little bit of protective legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. BROWN. I believe the Department of Justice of the Commonwealth is the proper agency to make an investigation of gambling and I will support any reasonable laws to correct such evils. It is my opinion that the appropriation of $25,000 as provided for in House Bill No. 65, Printer's No. 59, is unwarranted until the Department of Justice has indicated its inability to act.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE BILLS FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bills numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 15 (HOUSE BILL No. 78).

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest on county, city (except city of the first class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

By Mr. THOMAS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 19

In the House of Representatives, September 26, 1938.

Whereas, Act No. 344, aprpoved the fifth day of June, 1937, P. L. 1656, imposed a tax upon chain stores and theatres, and

Whereas, The taxes to be received by the Commonwealth upon the so-called Chain Store Tax Act were to be paid into the State Treasury, and credited to the State School Fund, and

Whereas, Under Act No. 345, approved the fifth day of June 1937, P. L. 1660, the abovementioned act was supplemented and under the provisions of which the sum credited to the State School Fund arising out of the chain store tax was to be used for increasing the salaries of teachers in the fourth class school districts of this Commonwealth, and

Whereas, Subsequent to the approval of the two abovementioned acts, the constitutionality of the first act was attacked, and is now before the Dauphin County Court for determination, and

Whereas, The teachers salary of fourth class school districts are being fixed for the 1938-1939 school year, it is highly desirable that the constitutionality of Act No. 344, imposing the State chain store tax shall be determined at the earliest possible moment, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall at the earliest possible moment render its opinion as to the constitutionality of Act No. 344, approved the fifth day of June, 1937, P. L. 1656, so that the school boards in fourth class school districts shall know the extent of their responsibilities for the ensuing school year, and that the many school teachers in such fourth class school districts shall know the amount of compensation which they may be expected to receive for the said school year, and that chain store corporations liable under the provisions of the act for the payment of the chain store tax may pay the amount due before it reaches a burdensome total due to accumulations of unpaid taxes.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. HERING and SCANLON.

HOUSE BILL No. 81.

An Act to amend sections two, three, four and seven of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 74), entitled, "An act relating to baseball and football on Sunday; prohibiting baseball and football on Sunday during certain hours, and also during certain other hours unless the electors of a municipality are in favor of the same and, in certain cases, a license has first been secured from the municipal authorities; providing for referendums to ascertain the will of the electors, and for the enactment and repeal of licensing ordinances and resolutions in accordance therewith; providing penalties; and repealing inconsistent laws," by further regulating the playing of baseball and football on Sunday.

Referred to the Committee on Law and Order.

RESOLUTIONS

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. WELLIVER offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 26, 1938.

Whereas, Lloyd W. Welliver, has just received word that his old colleague, the Honorable D. H. Patterson passed away on May 2, 1938, at the age of ninety-three years, five months. The Honorable D. H. Patterson was a member of this House for the years 1895 and 1896 having been elected from Fulton County; it is therefore

Resolved, that this House of Representatives hereby expresses its deep sympathy to the surviving members of the family of the deceased, and it is further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

COMMENDING PRESIDENT ON URGING PEACE

Mr. JAMES W. PATTERSON offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 26, 1938.

Whereas, The present unsettled conditions in central Europe give rise to rumors and threats of wars and

Whereas, In these perturbed and trying times His Excellency, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, has exercised his good offices in pleading with the governments of the nations which are at difference in order that world peace may be preserved and divergent opinions reconciled without recourse to arms, and

Whereas, By this action the President has performed a noteworthy service to all the peoples of the earth, now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives heartily commends the President's action and requests him, at his discretion, to continue to exercise his influence to the end that peace may be established among all nations; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1938. No. 21.

SENATE

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1938.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, Chaplain of the House of Representatives, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we pray that Thou would create in us clean hearts and pure minds, and renew within us the right spirit, that we may present ourselves unto Thee in the true likeness of Thee. May what we say and do, be said and done to Thy honor and Thy glory. From all corners of the world we are hearing voices. These voices are uttering words of discord, and we pause to listen to Thy voice. Speak Thou then words of comfort to this greatly troubled world. We ask Thy blessings upon our Commonwealth, blessings that may be felt by all citizens, the rich and the poor, the strong and the weak, the good and the bad, the hopeful and the hopeless.

In Christ's name we do pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR HOUSE BILL NO. 8

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read considered and agreed to, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 27, 1938.

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That House Bill No. 8, Printer's No. 44, entitled:

"An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects."

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of the amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION ENDORSING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ACTION RELATIVE TO EUROPEAN CRISIS

Mr. KILGALLEN offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, the march of events in the older countries has brought the horrible threat of war to central Europe, and

Whereas, His Excellency, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, has dispatched to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia a plea for the preservation of peace, and

Whereas, in his message the President has in no way departed from the fixed tradition and opinion of our people that the countries of the old world have problems which are remote to American judgment, and

Whereas, by his action the President has performed a noteworthy service to all the peoples of the earth. Now therefore be it resolved, that the Senate of Pennsylvania approves the President's action and requests him to continue to use the influence of his high office toward the preservation of peace among all nations and, be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States by the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to immediate consideration?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I object.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDENT. A request has been made for the Secretary to again read the resolution for the information of the Senate.

The resolution was accordingly read.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

REQUEST TO MAKE RESOLUTION SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I request that the Senate make this a matter of special order of business one-half an hour from now. I do this at the request of my colleague from Tioga, Senator Owlett.

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, in offering this resolution I had no thought that it would result in a hesitation on the part of any Senator on this floor toward giving his full support to it. We all know that the peacemakers are blessed and shall inherit the kingdom of Heaven. But in all of us there is some restraint in our mind lest the word of a peacemaker lead to some other word and then to some other word and then to some other word until the final result is confusing.

We also know that here in America we have the universal opinion of our people that we should stay remote from the troubles of other people. But, gentlemen of the Senate, in the old world today there are troubled lands and great fears and if the President of our nation can go far enough on the road but not too far to help in a bad situation then this Senate ought to support him and I say to you that any Senator who has read the message of the President must be convinced that the President of the United States has done just that; that at the right time he has said the right words and he has said no more than the right words. Any Senator here can safely and properly vote for this resolution.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I wish to explain to the Senate and to the Chair the reason that I objected to immediate consideration of this resolution. In the first place we could not hear it when it was first read. None of us have seen it and a momentous problem such as is facing the world today in the threat of a general European war is such that I do not think that any Senator ought to vote on a resolution regardless of whether it may be anything or not until he at least has a chance to read the resolution and to understand its full meaning. I personally do not propose to vote on any resolution touching on a matter as far reaching as this without having a chance to read the resolution myself, and that was my reason for objecting.

I suggested to the Senator from Centre that the matter be held up for a half an hour in order that we might read the resolution. It may be very fine and it may not be. There is one thing certain—the American people do not propose to have this country get into a European war and personally I do not propose to vote for any resolution that inferentially, directly or indirectly, commits or upholds the committing of our government to mixing in the European situation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, if I understand the resolution rightly it puts the stamp of approval upon the action taken by the President. If it does that and that only I intend to vote for it. However I cannot help but think of the danger of the President of the United States making any suggestions to a crazy mob-ruled crowd over in Europe who have already planned and debated this thing to the point where they are going to fight—there is no question about it. What would be the answer if we approved any interference by our President if they in turn suggested that the President of the United States send over a commission to sit in on the deliberations looking toward a peaceful solution of the problems? If we allow and grant the President of the United States our permission as representatives of the people of Pennsylvania to interfere and if this resolution supports him in appointing a commission to go to Europe and over there, with their slick maneuvering, they get this commission to make some proposition to the countries that are involved in this crisis and after the commission has given its approval to some sort of a compromise, it is accepted for a period of a few hours and then thrown overboard by the participants in this argument, before the thing winds up we the people of the United States who have no intentions whatsoever of being mixed up in the European war will probably be tied down to the fact that we sent somebody over to Europe interfering with their business.

I believe in the Monroe Doctrine and I believe in America for the Americans. If this resolution only accepts that which he has done and does not give him any permission in any way to go any further, I will vote for it. If it goes any further than that, count me out.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair might point out that while he has been very tolerant the discussion of international relations under this motion is not in order. The motion is to suspend.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would like to know if there is any objection to my request to make this a special order of business a half an hour from now?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would suggest that you withdraw your motion and that we temporarily lay the resolution on the table.

MOTION WITHDRAWN

RESOLUTION LAID ON THE TABLE

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I withdraw the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Does the seconder, the Senator from Allegheny, agree to withdraw his second?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would suggest also that with the stenographic force that we have here, because it is not a long resolution, that copies of the resolution could be made by the stenographers, and if anyone is in doubt as to the import of the resolution that can be cleared up before action is taken on it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I heard the resolution read and have tried to permit the contents to impress themselves upon my mind. The only objection that I see with the resolution is that it infers or presumes that every member of this Senate has read the message of the President. I think that in a matter of this kind, which as already stated by the Senator from Westmoreland and the Senator from Tioga, is a very serious one, I think that probably if the message of the President would be attached to the resolution so that those of us who have not read it might know what it is, we might be able to vote intelligently upon the resolution.

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, I understand very well the sentiments that the different Senators have expressed, and I respect them. I do understand the danger that may come to our country through an undue influence with other countries, but certainly when the world stands on the brink of war, we can do some little thing to prevent that war, and in the recess which I suppose is now going to occur, I will be very glad to show the written resolution to any of the Senators who want to discuss it. Then let us come back in a half an hour and see what we want to do about it.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I might say that the only reason that I made this motion to suspend the rule and which if it becomes necessary to do so, I will make again approximately a half an hour from now, is because this Senate will likely adjourn this afternoon, which means that the resolution cannot be up for action until next Monday night. In the meantime this deadline as to peace or war expires at midnight September 30th, and the decisions as to peace or war will be made before this Senate reconvenes next week.

I don't think it is out of place at all for this Senate to express, as it proposes to do, the wish of a large portion of the people of this state that the President know two things which we feel the resolution contains. First, that the sentiment of the American people is for peace, and the sentiment of the people of Pennsylvania is for peace, and in the second place that the sentiment of the people of Pennsylvania is against participating to any other degree than is absolutely necessary in the European controversy. If we are to be of any help in this situation, if we are to be of any assistance to the President of the United States, if we are to make any expression as representatives of the people of Pennsylvania, we must do that today, Mr. President, and not wait until next Monday night, for it to be of any value to the President.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Centre believe that by adopting this resolution we will forestall the threat of war in Europe before October 1st?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, well, by adopting this resolution we certainly won't be encouraging the threat of war in Europe. And as far as we are able, I am confident that it will be discouraging the threat of war in Europe.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, if this resolution is adopted will a copy of it be served on Hitler and the rest of them over there, to let them know what we have decided in this Senate?

The PRESIDENT. You can arrange for that if you so desire.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, if I recall correctly, the distinguished Senator from Fayette is Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Changes and as such should have at least a speaking acquaintance with the Constitution of the United States. I believe, although I am subject to correction on the part of our constitutional authority here, that the man who is selected by the Constitution of the United States to carry on international negotiations in all respects is the President, or someone delegated by him, and not the officers of the State of Pennsylvania. Therefore, we send our expression to the man who is selected by the Constitution of the United States to carry on international affairs.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair suggests that no motion to fix a time for the consideration of this resolution will be in order. If the resolution lies on the table and we continue with our business, copies are being made right now, and it can be called up after we finish the calendar.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Erie, Mr. Gilson, will state his point of information.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, the Chair has called for resolutions and I would like to interrogate the Senator from Westmoreland County, Senator Dent, as to whether he has prepared and has ready for submission to the Senate, any resolution in pursuance to the question of personal privilege to which he arose last evening.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator, I might say that I am sorry but I have been busy writing letters to the European powers. However, I have the resolution, and with the permission of the Chair, I would like to read the resolution to the Senate.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO CIVIL SERVICE QUALIFICATIONS OF EMPLOYES OF DEPARTMENT OF LABOR AND INDUSTRY

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, by Act No. 1 approved December 5th 1936 the General Assembly of Pennsylvania established a system of unemployment compensation and provided for its administration by the Department of Labor and Industry and for the selection of personnel by civil service examination for the administration of said Act and

Whereas, such examination to be practical in character and relating to matters fairly testing the relative capacity and fitness of the applicants and further providing that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any specific scholastic education or previous experience and training in order to be permitted to take such competitive examination or to be appointed to any position under this Act and

Whereas, in determining the eligibility of examinees under the authority of this Act the administrators have violated both the spirit and the letter of the Act with the purpose in mind of circumventing the provision of the Act as well as disregarding the will of the Legislature by requiring certain scholastic and training attainments by the applicant that tend to handicap applicants with normal ability in determining fitness for employment under this Act and

Whereas, those charged with the responsibility of administering provisions of said Act relating to civil service persist in disregarding the provisions thereof

Therefore, be it hereby resolved and it is hereby resolved that all persons successful in passing the examination but declared ineligible by such rulings of the administrators relating to the preliminary qualifications be reinstated to the list of eligibles and same to be given equal opportunity for employment and be it further

Resolved, and it is resolved that all such rulings are declared to be a violation of the provision of the Act and are hereby removed from the requirements governing fitness for employment under the civil service division of this Act of the General Assembly.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. Objection is made. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, shortly after the Senator from Westmoreland had made his remarks on the question of personal privilege last night out of which there has now come this resolution, I inquired of the Senator from Westmoreland if a certain Fred Cappolo was connected with the Unemployment set-up and I was informed that he was attached to the Department of Public Assistance. Since we have had letters of complaint from many citizens of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the Public Assistance Departments is doing the same thing with their Civil Service examinees as the Unemployment Compensation set-up I also have a resolution prepared and would like the privilege of reading it myself to the members of the Senate.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO CIVIL SERVICE QUALIFICATIONS OF EMPLOYES DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Mr. CAVALCANTE offered the following resolution which was twice read, as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, the Act creating the Department of Public Assitance in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provided for its administration and for the selection of personnel by civil service examination and

Whereas, such examination is to be practical in character and relating to matters fairly testing the relative capacity and fitness of the applicants and further that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any specific scholastic education or previous experience and training in order to be permitted to take such competitive examination or to be appointed to any position under this Act and

Whereas, in determining the eligibility of examinees under the authority of this Act the administrators have violated both the spirit and the letter of the Act with the purpose in mind of circumventing the provision of the Act as well as disregarding the will of the Legislature by requiring certain scholastic and training attainments by the applicant that tend to handicap applicants with normal ability in determining fitness for employment under this Act and

Whereas, those charged with the responsibility of administering provisions of said Act especially Fred Cappolo relating to civil service persist in disregarding the provisions thereof

Therefore, be it hereby resolved and it is hereby resolved that all persons successful in passing the examination but declared ineligible by such rulings of the administrators relating to the preliminary qualifications be reinstated to the list of eligibiles and same to be given equal opportunity for employment and be it further

Resolved, that all such rulings are declared to be a violation of the provision of the Act and are hereby removed from the requirements governing fitness for employment under the civil service division of this Act of the General Assembly

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. Objection is made. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

RECESS

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SECRETARY

There will be a meeting of the Committee on Labor and Industry in Room 265.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend Sections one hundred eight, five hundred six, five hundred seven, eight hundred thirteen, eight hundred fourteen, and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws, three hundred nine), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," as amended, by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts; re-defining indebtedness of school districts; empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation; increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors; and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, and members of the Senate Senate Bill No. 40 has been introduced not as new legislation but as an amendment to the Act that was passed in the 1937 session in order to make correction. The principal points in this act are: First, it validates the mergers that have already taken place. In Pennsylvania we had 35 school districts that had no teachers employed and under Act 157 they were required to merge with other districts by January 1, 1938. Of the 35 districts 27 are already merged and are satisfied. Four have done nothing and four are in litigation in the courts. For the information of the Senate the Borough of Millbourne of Delaware County of which Senator Heyburn spoke last night is one of those in litigation and is specifically exempt under this act.

This act validates the action of 27 of the 35 districts; four have done nothing and four are in litigation and are exempt from the provisions of this act.

The second feature and the most important to every Senator in this body is the fact that all districts will be required to vote on the merger. Under the present act only the districts having less than ten teachers can vote. The districts to which the smaller districts may be added that have more than ten teachers have no say in the matter. This will require that every district will vote that has opposed the merger but any district that votes in opposition to the merger stays exactly as it is today and is not affected by the act. Therefore you are extending home rule to every voter; that is the effect of this measure.

The third feature is that under the present financial limitation laws of the schools the amount that the school board can borrow by bond issue is 7 per cent including temporary indebtedness. This amendment takes out temporary indebtedness and only includes the bond issue of 7 per cent. Further, it provides that the present school board may be paid for eighteen meetings in the year instead of twelve as at present. It does not increase their pay, it only enables them to be paid for eighteen meetings instead of twelve meetings during the year. The act also provides that in the case of attorneys who get these mergers through that where the expenses of the attorneys are more than $100 the attorneys' fees must be approved by the Court of Common Pleas It also limits the number of district supervisors that can be appointed.

The whole act is one to correct a condition. It creates a large degree of home rule. Under the present act the county school boards can make mergers as required by law but in those mergers there are a number of larger districts which will not have a vote under the act unless we pass this bill. If this bill is passed every district will vote on it and any district that votes in opposition remains exactly as it is today. I ask the Senators to vote for the bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I would like to read into the records a letter from a councilman of the Borough of Millbourne.

BOROUGH OF MILLBOURNE
DELAWARE COUNTY PENNSYLVANIA

September 26, 1938.

Honorable Weldon Heyburn, Harrisburg, Pa.
c/o Senate.

Weldon:

In regard to what I was speaking to you about last evening might state that Senate Bill No. 40 is of vital importance to everyone in the Borough of Millbourne owning property or renting property, for if this should become a law and withstand attack in courts it would mean a raise of $5.00 rent per month.

Might state that we now have a school tax of four mills and average 32 children per year in school, if we are compelled to join another school district it would mean a school tax of at least 20 mills without any better conditions than we now have.

Have always wondered why the department of Public Instruction do not confine their efforts to the education of children, we can attend to the business of all arrangements. Anyone knows that there is very little business sense in an educator. They do not move in the same atmosphere as a business man, and while other people realize this, it is too bad that they do not. Wish that you would do all you can to defeat this bill and if possible have a public hearing so that we can personally appear to protest.

They undoubtedly proclaim that they are fair and honest in all their deliberations, but their actions speak louder than words which is something that I have never been able to understand. While this Borough would be robbed of $16,000 a year, the robber would not benefit one cent.

Awaiting your reply and appreciate your efforts, I remain

Yours very truly,

Dawson Martin Yerkes.

I might add that in the third paragraph the sentence "Anyone knows that there is very little business sense in an educator" is underlined by the writer of this letter.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the only trouble with the Senator from Delaware and his constituent in the Borough of Millbourne is that apparently neither one of them has read the bill. I think that if the Senator from Delaware and his constituent the councilman from Millbourne will turn to page 6 line 22 of this bill they will find the following provisions: "And provided further that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any such merger which has been made the subject of litigation in any court of the Commonwealth instituted prior to the passage of this act and still pending and undetermined".

Unquestionably the Senator from Delaware is familiar enough with the affairs of his own district to know that the question of this Millbourne merger in Delaware County is now the subject of litigation and consequently the provisions of this act cannot affect Millbourne Borough in any respect whatsoever.

The Borough of Millbourne, whether we pass this Act or whether we do not, will be in exactly the same position as before. It will not be affected in any sense of the word. I am not a believer and never have been a believer in allowing the outcome of legislation to hinge on any one particular municipality or any one small group of people. That should not be the theory in the passage of legislation. The theory in the passage of legislation should be whether or not there is a sound public policy for the groups affected as a whole. Unquestionably this bill accomplishes what we tried to do last year, in a fair manner. This helps us in every small school district. It remedies the defects in last year's act. If anything the bill gives a larger measure of home rule than the bill of last year. The bill is unquestionably an improvement on the bill that is the law today in the State of Pennsylvania and I think that we would make a very grave mistake, and the Senator from Delaware is making a grave mistake, if we do not vote for this bill.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the Senator from Centre talks of helping small school districts and I would like to ask him whether or not he believes raising a property holder's tax from four mills to twenty mills is helping him.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, if this had anything to do with the question in Millbourne Borough I certainly would be very glad to say that I am not in favor of raising anybody's taxes to that extent. As I said before, the Senator from Delaware must be misinformed about this whole situation because in the first place I have the figures right here before me on the taxes of Millbourne Borough and if it were consolidated it would not raise the tax to twenty mills. I cannot understand the position the Senator takes. If he had just taken the trouble to read the bill he would find that this cannot affect the question of Millbourne Borough. That is all he has to do. We certainly cannot talk intelligently until we read the bill.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, is this bill a validating act?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, this bill is principally an act validating the mergers that have already been approved by the courts. That is the principal part of the bill.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, has the original act, passed in the session of 1937, been ruled on by the courts?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, oh yes, in a number of cases; four, I believe.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, did those decisions support the bill or not?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I believe every decision of the court supported the bill except one in Somerset County.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, then the purpose of this bill is chiefly to validate the act passed in 1937?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the purpose of this bill is to validate the mergers which the courts have already passed on and approved. Now it does not affect any of these school districts whose mergers are in the process of litigation today, like the one in Somerset County and the one in Delaware County.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, one more question then. Do both of the districts vote on the merger?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, yes, certainly, that is they will under this act but not under the original act. That is why I say this act is a great improvement over the act that is now the law in the State.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Berks, Mr. Ruth.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Berks, Mr. Ruth, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, do I understand the Senator from Berks to say that in every case the electors of the two districts or more districts will vote on the question of consolidation?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, absolutely, under this bill.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, but whether or not there are enough school teachers?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, oh yes, but not where there are no school teachers. There is no change in this act as I understand it from the old act in cases where there are no school teachers at the present time. In such cases there is no submission to the electorate as to whether or not the districts will be consolidated.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the present act has been declared unconstitutional not only by the court of Somerset County but also by the court of Delaware County and if the Supreme Court should sustain those decisions I should like to ask how this act may be any more constitutional than the one we passed.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I would answer that by saying that if the Supreme Court should not sustain that litigation and declare the original act and the present law constitutional still our larger districts would not have a vote unless this bill were passed. This is to give home rule to every district

There are only four districts in Pennsylvania that have not done a thing about it, and four who are in litigation and those in litigation are not affected by this act at all. This act will permit all districts connected with any merger to vote, and any district that votes not to go in remains exactly as it does today.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Berks state whether or not this act will affect those districts that are now under litigation after a decision of the court on that question?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, on page 6, line 23, it says: "That the provisions of this act shall not apply to any such merger which has been made the subject of litigation in any court of the Commonwealth instituted prior to the passage of this act still pending and undetermined."

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, but how after the court has rendered its decision on both cases will this act apply to those districts?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, not any more than the original act. This particular bill would not apply at all in that case. The original act would come before it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 39, entitled:

An Act to amend and re-enact section five hundred and twenty-four of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred nine) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by limiting and prescribing the method of fixing the levy of school taxes in school districts of the first class

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I was not in the Senate last night and I have had no chance to voice my objection to the amendments which were offered to Senate Bill No. 39. I was in favor of the bill in its unamended form. It seems to me that this bill offers only a temporary solution to the problem of Philadelphia, but I prefer to take half a loaf rather than to lose the entire loaf, and for that reason I will be in favor of the bill.

A certain philosopher has stated that the excellence of any municipality should be tested on the theory of consumption of soap and the standards of education. When it comes to standards of education, Philadelphia is proud of its schools, and we will do everything in our power to preserve those high standards.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill is made necessary by two things. One is that the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania said that the Legislature had no right to delegate the authority of taxation powers to any non-elective board unless that delegation is fixed within certain limitations. Secondly, both in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties where the taxation is based on the assessed value of real estate and the assessed value receded through parties having the power to adjust the assessments, the income of the schools normally reduced itself and therefore whenever you have a fixed tax rate as we have in Pittsburgh of 11¼ mills, and in Philadelphia of 9½ mills, that being fixed by the assessment and not permitted to fluctuate up or down with the values as they increase or decrease, you find yourself in the position where the obligation created by the Edmonds Act fix the salaries of the teachers and there is no way to increase the income because it is based upon a fluctuating situation.

In Philadelphia last year there was a shortage of $6,500,000 to meet the requirements of the Edmonds Act. That was met by this Legislature permitting the Board of Education of the cities of first class school districts to make loans upon delinquent taxes, and for the time being the City of Philadelphia was able to meet its payroll. Now, Philadelphia's assessments have decreased in the last ten years by close to one billion dollars. The income from the taxation in Philadelphia is twenty-three million dollars per year. The total amount necessary for the school teachers' salaries, in which school supervisors are included, is over twenty-one million dollars. In addition to the twenty-one million dollars the school districts are obliged to pay the running expenses and the debt service, which means the interest plus the sinking fund.

Now I have a great deal of criticism to offer against the Board of Education in the City of Philadelphia in that some of the expenditures have been unnecessary. I do not believe that it is necessary for the City of Philadelphia to have a several million dollar palace for an administration building and I am sure that there can be just criticism directed as well against other expenses which the schools have undertaken. I have long been opposed to the encroachment of the schools upon functions of the other departments of the Government. I know that when I went to school I used to walk a couple of miles and now we furnish the students with buses to ride in, and then we have to equip gymnasiums to give them the exercise that they would have gotten if they had walked instead.

But the real point in this case is, and there is no question about it, that this year in Philadelphia and next year in Pittsburgh schools will have to be closed or teachers' salaries will have to be cut. And they can't be reduced in view of the Edmonds Act, and we are at an impasse. But this is a special situation. Philadelphia must make up its budget and fix its tax rates by December. I would have suggested that this matter be allowed to remain over until the General Session of the Legislature except for the fact that the tax rate must be fixed before then.

I believe that there must be another method of reaching a solution to this problem. I do not believe that one particular class of people should be forced to bear the burden of schools and of teaching students exclusively and to the exclusion of another class. In other words every time Philadelphia increases the tax rate one mill we increase the burden of taxes on real estate, not on everybody but merely on the holders of real estate, by $3,250,000. This bill in its original form would have cost the city of Philadelphia $6,500,000 and you can see the injustice to the city of Philadelphia of this situation when you realize and bring it down to what it means, that real estate, not the tax payers generally, but real estate in Philadelphia will be taxed an additional $6,500,000. Property owners whose children do not go to school will be obliged to bear the burden alone. People who do not own property and send seven or eight children to school do not bear any of the burden. So it seems to me that it is unjust for this special session to impose a burden upon the people without trying at least to solve the problem and distribute more equitably the burden that will be imposed. For that reason I am one of those who insisted on making this measure an emergency measure and treating it as such. The increase that this bill provides is an increase in Philadelphia of not more than one mill and there may be an increase in Pittsburgh in Allegheny County also of not more than one mill and as the bill reads, only for the year 1939, and thereafter the tax rate must remain as fixed in 1938.

My desk is littered with a lot of letters. I know the contents of these letters. They all read, "vote for Senate Bill No. 39, without amendments." I had the very interesting experience last week of having a gentleman come from one store, who was its treasurer, and say to me that if we passed this bill it would increase their taxes and put an unnecessary burden upon them. The next day I had a gentleman from another department of the same store, who was interested in sales being increased by teacher's organizations, come to me and say that if we did not pass this bill teachers would not get their salaries, incomes would be reduced, and the department stores would lose sales. This is the same situation we meet in the Senate all the time. Two people will always agree on how much the other fellow should pay in taxes but you cannot get those two people to get together and treat it as a large proposition. Here is one organization with two departments and each department fighting for its own position, the same as we have each taxpayer fighting for his own position.

Now our problem is shall we allow these schools to close or have the teachers' salaries cut or shall we do something about it. Since we cannot study the problem thoroughly until the next session this bill will correct the problem temporarily. In January the tax rate will be fixed and we will be back here and we can then tackle the problem in a proper and careful manner.

But to simply get up and say you were in favor of the bill in its original form and close your eyes to the effect of the bill and think that the problem will be solved is no solution. I was not in favor of the bill in its original form for I do not believe that this Legislature should give these people the right to increase the taxes two mills or twenty cents in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh until we can find some other way of distributing this burden and therefore I am in favor of this bill only as a temporary measure. When we come back next year those of us who will be here can make it our business to go into this thing a little more carefully and see how this problem can be solved in a better and larger sense.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, will the Senator from Philadelphia state whether the Philadelphia school district has a per capita tax?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it does not have a per capita tax.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, will the Senator state whether under the present law it is possible for the city of Philadelphia to have a per capita tax?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, under the existing law it is not but this Legislature can authorize it. That is my opinion and I read the Supreme Court's decision six months ago but of course they may have changed their minds since then.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, can sufficient money be raised under the per capita tax to take care of this deficit?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would say that there are enough adults in Philadelphia for the imposition of a reasonable per capita tax to give enough money to the city to take care of the deficit. Whether that is the proper method I am not prepared to say at this time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I understand this amendment it sets up a certain standard in the classrooms as to the number of pupils to be taught by the teachers.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it provides that in elementary schools there should not be more than one teacher for 32 pupils and in junior and senior high schools more than one teacher for 25 pupils and not more than one superintendant for 600 students or more than one supervisor for every 1200.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, is that word "more" or "less."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the word is "more." It is a limitation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, then there is no restriction under the act on one teacher teaching 35 pupils?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, no, it also provides that there is no restriction on one teacher teaching 26 pupils but they cannot compute the tax levy on that basis. They must get the money from some other source. According to the inquiries and investigation I have made that standard set up is in accordance with the present existing standard in both Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, well I just wanted to make sure that we are not setting up something that is going to cost the rural schools money. In our schools sometimes one teacher has to teach as many as 55 pupils in certain districts.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not know what you mean by rural counties because I am not sure that Philadelphia is not becoming more rural every day but this applies to first class school districts.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, well often they start out in Philadelphia as a testing ground and end up in our counties.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. FREY from the Committee on Labor and Industry to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Cavalcante at today's session reported the same without amendment, as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, The Act creating the Department of Public Assistance in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provided for its administration and for the selection of personnel by civil service examination and

Whereas, Such examination is to be practical in character and relating to matters fairly testing the relative capacity and fitness of the applicants and further that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any specific scholastic education or previous experience and training in order to be permitted to take such competitive examination or to be appointed to any position under this Act and

Whereas, In determining the eligibility of examinees under the authority of this Act the administrators have violated both the spirit and the letter of the Act with the purpose in mind of circumventing the provision of the Act as well as disregarding the will of the Legislature by requiring certain scholastic and training attainments by the applicant that tend to handicap applicants with normal ability in determining fitness for employment under this Act and

Whereas, Those charged with the responsibility of administering provisions of said Act especially Fred Cappolo relating to civil service persist in disregarding the provisions thereof

Therefore, Be it hereby resolved and it is hereby resolved that all persons successful in passing the examination but declared ineligible by such rulings of the administrators relating to the preliminary qualifications be reinstated to the list of eligibles and same to be given equal opportunity for employment and be it further

Resolved, That all such rulings are declared to be a violation of the provision of the Act and are hereby removed from the requirements governing fitness for employment under the civil service division of this Act of the General Assembly

Mr. EROE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EROE, from the Committee on Labor and Industry to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Dent at today's session reported the same without amendment, as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, by Act No. 1 approved December 5, 1936 the General Assembly of Pennsylvania established a system of unemployment compensation and provided for its administration by the Department of Labor and Industry and for the selection of personnel by civil service examination for the administration of said Act and

Whereas, such examination to be practical in character and relating to matters fairly testing the relative capacity and fitness of the applicants and further providing that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any specific scholastic education or previous experience and training in order to be permitted to take such competitive examination or to be appointed to any position under this Act and

Whereas, in determining the eligibility of examinees under the authority of this Act the administrators have violated both the spirit and the letter of the Act with the purpose in mind of circumventing the provision of the Act as well as disregarding the will of the Legislature by requiring certain scholastic and training attainments by the applicant that tend to handicap applicants with normal ability in determining fitness for employment under this Act and

Whereas, those charged with the responsibility of administering provisions of said Act relating to civil service persist in disregarding the provisions thereof

Therefore, be it hereby resolved and it is hereby resolved that all persons successful in passing the examination but declared ineligible by such rulings of the administrators relating to the preliminary qualifications be reinstated to the list of eligibles and same to be given equal opportunity for employment and be it further

Resolved, and it is resolved that all such rulings are declared to be a violation of the provision of the Act and are hereby removed from the requirements governing fitness for employment under the civil service division of this Act of the General Assembly

A motion was made by Mr. EROE and Mr. DENT.

That rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the conclusion of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Westmoreland.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I understand that this resolution is aimed at the Civil Service provisions of the Unemployment Compensation Act. I would like to ask the Senator from Westmoreland how the adoption of this resolution will affect the status of the employes who have qualified and who have already been appointed under the Civil Service provisions of this act.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in answer I want to say that the resolution is aimed more at the rules prescribed for Civil Service examinations. If any person has been appointed to a position under these rules and another person has taken the examination who would have a higher rating by setting aside these rules, if they are entitled to the job I believe that they should get the job and for that reason I presented this resolution.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I cannot see how an expression of opinion on the part of this Senate as to how the Civil Service provisions of the act shall be administered can possibly affect any action past or future that may be taken by the administrative officials. It seems to me that this resolution is simply a gesture designed to stir up trouble and to create dissatisfaction and has no definite concrete purpose. I am well aware, Mr. President, that there may be criticism as to the administration of the Civil Service provisions. I cannot see that the passage of this resolution will aid or help in any way to correct any errors or wrongs in the method of administering Civil Service. Therefore I intend to vote against this resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in order that the Senator from Dauphin and I may have a perfect understanding I want to state that this resolution has behind it more than a desire to create confusion and to disrupt anything that has already taken place. All this resolution does is see to it that the provision of the law and the intent of the Legislature are carried out in full by those who are entrusted with the administration of the act. If they are doing so now, if I am wrong, then the resolution means nothing and I stand reprimanded. But if I am right then no persons in Pennsylvania who have taken the examinations should be thrown out upon some ruling made by any board in direct opposition to the act of the Legislature.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I did not think I would take any part in the discussion of this resolution but in view of the fact that there has been appointed a subcommittee of the House and Senate, of both Welfare Committees, for the purpose of delving into this situation I would like to tell the Senator from Westmoreland just what has happened and perhaps in view of that he may be willing to forego the resolution temporarily.

For the past three or four weeks there have been meetings of this joint committee and the examining board of the Public Assistance Department and we have discovered that this examining board, whether they did it consciously or unconsciously have in the system which they have adopted brought about a great many inequities in the appointment of persons who took the examinations. In some respects I think by their regulations they defeated the intent of the Legislature. I do not think as far as we have gone now that we would be justified in making a general condemnation of the act. I personally think and do not hesitate to express my opinions that in the appointment of an executive secretary by the Board of Examiners these men had no right. I think that gentleman was referred to last night by the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante.

But at today's meeting, and I think that the other members of the committee will bear me out, we advanced pretty far into that matter. I think we convinced these gentlemen that they have at least unconsciously brought about these inequities. As a result of that meeting this morning they are re-examining all of the lists of persons who have taken the examinations and are engaged in an effort to see whether or not a more equitable arrangement cannot be arrived at by giving these gentlemen a rating on their oral examinations which will enable them at least to go in and take these examinations and if they get a fair mark, to get on the eligible list. It would seem to me therefore that it would do no harm to allow this resolution to remain on the desks until next week. Personally if the resolution is insisted upon I shall vote for it because it is an innocuous one. This Senate cannot change an act of the Legislature by a single resolution. The House has not acted on it yet. The House is not prepared to act on it and I do not think it would be in the interests of good tactics or wise at this time, when we are in the midst of solving this problem somewhat, to irritate the situation by a resolution which of itself cannot accomplish anything.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, in the Senator's negotiations and discussions with this commission has any consideration been given to facts other than the requirements of the commission itself or the makeup of the commission itself and have they gone into the phase that I covered under this resolution?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, yes.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I just spoke to one of the members of the commission and he tells me that that phase has never been discussed.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, let me answer the Senator from Westmoreland by saying that when I answered his question in the affirmative it was because his resolution is directed at the Unemployment Compensation Board. The discussions that we are having are with the Public Assistance Board but the situation is exactly the same. Both Boards are working on the same system and both Boards, I think, have ignored these provisions of the Act. Whether they have done it deliberately we are not prepared to say at this time but I am sure that I can speak for the committee in saying that we are on the way to progress and there cannot be any help by the passage of this resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I want to say that I studied law on the U. S. S. Texas and as we learned law on a seagoing proposition I understand that my resolution does not intend to change any act of the Legislature. My resolution only calls attention to the fact that the administrators of this act are not living up to the provisions of the act of the Legislature.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, let me say that there is a larger problem involved than the mere passage of this resolution. The department in Washington contributes to the cost of administration of both the Public Assistance and the Unemployment Compensation Boards. There has been a great deal of rumor spread throughout the State that has reached Washington that we are attempting to upset the Civil Service provision of the act. Washington is entitled to and has some control over the disbursements for expenditures and what I am afraid of is that if you pass this resolution you may be charged with any effects that Washington's action may have and people in authority at Washington may take the position that you are interfering with the administration of this act contrary to the laws of the Social Security Act and contrary to the regulations made under it. I have said to the Senator from Westmoreland that I will reluctantly vote for this resolution but I think it is not in the interests of good tactics or good legislative methods to put this resolution through at this time. I think his efforts are proper and I think he should be commended and I think the Senator from Fayette and all of us are interested in this problem. It is a large problem and it cannot be handled merely by making snap judgments.

We have thousands of people on the list—some 273,000 examinations were given—we have those thousands who are posted as being on the list, and we have got people marked for employment. But if you pass this resolution you upset their standing and they do not know their position and it is just doing piecemeal what I think we will do better if given just a little more time.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, a minute ago the Senator from Philadelphia said that the resolution was innocuous and did not have anything to do with the bill and could not possibly affect the act. Now he says that if this resolution passes it upsets the whole procedure. I do not know whether it is proper or not but I want to say this, that we in Pennsylvania are passing legislation for the benefit of Pennsylvanians and if the federal government agencies decide what we have to do then it is time that they pass the legislation and we let them make the provisions and we will just sit here and take the medicine.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I have received a good many complaints about the administration of the Unemployment Compensation Board and the Bureau of Public Assistance in the way of filling these positions under the Civil Service Examinations. And if it be true that these Boards are ignoring the act and placing men and women on the payroll who do not belong there under that act a most serious injustice has been done to hundreds and hundreds of Pennsylvanians who took that act at its face value, appeared and passed the examinations and stood high, and then had somebody else come in under a rule of the Board after the act was passed. The act is very clear; there is nothing about the act that could not be understood by anyone, and if these Boards have taken it upon themselves or their secretaries to establish rules that change that act a most serious injustice has been done to perhaps thousands of Pennsylvanians who went in there with good faith to these examinations, who prepared for them, who have had experience, and then have had some secretary establish a rule that you have got to be a college graduate and have three or four years experience, and then give outsiders a higher rating than Pennsylvanians; it is unfair.

It is a serious thing and in any event I cannot see any harm in passing this resolution and at least notifying these Boards and these secretaries that the Senate of Pennsylvania knows exactly what they are doing and that we will be in regular session next year and if they continue to go along as they are doing, this Legislature can correct it in very positive terms at the next session.

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, it is obvious to me that the passing of a resolution of this nature nullifying the work of the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review and its employes, which is exactly what we are doing, is wrong and that we are pre-judging the situation. Maybe there is something wrong but if there is why is not the logical way to find it out through a committee such as the committee of which the Senator from Philadelphia spoke? In this resolution, which I feel is not only a resolution but is really a bill or an act and should be enacted by bill, we are saying that there are definite things wrong with the Compensation Department and we are going to correct them in this manner. But we do not attempt to find out just what may be wrong.

This act sets up a new department. Mr. Dent last night read excerpts from the act which goes on to say: "Such competitive examinations shall be in writing, but in arriving at the final rating of applicants for such administrative and professional grades of employment as are so designated by the board, the board may take into consideration such experience and personal qualifications as are related to the grades of employment for which applicants are being examined, provided that the same standards shall apply with respect to all applicants in the same grade of employment."

A little further on in the act it says: "In making appointments therefrom, the secretary shall select from the three persons ranking highest on the list of eligibles for the grade of employment in the administrative district, or in the State as a whole, as the case may be, the applicant most suitable for the position in the grade of employment for which a vacancy exists, taking into consideration his experience and personal qualifications with sole reference to merit and fitness for the position to be filled."

This gives the secretary certain discretionary powers to be used by him in determining how to administer his department of government. Is it right for the Legislature with a resolution to hamstring the secretary of an administrative board? I do not believe that it is and I do not believe that such a resolution should be enacted at this time. I think this is merely another example of the Legislative branch attempting to hamstring the Executive when the Legislative has so often in the past howled because it claims that the Executive hamstrings it. I ask my colleagues of the Senate to vote against this resolution.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not care to carry this any longer. When this bill was before the Senate the very features that the Senator read from the bill now were inscribed in the bill. The intention of the Legislature I think after they accepted this amendment was very clear when they said that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any scholastic education or training in order to be permitted to take a competitive examination or to be appointed to any position. Now if those of us who are lawyers are going to be fooled by "clause A with sub-clause B," I am still interested in clause A. I know what I want and I know what the people in my territory want and therefore I am going to ask those Senators who see it my way to vote for this resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair understands that the Senator from Westmoreland is a lawyer. He is qualified as a sea lawyer.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, that is all.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of information.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, is the resolution that we reported just before this resolution still in the hands of the Clerk?

The PRESIDENT. It is.

CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO CIVIL SERVICE QUALIFICATIONS OF EMPLOYES DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution introduced by me at today's session which was reported from the Committee on Labor and Industry and laid on the table.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, the act creating the Department of Public Assistance in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provided for its administration and for the selection of personnel by civil service examination and

Whereas, such examination is to be practical in character and relating to matters fairly testing the relative capacity and fitness of the applicants and further that no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any specific scholastic education or previous experience and training in order to be permitted to take such competitive examination or to be appointed to any position under this act and

Whereas, in determining the eligibility of examinees under the authority of this act the administrators have violated both the spirit and the letter of the act with the purpose in mind of circumventing the provision of the act as well as disregarding the will of the Legislature by requiring certain scholastic and training attainments by the applicant that tend to handicap applicants with normal ability in determining fitness for employment under this act and

Whereas, those charged with the responsibility of administering provisions of said act especially Fred Cappolo relating to civil service persist in disregarding the provisions thereof

Therefore, be it heregy resolved and it is hereby resolved that all person successful in passing the examination but declared ineligible by such rulings of the administrators relating to the preliminary qualifications be reinstated to the list of eligibles and same to be given equal opportunity for employment and be it further

Resolved, that all such rulings are declared to be a violation of the provision of the act and are hereby removed from the requirements governing fitness for employment under the civil service division of this act of the General Assembly.

A motion was made by Mr. FREY and Mr. CAVALCANTE.

That Rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I would like to state that I intend to vote against this resolution for the same reasons that I expressed against the resolution of Senator Dent. Both these resolutions determine facts against administrative officers without giving them a hearing. These resolutions as adopted by the Senate amount to the Senate finding a person guilty without giving him a trial. Therefore I intend to vote against this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on Federal Relations:

In the House of Representatives, September 19, 1938.

Whereas, The newspapers have published the recent correspondence between the American and the Mexican Governments and we believe that all the statements of fact made by Secretary Hull are true and

Whereas, From that correspondence it appears that soon after the success of the Mexican revolution in 1914 the Mexican Government started confiscating properties belonging to American citizens for which no compensation has even been awarded and

Whereas, Although in 1923 the United States of America and Mexico entered into a convention by virtue of which an American-Mexican Claims Commission was created and although the claims of American citizens for compensation for said confiscation were referred to it for one reason or another it has not been possible for said commission to pronounce any decision on said confiscations and the respective compensations and

Whereas, Since 1927 new confiscations have taken place and many small American owners have been deprived of their properties and

Whereas, After twenty-four years of patience and forbearance the American Government has finally undertaken to obtain compensation for past confiscations and to stop future confiscations without compensation and

Whereas, The Mexican Government refuses to take any serious step toward compensation for the past confiscations and to stop confiscations in the future and

Whereas, Mr. Hull's policy consists in obtaining compensation for past confiscations and in stopping future confiscations without prompt adequate and fair compensation therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly approves of the position taken by Secretary Hull and the policy adopted by him to bring about the settlement of American claims for compensation for lands and properties of American citizens seized by the Mexican Government and urges upon Secretary Hull that he advises the Mexican Government of the desire of the citizens of the United States that future seizures shall not be made unless fair and adequate compensation be paid immediately and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be duly engrossed and be transmitted to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

He also presented for concurrence bill of the House of Representatives, as follows:

House Bill No. 66, (Senate Bill No. 59), entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven," providing for the deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

SENATE BILL NO. 28 RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 28, entitled:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws.

With the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I understand this question is merely on the suspension of the rule.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Said amendments having been twice read and printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not want to raise a technical objection, and delay the consideration of this bill. I do not wish to make a long speech either. However, I feel that it is necessary for me to make a final protest. The bill has been amended to some extent in the House, but in principle it is just the same. It is still a base theft, whether property worth one million dollars is stolen or whether the owners are left with one-sixth of their former possessions as in the case of my own county.

If the Supreme Court should legalize this crime, then we have indeed taken the greatest step toward the totalitarian state that has been taken in my twelve years in Harrisburg. Benjamin Franklin, when he came from the convention which had at last put in its final form our national Constitution, was asked what form of government they had provided, and he replied, "a Republic if we can keep it." Self-government has been preserved only until it has proven itself incapable of self-government.

I am not worried so much that you people in Washington and Harrisburg wish to be dictated to, but I am disturbed about the supine willingness of the Republicans and Democrats alike to hand over the right of home rule, and wear the empty husk of political and economic slavery. In its implications this bill is the most corrupt and vicious one that we have had before us, and that is saying a good deal.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill involves principle which is more important to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania than anything I know of at this session, and I place myself on record now by saying to the members of this Senate that those members who are not in their seats can be justly criticized by the public for the manner in which this bill is being handled today. I don't hesitate to say on the floor of this Senate that I don't know of any other measure of equal importance to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania than the measure that is now under discussion and I am glad to see that an opportunity will be given to the people of Pennsylvania so that they can judge the persons who are here, interested in paying attention to lawful and legal measures and important measures that come before us, and compare us with those other Senators who have business elsewhere which is more important to them than the millions of people that are involved in this measure.

I resent the fact that the burden of this legislation has been placed entirely upon the shoulders of a few men in this Senate and I don't believe it is fair. It is not fair responsibility. I don't claim to say that this is my bill. This is no more my bill than it is the bill of any other member of the Senate. This is a bill which if it should be defeated should be defeated, and if it should be passed, it should be passed. But it is entitled to more consideration than it is receiving from the members of this Senate. This isn't a Philadelphia bill, and if this is the way a bill that originates from Senators from one district is to be treated it may be that we might better put some fences around our districts and hold our own meetings, and we had better secede from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania until we can get cooperation and recognition of the fact that every part of the State is a component part and should not be separated. Anybody can look around the floor of this Senate today and understand what little consideration is being given to one of the most important problems in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. For fifty years people of Pennsylvania have been trying to get this proposition before the Senate, and finally they have gotten it before the Senate, and it is so important that many of the Senators find it more interesting and more profitable to go elsewhere. Well, I say to the Senators who are not here that they may know that they will get an opportunity now to assume their responsibility for the defeat of this bill, if it is defeated because of their absence.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the Senator fails to call attention to the fact that the people of Pennsylvania do not want this bill. The Senators no doubt have absented themselves because they do not wish to be forced to vote for this bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Somerset.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Somerset think that the matter of caring for the insane of this Commonwealth is a matter that should be involved in the question of home rule?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, certainly. I am not complaining so much about the purpose of taking over the mental hospitals in this State. I just want to to say, Mr. President, that I have not complained so much about the taking over of the mental hospitals as about the methods with which it has been attempted to be put over.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Barthold,	Haluska,	Kunkel,	Rice,
Cavalcante,	Henney,	Lanius,	Ruth,
Dando,	Heyburn,	Law,	Shapiro,
Dent,	Jacobs,	McCreesh,	Sipe,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Stiefel,
Eroe,	Kahle,	Pytko,	Thompson,
Frey,	Kilgallen,	Reed,	Wolfenden,

NAYS—4

Chapman,	Ealy,	Gelder,	Mallery,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 28, entitled:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time. For the benefit of the Senators this is a resolution which the better minds of the other Senators have decided on in place of my original resolution this afternoon.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION COMMENDING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ON HIS MESSAGE FOR PEACE

Mr. KILGALLEN offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, the march of events in the olden countries has brought the horrible threat of war to central Europe, and

Whereas, His Excellency, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, has dispatched to Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany and President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia a plea for the preservation of peace, and

Whereas, by his action the President has performed a noteworthy service to all the peoples of the earth, now therefore be it

Resolved, that the Senate of Pennsylvania approves the President's action and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States by the Chief Clerk of the Senate.

Mr. KILKALLEN. Mr. President I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

MOTION TO READ BILLS THE FIRST TIME

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the first reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 54, (House Bill No. 58), entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines, appointed pursuant to the joint resolution, approved the fifth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1689), entitled "A joint resolution creating a commission to make certain studies in respect to bituminous mines; defining its powers and duties; and making an appropriation," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SECRETARY

There will be a Caucus of the Democratic Senators next Monday evening in the Senate Caucus Room at 8:00 o'clock p. m.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, October 3, 1938 at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 5:37 o'clock p. m. until Monday, October 3, 1938 at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1938.

The House met at 1:00 p. m.
The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

Dr. GEORGE W. BUCKNER, Pastor of the First Christian Church, Canonsburg, offered the following prayer:

O Thou that dwellest in the heavens, we lift up our eyes unto the Giver of all good gifts, in grateful praise for Thy mysterious goodness throughout the years.

Driven by the uncertainties and perils of the hour to Thy throne of Grace, may we find shelter in the clefted side of the Eternal Rock.

Overrule the confusion and distraction which have beset the world—and in Thine own way and wisdom lead us in paths of righteousness and peace.

We invoke Thy blessing upon these Thy servants, here by the confidence and suffrage of their fellow-citizens—at once a privilege and a responsibility. Reveal also to their constituents at home the fact of their moral debt to these servants here.

Bless our beloved Commonwealth and nation, and may Thy Grace be upon those to whom the affairs of state are committed. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. COSTANZO, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. Atkins asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. KANE for the remainder of the week.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. ACHTERMAN, from the Committee on Rules reported as committed, House Resolution No. 16.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. KELSO asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Education to meet during the session of the House.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 63, as follows:

An Act to further amend section four of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 465) entitled "An act to provide for the safety of persons employed housed or assembled in certain buildings and structures not in cities of the first class second class and second class A by requiring certain construction and ways of egress equipment and maintenance providing for the licensing of projectionists requiring the submission of plans for examination and approval providing for the promulgation of rules and regulations for the enforcement of this act providing for the enforcement of this act by the Department of Labor and Industry and in certain cases by the chiefs of fire departments in cities of the third class providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this act and repealing certain acts" by changing the number of ways of egress required in the case of certain buildings

Section 1 Section four of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 465) entitled "An act to provide for the safety of persons employed housed or assembled in certain buildings and structures not in cities of the first class second class and second class A by requiring certain construction and ways of egress equipment and maintenance providing for the licensing of projectionists requiring the submission of plans for examination and approval providing for the promulgation of rules and regulations for the enforcement of this act providing for the enforcement of this act by the Department of Labor and Industry and in certain cases by the chiefs of fire departments in cities of the third class providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this act and repealing certain acts" as last amended by the act approved the twenty-eighth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1016) is hereby further amended to read as follows

In buildings of more than one story all means of egress shall be located inside the building at least one of which shall be an enclosed stair tower of fire resistive construction Where the department finds after proper investigation that in buildings erected prior to the passage of this act the internal ways of egress herein provided for cannot be installed it may direct that such means of egress be provided as will in its judgment to better advantage carry out the intent and purpose of this section The Department of Labor and Industry may order fire walls or smoke barriers or both to be built in buildings already erected or which may hereafter be erected where in its judgment the erection of such fire walls or smoke barriers is necessary to the reasonable safe protection of the occupants The ways of egress shall be free from obstruction lighted and ready for instant use at all times Fire escapes now in use or hereafter erected shall be painted at least once a year and be kept in safe condition and up to such standard requirements as may be specified by the Department of Labor and Industry

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 75, (Senate Bill No. 27), entitled:

An Act to amend Section two of the act approved the eleventh day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 487), entitled "An act authorizing the Department of Welfare to determine the legal residence of indigent, insane, feeble-minded and epileptic persons, returned to this Commonwealth by the authorities of another state, or transferred from one poor district to another by the department and requiring the proper district to pay the costs of the care and treatment of such persons in accordance with the laws relating to indigent insane persons" by relieving poor districts of certain costs and placpenses of the Joint Legislative Commission investigating such costs on the Commonwealth.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 76, (Senate Bill No. 29), entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the eleventh day of July, one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (Pamphlet Laws, nine hundred ninety-eight), entitled "An act for the prevention and treatment of mental diseases, mental defect, epilepsy, and inebriety; regulating the admission and commitment of mental patients to hospitals for mental diseases and institutions for mental defectives and epileptics; governing the transfer, discharge, interstate rendition, and deportation of mental patients; providing for the payment by individuals, counties, or the Commonwealth of the cost of the admission, care, and discharge of mental patients; and imposing penalties," as amended, by further defining the limiting the institutions in which persons mentally ill may receive care and treatment; relieving counties and poor districts of the payment of the cost of the admission, care, and discharge of mental patients, with certain exceptions; imposing such costs on the Commonwealth; and repealing inconsistent laws.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Are there objections. The Chair hears none and declared a recess for fifteen minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to announce that the hearing before the House Investigating Committee scheduled for 3:00 p. m. has been postponed until 7:00 p. m. because of the deliberations of the House.

RESOLUTION

RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 8 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, September 27, 1938.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that House Bill No. 8, Printer's No. 44, entitled "An act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 26 Printer's No. 60 was passed over at the request of Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN.

There being no objection House Bill No. 52 Printer's No. 39 was passed over at the request of Mr. HORTING.

There being no objection House Bill No. 21, Printer's No. 55 was passed over at the request of Mr. LEWIS.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 66, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public school for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. TURNER, SCHROCK and SPROUL asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

(During the verification of the affirmative roll.)

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker. I heard the name of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Gerard called. I haven't seen him in the Hall of the House this afternoon.

Mr. GERARD. I beg your pardon, I am here, Mr. Speaker, and I have been here.

Mr. TURNER. I heard the name of the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Yourishin, called.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Yourishin, present?

Mr. BLANK. Mr. Yourishin voted and just went outside, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, did I hear the name of the gentleman from Sullivan, Mr. Peale, called?

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Sullivan, Mr. Peale in the Hall of the House?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member know whether the gentleman from Sullivan, Mr. Peale, was in the Hall of the House when the roll was called?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe he is here. I am certain he was not here.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's name will be stricken from the roll.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I heard the name of the gentleman from Snyder, Mr. Fiss, called.

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member of the House know whether or not this member was present when the roll was called?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I feel certain he was not here when the roll was called.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's name will be stricken from the affirmative roll.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Jacob F. Matthews, his name was called on the affirmative roll. I am confident he was not here at the time of the calling of the roll.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman in the Hall of the House when the roll was called?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member of the House know whether the gentleman from Lycoming, Mr. Jacob F. Matthews, was present when the roll was called?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. His name will not appear on the affirmative roll.

Mr. TURNER. I heard the name of the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Shugarts, called on the affirmative roll.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is present and can answer for himself.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman was not in his seat.

Mr. SHUGARTS. Mr. Speaker, I beg your pardon, I was in my seat. I was right here.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Pershing, his name was called on the affirmative roll.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Pershing, in the Hall of the House?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member of the House know whether the gentleman from Westmoreland was present when the roll was called?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's name will not appear on the affirmative roll.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Coleman in the Hall of the House?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member know whether the gentleman was in the Hall of the House during the calling of the roll?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Apparently the gentleman was not present and his name will not appear upon the roll.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Thomas.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Thomas, in the Hall of the House?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Does any member know whether the gentleman was present during the calling of the roll?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. The gentleman was not present and his name will not appear on the roll.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I heard the name of the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Lyons, called on the affirmative roll. He also was not in the Hall of the House, as I understand it, at the time of the calling of the roll.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman from Mercer, Mr. Lyons, in the Hall of the House at the present time?

(No response)

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman present during the calling of the roll?

(No response)

Mr. TURNER. I understand he was not, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Apparently he was not. His name will not appear upon the roll.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard appeared on the affirmative roll.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Shepard just left here a second ago. I do not know whether he was here when the roll was called or not.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Shepard, is now present. Did the gentleman vote when the roll was called?

Mr. SHEPARD. No, Mr. Speaker, I did not.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. TURNER. It seems to me, under the conditions that exist, that the Speaker should declare the roll call void and call for another roll call.

The SPEAKER. There is nothing in order but the verification of the roll. Are there any further corrections of the affirmative roll?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, being in the Hall of the House and not recorded on the roll, I ask unanimous consent that he be allowed to record his vote on the affirmative roll.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York asks unanimous consent that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shepard, be permitted to be recorded as voting in the affirmative. Is there objection?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would certainly hesitate to deprive any member of the House of his right to vote on any measure, but under the circumstances I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections, and consent is not granted.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 73, (Senate Bill No. 29), as follows:

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the transfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operatng institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws

Whereas experience has proven that the care and maintenance of indigent mentally ill persons mental defectives and epileptics should be centralized in the State Government in order to insure their proper and uniform care maintenance custody safety and welfare and

Whereas complete care for such persons in institutions operated exclusively by the State Government will effect great economies for municipal subdivisions

Section 1 All buildings acquired or erected by any county city or institution district for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients the personal property within such buildings or incidental thereto and any and all other grounds and lands connected therewith or annexed thereto are hereby transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except that where any such buildings for mental patients are operated in conjunction with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the buildings used for the care of such persons the land actually occupied by such buildings the lands or yards presently set apart for the use of the indigent persons cared for in such buildings and the lands necessary for ingress and egress thereto and therefrom shall not be deemed to be hereby transferred but shall remain vested in the county city or institution district as theretofore

Where any lands and property so transferred are presently used by any institution district as a farm and woodlands in connection with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor shall set apart and reconvey to the institution district through deed executed by the Secretary of Property and Supplies of the Commonwealth so much of such ground as the ratio of indigent persons bears to the total patient population of the institution as shall be determined by the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth The metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed shall be determined by agreement between the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the institution district In the case the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the institution district cannot agree as to the metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed to the institution district the matter shall be laid before the court of common pleas of the county where the lands are located by petition of either the Secretary of Welfare of the Commonwealth or the authorities in charge of the institution district which court after hearing all parties in interest on such notice as it shall direct shall determine the metes and bounds of the lands which shall be conveyed to the institution district and shall enter an order accordingly The action of the court shall be final

Where auxiliary structures and facilities furnishing light heat power water laundry kitchen sewage treatment services and coal supply are so transferred to the Commonwealth which were theretofore used in common for the buildings devoted to mental patients and also the buildings devoted to indigent persons the Commonwealth shall thereafter continue to furish the proper institution district with such services at the actual cost thereof to the extent the same may hereafter be requested by the institution district

Any property so transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth shall if found suitable in accordance with this act be thereafter used as a State mental hospital but if such property shall within one year thereafter be found unsuitable for such purpose or shall within one year after transfer to and use by the Commonwealth as a State mental hospital be thereafter abandoned by the Commonwealth as such a hospital before substantial improvements thereto have been made then in either event such building lands and personal property so transferred to the Commonwealth shall absolutely revert to and vest in the county city or institution district from which transferred and the Commonwealth shall have no further claim or title thereto

The words "substantial improvements" as used in this section shall be construed to mean capital investments involving an expenditure of at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000)

Section 2 It shall be unlawful hereafter for any county city or institution district to operate or maintain in whole or in part any existing institution for the care of mental patients or thereafter to begin to operate or manage any institution in whole or in part for this purpose Provided however That the county city or institution district having charge of any such existing institution shall continue to operate and manage the same under existing laws until the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor formally takes over the management and operation of such institution or formally closes such institution in the manner hereinafter prescribed in this act And provided further That the authorities of general hospitals may continue to maintain or hereafter may set apart establish and maintain beds wards or departments for the temporary care of mental patients under licensure by the Department of Welfare as now provided by law

Section 3 The Department of Welfare shall promptly make an investigation and survey of the institutions hereby transferred to the Commonwealth for the purpose of determining (1) which of the institutions are necessary having regard to the number of persons requiring care and treatment because of mental illness and the geographic location and capacity of other such mental hospitals and (2) which of the institutions having regard to existing facilities may be operated by the Commonwealth in such a manner as to insure the proper maintenance custody safety and welfare of mental patients Upon the completion of its investigation and survey the Department of Welfare shall submit to the Governor a report setting forth its findings and recommendations with respect to the institutions deemed necessary and suitable for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients and the institutions deemed unnecessary or unsuitable for this purpose Upon receiving the report of the Department of Welfare the Governor shall from time to time but not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine having regard to the standards of necessity and suitability hereinbefore set out in this section determine which of the institutions shall be managed and operated by the Commonwealth as State mental hospitals and which institutions if any shall be closed Provided however That the Governor shall direct the State Department of Welfare to take over the management and operation of any such institution which is operated and managed by any city of the first class as soon as practicable after the effective date of this act and before the completion of the investigation and survey hereinbefore required in thie section Before the management and and operation of any institution is taken over by the Department of Welfare the Governor shall issue his proclamation setting forth the date on which the Department of Welfare will take over the management and operation of the institution In the event it shall be determined that a particular institution is to be closed the Governor shall issue a proclamation setting forth the date on which such institution will be closed The original of any such proclamation shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and a copy thereof shall be furnished the county city or institution district authorities having charge of such institution

Section 4 Each institution subject to this act which the Governor shall direct the Department of Welfare to operate and manage shall be operated and managed by such department as a State mental hospital in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth relating to such hospitals The Department of Welfare in managing and operating any such institution shall have all the powers and perform all the duties vested in and imposed upon boards of trustees of State mental hospitals by the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws one hundred seventy-seven) and its amendments designated as The Administrative Code of one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine All mental patients in any such institution at the time the management and operation thereof is assumed by the Department of Welfare shall have the same status as if originally committed or admitted to a State mental hospital Commitments may be made to any such institution mental patients may be detained maintained and cared for therein and transfers may be made therefrom and thereto in the same manner and in accordance with laws applying to other State mental hospitals The Department of Welfare shall have power to designate the counties of the Commonwealth from which commitments may be made to any such institution

Each institution acquired and operated by the Commonwealth as a State Mental hospital under the provisions of this act shall be known as the .....
(descriptive
name of political subdivision in which institution is located State hospital for example the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases shall be known as the Philadelphia State Hospital

Section 5 When the Commonwealth through the Department of Welfare assumes the control and management of any institution subject to this act the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of any such institution shall thereupon become employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare

Section 6 In the event it shall be determined that any institution subject to this act shall be closed the Department of Welfare shall take charge of such institution and the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of such institution shall thereupon become the employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare when their services are no longer required No new patients shall be admitted to any such institution after the date specified for its closing The Department of Welfare shall as soon as practicable transfer the patients in such institution to any other State mental hospital including any institution transferred to and being operated by the Commonwealth under this act as a State mental institution As far as practicable the department shall transfer such patients to such State mental hospital nearest to the locality in which the institution to be closed is located After the patients in such institution are transferred therefrom the Department of Welfare shall with the approval of the Governor turn the institution and its grounds over to the Department of Property and Supplies for use for any other State purpose as may be deemed necessary and advisable by the Governor unless such institution under the provisions of section one of this act would revert to a county city or institution district in which event such institution shall be turned over to the proper authorities thereof and shall thereafter be used for such purposes not inconsistent with this act as the county city or institution district may determine

Section 7 After the effective date of this act and until the management and operation of a particular institution is formally assumed by the Department of Welfare or until a particular institution is closed under the provisions of this act but not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine the county city or institution district engaged in the operation and management of that institution shall continue to bear the expense of administering and operating the institution and the Commonwealth shall contribute towards the expense of indigent patients therein to the same extent and in the same manner as pertained under existing laws on the effective date of this act

Section 8 (a) All obligations incurred by reason of the erection acquisition or maintenance of a mental institution by the county city or institution district which are outstanding on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or shall order such institution closed shall remain the obligations of such county city or institution district and shall be paid in the same manner as though said operation and management still remained in said county city or institution district For the payment of such obligations the proper authorities of such county city or institution district shall continue to have the power to levy and collect taxes as if control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city or institution district

(b) All amounts due any county city or institution district for the care of any mental patient in any institution transferred to the Commonwealth by this act that have accrued and remain unpaid on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or the date such institution is closed may be collected by the county city or institution disrict in the same manner as if the control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city or institution district Provided however That where there is a claim against the estate of any such mental patient both on behalf of the Commonwealth and on behalf of the Commonwealth and on behalf of any county city or institution district and there is not sufficient in the estate to pay the claim in full the same shall be paid pro rata to the Commonwealth and the county city or institution district in the proportion of the amount of maintenance legally recoverable by each

The act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven (Pamphlet Laws eighty-three) entitled "An act to provide for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions" as amended

The act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred nine (Pamphlet Laws five hundred thirty-five) entitled "An act to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions' approved May twenty-five one thousand eight hundred ninety seven increasing the weekly sum therein authorized to be paid from one dollar and fifty cents to two dollars"

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 10 Section nine of this act shall become effective on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine and in all other respects this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill, Senate Bill No. 28, apparently, from the sense of it, is mainly intended for one institution, which I have no fault to find, but I feel that we should at least have a report on our own institution in Schuylkill County, which is more or less affected by this bill. In Schuylkill County, the taxpayers have spent close to one million dollars to build and maintain an institution for the mentally ill. At present there is carried on the books of our county in the last report a value of $680,724. Our bonded indebtedness on it is $76,000. This bill would take from the taxpayers of Schuylkill County an institution which is run well, and managed as well as any institution in the State, is non-politically run. The institution is being run on a sound, business basis, and very economically. This institution is being governed on a solid economic basis. The bill also calls for the taking of a lot of farm land and other appliances from our poor district. I understand under the terms of this bill, the light plant, which is operated by the poor district, will be taken over by the State, and the poor district charged for the cost of their power. This seems to be going a little beyond the usual American system of taking property over and then thereafter charging you for those things. It sounds more or less Hitler-like.

According to the statements of the proponents of this bill and their figures, the cost of the operation of this institution is slightly more than one half of the cost of the institution's maintenance by the State, and under the plea of economy, it would naturally result in a higher cost of operation, and not a measure of economy at all.

We should also take into consideration on this that upon the passage of this bill we are also removing more or less home rule, which is something that I think should be taken into consideration. I ask the members of the House to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. McARDLE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to speak against the passage of this bill. This bill, if passed, takes approximately $17,000,000 worth of buildings and property, that were paid for by the taxpayers of both Allegheny County and Pittsburgh. It also opens the portals of our institution to people from all over the State, who have not been able to provide for their mentally ill, and the State has not given Allegheny County or the City of Pittsburgh any assurance of what they intend to do in the way of additions to the present buildings.

One of the arguments used for the passage of this bill is that they have to pass this bill in such a rush that they may apply or make application to the P. W. A. for money before September 30th. I am convinced and I think that the majority of the members of this House are convinced, that P. W. A. will not be discontinued after September 30th. The President has indicated that he intends to carry on that program and help both the Commonwealths and other municipalities, by advancing sufficient money to pay for any projects that are worth the government's consideration.

I believe that this bill should be defeated at this time, and presented after the report of the Committee investigating conditions in the institutions of the State, has been presented to the membership of this House for their consideration. The people of Allegheny County have approved bond issue after bond issue and have been willing to pay the taxes to take care of their mentally ill. This House is called upon today to pass upon a bill of such momentous importance to the mentally ill, that I think, in deference to those people in the different counties and cities who have gone forward to take care of the mentally ill, should be given an opportunity to pass judgment upon the merits or demerits of this bill.

The people of Pittsburgh have expended a considerable sum of money for their institutions. Some people have taken the position that the institutions in Pittsburgh and in Allegheny County are overcrowded. The people that run those institutions in the County Home and the County Hospital for the mentally ill have stated that they are not overcrowded. The State home and hospital at Mayview is overcrowded for the reason that they are taking care of 250 patients that should be in State institutions at the present time. Therefore, I ask the membership of this House to vote down the bill that is before them for consideration now.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not think that there is a member in this House who believes that the State or Federal government should not contribute to the mentally ill. However, when we contribute to the mentally ill throughout the State, I believe that we should contribute it in a business like manner, and not be asked to vote for a bill, which according to the very first principles of business, is very bad. I believe that this bill is very closely drawn and would be very poor business if it was passed. First of all, let me tell you, if this bill is passed, the State will only take care of the mentally ill. That means that in these counties and in the city where the hospitals are maintained to take care of the mentally ill, and the aged and the sick, that two organizations must be maintained. For instance, in the City of Pittsburgh, if the State takes care of the mentally ill in Mayview, the City of Pittsburgh must maintain an organization to take care of the aged and the sick, and the same thing holds good in the County of Allegheny at Woodville. No two organizations can function under one roof without bickering, and particularly in the political world, when these two organizations may be of different political faith.

On page 5, line 15 to 28, and on page 6, lines 1 to 24, the gist of these lines is, if after one year of operation the State decides that they do not wish to continue that mental hospital, in whichever county it is located, that they can walk out on the job and give that hospital back to the city or county in which it is located. But, my friends, it says one other thing. It says if the State has spent $250,000 in that hospital that they can take that building from that county or from that city and use that building for whatever purpose they may want to use it, even if that city or county is caring in that building for the aged and for the sick.

On page 6, section 3, lines 23 to 29, and on page 7, lines 1 to 28, it says that these buildings or these hospitals do not have to be taken over until May 1, 1939. Why the rush in a special session, when these hospitals cannot be taken over until May 1, 1939? The only hospital which will be taken over immediately is the hospital located in Philadelphia, Byberry, and therefore, Philadelphia will be the only part of the State that will be benefited in 1938.

Section 8, page 11, says that the city and county will continue to pay for their indebtedness. For instance, in the City of Pittsburgh, and the County of Allegheny, the City of Pittsburgh will continue to pay $2,400,000 worth of debt on Mayview, and the county will continue to pay a like amount on their debt, while at the same time, the State takes over $25,000,000 worth of property paid for by the taxpayers of the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny. I feel that when they take those properties over they leave those hospitals open to the State. What is there to assure the City of Pittsburgh and the people of Allegheny County that our mentally ill will be taken into those hospitals? Can they not say to us, like they say to us when we try to get the patients into Polk, "We haven't any room." Just as Mr. McArdle said, in Mayview there are 251 patients that are being cared for by the City of Pittsburgh that should be into Polk Institute. Regardless of what is done, the local county and the local city will have to continue their organizations. They say that the City of Pittsburgh will save $360,000 if this bill is passed. I doubt those figures because it looks as if over night you had a lot of twenty-four hour experts giving us figures of how much money it will save the taxpayers, and I think that we members of the House know a lot of times that these figures work out fine on paper but in reality do not work out at all in the end.

I am in favor of the State taking over the mentally ill, and I think everyone else is in favor of the State taking over the mentally ill. Some of the members from the rural districts, who do not have a county institution in their county, are eager to see the State take over the mental hospitals throughout the State. I say to the members of the rural districts, you know that when you come back to the Legislature you will be asked to raise fifteen to twenty million dollars for the care of these institutions. Of course, this burden should be taken from the real estate owners, and a lot of other burdens should be taken from the real estate owners, but, my friends, I believe we are putting the cart before the horse. The state should not run in blindfolded at this time. We should not be compelled to pass this bill because if we do not have it passed by a certain date we are afraid that they cannot receive money from the State Authority.

We the people of Pittsburgh and we the people of Allegheny County are proud of our buildings, we are proud of our hospitals, and if the state wants to help us take care of our mentally ill, then why don't the state send back to the City of Pittsburgh, the County of Allegheny the cost of taking care of those mentally ill, and we can then keep in the City of Pittsburgh and in the County of Allegheny that $25,000,000 worth of building paid for out of the taxpayers' money in the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny, that, my friend, I think is the best business way of handling this. No two organizations can function under one roof. If they do, there will be bickering and the people whom we are trying to help, the mentally ill, will not be taken care of.

Mr. O'KEEFE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House while it is true that we in Allegheny County, as well as in other counties, hesitate to give up our institutions, we believe that they are run on a very efficient basis and are run in a very good manner, I believe that my colleague from Allegheny misses the point and takes a rather selfish attitude in opposing this bill. This bill, in principle, is a very good bill, and on a State-wide basis. If we hope to take care of the insane throughout our State, we must disregard our personal feelings because only under this plan, where the State is able to secure funds in order to carry out a building program will we be able to take care of all of the mental patients throughout the State. That is the attitude that I believe the majority of the people in the City of Pittsburgh and in the County of Allegheny will take on this bill. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask that the members of Allegheny County vote in favor of this bill in order that we may carry out a long range program to take care of the mentally ill in this State.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAW. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Shaw, explain for the information of the House a situation such as exists in Lancaster County, where we have an institution for the care of the indigent and the mental cases under one roof as one organization—just how and what division will be made of the property as it now is in Lancaster County?

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the interrogation of the gentleman from Lancaster, as I recall the situation in Lancaster County, at the old Lancaster County poor farm, and I investigated it last year prior to the passage of the Public Assistance Law, I was told then that they had one building devoted to the care of mental cases, is that correct Mr. Trout?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, they are both in the same building.

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, that was not the information

I had from Doctor Hammer and from members of the poor board. I believe Mrs. Horting was with me at the time I investigated it. If that is not true, if that is not correct, Mr. Trout, then I have merely this to say, that I took up with the sponsor of the bill the question of how the property was to be divided, in the case of a county institution that had only one building, and I was told that that would have to be worked out possibly between the institution which in the case of Lancaster County would be the County Commissioners and the Department of Welfare. I would assume that in case they were not able to agree, the same principle as is laid down in this law, or in the bill rather, for the partition of the acreage, of the various institutional districts would apply. That it, where the institutional authorities of the Department of Welfare could no agree, the matter would then go to the Common Pleas Court of the county. Possibly our colleague, Mr. Lewis, who was a member of the Committee investigating conditions at Byberry and the other mental institutions in the Commonwealth, might answer that question more satisfactorily.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, if that is the division of the land, the part that was taken over by the Department of Welfare would be cared for by the State, and the part retained by the County would be cared for by it?

Mr. SHAW. That is it, Mr. Speaker. The bill requires the entire property be conveyed to the Commonwealth, and in return the Commonwealth will deed back to the instiutional districts the buildings which are used for only the indigent plus the portion of the acreage attached to the building, in the same ration that the number of indigent inmates, or residents rather, of the institution bear to the total number of residents of that institution.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that I should answer the representative from Allegheny County, Mr. O'Keefe. He remarked that both Mr. McArdle and myself were taking a selfish attitude. I do not think we take a selfish attitude. After all, if protecting $25,000,000 worth of real estate owned by the taxpayers of the City of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County is selfish, you can term it a selffish attitude; if to see that people who are mentally ill are admitted to hospitals when they should be admitted, is a selfish attitude, then it is a selfish attitude. However, I don't think so. I do not want to give the impression to this House that I am opposing this bill purely from a selfish standpoint. After all, I believe that the people who paid for these hospitals back in the City of Pitstburgh and the County of Allegheny should be given some consideration, and we should not rush with our eyes closed, rush madly into this legislation that may later on turn into a Frankenstein and destroy some of the things we are trying to do.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not wish to impose upon the membership of the House by lengthy discussion as to the merits of this bill. I think that the proposition is a very simple one. The Commonwealth proposes to take over all mental institutions that are now being maintained by individual counties, and those who are acquainted with the situation in Pennsylvania know that certain counties have been maintaining their own institutions for the care of the insane and the mentally ill. Now, those institutions, not being under the supervision of one general agency, must of necessity, as far as their method is concerned, be different. Undoubtedly, the authors of this bill had no idea whatever to cast any reflection upon the methods that were utilized in a lot of county institutions, in the maintaining of their indigent in those institutions. However, certain abuses have been called to the attention of the people of the Commonwealth, and in an effort to eradicate the abuses that are existant, this bill was proposed. It will give to the Commonwealth, and to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, a uniform method in treatment and care, and in the payment of the cost of maintaining the insane. This bill goes a step further. It relieves the counties of their institutions quite correctly, but at the same it relieves those counties of further maintaining those institutions, with the necessary and attendant burden that those counties are exposed to in order to maintain those institutions.

There has been presented to me the total appropriations made by the various counties for the maintenance of the institutions:

Allegheny County, Woodville	$319,000
Blair County	41,000
Blakely, Lackawanna County	13,000
Chester County Institution	41,000
Hillside, Lackawanna County	125,000
Lancaster County	55,000
Mercer County	27,000
Pittsburgh City, Mayview	416,000
Ransom, Lackawanna County	48,000
Retreat, Luzerne County	152,000
Schuylkill County	76,000
Somerset County	69,000

The taxpayers of those counties are going to be relieved of that obligation. The small home owner, the big home owner, the factory owner, as well as the farm owner, will be relieved of the necessity of paying to their respective counties that particular portion of the tax burden that they of necessity must pay. We get the moneys that have been appropriated by those various counties out of county funds for the maintenance of those institutions, this bill would relieve those counties of that payment, and, in addition, it will go a step further, and will relieve the counties of the necessity of making a contribution for the maintenance of the insane in the insane State hospital. Altogether it presents what I would say is one of the most far reaching and advanced types of legislation that any legislature has had an opportunity to vote on. It will make uniform the treatment of the insane by the experts that the State is able to employ, and that advanced knowledge of the treatment of mental diseases will be passed on to those institutions, as well as to the State institutions. With the completion of this particular enactment, and with the completion of the program of the General State Authority, I would say that Pennsylvania will have the best conducted, maintained and housed State institutions for the care of the insane of any state in the entire nation, and on a par, if not superior, to those maintained by any country in the world. I might say that I am informed that Pennsylvania is one of the five states at present that has this diversification in the treatment of the insane. We have had an opportunity to experiment in the other states of the union, and Pennsylvania is the only State of any prominence at the present time that has diversification in the treatment of the insane. By this Act the whole problem becomes one of the State, the moneys must be provided by the State. The treatment will be provided by the State, the treatment will be uniform, the local taxpayers will be relieved of the obligations, and I recommend this bill to the entire membership of the House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York whether he has any estimate of the amount that this will add to the budget of the Commonwealth during the next biennium.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that this will necessitate an increased budgetary allocation of some five to six million dollars a year. I further understand that this increased budget will in turn relieve each and every one of our sixty-seven counties from making a payment to the Commonwealth of three dollars a week for the maintenance of the insane in the State-owned institutions.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman from York tell me the amount which is now being contributed by the counties to the State each year for the maintenance of the insane from each county, not taking them separately, but the total.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that my figures indicate that the amount presently paid to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the sixty-seven counties of the Commonwealth at the rate of three dollars per week for the insane patients in the State institutions, amounts to $2,612,968 a year.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in other words, that is about five million dollars,—somewhere between four and a half and five million dollars a biennium?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. And the gentleman figures that the cost under this measure will amount to about ten or twelve million dollars a biennium?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. In other words, it will cost the Commonwealth about five to seven million dollars more a biennium under this bill than under the present arrangement?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker is the gentleman talking in terms of the people or the Commonwealth?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I am talking of the Commonwealth.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the people of the Commonwealth or the government of the Commonwealth?

Mr. TURNER. I do not know the distinction, Mr. Speaker, between the people and the government.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would say no, it is not going to cause the people of the Commonwealth one cent more to maintain them in this position. The only thing it will do, it will effectuate a transition, it will take the $2,612,000, which is now being paid by the counties, from real estate taxes, and that will be paid, the money will be provided by the methods of indirect taxation now being utilized by the State.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, at the present time is it not true that the Commonwealth does not have more money than is needed for its operations in the next biennium?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware well knows that were it not for the fact that relief has continued at an accelerated rate, the collections for the first year of the biennium, would have exceded the estimated expenditures in th sum of approximately $25,000,000, and I would say, under those circumstances, if relief by any means has a downward trend, the moneys available for expenditure by the Commonwealth could adequately take care of the Commonwealth's assumption of this necessary obligation.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that the $25,000,000 which is claimed, and I think it is purely a guess based on some wish-bone figure, if that $25,000,000 was appropriated to relief, at th present rate of expenditures for relief, it will not be sufficient to carry us through the biennium.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, that is not true. If the same income is present in the second year of the biennium as we had in the first, even with the same relief problem during the second year of the biennium, as we had in the first year, we will still have sufficient money, and I might call to the attention of the gentleman from Delaware another form of—

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman from York doesn't mind, let us stick to one problem first before we switch over to another.

The estimate of $25,000,000 of excess revenue was not excess revenue for the first year of the biennium, was it?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct; it was.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, rather than try to debate this by interrogations, I would like to say I think that the gentleman from York is mistaken. The estimate of $25,000,000 is not excess revenue during the first year of the biennium, but is a ratio of excess, which is figured from the receipts from the first year of the biennium. I do not think that it has ever been contended that there would be in the second year of the biennium, another $25,000,000, or a total excess of $50,000,000 of receipts in the biennium, over that which was estimated. Therefore, if you have $25,000,000, or even conceding for the sake of argument, you could have some increase, I understand the present appropriations, outside of the $25,000,000 are sufficient to take care of the relief only to about October or November of this year. That would mean that there are at least six to seven months of the next year, and that $25,000,000 will hardly carry us beyond four months of the next biennium.

Therefore, it seems to me it must be apparent from any kind of figuring that the ten or twelve million dollars which is now being sought to be charged to the Commonwealth will have to be raised by additional taxation in the next biennium, if we are to carry out this program. Therefore, it seems to me that there is a very grave problem in this whole issue. I realize that there are conditions in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which need changing; I realize that tnere are conditions in the Commonwealth with reference to mental patients which make it imeprative for the Commonwealth to increase the size of its institutions. It seems to me, before we make a change that saddles on the State an estimated ten or awelve million dollars, and we always know that this kind of estimate is inclined to be low, it may be $15,000,000 instead of ten or twelve million dollars, and with the increase employment in the departments in order to care for such a program, that no program that increases the cost of the state government in any way by means of additional taxes should be entered into without the most careful consideration and without the most careful study as to the results, because we know, in spite of the fact that the golden apple is held out to the people of this Commonwealth constantly, turning it over to the state government or turning it over to the federal government, we know that those taxes must come from one place or the other, and they have to come back on the people, whether they fall on the real estate owner or whether they fall upon the worker, because, after all, we have the word of the President of the United States that all taxes are paid in the sweat of labor. Therefore, in the end, the people must pay it, and in that way we are going to add ten or twelve million dollars to the general budget, which means an increase in taxation. Such a problem ought to be approached more carefully than can be possibly done in the haste of a special session.

On the question

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. TURNER, SCHROCK and SPROUL asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. HARKINS filed the following reasons for his vote:

Reason for voting against Senate Bill No. 28, House Bill No. 73, Printers No. 53.

I am voting against Senate Bill No. 28 not because I oppose the principle that the Commonwealth should be responsible for the care of the persons suffering from mental disorders, but because I feel that the County of Allegheny has provided better care in the past than many State institutions have been able to offer.

It appears to me extremely uncertain that this bill will reduce the real estate tax as its sponsors claim.

The only pressing reason to include Allegheny County at this time seems to be that this will enable the General State Authority to obtain a larger grant from the Public Works Administration. However there is no way of knowing at this time what new construction will be allocated to Allegheny County, nor if any actually will be allocated.

Due to the fact that this bill contemplates the transfer of property valued at millions of dollars from the Allegheny County Institution District to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania without the assumption by the Commonwealth of any portion of the bonded indebtedness of the Allegheny County Institution District, together with the fact that Allegheny County now is able to provide treatment for applicants within three days after the applicant first applies, I believe that the possible benefits to be derived by the people of my legislative district are problematical. The present waiting lists for State institutions are over-crowded and I fear the Allegheny County Home at Woodville will be overcrowded by people who are not residents of Allegheny County.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. WAGNER filed the following reasons for his vote:

I wish to file my reasons for supporting Senate Bill No. 28, House Bill No. 73, Printers No. 53.

That Pennsylvania's system of caring for its mentally ill (insane) is antiquated and has been replaced by complete State administration in practically all other states in the Union.

That some counties and cities are penalized financially through the operation of our present system.

That by reason of our antiquated system, thousands of our citizens are handicapped through the necessity of being cared for in inferior hospitals.

That Pennsylvania trains so few doctors in psychiatry that it cannot supply one-half of its own present needs.

That our system, if continued, can never cope successfully with the problem of prevention of mental illness.

That your system confuses three distinct problems: mental illness, feeble-minded and destitution.

That Pennsylvania has 44 out of every 100 patients still cared for in county mental hospitals in the whole United States.

That on January 1, 1938, the administration of 11 mental hospitals passed into the jurisdiction of County Commissioners who already carry ample responsibility, and that they are furthermore unfamiliar with the technical requirements of mental hospital management.

The fact that almhouses are built in conjunction with county mental hospitals largely precluded "ground parole" and outdoor activities for many patients who would be distinctly benefitted by these privileges. Nor should it be necessary for people to go to 'the poor house" to be treated for mental illness.

Anyone in some measure aware of the manifold responsibilties of County Commissioners must wonder how they can assume this added burden of mental hospital management with any degree of efficiency. Hardly will they have begun to familiarize themselves adequately with the needs of the hospital before the dictates of the electors will place a new group in office and the whole learning process will have to be repeated, to te detriment of the hospital program.

And that counties and poor districts be relieved of contributions toward this maintenance. Here is an instance of overlapping functions.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Messrs. CHERVENAK, O'CONNOR and LOPRESTI offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, Information has just been received that Earl Westrick, the son of Honorable Dennis L. Westrick, our colleague from Cambria County, died last evening; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of the House of Representatives express to the Honorable Dennis L. Westrick and his family, their sincere sympathy for the loss they have sustained by the death of their son; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the family by the Chief Clerk of this House.

MOTION TO PERMIT COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I move that permission be granted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations to hold a meeting in the Conference Room in the rear of the House immediately.

The SPEAKER. It is the understanding of the gentlement, in case the House finishes its business, they will adjourn without waiting for the Committee to return. There is not much work to be done, except to wait for Senate messages.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker, I wish to announce that immediately at the close of this session a meeting of the Committee on Municipal Corporations will be held in the conference room in the rear of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

RESOLUTION No. 17

Mr. ZAPPALA. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 17, Printer's No. 61.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 19, 1938.

Whereas, The newspapers have published the recent correspondence between the American and the Mexican Governments and we believe that all the statements of fact made by Secretary Hull are true; and

Whereas, From that correspondence it appears that soon after the success of the Mexican revolution in 1914, the Mexican Government started confiscating properties belonging to American citizens, for which no compensation has ever been awarded; and

Whereas, Although in 1923 the United States of America and Mexico entered into a convention by virtue of which an American-Mexican Claims Commission was created, and although the claims of American citizens for compensation for said confiscation were referred to it for one reason or another, it has not been possible for said commission to pronounce any decision on said confiscations and the respective compensations; and

Whereas, Since 1927 new confiscations have taken place, and many small American owners have been deprived of their properties; and

Whereas, After twenty-four years of patience and forbearance, the American Government has finally undertaken to obtain compensation for past confiscations and to stop future confiscations without compensation; and

Whereas, The Mexican Government refuses to take any serious step toward compensation for the past confiscations and to stop confiscations in the future; and

Whereas, Mr. Hull's policy consists in obtaining compensation for past confiscations and in stopping future confiscations without prompt, adequate, and fair compensation; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate Concur), That the General Assembly approves of the position taken by Secretary Hull and the policy adopted by him to bring about the settlement of American claims for compensation for lands and properties of American citizens seized by the Mexican Government and urges upon Secretary Hull that he advises the Mexican Government of the desire of the citizens of the United States that future seizures shall not be made unless fair and adequate compensation be paid immediately; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be duly engrossed and be transmitted to Secretary of State, Cordell Hull.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think we can concur in the efforts of Secretary Hull. The one thing it seems to me that ought to be added to the resolution is that if they do not accede to the requests of Secretary Hull, we won't let Governor Earle go down there and inspect the police force any more.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. BOHN offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 27, 1938.

Whereas, Some men have the faculty of being able to concentrate on the particular problems at hand, regardless of the hurricane, fires or earthquakes that might surround them in their work; and

Whereas, This apparently is the trait of a great engineer, for it is reported that while Robert N. Bierly was giving a very attentive ear to the testimony of Mr. Margiotti and others, his wife was busily occupied with other matters, the result of which was that our colleague, Robert N. Bierly, became a father of a baby boy, born on Friday, September 23rd; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House extend to the Honorable Robert N. Bierly their congratulations upon his great faculty of concentration; secondly, upon his being the proud father of a little boy; the House also extends its congratulations to Mrs. Robert N. Bierly, and it is also hoped that all three are well and happy.

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1938. No. 22.

SENATE

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Thou eternal personal spirit, perfectly good, who in holy love creates, sustains and orders all things whatsoever, we know that our

"God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform;
He plants His footsteps on the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

We thank Thee our Father for the promise of respite from the ravages of war; for the unadorned, bare fact of peace; that our young husbands, fathers, brothers, sons, friends, may be spared for a season from the slaughter-house of hate, yet we cover our hearts with crepe, as we ponder the widening realm of the nation in hopeless grip of the madman. God forbid that we shall ever forget their shameless vendetta against a people who gave us the ten commandments, and Moses and the prophets; from whom there arose the matchless Philosopher of Love, out of the manger of Bethlehem; and whose genius has added lustre to every nation and every age. Truly, Thou hast kept Thy holy word of blessing to Abraham, that in his seed all the nations of the earth should be blessed.

Bless our coming together tonight, and by Thy spirit of truth and love, guide us in all things. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Eroe,	Kahle,	Rodgers,	Wolfenden,

NAYS—0.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 57 (House Bill No. 62), entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee to investigate governmental costs of Philadelphia, Concurrent Resolution Number Two, approved the thirteenth day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws two thousand eight hundred sixty-nine) which committee was provided with an appropriation under Appropriation Act Number Nine A entitled, "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number One hundred two approved January thirteenth, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven," together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, if he would be kind enough, without making a long speech, to explain this bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, yield with the reservation?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the reservation makes it almost impossible to help the Senator from Bucks and I suggest that he take time out to read the bill. Then he will understand it just as readily as I did when I read it.

For the benefit of the Senator from Bucks and the benefit of some of the other Senators here this bill has been prepared because of a decision of the Supreme Court which affects another commission. This bill relates to the committee appointed to investigate costs and functions of city government at Philadelphia.

The Oil Commission which was appointed was held by the Supreme Court to hold unconstitutional powers particularly since an appropriation was given to it by a resolution. The committee to which this bill refers had a separate bill for an appropriation but in order to avoid any question as to its legality this bill was introduced and I hope it will be passed.

I want to say for the benefit of the members of the Senate that this committee received an appropriation of $25,000, and that it has spent the money solely for stenographic services, and traveling expenses of the committee, which amounted to less than four or five hundred dollars. The stenographic services run somewhere in the neighborhood of $17,000. There was no special counsel fee to be paid and I think before the end of this session this committee will return to the Treasury about $6,800.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—35

Buckman,	Haluska,	Lanius,	Ruth,
Cavalcante,	Henney,	Law,	Scarlett,
Dando,	Heyburn,	Mallery,	Shapiro,
DiSilvestro,	Howell,	McGinnis,	Sipe,

NAYS—2

Chapman, Deitrick,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 58, (House Bill No. 65), entitled:

An Act creating a commission to study and report on use of devices and methods of transmission of information for advices in furtherance of gambling and making an appropriation.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President. The Joint Legislative resolution under which a joint committee was appointed to investigate into the existing facilities for permitting gambling needs no quotation here. The Committee as appointed consists of men who are beyond reproach. They are men of ability, honesty, and integrity. Immediately after their appointment, it is my understanding, they contacted and appointed an attorney in Philadelphia.

For quite some time, the State has been conducting a probe into the gambling activities in Philadelphia. Under that investigation, $90,000 has already been expended and 300 men indicted. Some of these men, I am informed, are and had been represented by Lemuel B. Schofield, the attorney for whom you are now appropriating money to handle the legal affairs of the Joint Committee.

If that fact is true and it can be easily ascertained, we would be selecting a man who is trying to serve two masters—trying to carry water on both shoulders. That is gross deception, and as you know, one deception leads to another. The lawyer who represents that committee must come to it with clean hands and above reproach. He must be free from prejudice and wearing no man's collar. If he does not answer to those qualifications, no matter what his professional skill or eminence, and no matter what his professed zeal, he is unfitted for that job and should be dispensed with. While it is still true, as the old German proverb used to say, that lawyers and cartwheels have to be well greased to do their most effective work, we cannot subscribe to any activity on the part of a lawyer selected to represent this Committee who would be well greased by both sides of the question, and which would hamper his fair judgment in the handling of the committee's investigation.

I do not blame the committee for this appointment because I realize if they had known that he was interested in the gambling probe and representing defendants who had been using these devices in the furtherance of their gambling practice, they certainly would not have appointed him. The fact of the matter is that when I approached one member of the committee and related to him Schofield's connections, he was taken aback.

Mr. President, I thoroughly approve the principle of the bill now before this Chamber, because I firmly believe that some measure of control should be exercised over unbridled gambling and its unfortunate consequences to innocent victims. But I definitely refuse to subscribe to the manifest motives behind this legislation, particularly as accentuated by the proposed employment of counsel to perform a Machiavellian role.

Recrimination and vindictiveness are alien to American institutions and tradition and to our spirit of good sportsmanship. We must not become engulfed in the maelstrom of distrust and self-interest which dominates a large part of the civilized world today. We must resist, with all our power, any desecration of our democracy by the shortsightedness of a few whose vision has become blurred by the desire for an immediate objective.

The people of Pennsylvania are presently faced with many problems which demand a solution and which are more vital to their welfare than that embraced by this bill. Have the economic problems of our destitute citizens been so completely solved that we can indulge in the luxury of this investigation? Are there not more useful ways of spending the taxpayers' money today than dissipating it in a gambing inquiry? At a time when the nation is seeking to reduce the tax burden of our people, is it fair to impose an additional load on the taxpayers of this State to cover the cost of an investigation which may well be postponed to a later and more propitious date?

Important as these considerations are, and despite any averment of the comparatively small cost of this proposed investigation, I am unalterably opposed to this bill before the Senate because of the motives behind it. To me they present a paramount issue. And for this Chamber to approve this bill at the present time would be nothing less than a subversion of a cherished principle of democracy—the principle of fair play.

With all deference to my fellow Democrats who favor this bill, I regret that I cannot acquiesce and must refuse to support it.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, will the Senator state when the committee proposes to make its report to this Senate?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, if the work of the committee goes ahead in the fashion we would like it to, we can probably report the latter part of this month.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, my objections to this bill when it was first brought to my attention were due to the fact that it had so long been delayed and that action had not been taken earlier in the session to carry out the important matter of investigating these improper gambling devices. However, in view of the statement that the committee proposes to act so that legislation can definitely be drawn at this session of the Legislature I shall support this bill.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, this may not be considered by some people a very important bill but I want to call the attention of the Senate to the fact that it is just one bill after another, appropriating $25,000, $50,000, $25,000 again, until this money appropriated for the various commissions amounts to quite a large sum and would go a long way toward relieving the people in distress in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I cannot imagine how this committee is going to use up $25,000 between now and the end of the month. Maybe they can but I do not see how they can do it.

It seems to me that in addition to what I have said, this bill is not within the Governor's call for this extraordinary session. If we look at the Governor's call, at Section 15, on page 2 of the first day's Journal, we will find it provides as follows, among the other subjects to be legislated upon, "Number 15. Making illegal the use of devices or methods of transmission of information or devices in furtherance of gambling."

Now we have a perfect right to pass a law preventing this sort of gambling if there is such a thing but I cannot see anything in this law that would authorize the appropriation of money to study something that is already supposed to exist and I would like to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, why they have placed in this bill a provision that if they do not get through with their work during the present session of the General Assembly they shall have the power to sit and continue their investigation after the adjournment of the current session.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, of course this is a House bill and I was not in any way responsible for the drafting of the bill. As chairman of this committee I might say that I am more anxious than perhaps anyone in this Senate to perform this investigation expeditiously and I can assure the Senator that the work of this committee will not drag out until the next session if I can prevent it.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, how does the Senator expect to use $25,000 between now and election?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, well it is a gambling proposition. If all of the reports I hear about the Republican slush fund are true we Democrats can easily use $25,000.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, is the Senator's answer to my question to the effect that this is to be part of the Democratic slush fund?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, no, I think the Senator from Bucks has misinterpreted my remarks. If he is really anxious to know something about this bill and wants to ask me how this money is to be used I will be glad to indicate how we need the money for committee purposes.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would be very much interested in hearing about just that.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, well, the good Senator from Bucks, following his Quaker ancestry, I am quite sure is not familiar with all of the rackets that are abroad in this State at the present time and he does not realize of course the implications and ramifications of a problem such as this committee is trying to deal with. Of course the work of this committee is directed primarily toward what is unquestionably today one of Pennsylvania's biggest rackets and that is the transmission of news in connection with race-horse gambling.

Race-horse gambling as it is carried on today by use of the teleflash, the teletype, and means of instantaneous communication, has assumed tremendous proportions. It has been reported to us that at least as much as a half a billion dollars a year is gambled away in this State. The appalling part of this whole situation is the fact that information which we have and which we want to ascertain the truth or falsity of reveals that approximately eighty per cent of the bets that are laid on race-horse gambling today through these bookies and these agencies are, as a rule, laid after the race is run; that the people who handle this system of communication get this news almost instantaneously from the track in whatever part of the United States it is; that they lay the bets after they receive this information instantaneously and keep on laying bets for anywhere from twenty minutes to half an hour before this information gets into the hands of the public at large.

Of course the transmission of this information and the use to which it is put involves interstate commerce and involves a wide variety of problems. It involves the use of the telephone and telegraph lines. No satisfactory solution to this problem perhaps will ever be reached by the sole use of or resort to criminal statutes. It appears to the committee, in what work has been done so far, and which we hope in the next two weeks to be able to verify thoroughly, that we will perhaps need legislation giving the power to the Public Service Commission to adjust the use of their apparatus, perhaps even to license if need be the people who use it, as well as statutes providing criminal penalties.

In ascertaining the exact information that the committee must have, Mr. President, we must have the records and knowledge of such companies as the Bell Telephone Company, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the Keystone Telephone Company. We must bring records through for hearings from Baltimore and Chicago and New York. There is a wide variety of expenses of that kind that the committee must engage in.

I do not know whether it is going to be necessary to spend twenty-five thousand or not. Perhaps it will not be. If it is not necessary for the committee to spend twenty-five thousand dollars, Mr. President, it will not be spent. Only as much money will be spent as is necessary to perform the duties of the committee. In that connection I would just like to remind the Senator from Bucks that last year I was chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee to investigate relief. We had an appropriation of five thousand dollars and if my memory serves me right (the former Secretary of the Senate was secretary of that committee and he can check me up) we returned out of that five thousand dollars appropriation approximately thirty-two hundred dollars. Perhaps that is not the exact figure but I know it was some very substantial sum in excess of fifty per cent of the appropriation that was returned in connection with the work of that committee. If we have an excess over what is necessary for the prosecution of the work of this committee that money will be returned to the Legislature. There are certain very definite purposes that we can spend this money for. The money will be spent for that. What is not spent for those purposes will be returned to the State Treasury, Mr. President.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, as he believes in the Grand Jury system why he does not either submit this proposition to the present Vice Grand Jury sitting in the City of Philadelphia or to the new Grand Jury in Dauphin County which is about to start work?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would have thought my good colleague from Bucks was too astute a lawyer even to ask a question like that. He appreciates as well as anybody in this Senate that the only agency of government that has the power of inquiry throughout the entire State of Pennsylvania is the Legislature and its various agencies, and that the Grand Jury examination at best is local and confined to county-wide purposes.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator further if this is not aimed strictly at Philadelphia so that the Vice Grand Jury sitting in Philadelphia, which has already spent ninety thousand dollars, could not function perfectly without the expenditure of this large sum of money at his time.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I think the second question is as equally ridiculous as the first. This racket is just as general in many other sections of our State as it is in Philadelphia and information will have to be secured from those sections just the same as from Philadelphia.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the Senator has not told us yet how he is going to spend this twenty-five thousand dollars.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I have not told you that and I cannot tell you because I do not know, but I can assure the Senator that whatever is spent will be spent for the purposes of this committee. I have outlined to some extent some of the requirements that will be imposed upon this committee for expenditures. We cannot transport records of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company from Baltimore to Harrisburg and Philadelphia and expect them to bear the expense of it. We will have to do that at our expense and that will run up into a considerable sum of money.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, just one question more. I would like to ask the Senator from Centre how much he expects to pay as a retaining fee for lawyer or lawyers.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, there has been no compensation agreed upon with our counsel as yet but I can assure the Senator that whatever compensation is agreed upon will be a fair professional fee. I know something about fair professional fees, though perhaps not to the extent as the Senator from Bucks does. I do know something about what a lawyer ought to charge and what he ought to receive, as I was at it for twelve years myself.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair might make a parliamentary observation that with this information in the hands of the committee there is no reason why it should not be able to double the monies before the session adjourns.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Barthold,	Haluska,	Kunkel,	Rice,
Dando,	Hennev,	Lanius,	Rodgers,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL No. 40

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend Sections one hundred eight, five hundred six, five hundred seven, eight hundred thirteen, eight hundred fourteen, and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws, three hundred nine), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," as amended, by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts; redefining indebtedness of school districts; empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation; increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors; and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents.

was defeated, Sept. 27, 1938.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I voted "Nay."

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the bill passed second reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I voted "Aye."

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I voted "Aye."

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the title was agreed to.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the title?

Sections, from seven to one inclusive of the bill were severally reconsidered.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the first section?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move to amend Sec. 1 (Cl. b), page 4, lines 7 to 29, both inclusive, by striking out the following: all of said lines; amend Sec. 1 (Cl. b), page 5, lines 1 to 29, both inclusive, by striking out the following: all of said lines; amend Sec. 1 (Cl. b), page 6, lines 1 to 3, both inclusive, by striking out the following: all of said lines, and inserting in lieu thereof:

(b) On or before the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, each county board of school directors, with the advice of the county superintendent, and pursuant to standards and regulations promulgated by the State Council of Education, shall prepare and submit to said council a plan for the merger of school districts or parts of school districts and for the reorganization of attendance areas and administrative units.

Upon the approval of said plans for the merger of school districts or parts of school districts by the State Council of Education, it shall be the duty of the county board of school directors to prepare and present petitions for such mergers to the court of common pleas of the county wherein such district or parts of districts lie. The petition for any such merger shall request the submission of the question of such merger to the electors of all the districts or parts of districts proposed to be merged at the next general or municipal election to be held at least ninety (90) days after the presentation of said petition. The question to be submitted to the electors shall be framed by the court and be by it certified to the county commissioners for submission to the electors of the districts or parts of districts so proposed to be merged. Such submission shall be in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the submission of similar questions. If a majority of the electors of each school district or part of a school district, voting at said election shall be in favor of said merger as shown by the returns of said election, a certificate of the returns shall be filed with the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the prothonotary of the court of common pleas, the county board of school directors and the board of school directors of each of said school districts.

No such merger shall be effective unless the majority of the electors of the districts or parts of districts proposed to be merged shall have first assented to said merger in accordance with the question submitted: Provided, That whenever such assent shall have been given by the electors, said merger shall become effective on the first Monday in July next succeeding said election.

In any instance in which a school district is merged with another district or districts by the terms of this act, the directors then in office in each of said districts shall continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms, and shall jointly constitute the board of school directors of the resulting merged school district. At the first municipal election after such merged school district is created and at each subsequent municipal election, there shall be elected in such resulting merged school district the same number of school directors, and for like terms, as is provided by law for school districts of the class to which such resulting merged school district belongs, so that, upon the expiration of the terms of the directors of the former districts which were merged, the board of school directors of such resulting merged district shall be composed of the same number as in other districts in said class.

Whenever any school district or part of any school district shall be merged with any other district or districts the lands comprising the same together with any property or equipment owned by any such district shall become a part of and belong to such other district or districts, and the debts and liabilities of any such district shall become the debts and liabilities of such other district or districts in the same manner as is provided by law in the creation of union school districts.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Ordered To be transcribed for a third reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I practiced law in the city of Philadelphia for about twenty-five years and I have tried many cases before the Supreme Court and I have lost many cases before the Supreme Court and therefore I am speaking with authority as a lawyer. I have been disappointed in some of the decisions of the Supreme Court and think I am able to state that I have accepted those decisions in the same spirit that I would expect someone in a similar position to do. I have tried to criticize those decisions or disagree with them in a respectful manner. I have never joined in any statements publicly against the Supreme Court or any other court before which I have had what I consider a privilege to practice, because I believe that the foundation of any democracy and its last bulwark, and the safety of democracy, lies in the courts and in the respect for those courts.

It has always been my custom wherever I was present, to discourage or to disagree with any attempt on the part of any citizen to publicly show disrespect for the courts. Now there have been some decisions in this session of the Senate that have probably displeased one side or another and probably at the last session of the Senate which have displeased either Republicans or Democrats. I am satisfied to say that all of us took those decisions with full knowledge that we would as citizens respect the courts that made the decisions.

I was horrified this morning when I picked up my paper to find in one of the Philadelphia papers the following statements: "Whitewash laws to be killed." "Supreme Court to void two acts blocking Jury." "Ruling expected today." "Decision will deny House precedence over investigation by Grand Jury." "Will uphold the right of Attorney General." "The State Supreme Court will declare unconstitutional this week the two key measures of the whitewash legislation designed to head a Grand Jury investigation of the Earle Administration. The court, which has been deliberating for four weeks, is in session at Pittsburgh and it is highly probable that the ruling will be announced today. The Inquirer is able to forecast that the court will find Acts One and Four of the whitewash program unconstitutional and that the Earle Administration, successful in blocking a Grand Jury investigation for five months, will at last find itself at the end of the rope."

Then the paper goes on to say: "The court also will rule on Act No. Three which bestows on the Attorney General absolute discretion to supercede any District Attorney. This measure will be upheld, the Inquirer forecasts. It is probable however that Attorney General Guy K. Bard will be disqualified for participation in the present case in view of his relationship with the Governor, one of the fourteen accused."

Mr. President, I want to say that I have no quarrel with the Supreme Court in their decision. They made a decision, and it was a unanimous decision, and I think it is the duty of every citizen to respect the decision of the highest court or of any court of the State. You may disagree with those decisions, you may not agree with the conclusions, but certainly there is no right if we are to continue and maintain a democratic form of government to publicly hold in contempt any court. The evidence of what is going on in our European countries is proof positive of that fact. If courts had been respected, if individual rights of citizens had been respected, there would not exist there what there does today and certainly I for one feel that whenever the opportunity arises for me to say a word on the importance of that subject I shall do it.

I charge, Mr. President, that this publication is in actuality in contempt of court. Whether these people had the information or not is immaterial though it so develops that the Supreme Court's decision is absolutely in accord with what this paper said the Supreme Court will do. This paper does not say, does not prophesy, that it is even rumored or in fact that from the argument before the court it might be indicated that they would do that, but this paper says that the Supreme Court will declare these acts unconstitutional. If you look at the top of this paper you will notice that it is headed "Extra. 6 A. M. Edition." It takes at least three or four hours to prepare a paper and therefore at three o'clock in the morning the owners of this publication published the fact that the Supreme Court would make a decision and published the decision of the Court. Now I say it is immaterial whether they had the information or not. What is more important is the fact that the general public, reading that paper is going to believe something which I will not believe and which I do not believe until the Court says so itself, namely, that somebody on that Court furnished the information that this paper published.

It is because of that fact that I charge that the statement made by that paper is in contempt of Court and I stand up here to protest against any such condition in a free and democratic form of government. I say that this newspaper should have and every newspaper should have more respect for the importance of the Court; if not for the Court, then the individual members of that Court. I know most of them, all of them, personally and I have a high regard and a high respect for them. I also have a great respect for the privileges that I enjoy as a citizen of a democratic government and I do not propose to allow to go unchallenged any act on the part of any person or any persons or publication whenever I have the power to do so, that is in contempt of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I now say to my colleagues in the Senate that tomorrow at our session I shall propose and introduce a resolution that the Supreme Court shall publicly investigate this newspaper and the persons who published this story the manner in which it was procured, and see to it that proper punishment is meted out with respect to it in view of the regard that the public generally has or should have for this high Court.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I am somewhat surprised that the Senator from Philadelphia should make the remarks that he did. If he was here in this session, in the early part thereof, he would have heard the same predictions made as were made by this newspaper. I know nothing whatever of the reason for the publication in this newspaper but I have always known and I have stated time and again on this floor that the decision of the Supreme Court would be just what it was and I am surprised that the Senator from Philadelphia who has been practicing law for 25 years did not know that the Supreme Court was right.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to answer the Senator from Bucks. I have said and I repeat again that what the Senator has said to me privately or what he has said publicly to someone as to his opinion of a law and what the Supreme Court will do is one thing. The Senator from Bucks is too good a lawyer not to understand what I mean.

The Senator from Bucks knows that the Supreme Court of the United States guards carefully its opinions to such an extent that the printer who prints them is selected as a man of known integrity. The Senator from Bucks knows as a lawyer that if the Supreme Court ever discovered any leak in its opinions it would not hesitate very long before it would take action. The Senator from Bucks will remember, I think, that there was some stock market gambling some years ago when a supposed statement of what the Supreme Court's opinion in an important case would be and the Senator from Bucks, if he followed the newspapers, knows what happened.

What I say is not that we may not disagree or may not prophesy what a decision will be. That is unimportant, but what is important is the opinion of the people who read this newspaper. The opinion of the people who read this newspaper cannot be anything other than that somebody from the Supreme Court has told the newspaper what the decision was going to be. Look at this headline. It is not a statement of what may happen, but in four-inch type it says "WHITEWASH LAWS TO BE KILLED," "SUPREME COURT WILL VOID TWO ACTS," and not only that, it says that the Supreme Court will hold one act constitutional.

The opinion of the Senator from Bucks has always been that all the acts were unconstitutional and that they would be so declared, but this newspaper has more information than the Senator from Bucks. This newspaper is not even a lawyer but the paper disagrees with the Senator from Bucks and tells us what the decision of the Supreme Court will be and it guesses right, and tells us, in addition to that, when the decision will be published.

I would not say that if I did not know the Supreme Court better and if I did not have the respect that I have for the Supreme Court but I say that there are many who do not care much about law and order who use this paper as an argument in the course of their claim that law and order is always bought and sold, and I say it is to those people that I am directing my remarks and my attention. It is they who form the mob that creates a chaos and disrespect for law, and when a newspaper encourages that kind of condition it should be stopped and punished.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 54 (House Bill No. 58), entitled:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SECRETARY

There will be a Public Hearing on House Bills Nos. 43, 44, 45 and 46, the Anthracite Coal Bills, tomorrow, Tuesday, October 4, 1938, at one o'clock, P. M., in the Senate Caucus Room.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Tuesday, October 4, 1938 at 11:00 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11:23 o'clock, P. M., until Tuesday, October 4, 1938 at 11:00 o'clock, A. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1938.

The House met at 9:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our heavenly Father, as we begin our work this evening, may we desire most to have Thy commendation; may we always study to show ourselves approved of Thee, workmen that need not to be ashamed. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. So judge us by the conscientious desires of our heart. Though there may be differences of opinions and beliefs, yet we are co-workers with Thee, and as servants of our great Commonwealth, we each endeavor to serve to the best interests for the present and the future. Therefore Lord we yield to Thy guidance. In His name we petition Thee. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Tuesday, September 27, 1938.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, September 27, 1938, when, on motion of Mr. SPENGLER the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. Samuel A. Weiss asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. ZAPPALA for this week's session.

Mr. Lewis asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN for this week's session.

Mr. Gillette asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. MERRELL for this week's session on account of illness.

The Speaker asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. MURRIN for tonight's session.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 17.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, September 29, 1938.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 17, Printer's No. 47, entitled, "An Act to amend article two of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (Pamphlet Laws seven hundred thirty-six) entitled 'An act defining the liability of an employer to pay damages for injuries received by an employe in the course of employment establishing an elective schedule of compensation and providing procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder' as reenacted and amended by adding a new section two hundred and one and one-tenth thereto imposing the presumption of negligence upon employers providing for admission of certain evidence and providing for double damage under certain circumstances."

GEORGE H. EARLE.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF HOUSE BILL No. 23.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, September 28, 1938.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed House Bill No. 23, Printer's No. 34, entitled, "An Act to amend paragraphs (d) and (e) of Section 202 paragraph (a) of Section 409 Section 412 paragraph (a) of Section 601 Sections 702, 704, 808, 1201 and 1311 of the Public Utility Law (Act of May 28, 1937, P. L. 1053), entitled "An act relating to the regulation of public utilties; defining as public utilities certain corporations, companies, associations, and persons; providing for the regulation of public utilities, including, to a limited extent, municipalities engaging in public utility business, by prescribing, defining, and limiting their duties, powers, and liabilities, and regulating the exercise, surrender or abandonment of their powers, privileges, and franchises; defining and regulating contract carriers by motor vehicle and brokers in order to regulate effectively common carriers by motor vehicle; conferring upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty of supervising and regulating persons, associations, companies, and corporations, including, to a limited extent, municipal corporations subject to this act, and administering the provisions of this act; authorizing the commission to fix temporary rates; placing the burden of proof on public utilities to sustain their rates and certain other matters; authorizing a permissive or mandatory sliding scale method of regulating rates; providing for the supervision of financial and contractural relations between public utilities and affiliated interests, and supervision and regulation of accounts and securities or obligations issued assumed, or kept by persons, associations, companies, corporations or municipal corporations subject to this act; conferring upon the commission power to vary, reform, or revise certain contracts; conferring upon the commission the exclusive power to regulate or order the construction, alteration, relocation, protection, or abolition of crossings of facilities of public utilities, and of such facilities by or over public highways, to appropriate property for the construction or improvement of such crossings, and to award or apportion resultant costs and damages; authorizing owners of such property to sue the Commonwealth for such damages; providing for ejectment proceedings in connection with the appropriation of property for crossings; conferring upon the commission power to control and regulate budgets of public utilities; imposing upon persons, associations, companies, and corporations (except municipal corporations) subject to regulation, and cost of administering this act; prescribing and regulating practice and procedure before the commission and procedure for review by the courts of commission action; giving the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County exclusive original jurisdiction over certain proceedings; prescribing penalties, fines, and imprisonment for violations of the provisions of this act and regulations and orders of the commission, and the procedure for enforcing such fines and penalties; and repealing legislation supplied and superseded by or inconsistest with this act," by further defining and limiting exemptions, the transfer and acquisition of property, the crossing of facilities, the issuance of securities, relations between affiliated interests, the imposition of costs of administering the act, and otherwise clarifying and supplementing the provisions of the said sections of the act.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 3, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 10, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 10, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

STATEMENT BY MR. TROUT.

Mr. TROUT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, I wish to call attention to House Bill No. 51, Printers No. 57, which was committed to the Constitutional Amendments Committee and reported by that Committee to the floor of this House and passed second reading, after which a motion was made that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from York whether the purpose of this bill is not to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understood that that was the purpose of the bill.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, if that is the case, why was not the bill referred to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments rather than to the Appropriations Committee of which the gentleman from York happens to be the Chairman?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lancaster, I understand is interrogating me as to why the bill was committed to the Appropriations Committee?

Mr. TROUT. That is right.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understood it was originally referred by the Speaker of the House, in compliance with his constitutional duties to the Committee on Constitutional Amendments. I felt that the bill required study on the part of the Appropriations Committee due to the fact that the bill would greatly change the method of financing the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman. I believe every member of this House is familiar with my attitude regarding highway matters and particularly as regards the diversion of the Motor License Fund.

Motor revenues have very definite limits. The road user pays a state gasoline tax of four cents per gallon, of which one cent goes to the General Fund, one-half cent to counties for road purposes, and only two and one-half cents into the Motor License Fund. In addition, the car operator pays into the Motor Fund a license fee on his car or truck, and a fee for his driver's license.

The Motor License Fund is not an inexhaustible and endless source of revenue. The truth of the matter is that the Motor Fund, as now administered, is rapidly approaching the point where no state revenues will be available for new road construction.

The cost of administration, equipment, and general maintenance on state highways and on the roads and streets which the state maintains for local subdivisions, for the Aeronautical Division with its taxi and vacationing service, for the financing of Grand Jury investigations and the investigation of criminals, and for gambling in Philadelphia and elsewhere, has grown by leaps and bounds, while there has been no such increase in the revenue derived from motorists who use these highways.

Eight years ago the State Highway Department was responsible for 13,400 odd miles of highways, with an annual income from state sources of approximately $60,000,000. Today, the state high system alone amounts to over 40,000 miles of roads and streets, with 56,000 additional miles of local roads which are being maintained at state expense. Our present state income is estimated at approximately $70,000,000. According to information submitted to a recent Congress by Senator Hayden, Pennsylvania's state highway maintenance bill amounts to more than twice that of any other state.

During the period mentioned, automobile and truck registrations have grown from 1,741,942 in 1931, to 1,984,821 in 1937. The comparatively small increase in highway revenue is due almost entirely to the taxes on the additional motor vehicles. But consider the fact that some quarter million more vehicles now crowd our main roads and streets, demanding safe and adequate transportation facilities. Consider also the fact that the average car of today probably travels 2,000 miles more per year than it did in 1931.

The danger in the situation is camouflaged by the fact that road and street improvements still go on though at a greatly reduced rate. The gravity of the situation lies in the fact that the state itself has funds to pay for only a small part of these improvements, and that if emergency federal funds are removed, there must be a drastic revision of highway affairs.

During the past six years federal aid to the total amount of $78,861,000 has been made available to Pennsylvania. This money must be spent for the construction or reconstruction of roads, streets and bridges. No part of it can be used on maintenance.

By fiscal years the federal appropriations are approximately as follows:

1933	$18,891,000
1934	9,590,000
1935	26,178,000
1936	5,348,000
1937	9,427,000
1938	9,427,000

There is no cause to congratulate ourselves over the amount of money allocated to Pennsylvania for road building. Pennsylvania pays far more than her due share of the national taxes from which these emergency road funds are taken. Neither is there cause to congratulate ourselves upon the attitude of the national administration, nor to count upon the continuation of these appropriations. President Roosevelt, in a message on highways to Congress, November 27, 1937, said: "I recommend that the Congress adopt the following policies: First: Provide for the cancellation of the 1939 authorizations prior to January 1, 1938, by which date the Secretary of Agriculture is required to apportion to the various states $214,000,000 of such authorizations.

"Second: Limit to not more than $125,000,000 per annum all public road authorizations for the fiscal year 1940 and for each of the next few succeeding years."

Pennsylvania's road program, even with these federal grants, does not keep pace with the demands of traffic. I venture to say that there are few men here who do not know of dangerous roads that should be rebuilt, of narrow streets which clog with the through traffic they must carry or of constituents who want road improvements. Yet most, if not all, of us fail to realize that these improvements are held up, and that men are kept from work, partially at least, by the condition of the Motor Fund.

Last year at this time the Highway Department had contracted for some $19,000,000 worth of improvements. During the similar period this year only some $9,000,000 has been put under contract.

The administration, the allotment, and the expenditure of motor revenues is important to every citizen of Pennsylvania, whether car owner or not. The item of food alone justifies this statement. Meat, vegetables and milk can only come to him fresh and reasonably priced when producers can move them freely and economically over the highways.

New demands are continually being made upon the Motor Fund. Township, borough and city officials demand a greater share. Motorists complain that danger spots exist throughout the state. Farmers insist that rural roads be improved. There may be justice in all of these claims. Yet the motor revenues of this Commonwealth under present policies are nearing depletion.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House: Let me call your attention to the report recently made by the United States Bureau of Public Roads to the effect that twelve and three-quarter cents out of every dollar paid by highway users in Pennsylvania is diverted for non-highway purposes. The Bureau's figures show $13,854,000 went toward general state expenses, and $502,000 for other specific purposes, including $451,000 for airport landing fields and $51,000 for cooperative work with other departments.

Let me call your attention to a resolution which I introduced in the Session of 1937, asking for a report of the State-Wide Highway Planning Survey. The cost of this survey has long since passed the million dollar mark. At the time of the introduction of the resolution I asked for its immediate consideration. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, replied that this survey was practically completed, that it was in the hands of the Governor, and would be presented to the Members of the House within a few days. The fallacy of this statement seems to be proven by the fact that this report is not yet available. This report is most essential to the future highway program of the state of Pennsylvania. Not until such a survey is available can a definite program be outlined over a long period of years.

As in the past, the work of our highways will be improvements here and improvements there, with no positive plan or definite objective.

In my opinion, there is a solution for this problem. The first step in the solution of that problem is to safeguard the funds so that the highway department will have definite information from year to year how much money will be available and, thereby, can follow out a definite program without fear of each succeeding Legislature appropriating money out of the Motor Fund for some of the purposes which are foreign to highways that I mentioned above.

Let me return again to the bill which reposes so peacefully in Mr. Cohen's committee. In fairness to the motorists of Pennsylvania, who provide each dime of this fund, shouldn't the voting public be permitted to say what safeguard should be set up to protect this fund?

Members of the House, this bill does nothing more or less than permit the people of Pennsylvania to finally determine at least one of those safeguards! This is not a matter, gentlemen, that you and I will decide finally. In reality, you are giving the people their chance to say "yes" or "no". This is only the first step.

The entire highway situation deserves the serious study of every legislator or public official. It is time, and high time, that the solution to this problem be proposed; that motor revenues be used for the true benefit of the motorist, and that full justice be rendered to the citizens of this Commonwealth!

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be approved in full upon the Legislative Journal.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. NAGEL asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Municipal Corporations to meet during the session of the House.

INTERROGATION

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TROUT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Lancaster if it is not a fact that were this House to pass the bill which occasioned this discussion, that we could not comply with the constitutional requirement pertaining to the advertising of the constitutional amendments.

Mr. TROUT. That is correct, Mr. Speaker, as I understand it.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I further desire to ask the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, whether or not, due to the inability on the part of the House, or on the part of the Administration, the Secretary of the Commonwealth, to comply with the advertising requirement as set forth for the advertising of constitutional amendments, that the passage of that legislation by the House would be a futile gesture.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the question of the gentleman from York, this question of diversion and the amendment of the constitution, to prevent further diversion, has been considered by this House from time to time, and I believe it is an opportunity for the members of this House to express their opinion as to whether or not the diversion or the use of money from the Motor Fund for other than highway purposes, should be continued. I recognize the fact that the bill would not become effective until 1941. I also know that the members of this House should be given the right or opportunity to express their feelings fully, as far as the use of motor license funds is concerned.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Lancaster how much money was due and owing to the Motor Fund by the General Fund at the inception of the present administration on January 15, 1935.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the question of the gentleman from York, I would take the figures that he gave a few days ago, and which I think are correct,—$25,000,000.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further ask the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, how much is due and owing by the General Fund to the Highway Fund at the present time?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, in reply to that question of the gentleman from York, so far as I know, not any.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is not a question of whether there is any money owing the Motor Fund now from the General Fund, but it is a question of safeguarding that fund. I want to say to the gentleman from York and to the members of this House that it was under a Republican Administration when this transfer was started, the borrowing was started, and I want to say to the members of this House that the people who voted for the diversion of those funds are the same people who oppose it now. The motorists of Pennsylvania appeared in this House during the Pinchot Administration and fought the diversion just as we are doing it now. Do not let us forget this. In the meantime the Democratic Administration, under the leadership of Mr. Cohen, increased the gasoline tax by one cent a gallon, which is now going into the General Fund so that there was quite an accumulation of money there because the extra one cent gasoline tax will enable the General Fund to repay that into the Motor Fund. We are perfectly willing to give the Democratic Administration all the credit possible for having returned what should have been done. Our position is that we want to stop this diversion and we want to do it now so that there will be no further diversion of this fund from the motorists of Pennsylvania. Whether it is a Democratic or Republican administration makes no difference to the motorists of Pennsylvania.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Lancaster, may I say this, that due to the fact that in November of this year we are going to continue a Democratic Administration in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I think that the fears of the gentleman from Lancaster are entirely unfounded. The best safeguard that the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania could have to prevent any diversion would not be the legislation espoused by the gentleman from Lancaster but the continuation of the Democratic Administration.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, a few days ago the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Perry, introduced a resolution asking for some information on, I think, the tunnel highway. Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, would the gentleman from York kindly tell us how much money has been diverted from the Motor Fund for the purchase of aeroplanes and for the repair of aeroplanes by the members of the Executive family?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have any figures indicating such a diversion available nor do I know that any such figures are available. I do know, however, that the Democratic administration in the past session fulfilled the promises that had been made by previous Republican administrations, in that they have reduced the cost of driver's license from two dollars to one dollar, which is a saving of millions of dollars each year to the motorists of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I want to say as far as a reduction in the cost of drivers licenses is concerned, that promise was made by a Republican Governor during his campaign and was not a part of the platform of the Republican party. If he failed in his promise that is a thing for which the Republican party is not responsible. I want to say to the gentleman from York that we are grateful for that one dollar reduction. That is fine.

Will the gentleman from York kindly tell us another thing, how much money out of the Motor Fund was being used for the investigation of crime in Philadelphia as a part of the Bok Grand Jury Investigation, investigating Republican officeholders? Understand, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, that a Grand Jury in Philadelphia, investigating Republican officeholders is all right. It is all right to take money out of the Motor Fund for that, but I want to say to you when it comes to a Grand Jury in Harrisburg—

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I have the opportunity of answering the gentleman's question?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of information.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout, says that the Grand Jury in Philadelphia was investigating Republican officeholders. I understand it was investigating Mayor Wilson who is not a Republican officeholder.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will state his question of information.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know which question or questions I must answer—one or both.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster state his question?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I don't know. The situation is this, in Philadelphia we had this Bok Grand Jury investigation. Then there was the Shapiro investigation. Then we had the Ruth investigation. I don't know, speaking frankly to the gentleman from York, I don't know just which one we are talking about. Do you?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I frankly say I don't know which one you are talking about, but I still can answer the question.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from York waiting on me or am I waiting on him?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might state that since the gentleman does not understand the question he is asking nor do I understand the question, I will proceed to answer it.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I did want to ask the gentleman from York just the amount of money that was used from the Motor License Fund for the investigation of crime in Philadelphia and for the investigation of crime throughout Pennsylvania, as a part of the organization of the State Motor Police. I understand there was one million dollars alloted for the State Motor Police for the investigation of crime. Are we within that one million dollars or have we gone beyond that in this investigation?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand, not desiring to be facetious, but since a very definite question has been submitted to me, I understand that it has, been discussed in full and at length on the floor of this House at the time of the consolidation of the Motor Police and the State Police, that the method utilized by the Budget Department was to allocate the expenditure of the Motor Police in two distinct allocations: one being the moneys expended by the Motor Police in their highway work, which has been acknowledged as a justifiable expenditure of the highway funds. The second is the allocation of moneys expended by the Motor Police in criminal investigation, which moneys are provided for out of the General Fund. The gentleman from Lancaster undoubtedly remembers the discussion we had on that subject in the 1937 session, and I think discussion held on the subject in this session. The moneys that are spent by the Motor Police, giving a definite answer to the question submitted by the gentleman from Lancaster, in criminal investigations in no way and in no manner impinge upon the moneys of the Highway Fund. The Highway Fund moneys are spent by the Motor Police entirely on highway patrol work.

Mr. TROUT. I want to ask the gentleman from York, Mr. Speaker, if he recalls the fact that in 1937 I introduced a resolution asking the Highway Survey Commission to bring in a report of their work and of the work they had done. You will recall at that time we figured about one million dollars being expended for that work preliminary to this amendment we are speaking on. It is very necessary that that work be done. At that time

I think the gentleman from York stated that the report was on the Governor's desk and would be in our hands within the next few days. May I now ask the gentleman from York whether or not that report is finished by now and whether or not we can get a copy of it.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the traffic survey has been made, and that a great portion, a major portion, has been made available to the public, and that the traffic conditions in every locality of the state have been adequately studied. I am not an expert on highway matters. I feel sure if the gentleman from Lancaster will go to the Department of Highways and see our efficient Secretary and Chief Engineer, that the facts that have already been corralled will be placed at his disposal.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Trout.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster. Mr. Trout, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TROUT. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Lancaster, who is so anxious not to divert Highway funds, tell this House if he believes that the taxes collected from the motor vehicles of Pennsylvania should pay for the expense of handling the motor vehicles of Pennsylvania.

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I did not quite catch that question.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Lancaster believe that the amount of moneys collected from gasoline taxes, drivers license taxes and owners license taxes should be used only in improving the highways, or should these funds be used to pay the expenses of handling motor vehicles in Pennsylvania?

Mr. TROUT. Does the gentleman from Allegheny state the expense of handling the motor vehicles in Pennsylvania?

Mr. HOLLAND. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TROUT. I do, Mr. Speaker. The Motor Funds should pay for the State Motor payroll. I think that is what you have in mind.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Lancaster feel that the home owners in the city should pay out of the real estate tax for the handling of the traffic in the cities?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny is now raising a very serious problem, and I do not feel that in fairness to the members of this House, that I am in a position to give a definite answer to that question, nor to express my own feelings or convictions about it now. That is a question that has been debated for a long time. There are arguments on both sides. Just how far we ought to go in returning the taxes which are collected from the municipalities, returning such taxes to the municipalities, I do not know at the present time. This is a serious matter and I do not wish to give my opinion on it now.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Lancaster in favor of cutting the real estate tax to the home owner?

Mr. TROUT. Mr. Speaker, I would say yes. That is the platform upon which you fellows went into office.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from Lancaster if it is not a fact that he is in favor of cutting all taxes before election?

Mr. TROUT. No, Mr. Speaker, you would try to do that in the tax abatement bill, cutting down the penalty. I wouldn't vote for that.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, we are talking now about motor vehicles and not the tax abatement bill.

STATEMENT BY MR. HOLLAND

Mr. Holland asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to point out to some members of the House who are so anxious to pass a bill to keep in the highway fund all the money collected from motor vehicles, that there are other expenses which the already overburdened real estate owner in Pennsylvania is paying, that should come out of this fund. I would like to say to this House that in the city of Pittsburgh the home owners are paying out of the real estate taxes $727,806 for the handling of motor vehicles, which expense is incurred in traffic court, by the Motor Police that are used to direct traffic. Even the Fire Department has an expense each year of close to $60,000 answering calls to burning autos. Allegheny County gives the state in taxes, both in the gasoline tax, the drivers and owners fees, $12,246,000 a year. The people in the city of Pittsburgh believe that they should receive at least back from this state tax the cost of the handling of the traffic, and I hope that when these members are talking upon the diversion of money from the Highway Fund, that they will remember that those real estate owners who are now losing their homes, and this tax abatement bill must be passed for them, for the purpose of saving their homes, that they are paying the cost of handling the traffic that some of the other counties in the state of Pennsylvania are receiving the benefits therefrom.

In the Rules Committee, there is a resolution asking that this House make a survey showing the actual cost to the people of different municipalities for the handling of motor vehicles. I believe that this resolution should be reported out so that the home owners in the state of Pennsylvania shall know just how much the automobile is costing the owner of real estate.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 26, as follows:

An Act authorizing the abatement of certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 All penalties and interest imposed on delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years and all penalties imposed on such taxes for the tax years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years may be abated by the authority levying the tax if said delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided This section shall not be construed to authorize the abatement of the interest accrued on the taxes for the years of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven but no further interest shall be imposed on such taxes after the payment of the first installment as hereinafter provided so long as the taxpayer complies with the provisions of this act

Any ordinance or resolution abating penalties and interest as herein provided shall contain a provision that such taxes must be paid as provided by this act

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for all previous years and of the accrued interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes shall be paid on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the final twenty per centum on or before the first day of November one thousand nine hundred and forty-two And provided That the respective current taxes (the institution district taxes in lieu of the poor taxes) on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent If any person receiving the benefits of this act shall pay the respective taxes levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight on or before November first thereof any penalty imposed on such tax under existing law shall be abated For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sums therefore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of such delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and previous years at any time on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight by paying the entire amount of such delinquent taxes and interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight shall not be required at the time of such payment

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes whether or not liens for such taxes had been returned for nonpayment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection of such taxes have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where liens for such taxes have been returned for nonpayment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court.

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision

The county commissioners of each county may at their discretion and at the cost of the county cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the county a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer or owner a statement of the delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivision showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody.

Every collector of taxes whose duty it is to send to the respective taxpayers any notice or statement of their annual taxes shall include in each such notice or statement an additional notice of the date when the next installment payment is due under the provisions of this act.

Section 6 In order to enable the taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for non-payment of taxes before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and any tax sale shall be adjourned and readjourned or right of redemption extended as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended after advertisement or sale no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale or right of redemption No such adjournment or readjournment or redemption failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or sale had subject to redemption but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act Provided however That in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act the period during which payment of the said delinquent taxes is postponed or continued under this act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute or statutes now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing authorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes

Section 7 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein.

Section 8 The act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred twenty-nine) as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred forty-four) the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws ten) and the act approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and two) shall continue in full force and effect as to any and all taxpayers who have taken advantage of and are not in default in the provisions thereof All other acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent herewith shall be and the same are hereby suspended during the time this act shall be in effect.

Section 9 Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any taxpayer who has heretofore taken advantage and accepted the benefits of any of the acts referred to in section eight and who at the time this act becomes effective has lost all future rights benefits privileges and opportunities under such act from taking advantage and receiving the benefits of this act in the same manner as if such person had never attempted to comply with the provisions of such previous abatement act.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 52, entitled:

An Act to amend section one hundred and seventeen as amended and section two hundred and six of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by providing an additional method for creating independent school districts and the appointment of school directors therein.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mrs. HORTING. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the lady from Lancaster, Mrs. Horting.

The SPEAKER. Will the lady from Lancaster permit herself to be interrogated?

Mrs. HORTING. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I wish to inquire of the lady from Lancaster whether it is not a fact that this bill has been on the calendar for the past three weeks?

Mrs. HORTING. Mr. Speaker, I think that is right.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to object to the motion made by the lady from Lancaster, on the ground that this bill has been on this calendar for the past three weeks, and therefore it should be acted upon tonight.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS PASSED OVER

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF RESOLUTION

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, September 28, 1938.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a Resolution of the House of Representatives and Senate, recalling from the Governor House Bill No. 8, Printer's No. 44, for the purpose of amendment.

Accordingly, the original bill is herewith returned.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed finally be reconsidered.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Jirolanio, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton, as to the content of the amendment.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I ask, in answer to the question of the gentleman from Delaware, that the clerk read the entire amendments which are very short.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend page 1, line 5 of the title by striking out after the word "Authority" and before the word "for" the following: "[S [ ]"

Amend page 1, line 6 of the title by placing a boldfaced bracket before the word "by".

Amend section 2, page 3, line 22 by inserting after the word "leases" and before the word "The" the following: "In allocating the appropriation made by this act the Governor shall provide for the payment of the rentals reserved in leases entered into between the General State Authority and the Pennsylvania State College"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

SENATE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1938.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (John S. Rice, President Pro Tempore, acting) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL. D., offered the following prayer:

Infinite One, Thou art in the midst—for Thou art everywhere. We cannot flee from Thy presence. If we ascend into heaven, or make our bed in the grave—Thou art there. If we take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the distant seas, even there shall Thy hand lead us, Thy right hand hold us. To Thee, the night shineth as the day; darkness and light are alike to Thee.

Gracious, all-wise God, make us conscious of our limitations. Make us to know our end, and the measure of our days, that we may know how frail we are. If we hunger, give unto us the Bread of Life, lest we surfeit of the meat which perisheth. If we thirst, may we seek the fountains of living waters, lest we press to our lips the cup which pleases and kills.

May we take counsel from the yesterdays of life; may we find in Thee a school for its tomorrows. Under Thee, may we give our best to our day and generation. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. LAW, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGE

AMENDMENT TO HOUSE BILL NO. 8 RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence bill of the House of Representatives, as follows:

House Bill No. 8, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies, for the payment of rates, rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed by such department with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy by the Commonwealth of various projects, structures, buildings, and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

Said bill having been recalled from the Governor for amendment, the votes had on final passage and third reading were reconsidered in the House and the bill amended, in which amendments the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

REQUESTING ACTION BY THE SUPREME COURT OF PENNSYLVANIA ON ADVANCE NEWSPAPER REPORT OF ITS DECISIONS

Mr. SHAPIRO offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, October 4, 1938.

Whereas, Courts of Justice are the last bulwarks of democracy against waves of passion, prejudice and disorder, and

Whereas, Respect for the courts is the very foundation of law and order, and

Whereas, The integrity of our courts is essential to the maintenance of public respect, and

Whereas, Public statements, wrongly or otherwise suggesting to the public unwarranted contract with our courts, are an affront to the dignity of the court and strike at and endanger the safety of our democracy, and

Whereas, The publication on October 3, 1938, in a Philadelphia newspaper of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania before those decisions were officially announced and made a matter of public record threatens public respect for and affects the dignity of the highest court of this Commonwealth, and

Whereas, Unless prompt and proper action is taken the integrity of the highest court in this Commonwealth and the orderly administration of justice may be endangered; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate of Pennsylvania that the dignity, integrity and respect which the highest court in this Commonwealth has heretofore enjoyed must and shall be maintained—to that end this Senate respectfully calls upon the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to command the public appearance before the bar of that court of each and every person responsible for or in any way associated with the publication of its said unrecorded opinions and that it mete out to those responsible the proper punishment necessary to maintain the dignity of and respect for said court—in the interest of law and order; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Honorable, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wonder if the Senator from Philadelphia remembers that in the session of 1937 there was an act passed giving newspaper reporters immunity and protection, protecting them from disclosing the source from which they obtained information.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, no act of this Commonwealth does or should protect anybody from the effect of and punishment for contempt of court. I know of no act that gives to any newspaper the right to withhold any information which will clear itself or permit it to clear itself of contempt. Any newspaper may appear before the bar of any court, or any persons may, and refuse to answer questions and take the consequences, which is still further contempt of court.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the answer of the Senator from Philadelphia I think is beside the point. The Senate Journal if examined will show that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, voted for such a bill and the bill is now on the statute books of this Commonwealth, and grants immunity to newspaper reporters, in that capacity, against disclosure of their source of information, and I have asked these questions and I have made these statements for the purpose of bringing to the attention of my colleagues of the Senate that such an act of assembly is on the statute books and that members that now sit in the Senate and will be called upon to vote for this resolution, also voted for that act of assembly.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in further answer I should like to call the attention of the Senator from Fayette to the recent decision of the Supreme Court on Monday of this week which says that no act of the Legislature can interfere with the rights and prerogatives of the court. He himself has made the statements on the floor of this Senate in discussing that very action, that contempt of the court is a matter over which only the court has control and there is no act which we passed making it possible for someone to refuse to disclose the source of information that has anything to do with contempt of the court in protecting its dignity and its authority.

I, therefore, Mr. President, ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that rule No. 39 which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee be suspended and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of information.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the vote to suspend the rule carry with it the main question?

The PRESIDENT. It does not. The vote to suspend the rule merely permits, if carried, the resolution to be voted on at this time. The motion is to suspend the rule.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, before we vote on this resolution I would like to point out that this morning's "Philadelphia Record" carried an article on the front page which says that the State Supreme Court today started an investigation of itself to determine how news of the decision on the inquiry into the Earle Administration leaked out ten hours before the court released it. It seems to me that this body is simply trying to pull a red herring over the trail, to take attention away from what the Supreme Court really did. Now many times we have found here in this Senate some things have been done in committee and have been revealed to the press, notwithstanding the fact that there was a gentleman's agreement in the committee that no information was to leak out. The Supreme Court never came to our rescue and suggested that we have an investigation. It was left to us to determine whether or not we would investigate our own members. It seems to me that it is for the court itself and not for the Senate of Pennsylvania to pursue whatever course they want to determine, to find out whether one of the members revealed this to a newspaper man or whether some employe did.

I see no occasion for this resolution to be rushed through the Senate at this time. As I said before, Mr. President, I feel it is simply trying to divert the attention of the public from this whole proposition. For instance, the "Philadelphia Record" of this date starts out not with what the Supreme Court did but that the Supreme Court's decision leaked out. We all know that the big news of yesterday was not whether or not the Supreme Court is investigating a leak but the decision of the Supreme Court on the issues involved. There are in this paper, two—

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not like to interrupt in the midst of an address but I rise to say that this is a matter to be discussed when we vote on the bill. This is a motion to suspend the rule, and the bill is not debatable on the motion under which the rule is to be suspended.

The PRESIDENT, The remarks are well taken.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

MOTION TO LAY ON THE TABLE

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I move that the motion to suspend Rule 39 be laid on the table.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in this resolution the Senator from Philadelphia has alleged many things.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro will state his point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not think the Senator's endeavor to change this motion from one to suspend the rule to a motion to lay on the table entitles him to debate his motion. A motion to lay on the table, I suggest to the Chair, is not debatable any more than the motion to suspend the rule.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, although I know positively that the Senator from Philadelphia is wrong as usual, in order to expedite action on this matter without requiring the President to make a decision on the point, I will withdraw my right at this time to debate or speak on the motion to lay on the table.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion to suspend Rule 39?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BUCKMAN and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Barthold,	Heyburn,	McCreesh,	Shapiro,

DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	Mundy,	Sones,

NAYS—6

Buckman,	Chapman,	Gelder,	Wolfenden,
Cavalcante,	Deitrick,

Two-thirds of all the Senators present having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I want to further call attention to the fact that our Democratic friends, if there has been any contempt of court in this matter, appear to have put their chin out both in a speech by John B. Kelly, the Democratic boss of Philadelphia, and the Philadelphia Record" itself, when it insinuates that a certain other newspaper in Philadelphia apparently was an eighth member of the Court.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I said yesterday in connection with this resolution that I have always opposed any conduct within the sound of my voice which in effect might be considered disrespectful to any court. I want to call attention of the gentlemen who oppose this resolution to the importance of the resolution, and I think the importance of the position which I take is expressed in that resolution. This is the fourth time, I think, that something has been said and remarks have been made which made decent citizens arch their eyebrows and wonder how far these things will go.

It is not any wonder, when one newspaper or more newspapers publish statements which indicate or justify the inference that they have an unwarranted association with courts, that somebody else should make a remark which will bring again disrespect upon the court even though the court in its belief that its dignity requires that it should pay no attention to those remarks refrains from doing anything.

I know what has happened to which the gentleman refers. The newspaper in question made a previous statement which indicated to many people that it wanted to carry the intent and information that it has such an association with the courts, which I do not believe it does have. And it is because I do not believe that this newspaper can have with the highest courts in this Commonwealth the contact which this article appeared to indicate it does, that I am protesting on the floor against its conduct. I know that my protest will carry with it an implication that because I happen to be in this session a member of the Democratic party, this is a political proposition but think the subject is of sufficient importance to warrant me in taking that burden and I am not interested in the fact, knowing full well that many of my Republican friends and others will say that this is political. I know what I am doing. My conscience is clear and I am fighting for a principle which I think is of importance to every citizen.

It is the very remarks which my friend on the other side makes when he calls attention to the fact that somebody else has done something, which may be construed as contempt. That is right and I agree with him and it is because the people who start this thing lend fuel to a flame that may never be stopped that I raise at this point the question why this Senate should not record itself and say to the Supreme Court that we know of their dignity and the dignities of their office, which they occupy in the high regard that the Supreme Court should occupy in the respect of the citizens.

We say to them "We know you do not feel that you should step down and get into the mire and the mud which is being thrown, but we say to you as an equally responsible body which is of equal importance in the Commonwealth, we say to you as lawmakers that unless the lawmakers and the law-enforcers can maintain the respect of the community there is no sense in trying to maintain a democratic form of government and we say to you that now the time has come for you to take action, to put a stop to this one newspaper as a lesson to other newspapers who otherwise may step out of what are the bounds of respect and decency, and end this thing so that the public generally will still be able to have and maintain a high regard for the highest court in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Too much of this loose talk will result in an attempt to throttle free speech and that is the danger of these proceedings. We want free speech, we want dissemination of ideas. I am one of those who believe that no matter how crazy a man may be in his ideas the sooner you let him air them and let the people see how ridiculous they are. the better you will be. When you stifle them you make the stolen fruit sweet and I say if you want a Democratic form of government, if you want to stop the very things which the gentleman pointed out this morning as occurring, so that nobody else will raise his eyebrows in addition to that and say, "I wonder if somebody on the Court told somebody else,' 'of course I am opposed to those statements too and unless something is done about it, it will get even worse than that.

I ask the gentleman if they want to stop that to join with me in saying to the Supreme Court, which is all this resolution does, that "We have the greatest respect for you, and we are confident of the fact that you hesitate to deal with this thing, because when you deal with mud you get your fingers dirty. But our answer to you is that we feel it now becomes your duty because of what might happen. because of the respect that might be lost. to yourself deal with this. and in all cases of disrespect towards your authority, in the proper way. We respect your decisions."

All of us. I am sure, have been disappointed in decisions in certain cases because they didn't go in accordance with our desires and feelings in the matter, but I have the greatest respect for the Court, in spite of the fact that I may disagree with their conclusions, and say that I shall live up to and conduct myself according to laws laid down by the Supreme Court, in every case whether I have liked it personally or not, because that is what democracy means to me. We have set up an authority and we have got to respect the authority if we want to maintain the democratic system.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman will state his point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, my point of order is that this resolution in its entirety is out of order at this extraordinary session for the reason first, that it does not ask for information upon which to base legislation and so come within the Governor's Call, and second, because it is not in the Governor's Call, and therefore, cannot be considered by the Senate at this extraordinary session.

The PRESIDENT. This is not legislation. It is a resolution expressing an opinion. The Chair rules that the resolution is within the call.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think that no amount of crocodile tears shed by the Senator from Philadelphia over the dignity and integrity of the Supreme Court will justify the passage of this resolution. I say that the remarks of the Senator from Philadelphia are like crocodile tears because he first extols to the high heavens his respect for the integrity and dignity of the Supreme Court, and then by the adoption of this resolution and the asking of his colleagues to support it, he imputes to that very dignity and integrity the inability to defend that integrity and dignity without a suggestion from the Senator from Philadelphia or some action on the part of the Senate.

I sincerely believe that to be the sum and substance of this resolution and because I do have a sincere concern for the ability of the Supreme Court to defend its own integrity and dignity without any suggestion or recommendation from myself in this Senate, I think in honor we ought to vote down the resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am quite sure that I can never see eye to eye with the Senator from Fayette on this kind of a resolution. Those of us who had the pleasure of being here in the 1935 Session, will remember that I found it necessary as a Republican to stand upon the floor of this Senate and protest against the charges and statements and words and phrases used by the Senator from Fayette against the Courts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I did it then and I say I shall continue to do it as long as I have the privilege and honor of being a representative in any capacity of the people of Pennsylvania, nd as long as I have the right to enjoy the many privileges that I do of a democratic form of Government. I will raise my voice against anybody at any place, who publicly condemns or brings disrespect upon any court, and for that reason I point out to the Senator from Fayette that I expect that he will not vote for this resolution because he and I have never seen eye to eye on that point.

I recall to the members of this Senate the question that I referred to at the 1935 Session, when the Senator from Fayette undertook to condemn the Courts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania without a hearing and to bring disrespect upon those courts even though he had the privilege of being a member of this Senate.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia is very adept at distorting the matters that transpired in past sessions of this Senate. If the Senator will read the Journal, he will note that any remarks made by me about the Supreme Court were in reference to some decisions that they had already made, and which did not in my judgment conform with the constitutional limitations. Mr. President, will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be asked just another question?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, assuming that some member of the Supreme Court divulged this information to a newspaper reporter or the "Philadelphia Inquirer," and that newspaper printed the information, conveyed to it by a member of the Supreme Court, under what principle law is that contempt on the part of the "Philadelphia Inquirer" or the man who received the information from the member of the Supreme Court?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, my answer to the Senator is that I suggest to him that he should never hold a conversation with any judge who is handling a case in which he is a party or a counsel, before the court hands down a decision. If he ever attempts at any time to walk into a court and discuss with that court what the decision is going to be in the case in which he is or is not interested he will find that a proper court will hold him in contempt. Therefore I say that any newspaper that discussed this case with any judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in the very discussion of it is guilty of contempt.

I feel quite certain that this is not the case but I am quite certain that the Senator from Fayette is not alone in his belief that it is, and it is because I am afraid that this belief will become prevalent that I have asked the Senate to adopt this resolution and say to that court, "We know that ordinarily this should not be done but you have our stamp of approval on it because we believe there are many people who believe as does the Senator from Fayette, and therefore we say to you, please bring these men before you and prove to the public that what the Senator from Fayette believes is not so."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BUCKMAN and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Barthold,	Heyburn,	Law,	Ruth,
Dando,	Jacobs,	McCreesh,	Shapiro,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Sipe,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 58 (HOUSE BILL NO. 65)

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 58 (House Bill No. 65), entitled:

An Act creating a commission to study and report on use of devices and methods of transmission of information for advices in furtherance of gambling and making an appropriation.

was defeated on final passage October 3, 1938.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I voted "Nay."

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I voted "Nay."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the Journal of this Senate of yesterday showing that at the time that this bill was up for consideration there was a quorum of the Senate present, only those who were present in that quorum are eligible to vote on the reconsideration of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is not well taken.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the Journal of this Senate of yesterday showing that after the defeat of the bill the bill was sent to the House with notification that the bill had not passed constitutionally, the bill is therefore not in the possession of the Senate and a motion to reconsider is not in order and I specifically request the Chair to examine the Journal of the Senate so he will note that the bill was referred to the House with the information that the Senate had not passed it.

POINT OF PARLIAMENTARY INFORMATION

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of parliamentary information.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his point of parliamentary information.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before the Chair decides on the point of order of the Senator from Fayette, I should like to call his attention to the decisions of the Senate so that the Chair may be properly guided in the future in making decisions on the Senator's points of order. In the Manual, page 812, section 101 it reads, "An objection having been made to the motion for the reconsideration of the vote by which a resolution was defeated, the President decided that a motion to reconsider is always in order."

POINT OF LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to point of legislative inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his point of legislative inquiry.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to know from the Chair whether or not this bill is in the possession of the Senate and on the desk of the Clerk.

The PRESIDENT. This bill is in the possession of the Senate and is in the possession of the Clerk and has never left the possession of the Senate, so the Senator from Fayette's point of order is not well taken. The rules of the Senate allow five days for transmission of bills.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

MOTION TO GO INTO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE FOR SPECIAL AMENDMENT

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendment.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, do the amendments of the Senator from Bucks contain anything but strikeout amendments?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, if the Senator will wait until they are read he will find out what they are. The amendment is to insert the sum of five thousand dollars for the appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars,

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his point of order.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, on third reading, amendments cannot be considered other than strikeout amendments.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I moved that the Senate go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendments, which are in order at any time.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I am very glad to be interrogated by the constitutional lawyer of the Senate.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, are the nature of the amendments not such that they could be all made strikeout amendments. What I refer to is that the amendments could just throw out the "twenty" and leave the "five."

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, that is possible but I do not see that this is any horse race.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, well, there seems to be a question of getting ahead of the horse races.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would ask the Senate to vote down the motion of the Senator from Bucks, calling the attention of the Senate to the fact that the passage of this motion to resolve the Senate into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering these amendments, if passed, automatically amends the bill. I do not feel that the Senator's amendments can do justice to this committee.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in order that the question may be understood, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in the Manual section 49 on page 808, reads, "A point of order having been submitted the President ruled that the adoption of a motion to go into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of special amendments carried with it the amendments."

The PRESIDENT. It does carry with it the amendments.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, then I understand that the effect of this motion if it is voted on in the affirmative, will be that the amendments will be adopted.

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, just last night when we debated the demerits of this bill the Senator from Centre informed this Senate that it was his intention as chairman of this committee to make a report to this extraordinary session. That being true, Mr. President, will the Senator from Centre state what objection there would be to amending this resolution to provide for $5,000. I would have no objection to voting for a resolution of that kind, making an appropriation of $5,000, with the understanding that if during this session they need any more money we can readily give it to them, because as stated by the Senator from Centre, he expects to make a report during this extraordinary session.

The PRESIDENT. The amendments will be read for the information of the Senate.

The amendments were read as follows:

Amend Section 4, page 3, line 21 by striking out after the word "of" and before the word "thousand" the word "twenty-five" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "five"; amend section 4, page 3, line 22 by striking out before the word "or" the amount "($25,000)" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "($5,000)."

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I would feel more inclined to acquiesce with any request of the Senator from Fayette if I thought he was sincere about his request. The Senator's attitude toward this bill has always been one of opposition, which was very well demonstrated by his position on the bill last night. Now as far as the actual money necessary for this committee, I cannot say that we will need all of the money that is provided for by the bill but I can confidently say that we will need considerably more money than would be provided by these amendments. For that reason I would ask the Senate to vote down the amendments.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the Senator from Centre has made a remark that reflects upon my integrity here in the Senate and I think that I am not abusing the patience of my colleagues when I rise in defense. During my entire career here in this Senate as a State Senator it is the first time to my knowledge that any of my colleagues have taken the floor and questioned my sincerity in any matter under discussion.

I stated a very short while ago that if the Senator from Centre meant what he said yesterday, that he expects to make a report to this extraordinary session, I will have no objection to granting him a liberal appropriation for his commission to function. But my opposition to this bill last night was and will be so today that it contains a provision that if this committee does not complete its functions or its duties during this extraordinary session it will continue its work and then make a report to the Governor and to the next General Session. It was because of that in the bill that I was unalterably opposed to it last night and will continue to be opposed to it, and I say this not to impeach the sincerity or integrity of the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson. When I say that he is sincere in what he has already said and spread on the records of this Senate, that he intends to make a report to this extraordinary session,—say that he ought to be satisfied with $5,000, with my recorded statement that if he comes back again during this extraordinary session and in sincerity shows that $5,000 is not sufficient, I would gladly vote again for another appropriation.

But $25,000 is not a small sum and should not be granted when we know not what this committee is going to do or when it is going to report or to whom, while we are absent.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, as the sponsor of these amendments I desire to call to the attention of the Republicans as well as the Democrats of this Senate, that here is a chance to do some real saving for the public treasury. By these amendments this appropriation will be reduced by the sum of $20,000 which, as the Senator from Fayette said, is no small amount. If it is the policy of the majority in control of this Senate to spend money like drunken sailors, go ahead and pass this resolution. In view of the fact especially that the sponsor of the resolution himself, the Senator from Centre, has said that he hopes to complete the investigation and report in about four weeks, I ask you, Mr. President, how this commission or any other commission can spend $25,000 in four weeks if they spend it properly. If you want to, go ahead and use the public funds like this while people are crying for relief, the needy and the poor, and the general appropriations are low, and hospitals are crying for more aid, go ahead and do it. It will be your responsibility, not ours.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I marvel at the attitude taken by the Senator from Bucks. My memory is not so short that I cannot remember back in the 1935 session that the Senator from Bucks was on the floor of this Senate trying every way that he could to get passed here a bill for about $200,000 to take care of a deficiency appropriation for a commission investigating utilities that had gone ahead and spent this money without any authority from the Senate of Pennsylvania. When he talks about hospitals, I just want to remind him that at the time that he was on the floor asking for this, the preceding Republican administration had left this state in default for a year on payments to every hospital in the State of Pennsylvania. At the same time he was up here asking for this appropriation, the Republican administration of the State of Pennsylvania had left the State in default for a year. When he talks about a situation of this sort I resent it in view of his past actions.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, will state his point of order.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, my point of order is the bill is not being debated by the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair has allowed a wide latitude in this debate.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Buckman and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Buckman,	Gelder,	Jacobs,	Owlett,
Cavalcante,	Heyburn,	Jaspan,	Sones,

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his point of order.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the bill is not on the calendar.

The PRESIDENT. The bill was on yesterday's calendar for consideration and is now before the Senate for action.

POINT OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his point of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is not this the bill which the Senator from Bucks just offered amendments to, which he says is not before us?

The PRESIDENT. That is correct.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, as I stated yesterday, I cannot conscientiously vote for the bill for the reason that the committee has appointed counsel who now represents or has been representing defendants indicted in a State-conducted gambling probe in the City of Philadelphia. This attorney has no doubt been paid fees by his clients. Are we now to pay the same attorney State funds to represent this particular committee?

I cannot understand how Lemuel B. Schofield ever accepted the appointment. Mr. Schofield has been representing gamblers and will continue to represent them and when this work is done we certainly don't expect him to give the committee information he has obtained from his clients, and if he should do this, I certainly think it is unethical. If we are to investigate I think we are not starting on the right foot. If anything, we are subjecting ourselves to unnecessary criticism by appointing a man who today is representing gamblers who are indicted by a Grand Jury in the City of Philadelphia, and the money to conduct that particular probe has been paid and appropriated by the State.

I say again I am going to vote against the bill unless I have some assurance from the chairman of this committee that Mr. Schofield will be removed.

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, I cannot permit to go unchallenged the statement of my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, impugning the character and integrity of Major Schofield as a petitioner before the bar of the courts of Pennsylvania. Those who are acquainted with Mr. Schofield's career at the bar know that his reputation is one of the best. For the past twenty years he has been a member of the faculty of the Temple University Law School, and I believe that Senator Jaspan was one of his pupils. I know well enough that Major Schofield is well acquainted with the canons of the Bar Association guiding the conduct of practitioners at the bar, perchance better acquainted than many another lawyer. I know well enough that those of us who know Major Schofield know full well that if he felt that he could not conscientiously represent this committee he would have declined the appointment.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 56, as follows:

An Act creating a joint legislative commission to study and report on the structure of insurance rates for workmen's compensation and making an appropriation

Whereas The insurance rates covering workmen's compensation have been increased so substantially that many employers have regarded the cost so high that they have ceased carrying such insurance and

Whereas The question has arisen as to whether or not these rates have been arbitrarily arrived at and

Whereas A study of the rate structure of this form of insurance may disclose means by which the insurance rates may be substantially reduced therefore

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 A commission is hereby created which shall consist of six members three of whom shall be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and three shall be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives The commission shall be known as The Workmen's Compensation Insurance Rate Commission The commission shall organize at the call of the President Pro Tempore of the Senate by electing a chairman vice chairman and a secretary The secretary need not be a member of the commission The members of the commission shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for all necessary expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the commission to study and investigate the structure of insurance rates covering workmen's compensation and shall make a thorough and exhaustive survey so that the facts may be obtained upon which accurate judgment may be drawn and that insurance rates of the future shall be in accordance with and founded upon an accurate and substantial basis

Section 3 The commission is hereby empowered to hold such public hearings as it deems necessary The commission shall have power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman or vice-chairman commanding any person to appear before it and to answer such questions touching matters being inquired into by the commission and to produce such books papers documents and reports as may be deemed necessary Such subpoenas may be served by any employe of the commission

Any member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths to witnesses appearing before the commission

Any person who shall neglect or refuse to appear or testify before said commission when subpoenaed or to produce any books papers records and documents so subpoenaed shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases

Section 4 The commission shall make its report to the next regular session of the General Assembly and is herewith given power to carry on its investigation and studies during the interval between the final adjournment of the special session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and the convening of the regular session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine

Section 5 The commission shall have the power to employ and fix the compensation of such expert stenographers and assistants as may be deemed necessary to carry on the work of the commission but due diligence shall be exercised by the commission to enlist such voluntary assistance as may be available from citizens research organizations and other agencies in Pennsylvania or elsewhere generally recognized as qualified to aid the commission with information as to the determination of insurance rates covering workmen's compensation In addition thereto the commission shall also accept the voluntary assistance of all departments of the Commonwealth and all such departments shall give all available information and assistance as may be requested from time to time by the commission

Section 6 The sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the commission for the payment of the expenses of the members of the commission for the compensation and expenses of the secretary and other appointees of the commission for printing for postage supplies telephone telegraph rent and miscellaneous expenses and generally for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this act

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 59, (House Bill No. 66), entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts page seventy-four) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 8, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects

Whereas By Act Number Eighty-nine A adopted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania at the session of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and approved by the Governor July second one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven the sum of two million seven hundred fifty thousand dollars ($2,750,000) was appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies of the Commonwealth for the payment during the period ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine by the Commonwealth of annual rates rentals and other charges for the use and occupancy of or the right to use or occupy the projects structures buildings and facilities leased by the General State Authority and

Whereas Leases and contracts to lease have actually been entered into which will require payment of approximately one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) out of the said appropriation to The General State Authority as rent for projects which have been and are being constructed and improved by the Authority for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and

Whereas The Executive Department of the Government of the Commonwealth is about to apply to The General State Authority for the construction of projects additional to those which were undertaken by the Authority on behalf of the Commonwealth and the Pennsylvania State College during the years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and one thousand nine hundred an thirty-eight in the financing of which additional projects the Authority will be aided by United States Government Grants amounting to forty-five (45) per centum of the cost of construction and

Whereas Such additional projects though commenced prior to January first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine will not be completed and leased to the Commonwealth until after May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine Therefore

Section 1 The sum of two million dollars ($2,000,000) or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment during the period ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty one by the Commonwealth of annual rates rentals and other charges for the use and occupancy of or the right to use or occupy the projects structures buildings and facilities leased by The General State Authority or for services rendered by the Authority or its projects construction of which projects structures buildings and facilities may have been commenced after the date of this act and prior to January first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine payment of such annual rates rentals and other charges shall be made in equal monthly or quarterly installments or otherwise as required by the respective leases

Section 2 The appropriation made by this act shall be budgeted and expended in accordance with the requirements and provisions of the leases referred to in section one and shall be allocated by the Governor to provide payment of the rentals reserved in such leases In allocating the appropriation made by this act the Governor shall provide for the payment of the rentals reserved in leases entered into between the General State Authority and the Pennsylvania State College The Auditor General and the State Treasurer shall honor the requisitions of the Secretary of Property and Supplies in accordance with such allocations.

Section 3 The appropriation made by this act or as much thereof as may be necessary shall be earmarked and retained as a fund in the General Fund to meet the payments which may become due during the period from June first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine to May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty-one under the terms of such contracts as by virtue of the provisions of the General State Authority Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five as amended may be entered into by the Commonwealth acting by and through the Department of Property and Supplies as lessee and The General State Authority as lessor to lease such additional projects to be undertaken by the Authority

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1938. No. 24.

SENATE

MONDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL. D., offered the following prayer:

Creator of all things, Father of our common humanity, our help in ages past, our hope in years unborn, in Thy providence we come again to this hour and place. May a double portion of Thy Spirit of wisdom rest upon us. May the highest traditions of our Commonwealth and nation inspire us, and may we be faithful in all things. Of one blood Thou hast made all nations and there is no inherent inferiority in the race of man, man made in Thy image.

We praise Thee, O God for our heritage; for that peculiar genius, revealed in our history and institutions. Forbid that we shall ever cease to be the land of freedom and opportunity; an asylum for every soul seeking rescue and redemption from poverty or oppression. May we labor here and ever to this end according to Thy holy will, coveting only the blessing which comes to that nation whose God is the Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The SECRETARY: On behalf of the President pro tempore of the Senate. I desire to announce the following Committee to arrange memorial services in respect to the late Senator John G. Homsher.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks County
Senator Henry J. Pierson, Lancaster County
Senator George Woodward, Philadelphia County
Senator Charles W. Sones, Lycoming County
Senator C. Hale Sipe, Armstrong County

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. KUNKEL, from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 60, entitled:

An Act to amend Section two of the act approved the twelfth day of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight (Act No. 5) entitled "An act authorizing the appointment of a commission to make a thorough and impartial investigation into the operation of the oil industry in this Commonwealth with special reference to the adequate efficient and economical supplying of lubricating oils and gasoline to the people of this Commonwealth conferring upon the commission full power to issue subpoenas and conferring upon the courts of common pleas power to enforce obedience to subpoenas so issued requiring the commission to make a report of its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly or to the Governor and authorizing the commission to employ counsel and employes and making an appropriation" by changing the manner of appointment of the members of said commission.

Mr. GILSON, from the Committee on Judiciary General to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Kunkel on August 9, 1938, reported the same without amendment as follows:

In the Senate, August 9, 1938.

Whereas, The Ruth Commission, reporting on the administration of criminal justice, reveals disregard or ignorance of the law, chicanery, trickery and defiance of the constitutional rights of individuals on the part of some Philadelphia courts covered by its investigation; and

Whereas, This Commission also reports "that the only sure protection . . . is the character and integrity of our justice officers;" and

Whereas, This report thus reflects upon Philadelphia courts and judges in general, since it fails to reveal names, cite instances or state facts in support of its findings; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Ruth Commission be requested to report forthwith in detail the facts, naming courts, cases and judges involved in arbitrary, illegal and underhand acts in violation of the law and the constitutional rights of citizens.

The PRESIDENT. Under the Rules the Resolution will lie on the table.

BILL INTRODUCED

Messrs. DENT and STIEFEL read in place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 61, entitled:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 106 approved March sixteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burdens placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures and the appropriation made to said commission.

Which was committed to the Committee on Labor and Industry.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the purpose of this bill is to validate the Dent Industrial Tax Study Commission which was created to ascertain as to whether or not delegations of tax burdens and industrial migrations are in the realm of political mythology or economic reality.

I am leaving it to Senator Dent, who is the chairman of this committee, to say a few introductory remarks.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will now proceed to the consideration of the calendar.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 36 (House Bill No. 8) on concurrence in House amendments recalled from the Governor, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 80, (Senate Bill No. 50), entitled:

An Act making a deficiency appropriation for the expenses of the Joint Legislative Commission investigating certain courts of this Commonwealth, and created by Joint Resolution No. 11, approved the ninth day of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 35).

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 78, (Senate Bill No. 15), entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county, city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 All unpaid penalties and interest imposed on paid or unpaid delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years and all penalties imposed on such taxes for the tax years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven assessed and levied against any parcel o parcels of real estate and on paid or unpaid delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if the unpaid delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided This section shall not be construed to abate the interest accrued on the taxes for the years of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven but no further interest shall be imposed on such taxes after the payment of the first installment as hereafter provided so long as the taxpayer complies with the provisions of this act.

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for all previous years and of the accrued interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the final twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-two And provided That the respective current taxes (the institution district taxes in lieu of the poor taxes) on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sum theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 8 and 9, by striking out the words: "are hereby abated without the necessity of further action" and inserting in lieu thereof "may be abated."

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 12, by striking out the word: "abate" and inserting in lieu thereof "authorizing the abatement of."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the purpose of these amendments is to render this an optional bill instead of a compulsory bill, as you probably know, by listening to the amendments. In our county there are a great many districts that are opposed to any abatement whatever, but in order to give the benefit to those within the state who desire some form of abatement I have offered these amendments so that the bill may become optional with the municipalities instead of being compulsory.

I ask the members of the House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we now have on the calendar House Bill No. 26, which is an optional abatement bill, and Senator Mundy"s Bill, Senate Bill No. 15, is a mandatory bill. The committee believes and I believe many of the taxpayers throughout the state similarly believe that an optional bill is an unfair advantage to the taxpayers throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because it permits certain tax authorities, certain tax levying authorities, to play politics with the bill, so far as the taxpayers of their own county are concerned. It would be unfair to some of the taxpayers because some of the tax levying authorities would invoke the purposes of this act, while others won't. We thought that the people who have been unable to pay their taxes in the past, who are now able to pay them under the abatement plan, have an equal and a fair advantage.

I might say to the members of the House, that I have received a letter submitted by James P. Kerr, of the city of Pittsburgh, who is the Republican City Controller, in which he urges this Assembly to pass a mandatory tax abatement law. He said unless they do the city of Pittsburgh will be obliged to borrow one million dollars to meet the payroll within the next month or two, both for November and December.

I also have some statistics showing that the tax abatement bill encouraged current tax collections, for the reason that every taxpayer will be able to take advantage of the tax abatement bill, and I ask the members of the House to vote down the amendments of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Sproul.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to agree with some if the remarks made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, but wouldn't the city of Pittsburgh be entitled under an optional bill to regulate their own affairs? I find that some districts collect from 90 to 98 per cent of their taxes, and these particular districts do not want a tax abatement.

As long as he has quoted from a Republican gentleman in Pittsburgh, may I say that the borough of Swarthmore, which has a Democratic head, has written me a letter asking that there be no tax abatement bill passed during the present session of the Legislature.

I will add further that the borough of Media, along which I reside, feels the same. I do not want to make a political issue of it, it is entirely non-partisan. I might also add that my own township is not desirous of a tax abatement bill. It looks to me as if the people of Luzerne county are trying to compel the rest of the state to take a tax abatement measure. I agree that this measure should be non-political. There are some districts that have found that tax abatement has increased the amount of their tax collections, and it has been found that the number of poor people who have benefited by this tax abatement amount to but a very small percentage. The chief benefactors are trust companies and people who can well afford to pay, but many pay only a partial installment under the terms of this bill, and I ask the members of the House, who are seriously concerned with this bill, to vote in favor of the amendments.

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, this is a dangerous amendment. I would like to agree with my friend from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, but the records from his own county disprove the reasons that he advances for the amendments. We have had a great array of talent parading before the Pennsylvania Legislature in this session to prevent passage of a bill by this administration, abating the payment of penalties and interest. We had the optional feature during the previous administration and that had no appreciable effect upon the collection of taxes, but at the opening of this session a definite policy was laid down for the collection of taxes, delinquent taxes, by abating penalties and interest. Immediately upon the passage of that mandatory legislation there was a decrease of the delinquency and an increase in the collection of taxes. In Delaware county, where the gentleman who has offered the amendments lives, we find that in 1933 there was a total of $597,953 of delinquent taxes, but in 1937, which is the last year for which we have any figures, it has dropped from $597,000 down to $294,000. I find in my own county that there is a decrease in the delinquency from 1933 to the present time from $167,000 to $87,000. All over the state of Pennsylvania the policy of this Administration to abate penalties and interest has shown up well to the tax levying authorities. It shows for the whole of the State of Pennsylvania that while in 1933 there was a total tax delinquency on county taxes alone of $12,726,000, in 1935, which is the last year for which we could get any figures, it had dropped to a little more than $8,000,000. When the returns show a drop in delinquency from almost $13,000,000 to about eight and a half million dollars because of the policy of this Administration to make tax abatement mandatory, certainly it speaks well for the mandatory provisions of the act. In the county of Allegheny there are the most convincing figures in favor of the mandatory tax abatement law. In 1933 Allegheny county collected a total of 72 per cent of its taxes; in 1934 Allegheny county collected 73 per cent, but having the mandatory provisions of the first act of this Administration, the tax collections in Allegheny county in 1935 increased to 79 per cent. In 1937 it increased to 86 per cent of the total, so that the mandatory abatement of penalties and interest has increased collections in Pittsburgh or in Allegheny county from 72 per cent of the total to 86 per cent. It would be a mistake if this House and this Administration would allow themselves to be influenced by the propaganda, the Borough Associations and other reactionary interests; it would be a mistake for this House to allow itself to be persuaded by such propaganda into reversing the Administration's policy on this very important matter. I think that the bill has borne fruit and we should now go forward and continue to do a better job for the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, whether or not his bill which is now on the calendar is an optional bill.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, is correct in his statement.

Mr. WOODSIDE. That this bill is optional, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understand the gentleman to have just argued that the optional provision in the tax abatement bill is not proper. Is that correct?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I did not make such an argument and I do not contend it is proper. My bill is on the postponed calendar. It is an optional bill. Senator Mundy's bill is a mandatory bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I understood that the gentleman was opposed to these amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, because he was opposed to the optional provision.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I have received considerable information on this subject during the past ten days from people in my district who favor a mandatory tax abatement bill, both Republicans and Democrats, instead of an optional tax abatement bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, in spite of the fact that the bill of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Weiss, is optional?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. The committee made it optional. I might state that my bill originally was a mandatory bill. It was amended by the House Municipal Corporations Committee and made into an optional bill.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Allegheny a member of that committee?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. I believe I am, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Allegheny the chairman of that committee?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Thas is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, the bill was reported out of the gentleman's committee, was it not?

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, whether, if any client of his were to appear before him at the present time or any time in the past few months, for information in regard to the payment of his taxes, whether he would advise him to pay them, with the penalties, or whether he would advise him to wait the action of the Legislature to determine whether he would pay them without the penalties.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that I always advise my clients to pay their taxes, when they have the money. My clients do not have the money to pay their taxes.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the thing that I am fearful of in these tax abatement bills is this, if we continue, session after session, year after year, to pass tax abatement bills, the large corporations, the trust companies, the people who have a large interest in real estate, will come to know that this Legislature will continue to pass these tax abatement bills generally, and, therefore, will refuse to pay the taxes but wait for the Legislature to act in order that they can take advantage of these tax abatement bills. The small home owner, the farmer and people of that type are not generally informed concerning these tax abatement bills and are not as anxious to take advantage of them because the amount of money involved is not great, and if they continue to receive the abatement to which they are entitled by taking advantage of the provisions of the bill, the people who will be carrying the greatest load of local government will be the small home owner and the farmer and people of that type, while most of the large corporations who have a large interest in real estate, will take advantage of the provisions of these tax abatement bills. I cannot see that there is any objection to permitting the people in the various districts to weigh this problem for themselves and decide whether or not they want it. These people should have an opportunity to decide for themselves whether or not they want a tax abatement measure. I think there are districts in which they would not want that provision and I do not think that in those districts the people should be compelled under the law to have tax abatement. That is the reason I think these amendments should go through, and I urge that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, be adopted by this House.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just want to refute a statement or two made by the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside. In 1937, 32,642 taxpayers in Allegheny county took advantage of this abatement tax, over 29,000 of whom were small property owners, with properties of an average assessment below $5,000.

In Westmoreland county approximately 6,000 taxpayers, over one-half of whom were small property owners, took advantage of the tax abatement bill, to the amount of $4,500,000. James Keltz, County Commissioner of Westmoreland County, also Republican, urges the passage of a tax abatement measure. He said that it is encouraging delinquent tax collections, and at the very same time is encouraging current tax collections. In Allegheny county the tax collections, the current tax collections, under the tax abatement act, have increased from 74 per cent in 1934 to 86 per cent last year. With those statistics available, many of which were enumerated by the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Smith, I urge this House to vote down these amendments.

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think that we should deny that the large corporations are benefited at this time by a further abatement of penalties. No doubt that was true in 1935. Those were the people who camped on our doorsteps at that time in order to have the law passed, those were the people who had scalped the poor home owner and had gathered up these properties and had taken them over wholesale. They received the benefit at that time, and having received that benefit they come back at this special session of the Legislature, and ask this Administration to reverse itself on this very important policy. Of course, it is the farmer and the small owner, the small home owner, that I would like to see benefited and when these propagandists came before us and told us that the abatement of penalties and interest was going to increase tax delinquency, I wanted to know just what the actual facts were. In reply to the gentleman from Dauphin, I would like to say that in Dauphin County in 1933 the total delinquent taxes were $225,000; in 1935 it had decreased to $166,000; in 1936 it had decreased to $133,000. Undoubtedly the policy of this Administration has been sound and this Administration should continue to pass such laws abating penalties and interest, which will serve the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, do I understand on the basis of the remarks made by the gentleman from Dauphin, that delinquent taxes would increase rather than decrease, if the corporations and everyone else would take advantage of the tax abatement bills from year to year.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, there are a lot of factors which enter into the question of abatement of taxes. There is the factor of general business conditions. There is the factor of the number of transfers of real estate. There is the factor of governmental loans, all of which have considerable bearing on the amount of taxes which are paid. Tax abatement is only one element that enters into that question. I am not saying that tax abatement at all times is bad, but I am saying, to repeat this year after year and continue session after session, brings about a situation where those people who are on the "in," those people who know the law and know the policy of the Legislature, and who certainly are the larger real estate owners and are those who have the most money involved, are the ones who are taking advantage of these laws. They are the ones, who, while they are able to pay, deliberately do not pay, as a result of it.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I thank the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside. I might say that the argument of the gentleman from Dauphin makes the question a lawyer's argument. which the average and ordinary citizen cannot understand because it involves quite a lot of legalities and statements made that help in a lot of cases before courts. I am speaking just for the purpose of putting forth an argument on whether the Legislature here should consider the acceptance of these amendments or not. I believe if tax abatement, under his own statements, would be detrimental, it would have a tendency to increase delinquent taxes rather than decrease them. When this bill came before the House at this session I was faced by calls from those who previously objected to the tax abatement measures, and I was curious to know why the sudden change of heart on the tax abatement law, and I found after investigating the figures, in Mifflin County alone, we have decreased rather than increased our delinquent taxes to the amount of $23,000 and some odd dollars. We feel that that is a lot of money in Mifflin County. I now realize why those opposed to it in previous sessions, where tax abatement measures were passed, are now favoring the making of this measure optional rather than mandatory.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

It was agreed to.

The second to the ninth sections inclusive and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of the unpaid delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and previous years at any time on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight by paying the entire amount of such unpaid delinquent taxes and interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight shall not be required at the time of such payment

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes penalties and interest whether or not liens therefor had been returned for non-payment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired. The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where liens for such taxes have been returned for non-payment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parced or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision

The county commissioners of each county may at their discretion and at the cost of the county cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the county a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such unpaid delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such unpaid delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer or owner a statement of the unpaid delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivision showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody

Every collector of taxes whose duty it is to send to the respective taxpayers any notice or statement of their annual taxes shall include in each such notice or statement an additional notice of the date when the next installment payment is due under the provisions of this act

Section 6 In order to enable the taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for non-payment of taxes before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and any tax sale shall be adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended after advertisement or sale no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale or right of redemption No such adjournment or readjournment or redemption failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or sale had subject to redemption but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act Provided however That in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act the period during which payment of said unpaid delinquent taxes is postponed or continued under this act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing authorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes

Section 7 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein

Section 8 The act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred twenty-nine) as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred forty-four) the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws ten) and the act approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred two) shall continue in full force and effect as to any and all taxpayers who have taken advantage of and are not in default in the provisions thereof All other acts and parts of acts general local or special inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby suspended during the time this act shall be in effect

Section 9 Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any taxpayer who has heretofore taken advantage and accepted the benefits of any of the acts referred to in section eight and who has lost all rights benefits privileges and opportunities under such act from taking advantages and receiving the benefits of this act in the same manner as if such person had never attempted to comply with the provisions of such previous abatement act

An Act abating certain tax penalties innterest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask that House Bill No. 21, Printer's No. 55, on page 2 of today's calendar, be passed over in its order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, asks that this bill be passed over in its order. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I object inasmuch as the bill has been lying and waiting on the calendar for some two weeks.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have several amendments in the course of preparation that I think are essential to the bill and I am asking that the gentleman from Philadelphia withdraw his objection.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I feel that the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, told the same story last week. I feel if there are necessary amendments, they could be made in the Senate, and I continue my objection.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection, and consent is not granted.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, at the beginning of this session this bill, more familarly known as the Fireworks Regulation Bill, was introduced in this House. It was introduced because of criticism that had been raised over last Fourth of July's experiences. Many people throughout the Commonwealth were injured as a result of the careless and unregulated use of fireworks. It has been on the calendar, according to the date, for more than three weeks; just lying there. If we continue pursuing this dilatory manner of handling this bill, it will result in this special session, which included in its call a provision for regulation of fireworks and their use in the Commonwealth, ending without their unregulation when this session is complete. Without knowing all the facts, and I don't know what amendments the gentleman from York has in mind, but I believe we should vote on it here and send this bill to the Senate where amendments may be made to it, in order that another Fourth of July may not pass when hundreds of children in the Commonwealth may be injured by the careless and unregulated use of fireworks. I ask that you defeat the motion of the gentleman from York.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I call the attention of the House to the fact that the emergencies and exigencies that would require House enactment of this type of bill are not present. The effectiveness of this act when passed will only be felt after the Fourth of July of 1939. We are assembled here, and this bill undoubtedly comes within the call, but that does not necessarily mean that it has to be enacted with undue haste and if this House has an opportunity to give it the type of deliberation that it requires the House should not lose this opportunity so to do. I therefore ask the membership to sustain the motion that I made.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I do not desire to argue the merits or demerits of the bill except to say that there is a necessity for haste in the passage of this bill. The fact is that we must pass this bill inasmuch as in its passage we must provide for the stock of those who are engaged in the manufacture and sale of these fireworks so that they do not begin to spend their money for stock for next season and then cry to the legislature that they have the stock on hand and that we please do not put the bill in effect.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I don't entirely agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, or the gentleman from York,

Mr. Cohen. I believe that a bill prohibiting fireworks should be passed at this special session. The gentleman from Philadelphia is entirely correct when he says that we are not doing a big service to the retailers of the state, if we hold up the passage of this legislation until the regular session. We have been told that purchases of fireworks are made in the Fall, and particularly around December and that stocks probably lie around for some six months before the Fourth of July arrives. I do believe, however, it would be a good idea for the bill to go over in order, or rather for the bill to go upon the postponed calendar.

For two very good reasons. First, this bill is not a prohibitive act nor is it a regulatory act. It does not prohibit fire crackers for instance, one of the most dangerous articles used on the Fourth of July, and probably the article resulting in more injuries than any other item that is purchased for the Fourth. Fireworks are simply limited in size. It does not abolish skyrockets, for instance.

Now, with all due respect to the sponsors of the bill, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ostroff, has presented a complete set of amendments which would abolish a lot of the objectionable features of this bill. I think if the suggestion of the gentleman from York is offered in good faith, which I am sure it is, that all amendments should be presented without a lot of the rigmarole required to be gone through in taking the bill back to second reading, and that the bill should be put into a form similar to what it was in the beginning, prohibitary and not a regulatory act. For that reason I am going to vote that it be placed upon the postponed calendar, and certainly will not agree that no action be taken on it at this special session.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LEWIS and Mr. FLANNERY and were as follows:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 63, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four of the act, approved the twenty-seventh day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 465), entitled "An act to provide for the safety of persons employed, housed, or assembled in certain buildings and structures not in cities of the first class, second class, and second class A, by requiring certain contruction and ways of egress, equipment, and maintenance, providing for the licensing of projectionists; requiring the submission of plans for examination and approval; providing for the promulgation of rules and regulations for the enforcement of this act; providing for the enforcement of this act by the Department of Labor and Industry and, in certain cases, by the chiefs of fire departments in cities of the third class; providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this act; and repealing certain acts," by changing the number of ways of egress required in the case of certain buildings.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 24, as follows:

An Act to further amend Section one thousand four hundred and sixteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws 309) entitled: "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by extending the age limit within which certain children engaged in farm work or domestic service may be exempted from complying with the provisions of said act relating to compulsory school attendance

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 Section one thousand four hundred and sixteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as last amened by section five of the act approved the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 2560) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1416 The provisions of this act requiring regular attendance shall not apply to any child between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years who is regularly engaged in any useful and lawful employment or service during the time the public schools are in session and who holds an employment certificate issued according to law or who has been examined by an approved mental clinic or by a person certified as a public school psychologist or psychological examiner and has been found to be unable to profit from further school attendance and who has been reported to the board of school directors and excused in accordance with regulations prescribed by the State Council of Education nor shall the said provisions apply to any child between the ages of fifteen and eighteen years engaged in farm work or domestic service in a private home on a permit issued in accordance with regulations which the Superintendent of Public Instruction is hereby authorized to prescribe Provided That such a permit may be issued to any child who is under the age of fifteen (15) years who is at least fourteen (14) years of age and has satisfactorily completed the equivalent of the eighth grade of the public or the private schools if the reason for issuing such a permit to a child under fifteen (15) years of age has first been recommended by the county or district superintendent of schools having supervision of the schools of the district where such child resides or principal of the private school where such child is enrolled and such reason has been approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Kelso, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KELSO. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker, in which direction does this bill extend the age limit within which children may become engaged in farm work?

Mr KELSO. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the question of the gentleman from Washington, I would say that up until the Act of 1937 was passed, the age limit was fourteen years under certain conditions and during the 1937 Session, we raised it to fifteen. The only thing that this bill does is that under certain conditions, with the consent of the district superintendent, these children, having passed the eighth grade, may again leave school at the age of fourteen. I just want to add this much, Mr. Speaker, in reply to that, they can be out at fifteen without any education, but if they get out at fourteen, under this bill, they must pass the eighth grade.

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think the principle involved in this bill is very dangerous. It seems as though we are going in the wrong direction. Rather than making for compulsory education for children of sixteen, seventeen and eighteen years of age, we are going back again from the age of fifteen to fourteen years, and I submit to you that if this bill passes whereby all children are going to be exempt from attending school at fourteen years of age, it will act as a deterrent on those who do attend school. I think it is dangerous and I believe that the bill should be defeated at this time. There are ample ways in which an individual that should not be in school, even if that individual is under sixteen years of age, can be exempted from going to school, and that is under proper action by the school authorities in the district. Allowing the principals in all of the districts to exempt school children at the age of fourteen is taking a very dangerous step and I believe the bill should be defeated.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill states that a boy or girl under fifteen years of age, who doesn't reach any grade, any specific grade, may quit school and work on the farm or do domestic work. It also goes further by stating that a boy or girl who has reached the age of fourteen and has finished the eighth grade can go into farming and domestic work. We have for years tried to raise the standard of education. We, in the 1937 Session, raised that standard of education to give the boy or girl on the farm the same opportunity that a boy or girl in the city has. I think it is highly unfair to permit a backward step in education. If we pass this bill, we will permit girls in the cities to go back to domestic work at the age of fourteen, and experience has shown us that girls at the age of fourteen are exploited in domestic work and are given very low salaries. If we permit people who will be selfish enough to exploit these girls at the age of fourteen, it will only be a matter of time until the factories and industries are back here asking us to again give them the privilege of taking children at a low wage into the factories. In view of this fact, I believe that the members of this House should vote down this bill, because I do not feel that we should have one rule to apply to the farm boy and another rule to apply to the boy in the city because eventually that farm boy reaches the city, and he will be unable to secure employment or to compete with his city brother.

Mr. NAGEL. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel like exploding but I assure you I will not. I feel that it should hardly be necessary for a member of this House to rise in defense of this bill.

For a number of years, the slogan, "Keep the child in school" has become a governmental policy. Our educators in the past have devised all sorts of arguments to favor this slogan. They have even employed mathematics to show the value of one day's schooling to the child. They have gone on the supposition that the average rural worker receives a yearly salary of $800 and that the college trained person receives $4,800. This would give a difference of $4,000 to the college graduate, and on an average of forty years service, it would net him $160,000 for his education. Taking sixteen years for his schooling would amount to perhaps $10,000, which would mean that a day in school to that child would amount to about $50, but since this slogan has started, it appears now that times have changed and we are wondering whether this mathematical calculation still holds true. I believe it was Elbert Hubbard who said, "Put the child to work and put the old man to school." Now, whether this be the right thing or not, I don't know, and I hope that the members of this House will not feel that I am advocating going back to those days of exploitation of our young people in our cotton mills, in our factories, and in our coal mines, but here you have a bill that asks for just a little reduction of perhaps one year in the child's school life in the agricultural districts of our state. I submit this: I think if this matter were taken out to the people in our rural districts, that the rural people would vote for this amendment to our educational law.

We have the argument before us that our educational system has produced a number of educated boys and girls. The fact is today that the boy or girl who does not possess a high school education is a rarity. A quarter of a century ago this was not true, a high school education was not so prevalent and they were satisfied with a lower rate of schooling. The result has been that our educational system, along with producing trained minds, has produced a superior complex that makes the boy or girl who may have this education, feel that they must wear a white collar, and that they are far above soiling their hands working in the earth. As a result, we have a problem before us which makes it difficult for those in the rural districts, those engaged in agriculture, to secure sufficient help to run their farms. I can see no harm resulting from the enactment of this legislation or no precedent that would be injurious or destructive to our educational system. The fact remains that the opportunities for education are open to all these boys and girls if they so choose, whereas if they care to refrain from this schooling, they can take an occupational course on the farm and fit themselves to make themselves useful in this line of work; that is their option. I, therefore, ask the members of this House to support this bill.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, I have a high regard for the opinions of those members of this House who have preceded me and who spoke on this bill, but I wish to call to your attention that it is possibly less than one year since we passed the act raising the age at which employment certificates might be received from fourteen to fifteen. I do not believe that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has shown such further advancement in the last year that we would be doing any justice to the people of the rural counties if we passed this bill. It has been, as I said, up until 1937, permissible to grant employment certificates to boys and girls fourteen years of age who had completed the sixth grade. Now, this bill if passed, will bring it back to the age limit of fourteen years, when a boy or girl in a rural community may be granted an employment certificate at that age. The only thing I see wrong with this bill, ladies and gentlemen of the House, is that I believe we are giving those who want this bill a bucket of white blackberries, because under your present requirements, it is usually a mistake for a child to complete the eighth grade before he reaches the age of fourteen, and therefore I believe that was a mistake. Our country grew and prospered when we were, in our rural districts, issuing these employment certificates to children that reached the age of fourteen and I therefore urge the members of his House to vote for this bill to give to the people of the rural counties the advantage of using their own children, to which they are rightfully entitled.

Mr. KELSO. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to occupy the floor in defense of this bill, but on account of the remarks of Mr. Holland, I think it is necessary for me to make this statement: This bill, in no way, would allow children to enter the factory under the intent of the law. The intent of his legislation is that only those children in agricultural pursuits or perhaps where needed in the home would be affected. I have been on boards where a few of these certificates were issued, and it never does anybody any harm. As far as these boys and girls in the country are concerned, let me say just this, so that you will not get the wrong interpretation: I am in favor of advanced education, but in this case we have boys and girls who do not want to go to school, and this bill only requires them to pass the eighth grade, and then they may be exempted at fourteen, so that they may work either on the farm or in their own homes in domestic service.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it has not been customary for me to do anything other than to advance education in Pennsylvania. I have voted for many measures for the advancement of education, as my record will show. I am here tonight representing a rural county in which the labor situation is rather difficult, especially on the farm. We have in my particular district a condition existing where three or four farmers have to get together in order to put out and harvest their crops due to a lack of labor. This bill in no way affects those children or young people who might become employed in industry.

The basis of education, to my mind, lies entirely in the hands of the parents; very much of a young person's education depends upon what the parents really want that boy or girl to become. I can see no reason really why, when a young man wishes to return to the farm work and secure for himself an education along that particular line, where he has a definite program worked out on agricultural work, that we should hinder the parents from having the use of that young man back home on the farm. Too many of our people are going out of the higher schools of learning without jobs. We have very few young people who go back to the farm and there learn to farm and conduct the farm in a progressive manner, they are without jobs when the time comes for them to go into active work.

Along this line I am reminded of a story which I believe will show to some of the members here the exact meaning as to the stand which I am taking, and you and your locality, whether you be from the city or the rural districts will realize that it is true in many instances. A young man one time applied for the janitorship in a church and the board, in acting upon his application, told him that they believed he did not have the proper educational qualities to carry on this job. He, being a permanent young man in the community, they did not want to hurt his feelings, so they gave him a horse and wagon and told him that they believed he could do good with this piece of equipment. A few years later the young man returned to his home town and had quite a large amount of money to deposit in the local bank, and when he took the money into the bank the cashier said, "We are very glad to receive your deposit. If you will just sign here, we will be glad to enter this money in your account." The young man said, he was very sorry but he couldn't write, but that he would make his mark. So, he made his mark and after he was through the cashier looked at him and said: "For a man who cannot write and possibly cannot read, to be able to deposit such a large sum of money, what in the world would you have done if you had a really good education?" He said, "I would have been a church janitor if I would received that education." Now, I really appeal here to the members, whether you are from the rural districts or from the city, that you give this your vote of approval, because, as Mr. Nagel has stated, if this were given to the rural Pennsylvania people to vote on, they would surely vote in favor of it. I earnestly solicit your vote in behalf of these people, who really need their young people at home to help to carry on a great industry, which is the farming game in our particular localities and the rural districts of Pennsylvania. I again ask that you give us your support by voting for this bill.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, after having listened to these wonderful discussions by various members of this House I could no longer remain quiet in my seat.

I am rather surprised to hear a speaker say, in one breath, that he is for the advancement of education, and in another to say in this particular respect he is willing to lower the bars of education. You must bear in mind that the question of educating a child is not to be determined by the rural districts nor by the metropolitan districts but is only to be determined by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. How can you very well say that at the age of fourteen, a child who has completed the eighth grade be given the privilege of working on a farm or a domestic job. As my good friend, Mr. Simon has told me, in the County of Clinton, a school district saw fit to place in the curriculum of one of the high schools a course in agriculture. I say to you ladies and gentlemen of the House, you are interested in making better farmers. If you are interested in having persons who work in the soil, know what the soil is, how it is to be worked, then give to the individual a course that will teach him how to work it. Send him away to school and give him a complete education in agriculture, advance our citizens. Oh yes, this country, many years ago, had the horse and wagon. Today they no longer have that. They have the automobile, the areoplane and streamlined cars. Are we going to say that we are going to discard these conveniences and go back to the horse and wagon? Are we going to say that? We must have progress go on. If you would listen to the gentlemen in favor of this bill they would say to you: discard these advances, discard these advantages and place the poor unfortunate child into servitude at the age of fourteen in order to become a slave; a slave to the ground.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mrs. HORTING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 52, Printer's No. 39, on page 4 of today's calendar, bill on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mrs. HORTING,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 52, entitled:

An Act to amend section one hundred and seventeen, as amended, and section two hundred and six, of the act, approved the eighteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309), entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, together with the provisions by which it shall be administered, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof; providing revenue to establish and maintain the same, and the method of collecting such revenue; and repealing all laws, general, special or local, or any parts thereof, that are or may be inconsistent therewith," by providing an additional method for creating independent school districts, and the appointment of school directors therein.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I know the hour is late and I do not intend to take up much time but I consider this bill a very dangerous bill.

The Democratic members of this House have been accused many times of passing bills without giving them due consideration. In the hurry and urgent necessity of some necessary reforms, we have been guilty of that in some respects, but I can see no reason for passing this bill without giving it much further consideration. This is a bill that would allow the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania to create an independent school district, whenever the voters in that particular voting district saw fit if at any time in the future this Commonwealth should be so unfortunate as to have a politically minded Governor in the Chair. Now, if we are so unfortunate, it would be possible for some industry, and I have in mind a township in my own district where that would be possible, to influence the vote in that particular voting district and have an independent school district created which would take out of the taxes of the township a large sum of money. In one township that I have in mind, there is a plant with an assessed valuation, I believe, something like $40,000,000. Under the provisions of this bill, it would be possible to start an independent school district and take that tax revenue from the township ino a district of less than 250 voters at present. I believe that we are setting a very dangerous precedent, if we do anything like this, and I have heard no reason advanced for the passage of this bill, except that it is advocating and sponsoring a particular religious group.

Another statement was made that the Governor has promised this aid to this religious group. Now ladies and gentlemen of the House, I submit to you that the Governor, if he took such action, without consulting the members of the House, it is regrettable and unfortunate. but I might say it is not unprecedented and I do not believe that the members of the House would be governed by any such action. I ask you, in consideration of the state as a whole, to consider this bill as special class legislation and vote it down.

Mrs. HORTING. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am somewhat surprised to hear that we are considering action on this bill with too much haste. Last Monday I was accused of passing over the bill. In numerous occasions for the past three weeks it has been on the calendar, and I repeatedly passed it over with the idea in mind that the members of the House would have plenty of time to give it due consideration.

The statement has been made by Representative Boies that this bill is class legislation. It is true that a special group or sect, as is evidenced in the Halls and floor of the House, are interested in this bill. They only represent forty per cent of the eighty-seven per cent of the taxpayers in a particular district of my county who are interested in this bill. I would like to call your attention to a statement that appeared in the current issue of "State Government," "In the ordering of public as of private affairs there is a legitimate place for wisdom and judgment, and even where there are hidden or imperfectly understood forces and agencies for speculation and chance . . ."

I submit to you as I rise in defense of this Amish group that are resident in Lancaster, we have here perhaps an agency whom the representative from the far corners of the state do not understand or at least that imperfectly understand that force.

I am asking you tonight to give this group a chance. There are many in Lancaster. Yes, in the days of William Penn, they looked at Lancaster County and they saw there a haven, where they might stop and live close to mother earth and close to their God.

I understand probably you are not familiar with their practices or belief, but I ask you tonight, to give these people a chance. In Lancaster County in that particular district in 1931 the taxpayers were asked to vote upon a bond issue of $140,000 for a consolidated school. That bond issue was defeated by a vote of almost five to one showing that they were opposed to consolidation. Recently without consent of the taxpayers, money was secured through P. W. A. funds and a school was built. Eighty-seven per cent of the taxpayers hired counsel and went to court in an effort to stop the building of the school. They were refused a hearing. If they were refused a hearing at that time, it is certainly not likely that they would be granted permission to set up an independent school now by that same court, and for that reason it seems expedient to appeal to some other source than the court in our particular county. That is why the bill has been so drawn, asking that the Governor be given the right upon a petition by the majority of the taxpayers to set up an independent school district.

I would also like to call your attention to the fact that on Page 3 of the bill it is provided that if we should have such a Governor who was politically minded, it is definitely stated that the rest of the petition shall also be passed upon by the Superintendent of Public Instruction. I solicit your support for this bill.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to oppose this bill because in my opinion this bill takes away a power and a duty which can better be fulfilled by the courts than it can be fulfilled by an administrative officer, such as the Governor. I too represent the same district that Dr. Boies represents, and the circumstances which he has outlined for the consideration of this House would make it very regrettable, not only in our own particular legislative district, but in most all of the communities surrounding the Monongahela and Allegheny valleys. These communities are industrial cities with steel plants and industrial plants located very close to the river's edge, and extend backwards in very narrow segregated districts. Any industry which controls through the renting of properties adjacent to their mills and industries, the vote or the will of the particular residents nearby could very easily, under the terms of this bill, interfere with the fiscal administration of any of the school districts in that particular region. As a matter of fact, a school district of the city of Pittsburgh could very easily, by the terms of this bill, be established and an independent school district created, if such a Governor should sit in the chair up here in Harrisburg and grant the petition of the majority of the qualified electors in the particular district, asking to be made an independent school district. I say to you that the downtown section of the city of Pittsburgh, with all its huge buildings, could very easily be transformed, with very few streets, or with very few registered electors signing the petition, and being brought up here to Harrisburg, to the Governor, he could very easily create an independent school district. It does not answer the question to say that this may not happen or probably will never happen. We are legislating up here for all of the people in Pennsylvania and not for any particular group of people, regardless of how good the intention or how well those people may be thought of. It matters not that this particular group of people are asking for this special exemption, because while the bill may be constitutional in form, its effect in this case really is an example of assistance being promised where assistance should not be, because it interferes with the orderly administration of the law and it interferes with the application of the law to all people alike. I merely wish to say that this bill if passed would change the law in the organization of school districts and would place the creation of the new school districts at the whim of any particular person who should happen to become Governor.

The real issue here is whether or not all the people of Pennsylvania are going to be governed by the same law or whether we are going to have another example of special legislation passed for a special or particular group. I want to emphasize that none of the men I have talked to who intended to vote against this bill, are doing so out of a spirit of malice and they do not want to prevent any particular group from practicing their own particular religion, but it does seem to me when the benefit of one particular group must give away to the benefit of all the people of the Commonwealth, then we should pass on that benefit to all the people of the Commonwealth and not only that particular group. So, therefore, I ask the members of the House to vote against this bill.

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there is very much at stake in the principles of government that are the foundation of this bill, the foundation of American independence, and that is to worship as one sees fit. That is really the foundation of this bill. If you look ahead of you and see the picture of William Penn, who is making his treaty with the Indians, you will find a man of peculiar religious sect. He came to Pennsylvania in order that he might set aside the civilization of Europe and present a haven here for people who wanted to live in their own peculiar methods of religion. I am for the consolidation of schools. In my own district no one worked harder for the consolidation of schools than I did. It is not a question of whether we are for or against the consolidation of schools, but it is a question of whether or not the people shall have the right to believe and worship as they see fit, upon that basic law and upon that basic theory of the right of people to worship as they see fit. We must preserve that right for these people. We may speak as we please, ladies and gentleman of the House, about the effects of education and the effects of civilization, but our European critics are sometimes right when they say that the Americans are a wasteful race. If you move from the Atlantic towards the Pacific and follow that path which the poet had in mind, when he said, "Westward the course of empire takes its way," you will find that in the wake of that progress from east to west there has been ruthless destruction and exploitation and waste. Forests have been cut away, great national resources of the nation have been destroyed, and civilization has advanced to the place where the dust storms of the past have taught us that our civilization has a mythical name, and there is something wrong with our wasteful methods.

This last Friday I had occasion to visit Lancaster county. I had with me a Cumberland county farmer, a well known authority on farming and farming methods, a man who has been selected as one of the foremost editors of one of the foremost farm papers in Pennsylvania, as a master in his vocation, and we moved along from farm to farm and we could not but help admire the beauty of that scenic country, the beautiful farm homes in Lancaster county. We have in Lancaster county these Amish people who settled there over three hundred years ago. They do not have ruthless waste there. They have conservation in those parts, and also the people of Lancaster county cut their homes out of the primeval forests three hundred years ago. Today they have preserved that land so that it is in better condition now than at the time it was found. Contrast these people with the agricultural areas of the great West, where the soil has been exploited. These people have preserved an economic system and they have devised a system of education better than our own educational scheme. Throughout the country, in the CCC camps we have found a number of college and university men who could not make their own living but had to depend upon the Government, so that they might sustain themselves. We have no problem like that among the Amish people of Lancaster county. There is no such a problem there. There is no such a thing as asking the Government for aid, but they preserve themselves in their own peculiar system.

You Sons of Abraham must remember that when your forefathers were carried off into Babylonian captivity that they resisted the civilization of the Assyrians and the Babylonians. You must remember Hadrach, Mesach and Abednago. Your Great Daniel preserved for posterity the Mosaic law and the traditions of the Hebrew race. Will you remind yourselves that our civilization and our christianity owe a great deal to the fact that these people presented themselves, and after years of Babylonian captivity, fought to preserve the right of practicing their own religion. Here we have the same type of that peculiar people, following the traditions of their religion and insisting upon the rights of their religion. As the poet said:

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey,
"Where wealth accumulates and men decay,
"Princes and lords may flourish or may fade,
"A breath can make them as a breath hath made,
"But the bold peasantry, the country's pride,
"When once destroyed, can never be supplied."

I think we should be in favor of this bill, if we are going to follow the traditions of William Penn, the traditions which William Penn has founded, if we are going to carry forward in the spirit of William Penn and in the spirit of tolerance, that will preserve for posterity this great race of people who have shown that they can live by their hands.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to thank you for your generous applause before I start. Members of the House, I do not appear before you in the spirit of sympathy, neither do I ask anybody to vote in the spirit of sympathy, but I rise and speak on this bill as my conscience desires me to speak.

I rise to oppose this bill on several grounds and several reasons. As I look to my right and see the picture of Independence Hall, there are memories which come to my mind, and when I look at the signers of the Constitution of the United States, and when I look at that honored document, we know that under that document the system of American Government is divided into three branches, that is the Legislative, the Judicial and the Executive. As I look upon this bill today there is only one thing that this bill does, that is that it gives to the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania the right to create a new school district.

Members of the House, I ask each one of you to look into this bill and ask yourselves this question, whether or not the people in any district of the state of Pennsylvania can rightfully come before a court and ask for a district to be set up. I say to you and I asy to the lady from Lancaster, I believe that Lancaster county has been one of the foremost counties in the state of Pennsylvania, and I believe that the Judges of the county of Lancaster are honorable gentlemen, I think that the judges are wonderful men and good citizens of that county, but up to the present time no petition has been presented to the Lancaster County Courts asking for an organization of a particular school district. Ladies and gentlemen, no one would know better the problems of Lancaster county than the judges of that county, who have been born, who have been raised and reared there, and I say to you, members of the House, that this bill today is asking the Legislature to do something which no one else has ever asked. I say to you, ladies and gentlemen, if you give to the Governor of Pennsylvania the right to create a new school district, let us assume he would create such a new district, what right of appeal would a group in opposition to such a thing have? None whatsoever. But, let us in the same manner and in the same way, assume that these people presented a petition to the Lancaster County Court, and the opinion of that court was against it, what right of appeal would they have? They would have the right to appeal to a higher court to determine whether or not the lower court was wrong or right in passing upon the various questions. Are you going to give into the hands of the Executive of this state the power not only to be an Executive but also the power to pass upon legislation judicially at the same time? That is against the principles of American Government; that is against the principles of the man, William Penn, who is represented in the picture to my right. William Penn wished to have the same form of government in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as we have in the United States, and this is to divide the Government into three forms or branches, which I have already mentioned. Therefore, I say to you, to allow a bill like this to pass would be to put upon the statute books the most vicious piece of legislation that has ever been created.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the lady from Lancaster, Mrs. Horting.

The SPEAKER. Will the lady from Lancaster, Mrs. Horting, permit herself to be interrogated?

Mrs. HORTING. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the lady from Lancaster, Mrs. Horting, if it is not possible under this bill that a majority of the taxable inhabitants who wish to set up a school district, could petition the courts and be turned down, and then petition the Governor?

Mrs. HORTING. Mr. Speaker, it is not my understanding that it is necessary to be refused by the court before they appeal to the Governor. They may appeal to the court or to the Governor.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, my question is, if they appeal first to the courts and then are turned down, may they not then also appeal to the Governor on the same matter?

Mrs. HORTING. Yes, Mr. Speaker, that is right.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am opposed to this bill, and my objection to the bill is based on the fact that we are setting up a dangerous principle to bring in conflict the various departments of our Government,—one thing is certainly true we found that out in this special session. Certainly we ought not do anything that in any way might lend any kind of service to a conflict between the three branches of our Government.

It is inconceivable to me, whatever may be the merits of the bill, so far as William Penn might be concerned or the children of Abraham might be concerned and so forth, but it seems to me that if we are going to pass an act whereby we can bring right in a conflict of government, the same thing we are suffering from in this special session, we ought to go mighty slow. What I mean by that is very simple. If our Government is to exist, it must exist because we have a division of authority. In this bill we place authority either in the hands of the Governor or in the hands of the court on the same subject matter, and it seems to me that is a very, very dangerous precedent and the bill ought to be defeated. I am not so sure that the substance of the bill could not be worked out by the Executive. I am not so sure it could not be worked out by the Legislature. I am not so sure that the courts should have the right to set up a district. I think it should be resident in one department, and not ask the Legislature to pass something that will bring into conflict our fundamental branches of Government, which should be kept separate and distinct.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I say to you that we rural members seem to be having an awful battle tonight to get anything accomplished. We have heard all sorts of arguments for and against the bill. The thing that I cannot understand is this, that when this bill is branded as special legislation, and establishing a bad precedent, it has been so prevalent in my mind since becoming a member of this House, that some time or other in previous Administrations precedent seemed to be in vogue everywhere, in other words, special privilege semed to run at times rampant in this Legislature. I cannot see that this is throwing any definite responsibility on the Governor, and when we say that we are giving him some privilege that at a later date may cause a certain school district to be set up by the Executive, we must remember this fact, that the Governor is elected by the people of the state of Pennsylvania. The people of Pennsylvania also elected us, also elected the Senate of this Assembly. They argue about various branches of the government having the privilege of doing certain things. They have as much right to ask the Legislature as they have to ask the Governor, as well as to ask the courts, and I can't see where we would be doing anything that would be esablishing a bad precedent because of the fact that they do have the opportunity under an original bill which gives the courts the opportunity to set up a special school district. If we should vote "no" on this bill after listening to the able argument advanced by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, we would be voting "no" because in their particular instance by their own statements, they say that a certain industry established in their own community would find themselves available to set up a special school district. This is not only possible at this time, but it has been possible under previous legislation when the courts were given this privilege by the Assembly, to grant a special school district. Now, when we think of the fairness of this bill, I notice that the bill also states that the people for whom the special school district is established, that they will accept their responsibility for their share of the bonded indebtedness of that community, to pay their equal amount in regards to the settlement of the bonded indebtedness. We are being only fair in our present request at this time. This also should be given some thought by those in this House who represent local government. This is another case where the people of Pennsylvania are coming forth and asking something in a local nature,—a local government. Those who advocate it should support this measure because it is coming back to a position which the local government rightfully holds in that it may request of this Legislature certain measures pertaining to its interests. I feel that this has been accused of being a religious bill. It is not that at all. It was explained by the lady from Lancaster, Mrs. Horting. These people who are consistent in their methods of living are asking for the privilege of establishing their schools and operating them as they would have them operated. I ask the members of the House at this time from the rural districts to give these people a break and vote for this measure.

Mr. KILROY. Mr. Speaker and member of the House, I had no intention to get into this debate. We from Philadelphia have no interest whatsoever in this bill, but after hearing the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Harkins, that he represented all the people, I say I do not agree with him. I believe that our Constitution guarantees religious fredom, and I ask the members from Philadelphia to vote "aye" on this bill.

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not believe that we ought to pass over the occasion of trying to make a comparison between the theories that have been advanced so very ably by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, in which he wants to preserve the integrity of the distinct branches of our Constitutional Government. I think that that is necessary, but I think vastly more is necessary under our system of civilization, because I feel that if this bill or any bills that are advanced for this purpose, basically in this Government of ours, we ought to preserve the integrity of the Lutheran, the Presbyterian, the Baptist or the Hebrew, or the Roman Catholic or the Amish. I say to you that my conscience cries out to me to preserve that integrity of faith and I ask you to place above these local considerations these considerations of conscience.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

RESOLUTION No. 16

Mr. SIMON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 16, Printer's No. 62.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, September 13, 1938.

Errors occur in printing pink bills and are repeated in subsequent printings.

Errors may creep in at the time of any reprinting, and reprinting is sometimes necessary solely for the purpose of correcting error.

The number of reprints can be reduced greatly, and a very substantial saving made in the cost of legislative printing, by an orderly procedure in inserting amendments and in reading bills for typographical and other errors, and by fixing the responsibility therefor in one place.

The time of members of both Houses can be conserved by reducing the number of times bills appear upon the Calendar for consideration on the floor; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the preparation of copy for all bills reported by committees and the preparation of copy for all amended bills be made a function of the Legislative Reerence Bureau; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau read for errors all pink and white bills as delivered by the printer, assuring correction of errors on subsequent reprint if one is made necessary by amendment in either House, and obtaining a correct reprint from the printer, without charge to the Commonwealth, if the bill is not amended.

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau be given the authority and the necessary funds to augment the force of the Bureau to the extent required to properly discharge these responsibilities.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. WELLIVER offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 10, 1938.

Whereas, On October 3, 1938, the bugle of death was sounded for Thomas Yerg, a former Member of this House from Washingtonville, Montour County; and

Whereas, The Honorable Thomas Yerg served in the House of Representatives during the Sessions of 1927 and 1929; and

Whereas, After completing his education he spent five years in general farm work and then entered the business of barbering. Some time later he entered into the mercantile business, conducting a men's clothing and furnishing store, in which business he continued to be engaged for many, many years. In addition to his having been a member of this House for two terms, he served two terms as Burgess of Washingtonville Borough, two terms as borough councilman, and one term as school director; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House extend their sympathy to the family of the Honorable Thomas Yerg, and hereby directs the Chief Clerk of this House to send a copy of this resolution, duly engrossed, to the members of the family of the deceased.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1938. No. 25.

SENATE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1938.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Praise waiteth for Thee, O God, Thou that heareth prayer for Thy power and Thy glory may be manifest in the temples of state, even as in the sanctuary.

Be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause Thy face to shine upon us, that Thy way may be known upon the earth, Thy saving health among all nations. Help us to bring to our tasks an honest purpose, a dangerous courage for the truth; to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's for things of Caesar's are Thine. In the urgency of events and transactions, may we possess our mind in peace ever portraying bigness, rather than bigotry, happy in what we give, rather than in what we get, ever remembering that service is the divine measure of greatness.

Bless us with a godly jealousy for the wealth and happiness of our people; a contentment with what we have; a holy discontent for what we are. We ask it in His name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. DENT, from the Committee on Labor and Industry, reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 61, entitled:

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial Number 106, approved March sixteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burdens placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states, together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures and the appropriation made to said committee and making a further appropriation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, and members of the Senate, this bill deals particularly with that now famous commission studying the taxes in Pennsylvania. I have before me a resolution sent by one W. R. Kelly, Chairman of the Independent Republicans of Philadelphia, and James B. Henderson Jr., Sara K. Seltzer, Robert J. Hagerty, James S. Cozens, Walter Lewis, Benjamin Abernathy and Henry Walters in which he and his group state that this investigation has definitely found out certain things and he insinuates and plainly charges throughout this resolution that this commission is not doing its duty by the people of Pennsylvania, and that we are deliberately holding up this commission's report.

He states, on the second page: that "We call ourselves Republicans. We are interested in the outcome of the election and we feel therefore that we are justified in asking you to submit your commission's report."

Now I want to state that this validating act which I have just reported from the Committee on Labor and Industry carries with it a ten thousand dollar appropriation. For the past year and one-half, this commission has been studying the problem of taxes in Pennsylvania. We have held hearings all over the State of Pennsylvania and we have at the present time a great mass of material gathered during this study. I believe it is unfair for this group or any other group to take the attitude that any commission created by this legislature is not doing its duty, when the truth of the matter is that we are working diligently to have this commission's report in intelligent form so that the members of the Senate and the House can study the results of the investigation and the necessary recommendations can be made to the General Assembly.

Now I am not particularly interested in the political significance of this study but it seems strange to me that papers misquote, particularly statements that I am supposed to have made, in which they state that I would deliberately hold up any report that may be ready until after the election. I have never made that statement and it is physically impossible for this commission to have this report ready so that the Republicans if they so desire, or think they can, use it in any election.

I am not interested in what Mr. James says about taxes. I am not interested in what Governor Earle says about taxes. I am interested in what the Dent Commission finds out about taxes, and I am interested in curing the evils, if there are any, in Pennsylvania relative to tax legislation, and I refuse as a member of that commission to be stampeded into making any report until we have all the data, until we have all the facts, in order that the people of Pennsylvania will get the benefit from the money that has been spent by the commission.

I am going to ask now, and I don't intend to talk further on the matter when the bill comes before the Senate, that this Senate give this bill due consideration and that it pass it, because of all the studies made I believe that the one which will do more good for the future, of Pennsylvania will be the report of this commission.

I just wanted to state so that all could know that we are not holding up any study on taxes, we have nothing hidden in our trunks at home and that the commission's report is now in the hands of a very able and capable attorney, John H. Fertig, who I believe is registered as a Republican and who is making a diligent, hard study to have this report ready when the proper time comes.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. GILSON, from the Committee on State Government re-reported as amended, Senate Bill No. 49, entitled:

An Act to prohibit the sale offering or exposing for sale of fireworks defining fireworks and authorizing cities, boroughs, towns and townships to regulate the manner of using fireworks therein and providing penalties.

RESOLUTION

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, in offering this resolution I want to take this opportunity to state that I sincerely and devoutedly believe in one God; that that one God has used a branch of the human race, the Jewish race, to transmit to the world the only real foundation for law, the only real system of poetry.

He has used a part of that race to transmit to the world His Son, whom I believe sincerely to be my Saviour.

During the course of events he has used the early fathers of the Latin people to translate His words into the Latin language. Later on He used the early fathers of the Germans to translate his words into the German language. Later on William Tyndale translated that word into the English language. And today as we look over the world and see the descendants of those great languages combining together to prosecute and persecute that branch of the human race, whom God has chosen to give to the world His will, I feel sure that our nation which has been peculiarly called "Of God", should be the leader of the world to rise in defense of them.

I deem it an honor and a privilege to show my appreciation of the gifts of my God sufficiently to rise to their defense, and with that statement I offer this resolution to the Senate.

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE SECRETARY OF STATE TO URGE GREAT BRITAIN TO ADHERE TO THE TERMS OF THE PALESTINE MANDATE AND THE BALFOUR DECLARATION

Mr. RUTH offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy Land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, the American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Home Land and

Whereas, this responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, under the provisions of the American British Palestine Mandate Convention, signed December 3. 1924. approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, it is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, people of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, the magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish settlers in Palestine, spiritual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world.

Whereas, the unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from many lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened peoples as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred.

Be It Resolved, that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration. and

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. In order to give strength and influence to this resolution and after considering the matter with the Senate leaders, the Chair is of the opinion that the resolution should go through every constitutional process. With that thought in mind the resolution is referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

RESOLUTION EXPRESSING SYMPATHY TO HONORABLE HARVEY HUFFMAN PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE, IN HIS ILLNESS.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. EALY, acting for Mr. WOODWARD, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Senator from Monroe, Mr. Huffman, has been detained from his duties in the Senate by illness and

Whereas, the members of the Senate both Republican and Democratic regret sincerely his absence from the Senate. Therefore Be It

Resolved, that we extend to the Senator from Monroe our honorable President Pro Tempore, our sympathy in his illness and the sincere wish for his speedy and complete recovery.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious Lord, we do thank Thee for the beauty of this day. We thank Thee for the peace our nation now enjoys. May we promote in every way peace in all the world. Thy word honors the peace maker— Blessed are the peace makers, for their's is the Kingdom of Heaven. How beautiful are the feet of those who carry the glad tydings of peace. May we agree always to peace based on righteousness, and hold not honerable peace pacts as pie crust to be broken at will and pleasure. In the name of The Prince of Peace, we do pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. HAYS, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time House Bill No. 21, Printer's No. 55, on page 2, of today's calendar, bill on third reading postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. LEWIS.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 21, entitled:

An Act to regulate the sale storage offering or exposing for sale of fireworks defining fireworks and providing for licensing and regulation of the manner of using fireworks and providing license fees and penalties

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, will be read for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 1, by adding after the word "detonation" the following: "Fixed ammunition for small arms and primers for such ammunition are not included within this definition."

Amend Section 2, page 2, line 27, by striking out the words "Baloons carrying a lighted substance" and inserting in lieu thereof: "Balloons which require fire underneath to propel the same."

Amend Section 2, page 3, line 7, by striking out after the word "Composition" the following: "exceeding one and"

Amend Section 2, page 3, by striking out all of lines 8 and 9

Amend Section 2, page 3, line 14, by striking out the words: "without sticks"

Amend Section 2, page 3, by striking out all of lines 15 and 16.

Amend Section 4, page 4, line 2, by inserting at the end thereof, after the word "with" the following: "rules and regulations promulgated Under section three thereof"

Amend Section 4, page 4, line 3, by striking out the word: "an" and inserting in lieu thereof: "An"

Amend Section 4, page 4, line 3, by inserting after the word: "Pleas" the following: "of the county in which the applicant resides or in which he seeks a license to operate"

Amend Section 4, page 4, line 5, by striking out all of line 5.

Amend Section 7, page 6, line 5, by inserting after the word "letters" the following: "and clearly legible"

Amend Section 7 (f), page 6, line 10, by inserting after the word "unlawful" and before the word "to" the following: "except for special public displays which may be held at any time."

Amend Section 7 (f), page 6, line 11, by striking out after the word "caps" the following: "and except for spe-"

Amend Section 7 (f), page 6, line 12, by striking out at the beginning of the line the following: "cial public displays"

Amend Section 10, page 7, line 4, by inserting after the word "boundaries" the following: "or from regulating the storage of fireworks therein"

Amend Section 13, page 7, line 21, by inserting at the beginning of the line before the capital letters heavy faced bracket [

Amend Section 13, page 8, line 1, by inserting at the beginning of the line before the following "[sentatives]" heavy faced bracket.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, cover the same points that are covered in my amendments, I wish to withdraw my amendments.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I dislike to raise an objection and refuse to give unanimous consent to put the amendments in because I understand from the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, that a great many of the amendments are to clarify some of the provisions of the act, but I have been unable to find any one who has been able to follow them carefully enough to determine just what effect they may have on the act. Therefore, I am going to object to unanimous consent at the present time, in the hope they can be gone over and if it is determined that they are all right, the request can be renewed.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection to the insertion of the amendments and consent is not granted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, in order that we may enter into a session of explanation and clarification, I move you that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 78, (Senate Bill No. 15), entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. WILSON filed the following reasons for his vote:

I hereby file my reasons for voting "no" on Senate Bill No. 15, Printer's No. 58, on third reading and final passage today, as follows:

1. The bill provides that in order to receive the benefits of the abatements proposed by the Act, twenty per centum of such abated taxes, together with costs, interest and charges in all taxes covered for the years 1935, 1936 and 1937, shall be paid on or before the thirty-first of December, 1938, and twenty per centum thereof shall be paid yearly thereafter until the whole amount shall be paid. If the taxables concerned make such payments strictly as provided, all the rebates mentioned will be assured. The bill should provide that those yearly payments be made on or before December first of each year; because of the inconvenience of receiving and applying such payments to the legal expenditures each year beginning with 1938. Just the one month's delay will prevent the use of this first payment in 1938 and each year use will be delayed accordingly because the payment is at least one month too late for application of same on the current year's expenses.

2. The bill should provide that taxables are required to pay the 1938 taxes in full in order to receive these concessions in abatements. Those 1938 taxes are absolutely necessary to comply with the budgets of the respective municipalities required under law.

With the above provisions placed in the bill, I would be ready to vote for it. The sponsors of the bill admit it is being enacted for political purposes. I hold it is unfair to those taxpayers who have sacrificed so much to meet their delinquent taxes in full, including costs, interests and charges. If those who are still delinquent receive these benefits they can afford to make the payments one month earlier each year and also arrange to pay the 1938 tax, so those in charge of the business of the respective municipalities may be able to comply with the budget requirements and carry out their projects.

3. The bill should be made optional with each district. In that particular, it strikes a blow at "home rule."

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 17, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, October 17, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

MESSAGE LAID ON TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the message be laid upon the table.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

RESOLUTION

MEMORIALIZING PRESIDENT ON PEACE MESSAGE

Mr. HINDMAN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent that it be read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, This House hereby memorializes His Excellency, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States and commends him for the memorable message which he cabled Herr Adolph Hitler of Germany which we believe played an important role in averting the catastrophe of war in the leading countries of Europe with all the serious consequences involved leading to bloodshed, suffering and death with all the concomitant heartaches, mental anguish and unpleasant anticipations with a halo of gloom hovering over the entire populace of the belligerents as well as the dejection, fear and unpleasant foreboding of those nations which may be potentially and unwillingly involved together with the serious economic problems encountered, therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of this House, Mr. President, that your action was a master stroke of statesmanship equalled but seldom, if at all, by any man in the history of this great nation of ours, with all its priceless and magnificant traditions in statesmanship. We believe that your message will go down in history as one of the great state papers of all time. We further commend your efforts to have the clergy of all creeds to assemble in groups throughout the nation, their people to unite in prayers to Almighty God that war between all nations may be averted. Surely your statement in effect that the World War demonstrated that the results to the victors and the vanquished alike were sterile has ample justification. No truer principle was ever enunciated.

For the first time in twenty years the good people of our nation are raising their heads with hope, confidence and assurance that an entering wedge has been made and they look forward with hope to the time when nations will recognize the futility and the emptiness of bloodshed in adjusting their differences and settling their disputes. May God speed and direct your efforts. May we look forward with confidence to the time when war will be outlawed and that all nations will unite in verily, transforming their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks. To that end may Providence continue to direct your efforts and leadership in order that the whole world may be made a better place in which to live, and be it further

Resolved, That the Chief Clerk of this House send an engrossed copy of this resolution to the President of the United States.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I certainly feel that the Republicans will join in commendation of the President of the United States for the efforts he made toward peace, and anything else that he did that contributed toward peace.

I should like to join in this resolution to the President of the United States because I felt, as I think every patriotic American citizen felt, on the day it was announced that the President had sent a message, that we certainly should stand by him, no matter what our party affiliation was, in his effort to help the European situation, and in an effort to keep war from breaking out, which might drag all our people into it.

I am only sorry that my good friend from Washington, Mr. Hindman, for whom I have a lot of regard, dragged into his resolution something, to keep the record straight, I must say is not entirely so. Mr. Hugh Johnson has pointed out that a great deal of credit was being given to the President of the United States for his efforts in trying to prevent a world war, which looked as though it was going to break out in Europe. He pointed out that the sequence of events was such that the matter had been determined before the Roosevelt message arrived. I therefore feel, although I am not going to object to having the resolution presented to the House at this time, and I shall vote for the resolution, I think that our friends on the other side, when they seek to place the President on such a high plane for actions which we can all commend, should avoid that which places us in uncomfortable position, in an endeavor to say things in behalf of the President which the historical facts do not entirely bear out.

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection?

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I always consider the judgment and wisdom of my good friend, Mr. Turner, but I cannot see how by any stretch of the imagination he should feel that we have drawn politics into this, and I assure you with all the sincerity that I can find within me that politics never entered my mind when I prepared this resolution.

This resolution was prepared last week, but owing to the fact that we adjourned when we did, we did not present it. I do believe exactly what I said, without any political consideration. I do not feel, members of this House, that politics should be considered in this at all, regardless of how you might feel towards the President of the United States, regardless of political affiliations. I repeat what I said in this resolution, that I believe this to be one of the most comprehensive, one with the most meaning and one of the most wonderful State papers that I have ever had the privilege of reading. I might say, incidentally, ladies and gentlemen, this was not copied from the editorial of one of the leading metropolitan newspapers, although they had made this statement. It was not taken from that paper, which is one of the most partisan and vindictive Democratic papers that there is in the State of Pennsylvania. They made the statement that this effort of the President undoubtedly was a very potent factor in diverting the catastrophe of war, and they also made the statement that this message of his would go down in history as one of the greatest messages of all times. I do not feel that that is from a Republican paper, I do not feel, ladies and gentlemen of this House, that we should consider that in a political light. I feel that perhaps this may be the beginning of more peace-minded consideration that really the great nations of the world will realize, as I said in this resolution, that their difficulties cannot be settled by bloodshed. I believe that all of the members of this House will agree that nothing is accomplished by having a war or bloodshed. I believe that a war between nations should be considered just as a difference between individuals, because, after all, nations are just aggregations of individuals.

I submit to you that any group of the members of this House which is lined up on some problem, either in or out of the legislative halls, that is of vital interest to both sides, if it is not settled amicably, certainly if they engage in a combat, regardless of which side wins, they have not gained their point. So, I do feel that we as legislators should do all we can to try to engender the spirit which seems to be developing, in an endeavor to outlaw war for all time. I thank you.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I desire to thank the gentleman from Washington for his very fair and very frank statement. I did not exactly mean to impugn his own motives in stating that I thought the resolution was unfortunate in that paricular phraseology. I certainly had no intention and did not desire to leave any impression that I in any way thought the commendation of the President was of a partisan nature. I wanted to leave the impression that we as Republicans would certainly join most heartily in commending the President in that respect. Therefore, I repeat, for all that the President has done towards securing peace, I think that we all in this House, whether we be Republicans or Democrats, can say "Amen."

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TUMELTY. RESOLUTION No. 20.

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The present Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was adopted in 1874; and

Whereas, The public may be called upon in the future to vote upon an amendment calling for a Constitutional Convention; and

Whereas, The purpose of the convention would be to offer to the public a new and up-to-date Constitution for them to vote upon; and

Whereas, It is highly desirable that the knowledge of the public be increased in regard to the Constitution and the provisions thereof; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Public Instruction is hereby requested to require every school district in this Commonwealth to include in their required instruction, "A graded course of studies on the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" so that the provisions of the constitution may be introduced and incorporated in the work of each grade from the fifth to the last grade of the public school system of this Commonwealth, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Public Instruction.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Miss BRANCATO asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Cities to meet during the session of the House.

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED SENATE BILLS NONCONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has nonconcurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to Senate Bills numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 15.

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 15

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the House insist upon its amendments nonconcurred in by the Senate and that a committee of conference be appointed.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the Senate on the subject of differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill Messrs. SAMUEL A. WEISS, JOHN A. SMITH and STOCKHAM.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. OMINSKY from the Committee on Cities reported as committed, House Bill No. 79, (Senate Bill No. 20), entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. OMINSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 79, (Senate Bill No. 20), read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 79, (Senate Bill No. 20), entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Cities for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. HOLLAND. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 21.

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor's Highway Safety Council has made great strides in curbing accidents upon the Highways; and

Whereas, It is believed that these accidents could be further substantially reduced by the adoption and enforcement of regulations under which would divert heavy traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays, because on such days certain highways are overcrowded with passenger cars; resulting in many accidents through tie-ups, delays and attempts to pass, and other traffic hazards.

Whereas, From time to time various bills have been introduced in the General Assembly to promote safety upon the highways through the regulation and control of truck traffic, and up until the present time no effective action has been taken to relieve this continuing dangerous situation, which has resulted in so many needless deaths and injuries; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Pennsylvania Motor Police are hereby authorized and directed to conduct an investigation and survey concerning the controlling of heavy truck traffic on Sundays and holidays on certain highways to determine the number of such accidents occurring on Sundays and holidays, the number of persons killed and injured, the reasons therefor, the advisability of diverting such truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays and to report to the next Regular Session of the General Assembly their findings and recommendations.

Referred to the Committee on Rule.

SENATE MESSAGE

APPOINTMENT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON SENATE BILL No. 15.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate insists on its concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives to Senate Bill No. 15, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interests and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof.

And has appointed Messrs. SHAPIRO, KILGALLEN and WOLFENDEN, a committee of conference to confer with a similar committee of the House of Representatives (already appointed) on the subject of the differences existing between the two Houses in relation to said bill.

SENATE MESSAGE TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Senate message, a resolution for concurrence, which was laid upon the table, be taken from the table.

The motion was agreed to.

The Clerk read the message as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1938. No. 26.

SENATE

MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Rev. FRANK W. RUTH offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, Who art Father of all mankind; at the close of this beautiful day, we draw nigh unto Thee and pray that Thou wilt guide us to do and say those things which shall apply into this world more of Thy great spirit of love and brotherhood, that Thou wilt guide us to realize the position to which Thou hast called us, to be leader; that of our own strength, of our own knowledge, and of our own power, we can do very little.

Only as we join hands with Thee, let Thee be our guide, can we accomplish the work to which Thou hast appointed us. And we humbly draw near unto Thee tonight and pray that Thou wilt lead us so that out of this work will come a greater and more glorious day for our State, for our nation, and for Thy Kingdom here on earth. We ask it in the Master's name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. KAHLE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Senator Edward Jackson Thompson, Centre (Chairman).
Senator Walter S. Pytko, Philadelphia.
Senator George Woodward, Philadelphia.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Some of my Republican colleagues during the passage of Senate Bill No. 28, charges that it was morally wrong and legally unsound for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to take over the local institutions devoted to the care of the mentally ill without compensation. Newspaper statements and the present attack on the constitutionality of the legislation, make it advisable to clear the atmosphere.

The claim that the Commonwealth is taking the property of the various local governments without compensation is not tenable neither is it founded on fact. In their interest where the property of a local government is to be taken over, there will be after May 31, 1939, a saving to the locality which will not only pay the carrying charges but will be sufficient to eventually, and in a short time, pay any existing debt and interest as well as the original cost of the institution, and at the same time will enable an immediate reduction in local taxes throughout the State.

The following figures prepared, from information furnished by the local authorities, give the approximate saving throughout the State:

Institution	Cost	Bonds	Annual Maintenance Cost	State Patients Contributions	Net Cost
Ransom	$606,000	$197,000	$99,000	$57,000	$42,000
Blakely *	400,000	135,000	20,000	50,000	15,000
Hillside	2,700,000	600,000	282,000	106,000	176,000
Chester County *	208,000	.....	85,000	50,000	35,000
Blair County *	200,000	.....	97,000	47,000	50,000
Mercer County	616,000	.....	49,000	30,000	19,000
Retreat	3,500,000	400,000	330,000	146,000	184,000
Lancaster County *		.....	123,000	53,000	70,000
Schuylkill County	570,000	76,000	106,000 (plus)	64,000	42,000
Somerset County *		.....	.....	.....	40,000
Mayview	6,639,000	2,126,000	1,068,000	414,000	654,000
City of Pittsburgh	7,145,000	2,224,000	1,295,000	300,000	995,000
Philadelphia	11,000,000	8,000,000	1,630,000	660,000	970,000

Total Institution Costs	$3,292,000
Payments by counties to State for patients in State institutions	1,500,000
Total annual costs of counties for care of the mentally ill	$4,792,000

* Figures not furnished or approximate, or figures given or used.

It must be admitted that this is a complete answer to the charges. Individuals and organizations who give any consideration to the subject of the care of mentally ill are unanimous in the opinion that the care of mentally ill is a State function. The action of the State in taking over these institutions and assuming this responsibility is therefore supported by the best opinions on the subject and legally, it is supported by the Constitution of the Commonwealth and the decisions of the Supreme Court.

Legally, under the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the State is prohibited from assuming the debt of any county; Article IX, Section 9, provides that:

> "The Commonwealth shall not assume the debt or any part thereof of any city, county, borough or township."

That provision of the Constitution disposes of the argument that the State should assume the bonded indebtedness of the various local governments where the institutions are taken over. The question of the right of the Commonwealth to take over county institutions without payment has been answered by the Supreme Court in a very recent case. It involved the construction of the Act of June 24, 1934, P. L. 2017 known as the "Public Assistance Law" which, among other things, had the effect of abolishing poor districts.

The poor district of the townships of Oxford and Lower Dublin brought a proceeding which was carried to the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. These proceedings are reported in 329 Pa. 410, and are known as Poor District Case No. 2.

The Public Assistance Act provides that:

> "In every city of the first class, the offices of poor director and of poor auditor of each poor district created by local law or remaining in existence as a former borough or township poor district are hereby abolished * * * Title to the real and personal property of each such district is hereby transferred to and vested in the city and its powers and obligations are hereby vested in and imposed on the city. Thereafter, the laws as to the care of dependents shall be administered throughout each city of the first class by the department of public welfare of the city * * *"

The townships of Oxford and Lower Dublin complained that the Act was unconstitutional in that it transferred property of the townships to the City without compensation. The situation in this case is clearly analogous to the present situation. The Supreme Court said that:

> "* * * the Act does not effect an unconstitutional deprivation of property or impair the obligations of contract. It is conceded that the district, being a governmental agency within the control of the legislature, has no right to continued existence, although its charter is in terms perpetual * * * The property of the district, as well as its life, is within the control of the legislature. Had the General Assembly abolished the district and not transferred its functions to another agency, its property would have vested automatically in the State. subject to its absolute control so long as not diverted from public use."

The Supreme Court further said:

> "The State * * * may take. without compensation, such property, hold it itself, or vest it in other agencies, expand or contract the territorial area, * * * repeal the charter and destroy the corporation. All this may be done, conditionally or unconditionally, with or without the consent of the citizens, or even against their protest. In all these respects the State is supreme, and its legislative body, conforming its action to the State Constitution, may do as it will. unrestrained by any provision of the Constitution of the United States."

The Opinion was written on January 31, 1938 by the Honorable Associate Justice Drew.

Senate Bill No. 28 and the provisions therein contained, were based upon the decision of the Supreme Court in the Dublin County case.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I do not know whether I have to rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would suggest that you do.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise, I do.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, as a minority member of the Shapiro Committee on mental hospitals I cannot refrain from offering my congratulations to my colleague, the Senator from Philadelphia and to the other members of the committee and I say that because I think Mr. Shapiro and Mr. Lewis and Mr. DiSilvestro did most of the work and I am sure that we are very grateful to the committee. Now whether these other twelve hospitals are in Republican counties or Democratic counties I do not know and I do not care because I think they are wrong and we are right. I also want to say that it is very refreshing to compliment the Democrats on not spending any money. This committee has done a splendid piece of work for which we are grateful and they had no appropriation. I say that it is very refreshing because I have jotted down on this paper that the appropriations come to $756,000 that the Democrats have taken out of the treasury of the State for various purposes, good or bad.

The largest item is $500,000 for publicity. Pennsylvania was suffering from unpublicity and now has $500,000 worth of advertising. You can read in magazines what is happening in Pennsylvania and it cost $500,000.

The Ruth Committee had $25,000 for Mr. Chet Keyes and they needed $25,000 more, that is $50,000, for Chet Keyes. The Anthracite Commission had an appropriation of $50,000 and they have come in and asked for $26,500 additional making a total of $76,500. What the commission did was—the only two Pennsylvanians on this commission resigned, gave up their salaries—but those non-Pennsylvania commissioners went into a state of quietude ad drew their salaries and then they dug up a report by the President of Harvard written in 1914,—his name was Elliott Jones.

So we are paying $77,000 to these commissioners for a reprint of a report made in 1914 by Professor Elliott Jones of Harvard.

The Shapiro Committee was given $25,000 of which it has a considerable balance. The Dent Commission $15,000, the Thompson Gambling Committee has $25,000 and the Oil Commission had $50,000, which makes $756,500. I may have forgotten some. I did this from memory and just to remind myself—well, unending spending brings us to grief. Also, if my memory does not fail me, I can recall no such appropriations under the Republican regime. I thank you gentlemen for listening to me.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, what amount did the Senator from Philadelphia mention has been appropriated for the Dent Industrial Commission?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, it was $5,000 but last week they got $10,000 more.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, we did not get it, yet.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, oh well——.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, in view of the statements of the Senator from Philadelphia classing as undue spending the appropriation of a half a million dollars to the Pennsylvania Publicity Commission, I should like to call attention to the fact that some several months ago a Republican newspaper in the city of Pittsburgh making a review of the actions of that commission called attention to the fact that there had already been returned to the State as a result of that commission's activities several million dollars in gasoline taxes through motorists who had been attracted into Pennsylvania in addition to the other money that has been spent in Pennsylvania by those motorists, and I would say that the Democratic Party in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should be intensely proud of the fact that Pennsylvania for once has made an investment that has made money for the state and not cost money.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I do not wish the impression to get out that we all agree with the interpretation of the decision of the Supreme Court in the Poor Board cases as referred to by the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro. In those cases the Poor Districts were entirely abolished and their functions transferred to the new institutional districts. In the Acts of Assembly taking over the mental hospitals the functions of the institutional districts were not abolished but their property was taken away, the property by which they exercised the functions of their districts.

Now if the Senator from Philadelphia is correct that the people of the State are going to be saved such a large amount of money by this bill I am wondering why they are not willing that the counties be permitted to vote on the question of whether or not they are willing to transfer their properties and come in under that Act, and if these various counties are to be saved so much money I should like to ask also and call attention to the fact that the budget of the next administration will be enormously increased and it will put the burden upon the incoming Governor and his budget officers, and this Senate and the House of Representatives, to find means of carrying this additional load. The haste with which this act was passed shows that there was some ulterior motive in it.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I was amazed at the attitude of the Senator from Philadelphia complaining about the money spent by the Publicity Commission. I want to confirm what Senator Law has stated that we got that money back in taxation, in the gasoline taxes. I feel that the dealers of Pennsylvania in gas made over five hundred thousand dollars. I also feel that the hotel people of Pennsylvania made over five hundred thousand dollars on this publicity alone.

You know I always had an impression, Mr. President, that Hazleton was one of those dark dreary coal mining towns in a low valley, surrounded by mounting coal piles, and after I read this publicity I went to Hazleton. And low and behold, I found one of the most beautiful cities in Pennsylvania, not in a valley but on one of the most beautiful plateaus in Pennsylvania, surrounded by beautiful valleys, hills, forests and delightful homes, and with the widest street I ever saw in Pennsylvania. I saw that in Hazleton.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, for the sake of the record, in reference to the statement of the distinguished Senator from Allegheny, he said the hotel-keepers are all for these Democratic improvements, but I have a distinct recollection of the hotel-keepers along the line of the super-highway are very much up in arms against that super-highway, because the super-highway, so called, goes underground through nine tunnels and therefore on the super-highway no one travelling it will be able to stop off at any hotel, and therefore the hotel-keepers are opposed to it.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any further questions of personal privilege?

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

Mr. SHAPIRO presented to the Senate the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 15, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest and costs on county, city (except city of the first class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

The PRESIDENT. The report will be noted on the calendar.

Mr. McGINNIS from the Committee on Judiciary General to which was referred resolution offered by Mr. Ruth on October 11, 1938, reported the same without amendment as follows:

Whereas, The civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, The American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Home Land and

Whereas This responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, Under the provisions of the American British Palestine Mandate Convention, signed December 3, 1924, approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, It is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, People of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, The magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish settlers in Palestine, spiritual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world

Whereas, The unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, It is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from any lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened people as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred.

Be It Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration, and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO RECONVENING THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. RICE offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That in any recess of the Senate and the House of Representatives during a Regular or Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may jointly reconvene the Senate and the House of Representatives at a date prior to the date already fixed for reconvening.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, yes sir.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I have heard the resolution read twice and I would like to ask the Senator from Adams to be frank and tell us what it means and why it was introduced.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, the resolution is not very complicated. It simply means exactly what it states, that if the House and Senate should recess to some stated time that the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House by joint action may reconvene the two bodies at a date prior to the date set for reconvening.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Adams if the Constitution has been considered in the drafting of this resolution, whether it has been passed on by the Senator from Mercer and other constitutional lawyers.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I do not know whether all the constitutional lawyers of the Senate have been consulted on this resolution but in my opinion, not being an attorney, I do not think that the Constitution specifies anything regarding the subject which this resolution covers.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President I ask that the matter be held in abeyance for a few moments.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the resolution being laid on the table? The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THAT FINDINGS OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE TAX STUDY COMMISSION BE PRESENTED TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. OWLETT offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, The Joint Legislative Tax Study Commission, created by resolution of the Legislature of 1937, of which the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, is Chairman, has conducted extensive investigations and held hearings throughout the State, and

Whereas, The subject of the Commission's inquiry is of vital concern to the citizens of Pennsylvania, it being a matter of common observation that industries are removing from the State, and a matter of common assertion that the cause, or an important contributing cause, in their removal lies in the taxes imposed by this Legislature and its immediate predecessor, and

Whereas, If this assertion be true it is the duty of this Legislature to concern itself at once with the situation and to correct it as far as possible, for which purpose the information in possession of the Commission would be of great value, and

Whereas, The citizens of the State of Pennsylvania who will be called upon on the 8th of November to express their judgment on the work of this Legislature, likewise should be in possession of the available information as to the effect upon the common welfare of the taxes imposed and continued by it, now be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the Joint Legislative Tax Study Commission be directed to present to the House and to the Senate findings based upon the information collected by it and conclusions as to what, if any, action may be taken at this Special Session of the Legislature, and further that the testimony taken by the Commission shall be printed and made available for distribution to the members of the House and the Senate and the public.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, with the permission of the Senate, I would like to make a short statement relative to this resolution. If I understand the last part of the resolution, it states that the information and testimony gathered by the commission be turned over, be freely given to the members of the House and Senate. That would necessitate printing probably a thousand or so pages that haven't been correlated or analyzed by the commission counsel as yet. I don't know whether at any time in the history of Pennsylvania any commission was given so little money to do so much work. We have tried as I stated before to give to the people of Pennsylvania, and not to the politicians of Pennsylvania, a decent return for the money that they have spent. We are still working on that task studying commission reports, and as I said last week I for one, and I hope that the rest of the commission stand by me, refuse to be stampeded into herding the people of Pennsylvania, and the industries of Pennsylvania, to please certain politicians who would like to make political thunder out of a decent commission's work.

We will continue to work in the same spirit of fairness that we have worked to date. We do not fear resolutions, whether they are handed in by independent Republican groups or Republican Senators. We are working under a terrible handicap because of the lack of funds. Would God give us strength and sufficient time and we will produce the report the gentleman desires. If I am right about my figures the gentleman will be here in the Senate when that report is read. With that statement I object to the immediate consideration of the resolution.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, last week I stated in regard to the Dent Industrial Commission that it was to ascertain as to whether or not those stories of Industrial migration are a political myth or an economic reality. This work of the Dent Industrial Commission requires the scientific approach, and cannot stand any injection of political material. I believe that the commission hasn't completed its work because of the vast virgin field which has to be examined, namely, all those exemptions from taxes of the big utilities in the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. And an examination of the exemption will be very useful and will show why the burdens of taxation are being alleged. Now, the work is only begun and in order to carry it out scientifically, we ought to prevent the injection of political material in the work of this commission.

An attempt was made a few years ago by a Republican, who was a member of the House, Mr. Atkins, who now aspires to become a Senator. He prepared a scientific report about the taxation problem in Pennsylvania. I believe that Senator Dent and the members of the commission will not permit any further prostration of our work. We are going to complete our work to the satisfaction of the Senate and the House, and with the scientific approach in mind.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Westmoreland County a question.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if in all of the discussions involving his resolution the main question seems to be that of industry moving out of the State. Has his investigation been considering also industries that are moving into the State? Or new industries that are being erected or constructed in the State?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, we are.

The PRESIDENT. Objection is made to immediate consideration. The Chair refers the resolution to the original Committee that handled the original resolution, the Committee on Labor and Industry.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, before we proceed to the consideration of the calendar, in view of what has been said about this resolution, I desire to rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to call attention to the gentlemen who were talking about industry moving out of Pennsylvania because of taxation, and possibly the Dent Commission might take note, to the following figures which I took the trouble to look up in connection with this so-called moving out of Pennsylvania by virtue of taxes.

I should like to inform the members of the Senate that I have taken three companies; the figures from the reports of three companies doing business for the years 1936 and 1937. First is the Sun Oil Company which in 1936 made a profit of $7,563,544, and in 1937, last year, made a profit of $9,544,000.

The next is the Atlantic Refining Company which in 1936 made a profit of $7,342,197; in 1937 made a profit of $9,935,045.

The Scott Paper Company, the company that I recall threatened in the argument before a committee hearing the bill to impose a corporate tax on profits, to move out of the State of Pennsylvania some time ago, I think it was 1935, and is still here, made in 1936, $998,011. In 1937 they made $1,254,000 and in the first six months of 1938, $743,628.

I bring these figures to your attention to say to you that these figures that I gave are in addition to the amount of taxes paid to the Federal Government and to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in every form and I suggest that the gentlemen who are crying about moving out of Pennsylvania and those who are talking about Roosevelt ruining business should take note how business in Pennsylvania has been ruined for these three companies.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I merely want to call the Senate's attention to the fact that unemployment in Pennsylvania is 25% greater than any other state in the Union and only last week Governor Earle sent an SOS call to Mr. Harry Hopkins saying that conditions were so desperate in Pennsylvania that they needed more authorization for WPA, and the reply came back authorizing the employment of 10,000 more on the WPA, increasing still further the proportion of relief money going into Pennsylvania.

Now of course I assume that nobody concedes that that has anything to do with the political campaign that is being waged right now. The fact does remain that unemployment in this State is greater than any other state in the Union and no matter what figures are given by my friends from Philadelphia, that one fact stands out as a disgrace to this Commonwealth and if our industries remained and employment remained such as it is in other states, we would not have that condition existing in Pennsylvania.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President and members of the Senate, the last statement made by the Senator from Tioga cannot go unanswered because of the seriousness of the charges. He states that Pennsylvania has a 25% greater load of unemployment than any other state in the Union.

If that be true let us now analyze the causes of such an unemployment percentage.

First of all, many industries in Pennsylvania have deliberately curtailed production work in order that persons could not be employed before the coming election, thereby throwing them as a necessity onto the State of Pennsylvania for relief or relief work.

Secondly, let us also recall that some of the largest corporations in Pennsylvania have gone in for an expansion program. This expansion program expanded their production facilities beyond the need of the consuming market. They therefore closed down, or rather thereby closed down many smaller plants in Pennsylvania that employed thousands of people in smaller communities. I refer specifically to the Carnegie Illinois Steel Company's $60,000,000 plant and the Jones and Laughlin Company's $100,000,000 plant.

The third reason for the so-called unemployment is that it has become quite a fad in the past few years for many industries to employ two heads of a family. In other words, where before the husband was the wage earner for the family, we find today practiced quite extensively, particularly in Pennsylvania, that the married woman and her husband are both working, while their neighbors are both loafing. That too is part of the industrial scheme on the part of the schemers in Pennsylvania for which we have proof. I know of one particular plant where there are approximately 500 women working and about 700 men. Of the 500 women about 400 of them are married to 400 of the 700 men. Well, you have right there 400 additional families that could be employed and have a wage earner in the family. That is one of the most criminal offenses against society today by the employers of labor. Now, I am not particularly interested in how much percentage this State has of unemployed over other states when I know the causes for these percentages. I think that every right thinking person in this State knows full well that after November 8th many persons who now depend upon the government will go back to work in those industries.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, since political speeches seem to be in order on both sides of the house tonight, I feel as though I might as well make one. I have been in practice a little lately.

I want to say this, that I have heard a great deal in the last four years here in this Senate, about industry moving out of Pennsylvania, because of taxes, and usually the suggestion is made that it is because of State taxes. Now in the valley in which I live, we have had a procession of industry out of that valley, different branches of the iron and steel industry over a period of ten or fifteen years, and it is because of taxes. But it is because of real estate taxes.

Ten or twelve years ago the Carnegie Illinois Company or as it then was, the Carnegie Steel Company, moved a large plant out of the city of Sharon because of high real estate taxation. The Stewart Iron Works moved a plant out of Sharon because of real estate taxation. Several blast furnaces moved out of the town of Sharpsville, where I live, because of real estate taxation.

I wonder if the people of Pennsylvania realize that if the Republican party had had its way on the question of relief, we would not have had the State taxes, no; but relief would have been turned back on the counties, at a tremendous increase in real estate taxation. In my county the figures show that if the relief now taken care of by the State had had to be administered by the county as additional poor relief, it would have multiplied by six the amount of money required by taxes. In Crawford County, the other county of my district, it would have multiplied it by four, and Crawford County has been particularly fortunate in the depression years since 1929. And if that had been done, if the Democratic Administration had not placed taxes on those able to pay, but had placed, as they say, the taxes on real estate, those same mills would have been complaining. Other mills would have moved out. They would have followed that procession and today in that valley, I don't believe that you would have any industrial plants because of the high real estate taxes they would have been obliged to pay.

I think that is the answer. Industry has been driven out by taxes in the last twelve or fifteen years, but in practically every case it has been because of real estate taxes on their property, and they went somewhere else where they could get away with a better real estate taxation rate than this State has, because very few States in the Union permit industry to get by with less tax on industrial operators than the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does today, even with the increases.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, this story about industrial migration is not new. It originated in Wisconsin. The Republican Senators of Wisconsin years ago came out with the same story of industry migrating from Wisconsin. The story was a fable and it was proved that it was a myth.

Next, the City of New York gave it to us that industry was migrating from New York. Then a Republican, a man by the name of Mr. Murphy, made an investigation and he proved that industry was not moving from New York. Now, last year, a professor from the University of Illinois, Joseph Stein, prepared a study, a scientific study, and proved that industries are moving, not because of taxes but because of many other considerations.

During my work on the Dent Industrial Commission, I had the honor of knowing Mr. Ballantyne, the Vice President of the Philso Radio Company. The Philso Radio Company was one of the companies that said they were moving from Pennsylvania on account of taxes. Now they moved a certain plant to Detroit, and they said that they were moving on account of taxes in Pennsylvania. I asked Mr. Ballantyne who is an honest and decent gentleman; I said, "Mr. Ballantyne, as a matter of fact you moved to Detroit, not because of taxes, but because you wanted to be near the motoring market."

He said, "That's right. Taxes were only one of the considerations."

We have proved that taxes are not the only motive for industrial migration. It is cheap labor that is driving certain industries to the South, and not the question of taxation. This is the reason why I also feel that this is only a political myth. If you turn the study into a vital science and solve the problems on the basis of economic reality, you will find that there is no such thing as taxes causing industrial migration.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I do not wish to prolong this discussion but I cannot help but call the Senate's attention to the report of the Dent Commission, the preliminary report last year, when it said even at that early date, "We are in a position to say that the migration of industry from Pennsylvania has reached a point where all thoughtful citizens and especially those intrusted with the making of our laws may well pause to give serious consideration to the causes of those removals, and the painful consequences of this continued exodus of production, employment, and payrolls from our State."

That is the Dent Commission saying that. It is deeply significant of the tragic trend that we of Pennsylvania cannot long ignore or accept without some drastic effort to remove the causes. Now I call your attention further to what that commission said a little while ago before this campaign was in the offing. "All that is set forth here cannot be regarded as more than a cursory glance at the Pennsylvania situation, yet these specific migrations, liquidations, transfers and closings, account for a total annual payroll lost or displaced amounting to more than sixteen million dollars a year."

Mr. President, during 1937, sixty-two industrial concerns moved into Wilmington, Delaware and more than half of those went from the City of Philadelphia, although Wilmington has a population of only one hundred and twenty-five thousand. All my resolution that I introduced tonight does, is call for a report of this commission on the work they have done to date. If they want to hide it from the public that is their business.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I know that it is not necessary for me to wait for the Dent report to find out why industry is moving from Pennsylvania. I know a lot of industries moving from Pennsylvania. In fact I represented a number of them who moved from Pennsylvania partly and went to Wilmington, Delaware and to other places in Delaware about which the gentleman from Tioga refers.

Coming up on the train last week from one of these places where one of the gentlemen had moved his industry, I was in the smoking compartment of the car and I heard two gentlemen speak. I am sure they were Republicans because one, looking out the window near Darby said "Look at that big empty factory there. A lot of them are moving out, aren't they?"

The other fellow said, "You know these labor conditions are terrible, and they moved South to avoid labor conditions." The other fellow said, "Well, they catch up with them there, too."

I was smiling at that because my mission at that time was to try to adjust the labor difficulty of one of the industries that had moved from Philadelphia to avoid the labor difficulties here in Philadelphia, and my mission was to make some arrangements so the gentleman could come back to Philadelphia because the saving in labor was not panning out as he thought. In the first place, he did not get the kind of labor that he can get in Pennsylvania; trained, skilled, ready labor. In the second place, he found out that the labor organizations do not exist only in Pennsylvania but that all labor organizations are establishing funds for the purpose of organizing and unionizing these people wherever they go, and you will not need any Dent report or any other report about migration from Pennsylvania as soon as labor organizations get organized properly in the southern states where they moved not for the purpose of avoiding taxes but for the purpose of avoiding labor agents.

I said that the Scott Company had earned $1,254,000. Now in addition to that they earned over $440,000 which they paid out in taxes, $335,000 of which was paid to the Federal Government and over $110,000 of which was paid to the State government. Now, I want to know what industry, what sensible business man, with millions of dollars invested in Pennsylvania would move out of Pennsylvania because of having made $1,700,000 and having had tc pay $500,000 to his government, State and Federal, for the privilege of having such a fine magnificent business.

I think this conversation and talk about moving out of Pennsylvania is purely political and can be nothing else. I have had experience in these things from both sides. I know a half a dozen industries in Philadelphia who have moved out of Pennsylvania but not on account of taxes. Why, it is nonsensical to talk about industry moving out of Pennsylvania when the taxes will only take fifteen or twenty or twenty-five percent of their profits and will leave them an immense profit besides. When a company can make two dollars and twenty cents net for distribution on each share of stock it is making enough money to warrant it staying in Pennsylvania. If it has any patriotism or human feeling, when it realizes that in Pennsylvania today we are spending $1,500,000 per week to meet unemployment which is $60,000,000 a year, and that these taxes are going to keep people from starving—if they are decent, good business men they will not talk about moving out.

But when they have to pay 3 per cent on their payrolls to guarantee some measure of security to the people who work for them, when they have to pay old age pension funds to guarantee some measure of security for those people who have thrown them on the dump heap at the unproductive age, when they have to work forty hours per week, instead of fifty and fifty-two, then they of course, have a complaint but they won't dare say that, they won't dare give that as an excuse, because that would brand them as people who don't appreciate the privileges of a great State, and a great country. And I think it is high time that we realize that the things that we are saying and doing today make for the destruction of a democracy here just as they make for it in other nations. If we want to be serious about this thing, we had better stop talking against our Government, and do some talking for it. Because you can look outside of this country and you will have a hard time finding any democracies left. If you want to destroy this one democracy, then keep up this political chatter that you deliver here and you will get it; but if you want to save this democracy stand up and meet this issue like men and not politicians.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I think it is important that I give some answer to the gentleman from Tioga, relative to the preliminary report of this commission. By reading that report he has read to this Senate a good reason for not making a report at the present time. We made three preliminary reports. Various members of the commission drew up those preliminary reports. The varying report that the gentleman reads from was drawn up by one of the members of this commission, and accepted by the commission, because they had faith in that member. He himself was fooled by one of the largest industries in Pennsylvania. They gave him first hand information which was included in that report.

We gave it to this Senate, and to the people of Pennsylvania as a bona-fide fact. What happened is well known to the people of Pennsylvania. Immediately upon the release of that report the Curtis Publishing Company denied that they had given to Representative Harry Trout, the information that he gave to the commission as a fact. They denied that they were moving out of Pennsylvania although they had told him they were. They denied also certain other statements which we as members of the commission know full well that they gave to Mr. Trout and that is a very good reason for not making more reports until we have the truth; and nothing but the truth will be sufficient in this case.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I think it is only fair to the Senate to report that industry is moving out of Pennsylvania. We have seen in Pennsylvania during the last two weeks a very hurried exodus of Pennsylvania's largest Republican industry. We don't have it in this State today. Three weeks ago we had it in full force. That, Mr. President, is Moe Annenberg's gambling racket.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I had not thought of taking part in this debate as to whether or not industry is moving from Pennsylvania until the Chairman of the Dent Commission got up and gave us some statements that he purports to be facts as to why industry in Pennsylvania is slacking down at the present time. And I am on my feet now simply to say that what he says certainly did not come out of any of the hearings that we had in the Dent Commission. It was said Jay Gould years ago that he said that in a Republican State he was a Republican and in a Democratic State he was a Democrat, but always for the Erie Railroad.

Now we on that commission, haven't found that industry in Pennsylvania felt that way about it. We found in many cases that industry said they were being penalized to the place where profits were being wiped out, but they realized if they moved to other parts of the United States they could not take their employees with them, and for that reason they were staying here, hoping there would be a change.

In the matter of the Saturday Evening Post, I don't know anything about what Mr. Fuller told Representative Trout, but I do know that he was before our commission when we had a hearing in Philadelphia. He told us that in Pennsylvania today, the Curtis Publishing Company is paying hundreds of thousand of dollars more than they would pay if their plant would move to Camden, across the river. And I read in the State papers that he is heading a movement today revealing just what the taxes are doing to industry in Pennsylvania. But, Mr. President, it is not merely taxes that are hampering industry in Pennsylvania, and the study of the Dent Commission has not been confined alone to taxes. It has been a question as to whether taxes or any other restrictive legislation is doing it, and I want to say to you that it is the other restrictive legislation, just as much as the taxes that today are hampering industry in this State.

In addition to that there are the inducements, as has been said on the floor here, of cheaper labor, although for the most part the Pennsylvania employers said that they would rather have Pennsylvania labor than the labor that they get in these other states. They say that other things being equal the more competent labor here in Pennsylvania would give them the advantage and they would rather stay in Pennsylvania than go into the other states.

Another thing that we are finding is that those large corporations that the Senator from Philadelphia talked about are as a rule pretty well able to help themselves or take care of themselves. They are able to pass their taxes on to the consumer. It is the little fellow we find that is being hurt here in Pennsylvania.

You gentlemen on the other side have been talking about taxing the ability to pay but I want to say to you that your taxes are going right down on the consumer, right down on the people who are not able to pay. You can talk about taxing the ability to pay all you please, but the factories that are closing down are certainly not attempting to commit political suicide simply to affect an election. They are closing down because they have to and the employes largely pay the price; they and the smaller businessmen who have to take the products from the bigger corporations, who have expert cost accountants who can figure just what the cost of the tax is going to be and put it into the product. When we get down to the small operator, the smaller businessman with the keener competition that he has, very often he is faced either with losing his market or absorbing the cost. If he has a surplus or if he has credit he absorbs it until he gets on the verge of bankruptcy.

I am very sorry that we have had to go into the Dent Commission work before they could reveal the entire facts in the matter, but I thought the statement of the chairman of that commission which intimates that industry in Pennsylvania is deliberately shutting down to affect an election would leave a false impression, because it certainly is nothing that we on the Dent Commission found to be true.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I want to suggest something to the Senator from Susquehanna that is caused by his own mention of the commission headed by Mr. Fuller. It affects the question being studied by Mr. Fuller, the President of the Curtis Publishing Company. I suggest to Mr. Fuller that he investigate all the accounts lost from industry in Pennsylvania and also the accounts opened by new industries. Then he will have a complete picture. Removed from the political atmosphere we can do more tangible work.

QUESTION OF LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of legislative inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his question of legislative inquiry.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask what is pending before the Senate at this time outside of the election on November the eighth?

The PRESIDENT. Nothing but the election.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Westmoreland, Mr. Dent, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I rose a while ago to a question of personal privilege and made a statement regarding what I personally thought related to the 25 per cent overload of unemployment. I did not refer to the Tax Commission hearings. I did not state that they had found that out in their investigation; I said that I personally felt that those reasons were the reasons that Pennsylvania had the 25 per cent overload of unemployment. I do not want it misunderstood that any of this information that I gave here is part of the commission's findings. I will have nothing to state relative to the commission's findings until the proper time and place presents itself. I do want to state that though Mr. Fuller is head of the group who are supposed to be studying the tax question, it may be enlightening to this group of Senators to know that the Westmoreland County branch of the Fuller Tax Study Group was the first one in my county to address me with a telegram asking me to vote against the probe bills. I do not know what that had to do with taxes.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 49, entitled:

An Act to prohibit the sale offering or exposing for sale of fireworks defining fireworks and authorizing cities boroughs towns and townships to regulate the manner of using fireworks therein and providing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—39

Barthold,	Frey,	Kunkel,	Rodgers,
Buckman,	Gelder,	Lanius,	Ruth,
Cavalcante,	Gilson,	Law,	Shapiro,
Chapman,	Haluska,	Mallery,	Sipe,

Eroe,	Kilgallen,	Rice,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 56, entitled:

An Act creating a joint legislative commission to study and report on the causes for rejection of the Workmen's Compensation Act by employers the structure of rates on Workmen's Compensation insurance and making an appropriation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 59 (House Bill No. 66), entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts page seventy-four) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill is a deficiency appropriation to the Department of the Attorney General. It asks for a $50,000 deficiency appropriation. I think it only fair to the Department of Justice to place on the records just what this bill is. As to the total amount of this bill, a total deficiency of only $13,200 is chargeable as a deficiency to the present administration of the Attorney General's office.

That $13,000 is made up of $7300 for preparations of briefs on the 44-Hour Law, the Liquor Floor Tax case and the Norwood Realty Company case; $2450 for a transcript of the testimony on the Full-Crew Law case and $3500 in witness fees.

As to the balance of some $38,000, it comprises in full the additional expenses incurred by this administration to be paid by the Attorney General's office in the Monahan case and in the Bruno case. I should like to say and place on the records that the amount to be paid, the additional amount to be paid in the Bruno case is $14,782 and that there has already been paid out in the Bruno case $29,764 in counsel fees and witness fees; so that the total amount including the amount appropriated in this bill paid in that case alone is $43,546.67. But this bill comprises $21,909 to be paid in the Monahan case. I should have said about that $29,000 payment; first, that $21,750 of it was paid by Schuylkill County and $7,900 was paid by the Commonwealth. But the total paid therefore by the Commonwealth would be $21,791, the total paid, which means what the State still owes and what the State has paid.

In the Monahan case, as I said, the total amount paid by the Department of Justice will be $21,998.00. Of this bill, seven thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight dollars is the money due in the Jennings case, five thousand dollars is the amount which the Supreme Court said must be paid by a contract made by former Attorney General Schnader with Emanuel Beloff in the Henrietta E. Garrett estate, six thousand nine hundred and ten dollars is being paid for inheritance tax cases under the previous Attorney General, and one thousand three hundred and ninety-three dollars is being paid to Mr. I. E. Penrod, contracted by the former Attorney General as a special investigator. As I say, only thirteen thousand two hundred of this amount can be charged to the present Attorney General.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if there is anything in those items which he has very kindly read for the record to show how much was paid by the Attorney General's office under this administration to Judge Kalodner, special counsel in the Mellon tax case.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there was no money paid by the Attorney General's office. Of course the gentleman knows that this is not in the item, but there was no money paid by the present Attorney General's office to Judge Kalodner. On the contrary, Mr. Margiotti, the former Attorney General, appointed Judge Kalodner and stated in his appointment that he considered him one of the ablest men on tax cases in the State of Pennsylvania and contracted the bill before the present Attorney General came into office. By the way, it was paid out of the Mellon estate.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, isn't there provision in the Attorney General's office for the payment of a ten thousand dollars fee to the attorney for the Clarence Geist estate in Philadelphia and another ten thousand dollars fee for the Stotesbury estate?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is no provision made for any such fee but there has been appointments made for counsel in those cases.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, notwithstanding, Mr. President, that there are already a whole horde of deputy attorney generals who are supposed to handle those things, I understand that the department makes special appointments in each case.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, well, the department is following the usual custom that it followed under the Republican administration when it appointed, I think it was the Senator from Bucks or his brother as the banking cases special attorney. That isn't an unusual custom and it is being followed, I think, but not to the same extent.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I enjoy it.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I was interested in the statement made by the Senator from Philadelphia on the bill but still I was unable to gather from his statement whether he is in favor of this deficiency appropriation or not. I would like to know whether he is.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am going to vote for the bill. I am not in favor of or commend the practice of contracting bills for the prosecution of cases where the counties have to pay such tremendous sums and the State also joins in paying tremendous sums.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wonder if the Senator from Philadelphia would be so kind as to state whether in his opinion all of this could not have been avoided if the Attorney General's power to supersede District Attorneys would be curbed and taken away from him?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, no, I do not think so. I think you would have to talk to the Supreme Court about that because they have specifically invoked those cases and not only said that the District Attorney may supersede but that it is his duty to supersede whenever in his opinion it is necessary. After that was done they decided that the counties cannot be compelled to pay and although the counties paid some twenty-one thousand dollars, they said "We can't give you that back but from now on the State shall have to pay."

I think the way things look now that it would be a good idea if the Attorney General should always have the right, but he should exercise it with discretion.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, does the Senator from Philadelphia know whether these items of indebtedness mentioned by him as owing from the Commonwealth to these various persons must be approved by the Auditor General and whether they have been approved by the Auditor General?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, no, because I have copies of the order the court made in each case in which they approved the payment of these bills and left nothing to the Auditor General or to the Attorney General to decide.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, is that not due to the fact that the courts have legally decided that these bills were legitimate and should be paid?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, they decided that services were rendered and should be paid, certainly.

I am quite sure the Senator from Fayette could have conducted well and ably the case in his own county for less than $40,000.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to reciprocate by saying that the Senator from Philadelphia could have handled a lot of matters in Philadelphia for which we paid large attorney fees for less fees than the State had to pay.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if the Senator from Fayette will so notify the Attorney General's Office in my case, I will do the same for him.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, since these items are proper matters of discussion under this deficiency bill, I as usual or rather not as usual, disagree with the Senator from Philadelphia on the question of whether the Attorney General should have the power to supersede the constitutional officer, the District Attorney. But here just in this session we have passed an Act of Assembly that gives the Attorney General the absolute power in his discretion to supersede the District Attorney.

Now, that can have no other effect than to further encourage expenditures such as the Senator from Philadelphia does not agree with at this time.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—39

Barthold,	Frey,	Kunkel,	Rodgers,
Buckman,	Gelder,	Lanius,	Ruth,
Cavalcante,	Gilson,	Law,	Shapiro,
Chapman,	Haluska,	Mallery,	Sipe,

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 60, entitled:

An Act to amend Section two of the act approved the twelfth day of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight(Act No. 5) entitled "An act authorizing the appointment of a commission to make a thorough and impartial investigation into the operation of the oil industry in this Commonwealth with special reference to the adequate efficient and economical supplying of lubricating oils and gasoline to the people of this Commonwealth conferring upon the commission full power to issue subpoenas and conferring upon the courts of common pleas power to enforce obedience to subpoenas so issued requiring the commission to make a report of its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly or to the Governor and authorizing the commission to employ counsel and employes and making an appropriation" by changing the manner of appointment of the members of said commission

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, this seems like a rather unusual bill. It is an Act to amend Section Two of an Act approved the 12th day of August, 1938. That is a little over two months ago, and now it is sought to be amended. The passage of this bill reminds me somewhat of the baby who was born one day and died the next. He had on his tombstone an epitaph; he had his name and the date of birth, we will say on October 16th, and the date that he died, October 18, the same year—and then the epitaph. "If I were so soon to be done for, I wonder why I was begun for."

This bill goes on to change this Act that we passed this present summer, by providing that the members shall all be appointed by the President Pro Tempore of the Senate, or the Speaker of the House, and that the only requirement is that they shall be members of the Senate or of the House at the time of their appointment. I was wondering, having in mind that this is one of the pet measures of the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, whether being not only afraid that he was not going to be re-elected but that a Democratic Governor was not going to be elected, he made sure of his own job and the rest of his colleagues by providing that they could continue serving as members of the Senate or the House. I was wondering if anything like that was in his mind and I would be glad to have him ellucidate the necessity of this Act.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, the Senator from Bucks thinks fast but not deep. If he would stop to make a second thought he would have realized that at least a month and a half ago I was re-appointed to the oil commission and I have my job under the terms of that Act, as long as there is an oil commission, irrespective of the outcome of the election. This present bill won't affect my status at all. If it is any consolation to the Senator from Bucks to know that I will go right on rendering the Commonwealth my valuable service, I am glad to convey that information to him.

As for the purpose of this Act, I think we all appreciate the superior qualities that legislative commissions have over commissions that are appointed in other forms. For that purpose and for that purpose only, Mr. President, it is to amend this Act of last August, so that the commission is purely legislative.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the Senator is a member of so many legislative commissions that have so many different appropriations that I have forgotten what the appropriation is on this bill, but I think it is $25,000, and I would like to ask the Senator if he is still hopeful that he can spend that between now and election.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, as with the other commissions that we belong to, they are purely working bodies. We haven't at all followed the old Republican principle in the application of the commission. We try to find out what are the duties of our commission and perform them. We are not particularly interested in the spending of an appropriation. Our appropriation may be $25,000—I will be satisfied with the word of the Senator from Bucks on that amount. I don't recall offhand what is the amount stipulated in the appropriation.

This bill does nothing except make the members of this commission purely legislative. Under the old Act three appointments were made by the Governor, and one by the Speaker and one by the President Pro Tempore. This Act changes that so that all five appointments are made by the members of the Legislature.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, isn't it a fact that if these appointments were made by the Governor they could be revoked by the incoming Governor, whoever he may be, and isn't it a further fact that if they are appointed by the Legislature, another session could revoke those appointments?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, that is not a fact under the terms of the bill.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, why is it not a fact?

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, if I recall the Senator's reading of the bill, the bill said that the appointed members shall continue to hold office irrespective of the outcome of the election. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Bucks is certainly getting very far afield in bringing the election into the question of influencing the passage of this bill. Certainly the Senator even in his wildest dreams does not ever imagine that a Republican administration is going to be elected here in November. It will not make a bit of difference to him as far as his getting on this commission by gubernatorial appointment after he goes out of the Senate on December first, it will not make any difference because the Governor certainly will not be a Republican and there will not be any chance of his getting appointed to this commission.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28

Barthold,	Gilson,	Kunkel,	Rice,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Lanius,	Rodgers,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 61, as follows:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 106 approved March sixteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burdens placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures and the appropriation made to said committee and making a further appropriation

Section 1 The joint legislative commission created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 106 approved March sixteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burdens placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states together with all its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures (whether the same have been paid or remain unpaid) and the appropriation made to said commission by the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts page 74) entitled "An act making an appropriation for the expenses of the joint legislative committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number one hundred six approved March sixteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" are hereby ratified confirmed and made valid notwithstanding the fact that said committee was created by a concurrent resolution and notwithstanding any other defect or informality in substance form or language in the legislation creating said committee

Section 2 The sum of ten thousand dollars ($10.000.00) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the committee referred to in section 1 hereof for the purpose of carrying on the work of the said committee for the compensation of assistants employed by said committee for the expenses of the members of the said committee and its employees for the preparation editing printing and distribution of the report of the committee and for the payment of incidental expenses

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO RECONVENING THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution introduced by me earlier at today's session, which was laid on the table.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That in any recess of the Senate and the House of Representatives during a Regular or Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may jointly reconvene the Senate and the House of Representatives at a date prior to the date already fixed for reconvening.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, will state his point of order.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, the resolution does not fix a definite time for a recess.

The PRESIDENT. No, it does not. That does not invalidate the resolution.

Is there objection to immediate consideration? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. RUTH, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to.

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) that when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, November 14, 1938, at 9 P. M. and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, November 14, 1938, at 9 P. M.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING THE PRESIDENT AND THE SECRETARY OF STATE OF THE UNITED STATES TO APPEAL TO GREAT BRITAIN TO ADHERE TO THE TERMS OF THE PALESTINE MANDATE AND TO THE SPIRIT OF THE BALFOUR DECLARATION

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Senate Resolution Serial No. 21, reported as committed from the Committee on Judiciary General at today's session.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, the American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Homeland and

Whereas, this responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, under the provisions of the American British Palestine Mandate Convention, signed December 3, 1924, approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, it is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, people of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, the magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish settlers in Palestine, spiritual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world

Whereas, the unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from many lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened peoples as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred

Be it resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to speak in support of the resolution introduced by Senator Ruth. I am impelled to do so, because of the imminent danger that threatens the Jewish homeland in Palestine, a creation of our acquiescense—and because of the great concern such a possibility must cause among the people of the great Commonwealth, especially our fellow-citizens of the Jewish faith. At all times, these latter have yielded unto our State and country, their utmost in patriotism and loyalty, and in this, their hour of doubt and uncertainty and need, we owe them the fullest measure of sympathy, help and cooperation in return.

For centuries, the Jew had set his face toward Palestine and prayed for its up-building that he might provide a haven of refuge for the oppressed and harassed of his brethren. Unheedful of his claim, the world, nevertheless, applauded this undying hope, and when opportunity presented itself, gave public recognition and to sanction his aspiration in the form of the Balfour Declaration. As an aftermath of the World War, Great Britain declared as follows:

"His Majesty's Government views with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish People, and will use its best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object."

In this expression, the United States joined whole heartedly. President Wilson participated in the drafting of this declaration and our Congress, in 1922, endorsed the purposes thereof, by passing the Lodge-Fish Resolution. And finally, in 1924, we entered into the American British Palestine Mandate Convention, under which both governments recognized their mutual responsibilities, and agreed not to make any change in the Mandate unless we were first consulted.

Thus, was there given impetus to one of the most phenomenal evidences of love of home and country. On the strength of this support and encouragement, the Jewish people of the world, aided and assisted by the Jews of this country, proceeded with self-sacrificing labor and herculean effort to rebuild their home in Palestine.

Joy and enthusiasm overcame what seemed insurmountable difficulties. An uncompromising will conquered obstacles that threatened the success of the enterprise. Indeed, the world, with great admiration marvelled at the fullness of the achievements and accomplishments of this small band of God-inspired pioneers. The population grew from 55,000 in 1917 to 450,000 in 1937. Swamps were drained and waste lands were transformed into fruitful farms and orange groves. Roads were built through rocky passes and cities and towns were planned and erected. Schools, a university, hospitals and clinics sprang up throughout the land, serving all who applied, regardless of creed or color or race. Yes, here was being created a life and country, patterned after our own, and founded on the principles and ideals of social justice and equality.

At long last, here was the promise of a future and permanent home of a people that had wandered long, but had never ceased to yearn for Zion, the haven of refuge for the thousands of unfortunate Jews in Europe made homeless by cruel and inhuman decree.

But Alas! The joy of fulfillment seems to be destined for a short life, unless the world raises its voice against another instance of consummate injustice. From sources that appear to be authoratative, come intimations that Great Britain will revoke the Balfour Declaration and scrap it; that in the place of the Jewish homeland, there will be set up an Arab State with minority rights to the Jews. A retreat from its pledges—a reversal of its policies—a retraction of its promises. What an uninspiring change! From the peace and gentleness of the Jewish scholar to the terror and brutality of the Arab hireling. From the beauty and fertility of the Jewish farm to the filth and squaler of the Arab camp. From the progress and achievement of the Jewish pioneer to the inertia and indolence of the Arab peasant. Two decades of life giving soul stirring effort crushed under the heel of a momentary decision.

No, we in America, who have encouraged the Jewish people to aspire to liberty and freedom cannot and will not remain aloof when that freedom is threatened. We, who value and appreciate industry and honest toil and loyalty to time hallowed idealism will not sit idly by, nor remain silent while justice is being despoiled. We demand and have a right to be consulted before the Balfour Declaration is scrapped. We owe it to ourselves and to our posterity, that we be afforded the opportunity of pleading the cause of our wards before the Bar of the World. We owe it to our fore-fathers as well as to the future, that we be free from the charge of deserting their idealism. By adopting this resolution we of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, make known to our National Government, and through it to Great Britain, our unchanged desire that the pledge to the Jewish people be kept, that its destiny and right to a homeland be fulfilled.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1938

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our Father in heaven, it is with Reverence unto Thee we resume sitting in session. Thy word exherts reverence and honor—reverence and honor unto Thee—"Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart;" "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God, in vain." Reverence unto Thy sanctuary; "Ye shall reverence my sanctuary, I am the Lord." Reverence upon parents—"Honor thy father and thy mother." Thou doth exhort us to honor our rulers, for they are God's servants. Happy is he who can say. "All these things I always do."

In Christ's name, we do pray.

Section 13 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to speak against the passage of this bill, what is commonly known in the House as the Fireworks Bill, for several reasons. If you read the bill, you will notice from its contents that first of all it is very crudely written. In the second place, the bill itself is attempting to give the power to legislate to a particular organization in this Commonwealth. That, in itself, is against the principles of government of this Commonwealth, because the delegation of power, there is not a unit rule given the Supreme Court has held time and time that such a delegation of power is unconstitutional. The main reason why I rise in opposition to this bill is because it is attempting to give authority to a certain group of individuals which does not exist.

If you will read the bill, you will read that it goes on and mentions the Pennsylvania State Motor Police. There is no Pennsylvania State Motor Police in Pennsylvania State Motor Police in Pennsylvania or anywhere in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Therefore if you were to follow the instructions given in this bill, no one would have the authority to carry it out. Let me read to you the act that was passed last year creating the Pennsylvania Motor Police. The Pennsylvania Motor Police was so constituted last year and not the Pennsylvania State Motor Police. This bill in itself in its entirety all through the bill goes on and says that the Pennsylvania State Motor Police shall have the right. Let us assume that the correction is correct as they say it is. Let us assume there is a Pennsylvania State Motor Police. This bill goes on and says that the Pennsylvania State Motor Police shall make such rules and regulations as they shall see fit. Let us carry that a step further and see just exactly what that would mean. That would mean this: Substituting the word Pennsylvania Motor Police for Pennsylvania State Motor Police and the Pennsylvania

Motor Police shall consist of a Commissioner, a Deputy Commissioner, of the State Police force and the State Highway Patrol, as now authorized by law, which are hereby consolidated into one force to be known as the Motor Police Force and such chiefs, statisticians, clerks, experts and other assistants as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Governor, shall deem necessary for the work of the force.

Reading from the very act of this Legislature created last year you would give to every statistician, to every clerk in the employ of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, the right to make rules and regulations and also the right to give licenses to conduct a display gives retail licenses to sell fireworks, outlined in this particular bill. Gentlemen, this bill in itself does not mean a thing. It is absolutely giving the people nothing. Therefore I ask every member of this House because of the fact first that there is no Pennsylvania State Motor Police and secondly, if there would be it would be giving power to every member of that police force would be a foolish and would raise a conflict and break the rules and regulations of the Commonwealth.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I dislike to take issue with the manner in which the gentleman from Northampton has criticized our crude bill. The gentleman has made one statement which I wish to correct, if there be any doubt in the mind of any member that this bill authorizes the Pennsylvania State Motor Police to adopt any regulations they may see fit He must have been reading another bill and not this one. Mr. Speaker, I wish to read from Section 3 of the bill, which says: "The Pennsylvania State Motor Police shall have power to adopt and promulgate reasonable rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this act for the purpose of enforcing it, issuing licenses to dealers, granting permits for special displays and licensing operators to conduct special displays."

I do not want to take up the time of this House, as I think every member who is here tonight and who will cast his vote either "aye" or "no," understands thoroughly the situation. We all know the carnage that has been caused year in and year out by the promiscuous sale, manufacture, distribution and use of fireworks. That carnage has been caused for the most part among helpless children who had not the use of their own senses to determine what is good and bad for them. I think when such a condition exists that we as lawmakers sent here by the people of the Commonwealth have a bounden duty to place statutes upon the books of this Commonwealth that will prevent such articles from falling into the hands of children, where they might do damage to themselves. I think that the proper place to place that authority, or police power in the State is in the Motor Police Force of the state, where it will be fairly and impartially administered.

I ask the members of the House to support this bill.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LEWIS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lewis, if there is such an organization known as the Pennsylvania State Motor Police.

Mr. LEWIS. In my mind there is, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask Mr. Lewis, under this bill if one should go to a member of the so-called Pennsylvania Motor Police and ask for a license, and if that group refuses to give a license, is there any redress for the party who has been injured?

Mr. LEWIS. There is, Mr. Speaker. That redress lies in the Court of Common Pleas in the county in which the applicant resides.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I would ask if the gentleman would be kind enough to show me where it is contained in the act.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, it is on Page 4, Section 4, Line 9, beginning with the words, "An appeal shall lie with the Court of Common Pleas in the county in which the applicant resides or in which he seeks a license to operate from the refusal to issue a license, which appeal shall be final."

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, does that provision apply to a party who is applying for a display or does it only to a retailer?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, that applies to anyone. Under the provisions of this act you must apply for and receive a license from the Pennsylvania Motor Police.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, isn't it a fact that if a community wants to have a public display, that they must first receive permission from someone in authority in the Pennsylvania Motor Police?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, not permission, a license or permit.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I beg pardon, I did not hear the answer.

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, not permission, a license or permit.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, where in the act does it give a municipality the right of appeal?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will look at the beginning of the act, it defines persons, corporations, individuals etc. as those who may qualify to apply for a license. The language in Section 4 applies to any applicant who is refused a license.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean to infer that "corporation" under the act also refers to a municipal corporation as being one and the same?

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is becoming facetious, but my answer is yes.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think the remarks of the gentleman from Northampton are entirely correct when he says that the bill is loosely drawn, but I think he has had much experience in voting for loosely drawn bills and that is not his real reason for criticising this bill. I am inclined to think that he is really not sincere and that he is opposed to a fireworks bill. Now I could stand here and criticise parts of the bill. I think that probably the local police should be the ones to supervise and the ones to grant licenses. If not the local police, it should be the county treasurer, every county has a treasurer. But that does not happen to be the provision of the bill. I do not think the fact that it provides for the state police should be a reason for defeating this bill.

In Philadelphia last year there were 317 children injured on the Fourth of July. If there were that many injured in Philadelphia, there must have been three times that many injured in the State. I know from newspaper reports that a number of children were killed. We simply cannot stand here and argue technical matters as to whether or not the local people or the state people should supervise it. The thing is that we should pass this bill and it should be passed now. We all know if we have made inquiries that the purchases of fireworks are made in November and December. If you have the interest of your poor storekeeper at heart, don't place him in this position of false security, of saying, "Here is a fireworks bill which has been defeated and will be defeated next year and I will take a chance on loading up with one, two or five hundred dollars worth of stock." If we are to pass it, it has to be done now. It is the only fair thing to do. I do not see how you can go back to your constituents and give an honest reason for not voting for this bill. I think the members of the House should get together on a non-partisan basis and pass this measure.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

STATEMENT BY MR. TURNER

Mr. TURNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, last night I listened to an address over the radio by Congressman Dies of Texas, who is the chairman of the committee that is investigating un-American activities in the United States, particularly those pertaining to the Communists, the Nazi and the Fascisti groups. It was a wonderfully instructive address, but the thing that stood out before me was the fact that he was pleading with the American people to forget class hatred, religious hatred, race hatred, and the fact that he pointed that which perhaps we all know but which at times we forget, that you cannot have a democracy if you are going to have class hatred, religious hatred or race hatred. He said that the method of attack upon the American system of Government was through the societies and organizations that fostered class hatred, religious hatred and race hatred. He said that that had been the method pursued by the Communists; it had been the method pursued by the Nazi; it had been the method pursued by the Fascisti, and that the representatives of these various organizations in this country utilized every organization that they could find to foster hatred of class or race or religion, and that through those they hoped to break down the American system and to get adherence to their ideals or their idea of government. We all know and we all can relate the glorious history of America, that her doors are open to the oppressed of all the world; that it was founded by people who were oppressed, people who because mainly of religious convictions fled foreign shores and came to this country where they might have religious freedom to build up their lives and the future lives of their children, in an atmosphere where they didn't have to submit themselves to persecution.

Today in all of Europe we know that there is constant persecution of certain people and certain races. We all know that class hatred, religious hatred and race hatred are being brewed. We know that many people are being driven from their homeland, many of them having been there for many years, and they have no place to go, because the shores of America are closed because of the problems which America faces.

After the World War there was established in Palestine a place for the Jews, a homeland ,which many of the leaders of that race had dreamed might be established for them,—some such place on this earth. Under a mandate from Great Britain that Jewish haven in Palestine was established, was fostered and maintained. The American Government joined in asking that Great Britain maintain that mandate and maintain the opportunity in Palestine for the Jews to go there and find a place where they could build up their lives, where they could rear their children and where they might have an opportunity to prosper. I think that all the people of America are touched by oppression of any other group of people. I think that America has been concerned with conditions in Europe. Now, we are advised that England is turning her back upon that mandate, and that England contemplates turning over Palestine to the rule or control of the Arabs, in spite of that mandate following the Great World War, and the declaraion of the United States Government at that time.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution and ask that it be given immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

RESOLUTIONS MEMORIALIZING THE PRESIDENT

Mr. TURNER offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938

Whereas it has become increasingly evident in the world today that minorities are suffering greatly as a result of the change from Democracies to Dictatorships, and

Whereas the Jews as a minority in the several countries of the world and particularly in Europe are finding it more difficult to remain in the countries of their birth and of their citizenship because of the persecution against them as a minority group, and

Whereas all the countries of the world have set up imigrant limitations and restrictions on the number of imigrants admitted thereby limiting the number of the Jews who may enter from persecuted countries, and

Whereas the only country which may be the chief haven of refuge for the oppressed race is Palestine where hundreds of thousands of Jews have settled in the past twenty years and have converted it from a land of swamps and lack of habitation to a land of opportunity and hope, and

Whereas under the Balfour Declaration and the passing fo the Lodge-Fish Resolution in Congress in 1922 the British Government and the American Government have expressed their desire to aid in developing Palestine as a Homeland for the Jews, and

Whereas, as a result of this expression on the part of both Governments a mandate has been set up for the British Government to carry out the purposes of the Balfour Declaration, and

Whereas the recent activities in Palestine have created some doubt as to whether the British Government will forsake its obligation and mandate, therefore be it,

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the President of the United States and the Secretary of State to make known that it use its good offices with the British Government to adhere to its committments and obligations in accordance with the Balfour Declaration and its mandate of Palestine and be it further

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to his excellency, the President of the United States and the Secretary of State.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the immediate consideration of the resolution? Are there objections?

Mr. MARINO. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

MEMBERS' SALARY

Mr. ACHTERMAN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, Under the provisions of the Act of June 24, 1919, P. L. 579, as last amended by the Act of June 2, 1933, P. L. 1422, the salary of the members of the General Assembly is fixed at the amount of $500.00 for each special or extraordinary session; and

Whereas, Under Act No. 17 of the Extraordinary Session of 1938, approved September 22, 1938, moneys have been appropriated for the payment of such salaries; and

Whereas, Pursuant to the terms of Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 103, approved July 25, 1938, the sum of $250.00 has been paid to each member of the General Assembly for this Extraordinary Session; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that the State Treasurer be, and he is hereby, authorized to pay, on warrant of the Auditor General, to each member of the General Assembly, the further sum of $125.00, on account of the balance due such member for salary, and the remainder, namely, $125.00, on the day of final adjournment of the Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, convened on call of the Governor the twenty-fifth day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

STATEMENT BY Mr. FINNERTY

Mr. FINNERTY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, on August 2nd I called the attention of this House to certain gross violations of the Magistrate's Act as enacted by the 1937 session. My interpretation is that it was to take the minor judiciary out of politics, and it was to be the poor man's court, where every one would receive equal justice without political influence.

On August 15th my colleague Joseph Ominsky and I introduced a resolution, No. 6, which was reported as committed and passed by this House on August 16th and agreed to by the Senate on August 16th. This resolution requested the Board of Judges of the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County to introduce such proceedings as shall be necessary for the removal of those magistrates found guilty of violating the provisions of the State Act. The report was received by this body on September 6th, which you can read in the Legislative Journal on page 252. Judging from that report, even the Judges "passed the buck." They said they had no jurisdiction.

I read you a short quotation from the Evening Bulletin of October 14, 1938:

"Judge Edwin O. Lewis discharged two prisoners today who, he said, had been jailed illegally by Chief Magistrate John J. O'Malley. Then he scolded the Chief Magistrate for his action."

Philadelphia newspapers have been carrying headlines every day about the crazy actions of this Chief Magistrate John J. O'Malley, and it has become so bad that many Republicans have become disgusted and many have told me that he was more of a liability than he was an asset.

I will now read an editorial from the Philadelphia Record of September 30, 1938:

"One of the most conspicuously lawless individuals in this city happens to be Chief Magistrate, John J. O'Malley.

"He is currently engaged in flouting the spirit and letter of the Magistrates' Act by assigning Republican Magistrates to courts where they can do the most good to the party and in exiling Democratic Magistrates to neighborhoods where they are not known.

"One Democratic Magistrate, Joseph H. Rainey, has been 'suspended' for several months by O'Malley. Rainey went into Court seeking a mandamus directing O'Malley to restore him to his duties.

"O'Malley was ordered to appear before Judge Bok and the papers were turned over to the Sheriff's office for service on O'Malley. The Sheriff's office, with its 80 or more deputies, and writservers, professed to be unable to find O'Malley for weeks, although during most of that time he was seen around his usual hang-outs.

"Finally, Rainey and a party of his friends got the papers from the Sheriff's office and in five hours had served O'Malley themselves as he returned on his usual train from the Havre de Grace race track. When served with the legal papers O'Malley threw them to the floor and kicked them as a gesture of his defiance of the courts.

"This example of disrespect for law by a law enforcement officer is exactly the sort of thing the city has been led to expect from O'Malley.

"And it is about time his career as Chief Magistrate was terminated by charges leading to his removal.

"The Magistrates system in Philadelphia is not going to be taken out of politics until O'Malley is taken out of the Magistartes' system."

I now quote from the Evening Ledger of October 14th, which concerns a member of this House. This took place in the Magistrate's office at 7th & Carpenter Streets, on October 14th and reads as follows:

"The hearings started quietly enough when State Representative Joseph Skale appeared as attorney for Harry Taicher, 54, of 2623 South Darien Street, who was injured by an automobile yesterday at Eighth Street and Passyunk Avenue. The operator was Joseph Theis, Sheridan Street near Oregon Avenue.

"'Your Honor,' Skale said, 'I would like to ask for a delay in this matter because my client was injured so badly he is unable to appear.'

"'Case dismissed,' O'Malley said briskly.

"'But,' Skale insisted, 'you have continued similar cases today when the injured parties were unable to attend.'

"'Case discharged,' said the magistrate in the same crisp manner. 'You get behind the railing.'

"Reluctantly Skale complied with the order, but appeared non-plussed at the action, and it was then that the fireworks started."

The article in the Ledger goes on further and says as follows:

"The hostilities had ended for only a brief period when a friend of Marinelli," a Democratic lawyer who was present at the time, "who was not identified, stepped up and said in a manner that was considered sarcastic:

"'Judge, do you want any more good Republicans to testify for you?'

"Here O'Malley's attitude underwent a complete change. He arose from his seat and shouted insults and slurs implying his opponent was a disreputable character.

"'I'm not,' the man called back, 'but I happen to know that you are.'

"In less time than it can be told the two were squaring off in the hearing room, but before a blow could be struck, others separated the combatants. There were whispered conversations on both sides and the leading contestants left the court room."

Ladies and gentlemen of the House, can you picture a more disgusting scene than this, of a magistrate coming down off his rostrum to square off at a spectator? Can you picture the people of Philadelphia having respect for the minor judiciary when such things like this take place?

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I offer this resolution and I ask unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the members of the House.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

PHILADELPHIA MAGISTRATE

Messrs. FINNERTY, THOMPSON, COSTANZO and HERING offered a resolution and asked the unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, Article VI, Section 1, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides that the House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment; and

Whereas, Article VI, Section 3, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides that the Governor and all other civil officers shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office; and

Whereas, Article VI, Section 4, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides that all officers elected by the people, except Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Members of the General Assembly, and Judges of Courts of Record learned in the law, shall be removed by the Governor for reasonable cause after due notice and full hearing on the address of two-thirds of the Senate; and

Whereas, John J. O'Malley was duly elected to the office of magistrate, and began his term of office on the first Monday of January in 1936, and was subsequently elected Chief Magistrate; and

Whereas, The said John J. O'Malley, Chief Magistrate of the City of Philadelphia, has persistently violated both constitutional and statutory provisions of this Commonwealth, regulating and prescribing the powers and duties of magistrates; and

Whereas, The said magistrate, John J. O'Malley has repeatedly and admittedly violated the provisions of the "Bail Approval Commission Act"—Act No. 446, 1937, P. L. 2326—an act that was designed to terminate "straw bail" irregularities; and

Whereas, The said magistrate, John J. O'Malley has from time to time suspended the right of certain magistrates to preside in the various magistrates' courts of Philadelphia; and

Whereas, The said John J. O'Malley while presiding as a magistrate, has repeatedly made partisan disposal of the cases heard before him; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that, pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 2 of this extraordinary session of 1938, approved the thirtieth day of July, 1938, and in pursuance of the constitutional powers and duties of the House of Representatives, the Speaker of the House of Representatives is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a special committee, consisting of seven members of the House of Representatives, one of whom shall be designated as chairman, which committee shall inquire into, and concerning, the official conduct of John J. O'Malley, touching his conduct in regard to the manner in which he has and is conducting the office of magistrate and Chief Magistrate, and shall inquire into the allegations set forth above, and any other charges which may come to the attention of the said committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee, through the chairman or the member designated by him shall have the power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, or the member so designated by him, requiring and demanding any proper person or persons to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents relating to the subject of inquiry as the committee may deem necessary. The chairman, or the member designated by him, shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person who shall wilfully refuse to appear and testify before said committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents aforesaid shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; and be it further

Resolved, That the Committee shall report to the House of Representatives its conclusions in respect thereto, together with its recommendations, to the end that the House of Representatives may take appropriate action thereon.

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker I ask the unanimous consent of the House for the immediate consideration of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the resolution?

Are there objections?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules

TAX STUDY COMMISSION

Mr. WILSON offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the House.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas the Joint Legislative Tax Study Commission, created by resolution of the Legislature of 1937, of which the Senators from Allegheny, Mr. Dent, in Chairman, has conducted extensive investigation and held hearings throughout the state, and

Whereas the subject of the Commission's inquiry is of vital concern to the citizens of Pennsylvania, it being a matter of common observation that industres are removing from the state, and a matter of common assertion that the cause, or an important contributing cause, in their removal lies in the taxes imposed by this Legislature and its immediate predecessor, and a

Whereas if this assertion be true it is the duty of this Legislature to concern itself at once with the situation and to correct it as far as possible, for which purpose the information in possession of the Committee would be of great value, and

Whereas the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania who will be called upon on the 8th of November to express their judgment on the work of this Legislature, likewise should be in possession of the available information as to the effect upon the common welfare of the taxes imposed and continued by it;

Now be it resolved (if the Senate concur) that the Joint Legislative Tax Study Commission be directed to present to the House and to the Senate findings based upon the information collected by it and conclusions as to what, if any, action may be taken at this Special Session of the Legislature, and further that the testimony taken by the Commission shall be printed and made available for distribution to the members of the House and the Senate and the public.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

Miss BRANCATO asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Cities to meet during the session of the House.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. WOODSIDE and HABBYSHAW.

RESOLUTION No. 22.

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, the Pennsylvania Game Commission has proclaimed an anterless deer season over the entire Commonwalth of Pennsylvania for the year 1938 and

Whereas, sportsmen generally throughout the State are opposed to this season, and

Whereas, the carrying out of the intention of the Game Commission will destroy deer hunting for many years to come in a number of counties of the Commonwealth where the sport is just becoming established, therefore

Be it resolved, by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it is the opinion of this House that the Game Commission should reconsider and revoke its action relating to the antlerless deer season for the year 1938; and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be sent by the Chief Clerk of this House to the President and Executive Secretary of the Game Commission.

SENATE MESSAGES

HOUSE BILL CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, returned bills from the House of Representatives numbered and entitled as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 66.

A Supplement to the act approved the second day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts page seventy-four) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same without amendment.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938

Whereas, Under the provisions of the Act of June 24, 1919, P. L. 579, as last amended by the Act of June 2, 1933, P. L. 1422, the salary of the members of the General Assembly is fixed at the amount of $500.00 for each special or extraordinary session; and

Whereas, Under Act No. 17 of the Extraordinary Session of 1938, approved September 22, 1938, moneys have been appropriated for the payment of such salaries; and

Whereas, Pursuant to the terms of Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 103, approved July 25, 1938, the sum of $250.00 has been paid to each member of the General Assembly for this Extraordinary Session; therefore, be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that the State Treasurer be, and he is hereby, authorized to pay, on warrant of the Auditor General, to each member of the General Assembly, the further sum of $125.00 on account of the balance due such member for salary, and the remainder, namely, $125.00, on the day of final adjournment of the Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, convened on call of the Governor the twenty-fifth day of July, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 43.

An Act Making a deficiency appropriation to the Lieutenant Governor.

SENATE BILL No. 50.

An Act making a deficiency appropriation for the expenses of the Joint Legislative Commission investigating certain courts of this Commonwealth and created by Joint Resolution No. 11 approved the ninth day of March one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws thirty-five)

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, the American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Home Land and

Whereas, this responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, under the provisions of the American British Palestine Manadate Convention, signed December 3, 1924, approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, it is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, people of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, the magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish settlers in Palestine, spiritual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world

Whereas, the unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from many lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened peoples as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred.

Be it resolved, that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memoralizes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The Committee on Rules will meet immediately in the Speaker's office.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections the Chair is about to declare a recess for fifteen minutes. Are there objections? The Chair hears none and declares a recess for fifteen minutes.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, the American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Home Land, and

Whereas, this responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, under the provisions of the American British Palestine Manadate Convention, signed December 3, 1924, approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, it is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, people of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, the magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish Settlers in Palestine, spiritual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world

Whereas, the unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from any lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened peoples as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred.

Be it resolved, that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memoralizes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parilamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, Senate Resolution Serial No. 21 is not a concurrent resolution and I would like to ask the Chair how a Senate resolution, which is not a concurrent resolution, can come before the House. I point out to the Chair that the resolution appears on page 33 of the history of resolutions in the Senate, and is not printed among the Senate concurrent resolutions. I point out further that it does not contain the usual heading providing for presentation to the House, nor does it say, as is customary in all resolutions since I have been here of a concurrent nature, "Be it resolved if the House concur."

The SPEAKER. On the question of parliamentary inquiry raised by the gentleman from Delaware, the Chair wishes to state that the resolution is not in the exact form that most concurrent resolutions are, but the Chair believes that this resolution is a concurrent resolution, due to the fact that it says, "It is the sense of the General Assembly." The General Assembly is composed of the Senate and the House, and the Chair rules that the resolution is in proper order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I fail to see the language which says that. I see only in the "Whereas" clause, "Be it resolved that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the President," but that might be the expression of a desire on the part of the Senate without it being a concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Senate cannot speak for the whole of the General Assembly, and since the resolve clause says "The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," it would necessarily mean that it would be the thought and action of both houses. Therefore, the Chair rules that it is a concurrent resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I will abide by the ruling in this instance, of the Chair. I do not desire to appeal from the ruling of the Chair, but it seems to me we cannot assume from the fact that the Senate has said "that the General Assembly memorialize," that from that you could understand they desired a concurrent resolution. The resolution has been up some time in the Senate. It was introduced on October 11th and has been printed in the history among the Senate resolutions and not among the concurrent resolutions, of which fact, it seems to me, the Chair ought to take notice in making its decision on the question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. Nevertheless the House has received the communication from the Senate, presenting this resolution and asking for the House to concur. That is the only official notice that the House has of the resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, of course, there might be an error on the part of the Senate in sending it over. The members of the Senate did not vote on the concurrent resolution. They voted on a Senate resolution and they may have desired to keep this an exclusive matter for themselves. I might say, however, Mr. Speaker, that I wish to raise no further objection, although it seems to me a very slipshod way of getting it across.

I understand it is agreed that the resolution which I introduced, which is similiar and which was introduced in the House because this was purely a Senate resolution will be reported from the Rules Committee and presented to the House, so that we have that which we were after, and although my resolution was held up at the time, I will not myself proceed in a small way to object further to the presentation, as long as in the end we accomplish the desired result, namely to petition that the United States Government do something about the question in Palestine.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution;

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. BROWN, from the Committee on Cities, re-reported as amended, House Bill No. 79, (Senate Bill No. 20), entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class.

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1938. No. 27.

SENATE

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1938.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL. D., offered the following prayer:

All-Wise Creator, we acclaim Thee today God of our beloved homeland. We gratefully acknowledge that mysterious providence whereby we are sometimes tempted to name ourselves Thy peculiar people. Yet perish the thought of our hearts, and deliver us from the dire temptation. Forbid that we forget that Thou art God of all the lands, Father of all the peoples. Save us from the sin of racial hatred and discrimination. We would ever cherish in our hearts a wholesome hospitality to Thy gracious Spirit of goodness and good will. In the poverty and distress of the weak, may we hear Thy challenge to the strong.

Purify our hearts. May we put our own house in order, that we may be Thy witnesses for righteousness, and justice, and peace among nations. To this end, bless us here and now, that we may glorify Thy name in all the earth, and all peoples may cry out, "The Lord, he is good! the Lord, he is good." Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE MESSAGE

MEMORIALIZING THE PRESIDENT AND THE SECRETARY OF STATE OF THE UNITED STATES TO APPEAL TO GREAT BRITAIN TO ADHERE TO THE TERMS OF THE PALESTINE MANDATE AND TO THE SPIRIT OF THE BALFOUR DECLARATION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House has concurred in Resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, the civilized world has witnessed for the past two decades the miraculous revival of the Holy land, the cradle of all faiths, by the return of the Jews to Palestine, and

Whereas, the American Government has by joint resolution of the Congress of the United States unanimously endorsed the action of Great Britain in accepting the Palestine Mandate to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish Homeland and

Whereas, this responsibility was accepted by Great Britain as a sacred trust in behalf of the civilized world, and

Whereas, under the provisions of the American British Palestine Mandate Convention, signed December 3, 1924, approved by the United States Senate February 20, 1925 and officially ratified by the President of the United States March 2, 1925, Great Britain agreed that nothing contained in the agreement shall be modified unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States of America, and

Whereas, it is reported that the British Government is contemplating the abandonment of its pledge to the Jewish people made through the Balfour Declaration and embodied in the said Palestine Mandate, and

Whereas, people of all creeds and faiths are profoundly disturbed by these reports, and

Whereas, the magnificent accomplishments of the Jewish settlers in Palestine, spirtual and material, have won the high regard of the entire world

Whereas, the unsettled conditions in Europe and the continuous discrimination and persecution of minority groups compel Jews to look to Palestine as their chief haven of refuge, and

Whereas, it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that the abandonment by Great Britain of her pledges would leave no avenue of escape to Jews driven from many lands and that such a course would be regarded by all enlightened peoples as a surrender to the forces of violence and hatred.

Be it resolved, that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorializes the President of the United States and the Secretary of State of the United States to make known to the British Government that this country looks to Great Britain to adhere to her commitments and to hold fast to the terms of the Palestine Mandate and to the spirit of the Balfour Declaration, and

Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States, and the Secretary of State of the United States by the Secretary of the Senate.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 66, entitled:

A Supplement to the act, approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Acts, page seventy-four), entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven; and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" providing for deficiencies in certain appropriations to the Department of Justice for the fiscal biennium ending May thirty-first, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, on behalf of the committee appointed to investigate the costs and functions of Civic Government in Philadelphia I should like to make the following report in the form of an accounting.

Balance as per First Accounting, $18,187.27. Expenses since the first accounting—Investigation of County Offices—William N. Martin, Stenographer, $5,976.67; Thomas Devine, Auditor, $700.00; W. A. Nemirow, Research, $150.00; Sergeant at Arms expense, $168.00; A. A. Chereshore, Investigator Expenses, $6.86; A. Pomerantz, Stationery, $45.99; Whiting Paper Company, paper, $151.00;

Typewriter Ribbon Company, $12.00; Carbon and Ribbon Service Company, $231.50; Barclay Brothers, Photostats, $57.40; Dictaphone Sales Corporation, records, $50.63; Traveling Exp. of Committee to Cincinnati, $145.35; Traveling Exp. of Committee to Harrisburg, $10.40 Telephone & Telegraph, $58.75; making a total of $7,764.55.

Secondly, Expense Investigating Byberry,—Wm. N. Martin, Stenographer, $3,090.26; B. Fox, Mimeograph, $163.75; Allen Reproduction Co., Photostats, $11.75; A. Pomerantz & Co., Stationery, $11.70; Marx Stationery Co., Paper, $79.67; Travel Exp. to Warren, Committee, $95.60; Travel. Exp. to Washington, Committee, $31.80; making a total of $3,484.53, or a grand total of $11,249.08.

There is now on hand in the treasury of the committee the sum, which bears interest—a check for the interest being sent to the treasurer regularly from the bank—of $6938.19, which sum will be turned back into the Treasury before the end of this session. In addition to that all of the second sheets and carbon papers and other supplies which are remaining and can be used were forwarded to the Secretary of the Senate some time ago so that they can be used again.

I make this report for the purpose of advising the Senate so that they may know we have not used any counsel, expended any money for counsel fees, and have not expended any money for traveling except those read to you, and we will for the first time have a balance which will be returned to the Treasury out of an appropriation of $25,000.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I suggest that the report be referred to Senator Thompson's Committee.

The PRESIDENT. The report will be received and made a matter of record in the Journal.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this is a very delightful and refreshing report, especially in the balance, and perhaps the best explanation is that the chairman, Senator Shapiro, used to be a Republican.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to answer the Senator and say that the Republicans could have had for a number of years before and since, the same service from me, and I offer them the same service in case they should be fortunate enough to win the election. I should be very glad to help them in this matter.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION ON THE COST TO MUNICIPALITIES OF SAFETY SERVICES ATTRIBUTABLE TO MOTOR VEHICLE USAGE OF HIGHWAYS

Mr. McGINNIS offered the following resolution which was twice read, as follows:

In the Senate, October 18, 1938.

Whereas, During the past two decades the automobile industry has developed rapidly with attendant reduction of prices to such an extent that the great majority of families and business firms now own and operate motor vehicles and

Whereas, The general use of the automobile and other motor vehicles created the demand for more improved streets and highways a portion of which cost is borne by the revenue procured from motor vehicle licenses and gasoline taxes while the real property owners have been required to maintain most of the city and borough streets for the benefit of such motor vehicles as well as to mortgage their properties through municipal bond issues by city county borough and township governments for further improvements of street alleys and for maintenance of the same in addition to supplying through direct taxation on such real properties including the homes and farms of this Commonwealth sufficient funds to provide the essential safety devices and motor patrols for the facilitation of motor vehicular traffic and

Whereas, The unfair tax burden placed upon realty owners for financing the expenses of traffic patrols traffic signal lights and their maintenance better traffic committees traffic planning commissions traffic courts with its attendant costs of magistrates etc stolen car division of detective forces and homicide squads and many other direct costs of a similar nature such as the civil and criminal divisions of the courts of common pleas and the municipal and county courts for the settlement of claims resulting from the popular use of the automobiles and trucks therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate in Extraordinary Session assembled request and direct the State Highway Department to make a survey of the costs to the municipalities of the Commonwealth for all such traffic regulation and safety services attributable to the automobile and motor truck usage of the municipal streets and highways for the purpose of enabling the next general session of the Legislature to properly draft bills to relieve the real property owners of such municipalities of the entire cost of such services resulting from the popular use of automotive equipment and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the State Highway Department shall present to the Senate at the next regular session a report of the facts obtained by the above specified survey.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee be suspended and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, during the past twenty years the motor traffic in our municipalities has reached an enormous pace and assumed a cost to the municipalities that is staggering. Our traffic lights, our extra police, our traffic courts, stolen car divisions, and all of these costs all over the State have been enormous.

Just take the city of Pittsburgh—it is costing over $1,000,000 a year just for the section of the costs that have been thrown on the real estate owners of the people of Pittsburgh. All I ask in this resolution is that the State Highway Department make a survey of these costs in municipalities and report back to the next session so that the Legislature may be in a position to devise legislation to relieve some of this taxation of real estate.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I object to immediate consideration.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, will state his point of order.

Mr. McGINNIS. I understand that when this resolution was offered the Chair asked for any objections and no objections were made.

The PRESIDENT. That is true, but—.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I was waiting for an explanation from the Senator from Allegheny. I was about to rise in objection but I saw him rising and he being the sponsor, I withheld any remarks or objections until I heard his reason. That is the reason I did not object immediately.

The PRESIDENT. The objection is valid any time before the vote.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, if the objection arose as a result of a speech I would suggest that the speech be expunged from the records.

The PRESIDENT. Under the rules there is no alternative but to refer and the Chair refers the resolution to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, may I speak on the subject of the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is not now before the Senate.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, that is too bad.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I was going to make a Republican speech and try to soften the heart of my colleague from Bucks County. I think he ought to allow this resolution to pass. It is a very meritorious resolution prepared by our distinguished Senator from Allegheny County. I am all for it and I want to give the reason.

The State has finally taken over 146 miles of highways in Philadelphia, but Philadelphia still has to police those streets, and this would open the door to a reform in that respect so that the State would police its own streets and not call upon our Treasury to police the streets.

I think that in these last days the Senator from Bucks might leave a fragrant memory with us and not always move to postpone indefinitely, and waive his objection to immediate consideration.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL NO. 15

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 15, entitled:

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

The Report was read as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON SENATE BILL NO. 15

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 15, entitled: "An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof" respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

C. GILBERT WOLFENDEN,
THOMAS E. KILGALLEN,
HARRY SHAPIRO,
(Committee on the part of the Senate.)

JAMES A. SMITH,
SAMUEL A. WEISS,
THOS. B. STOCKHAM,
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

Section 1 All unpaid penalties and interest imposed on paid or unpaid delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years and all penalties imposed on such taxes for the tax years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate and on paid or unpaid delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of future action by the authority levying the tax if the unpaid delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided This section shall not be construed to abate the interest accrued on the taxes for the years of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven but no further interest shall be imposed on such taxes after the payment of the first installment as hereafter provided so long as the taxpayer complies with the provisions of this act

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for all previous years and of the accrued interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine twenty per centum on or before the thirty- first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the final twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-two And provided That the respective current taxes on such parcel or parcels of real estate levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and all such taxes for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such a year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sum theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of the unpaid delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and previous years at any time on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight by paying the entire amount of such unpaid delinquent taxes and interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight shall not be required at the time of such payment

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes penalties and interest whether or not such taxes have been returned or liens therefor have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where liens for such taxes have been returned for non-payment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision

The county commissioners of each county may at their discretion and at the cost of the county cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the county a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such unpaid delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such unpaid delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer or owner a statement of the unpaid delinquent taxes owned by him to such municipal subdivision showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody

Every collector of taxes whose duty it is to send to the respective taxpayers any notice or statement of their annual taxes shall include in each such notice or statement an additional notice of the date when the next installment payment is due under the provisions of this act

Section 6 In order to enable the taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for non-payment of taxes before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and any tax sale shall be adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended after advertisement or sale no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale or right of redemption No such adjournment or readjournment or redemption failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or sale had subject to redemption but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act Provided however That in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act the period during which payment of said unpaid delinquent taxes is postponed or continued under this act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing auhorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes

Section 7 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein

Section 8 The act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred twenty-nine) as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred forty-four) the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws ten) and the act approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred two) shall continue in full force and effect as to any and all taxpayers who have taken advantage of and are not in default in the provisions thereof All other acts and parts of acts general local or special inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby suspended during the time this act shall be in effect

Sction 9 Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any taxpayer who has heretofore taken advantage and accepted the benefits of any of the acts referred to in section eight and who has lost or who prior to the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight may lose the rights benefits privileges and opportunities under such act from taking advantage and receiving the benefits of this act

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, as a member of this committee.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, yes.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the situation has arisen in some of the counties that tax sales have been held by the treasurers of the various counties, and the purchasers of the properties sold have paid the penalties and interest on the various tracts. There is also the question of commissions to the purchaser of the land.

I desire to ask the Senator from Philadelphia as to what effect this act would have on such situations. I understand he has taken the matter up with the Attorney General's department.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I was of the opinion at the time the act was drawn that that situation would not raise a conflict. But as the Senator from Somerset raised the question I tried to fortify myself with an opinion by the Attorney General. The Attorney General, or at least his department, stated that if a purchaser at sheriff's sales bought a property which was sold subject to legal taxes, he had paid the taxes in full; the owner who had the right of redemption under this act could not of course take advantage of the act because if the taxes were paid therefore there was no delinquency. But if the purchaser at the sheriff's sale, against whom the right of redemption would be exercised, took advantage of the act and paid only in installments then all that would be required of the purchaser from the person who had the right of redemption would be to pay the installments.

We went into that very carefully because we had prepared an amendment which used the following words: "To take care of the natural right of the owner in redemption, it should only exist if the purchaser at sheriff's sale should take advantage of the act," which we were passing. The Attorney General's department said that would be redundant and unnecessary.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, the explanation given by the Attorney General's department is not very convincing to me and it does not take care of the question of the commission of 15 per cent which a purchaser at a sale is entitled to if the land is condemned. I also find that Sections Three and Four of this act, in my opinion are directly contradictory. I am sorry that this is the best tax abatement Act that we can secure and I certainly wish that we could have some legislation not so slovenly drawn; but I intend to vote for it as it appears as it is the best we can get at this session.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the report?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to.

Section 5 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to.

An Act to amend sections two hundred two four hundred one and two thousand three hundred eighteen of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws one hundred seventy-seven) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" as amended by creating as departmental administrative boards in the Department of Welfare and conferring powers and duties upon boards of trustees for the respective institutions acquired by the Commonwealth from counties cities and institution districts for use as State mental hospitals.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, this bill was reported from committee last night as amended. The amendment was to insert in certain of the blank spaces of the bill the date of the approval of Senate Bill No. 28, to which this bill refers. In the History of the Senate, this bill is referred to as having been approved on the 28th of September. As a matter of fact an examination of the records indicates that the bill was approved on the 29th of September. I therefore offered the foregoing amendments to the bill to make it conform to the act.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION ON THE COST TO MUNICIPALITIES OF SAFETY SERVICES ATTRIBUTABLE TO MOTOR VEHICLE USAGE OF HIGHWAYS

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am directed by the Committee on Judiciary Special to report out this resolution and to announce in reporting it, that it is the direction of the Committee that the Department of Highways refrain from taking any action on the matter involved in this resolution, until after the election.

The resolution was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 18, 1938.

Whereas, During the past two decades the automobile industry has developed rapidly with attendant reduction of prices to such an extent that the great majority of families and business firms now own and operate motor vehicles and

Whereas, The general use of the automobile and other motor vehicles created the demand for more improved streets and highways a portion of which cost is borne by the revenue procured from motor vehicle licenses and gasoline taxes while the real property owners have been required to maintain most of the city and borough streets for the benefit of such motor vehicles as well as to mortgage their properties through municipal bond issues by city county borough and township governments for further improvements of streets alleys and for maintenance of the same in addition to supplying through direct taxation on such real properties including the homes and farms of this Commonwealth sufficient funds to provide the essential safety devices and motor patrols for the facilitation of motor vehicular traffic and

Whereas, The unfair tax burden placed upon realty owners for financing the expenses of traffic patrols traffic signal lights and their maintenance better traffic committees traffic planning commissions traffic courts with its attendant costs of magistrates etc stolen car division of detective force and homicide squads and many other direct costs of a similar nature such as the civil and criminal divisions of the courts of common pleas and the municipal and county courts for the settlement of claims resulting from the popular use of the automobile and trucks therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate in Extraordinary Session assembled request and direct the State Highway Department to make a survey of the costs to the municipalities of the Commonwealth for all such traffic regulation and safety services attributable to the automobile and motor truck usage of the municipal streets and highways for the purpose of enabling the next general session of the Legislature to properly draft bills to relieve the real property owners of such municipalities of the entire cost of such services resulting from the popular use of automotive equipment and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the State Highway Department shall present to the Senate at the next regular session a report of the facts obtained by the above specified survey.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that rule 39, which requires resolutions reported from committee to lie over for one day be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

Which was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGES

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING PENNSYLVANIA MOTOR POLICE TO INVESTIGATE HEAVY TRUCK TRAFFIC ON SUNDAYS AND HOLIDAYS

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented extract from the Journal of the House which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor's Highway Safety Council has made great strides in curbing accidents upon the Highways; and

Whereas, It is believed that these accidents could be further substantially reduced by the adoption and enforcement of regulations under which would divert heavy truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays, because on such days certain highways are overcrowded with passenger cars; resulting in many accidents through tie-ups, delays and attempts to pass, and other traffic hazards.

Whereas, From time to time various bills have been introduced into the General Assembly to promote safety upon the highways through the regulation and control of truck traffic, and up until the present time no effective action has been taken to relieve this continuing dangerous situation which has resulted in so many needless deaths and injuries; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Pennsylvania Motor Police are hereby authorized and directed to conduct an investigation and survey concerning the controlling of heavy truck traffic on Sundays and holidays to determine the number of such accidents occurring on Sundays and holidays, the number of persons killed and injured, the reasons therefor, the advisability of diverting such truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and Holidays and to report to the next Regular Session of the General Assembly their findings and recommendations.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

SENATE BILL NO. 20 RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 20, entitled:

An Act to ratify confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution Serial Number 106 approved March sixteenth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burden placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states together with its actions proceedings expenses and expenditures and the appropriation made to said committee and making a further appropriation with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Said amendments having been twice read and printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—32

Barthold,	Frey,	Kunkel,	Rice,
Buckman,	Gelder,	Lanius,	Rodgers,
Cavalcante,	Haluska,	Law,	Rupp,
Dando,	Henney,	McCreesh,	Ruth,

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION EXTENDING SYMPATHY TO FAMILIES OF THE LATE JOSEPH R. WILLIAMS AND CHARLES CRAVEN OF THE PENNSYLVANIA MOTOR POLICE KILLED AT GETTYSBURG

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the House which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938.

Whereas, Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven, members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, while in the performance of their duties, were killed at Gettysburg; and

Whereas, The two officers in carrying out their daily duties to promote the safety of motorists and pedestrians upon the highways, were called upon to make the supreme sacrifice of giving their lives to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as did those men who lie nearby, the shadows of whose tombstones mark the Valley of Death for these two members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police. In one case the men fought for the freedom from oppression; in the other case the men were fighting for the termination of death and injuries upon the highways. Honor may well be paid to them; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby marks the memory of their honorable death; and pays to them the highest tribute within the range of man, it is that unexpressible emotion of deepest pride and respect for those who have died honorable deaths: and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby express its sincere sympathy to the families of the late Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution shall be transmitted to the families of the late Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven, by the Chief Clerk of this House.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

The PRESIDENT. The only remaining business is to await messages from the House of Representatives. I must return to a meeting of the Board of Pardons and I designate the Senator from Adams, Mr. Rice, to preside during the remainder of the day's session.

The PRESIDENT. (JOHN S. RICE, President Pro Tempore, acting) in the Chair.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1938

The House met at 12:00 o'clock noon.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Tell me not in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream,
The soul is dead that slumbers,
And things are not what they seem.

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us,
Foot-prints on the sands of time.

Foot-prints that perhaps another,
Sailing o'er Life's solemn main,
A forlorn shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again.

This our petition unto Thee, O Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. SHEA, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

BILL DROPPED FROM CALENDAR

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 26, Printer's No. 60, entitled:

An Act authorizing the abatement of certain tax penalties and interest on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school disrict of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof on page 2 of today's calendar, bills on final passage postponed, be dropped from the clanedar.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION No. 20.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 20, Printer's No. 71, on page 3 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The present Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was adopted in 1874; and

Whereas, The public may be called upon in the future to vote upon an amendment calling for a Constitutional Convention; and

Whereas, The purpose of the convention would be to offer to the public a new and up-to-date Constitution for them to vote upon; and

Whereas, It is highly desirable that the knowledge of the public be increased in regard to the Constitution and the provisions thereof; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Public Instruction is hereby requested to require every school district in this Commonwealth to include in their required instruction, "A graded course of studies on the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania" so that the provisions of the constitution may be introduced and incorporated in the work of each grade from the fifth to the last grade of the public school system of this Commonwealth, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Secretary of Public Instruction.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION No. 21.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 21, Printer's No. 72, on page 3 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor's Highway Safety Council has made great strides in curbing accidents upon the Highways; and

Whereas, It is believed that these accidents could be further substantially reduced by the adoption and enforcement of regulations under which would divert heavy traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays, because on such days certain highways are overcrowded with passenger cars; resulting in many accidents through tie-ups, delays and attempts to pass, and other traffic hazards.

Whereas, From time to time various bills have been introduced in the General Assembly to promote safety upon the highways through the regulation and control of truck traffic, and up until the present time no effective action has been taken to relieve this continuing dangerous situation, which has resulted in so many needless deaths and injuries; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Pennsylvania Motor Police are hereby authorized and directed to conduct an investigation and survey concerning the controlling of heavy truck traffic on Sundays and holidays on certain highways to determine the number of such accidents occurring on Sundays and holidays, the number of persons killed and injured, the reasons therefor, the advisability of diverting such truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays and to report to the next Regular Session of the General Assembly their findings and recommendations.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION No. 24.

Mr. FINNERTY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 24, Printer's No. 74, on page 3 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, Article VI Section 1 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvani aprovides that the House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment and

Whereas, Article VI Section 3 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides that the Governor and all other civil officers shall be liable to impeachment fo rany misdemeanor in office and

Whereas, Article VI Section 4 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania provides that all officers elected by hte people except Governor Lieutenant Governor Members of the General Assembly and Judges of Courts of Record learned in the la wshall be removed by the Governor for reasonable cause after due notice and full hearing on the address of two-thirds of the Senate and

Whereas, John J. O'Malley was duly elected to the office of magistrate and began his term of office on the first Monday of January 1, 1936 and was subsequently elected Chief Magistrate and

Whereas, The said John J. O'Malley, Chief Magistrate of the City of Philadelphia has persistently violated both constitutional and statutory provisions of this Commonwealth regulating and prescribing the powrs and duties of magistrates and

Whereas, The said magisrate John J. O'Malley has repeatedly and admittedly violated the provisions of the "Bail Approval Commissioner Act" Act No. 446 1937 P. L. 2326 an act that was designed to terminate "straw bail" irregularities and

Whereas, The said magistrate John J. O'Malley has from time to time suspended the right of certain magistrates to preside in the various magistrates courts of Philadelphia and

Whereas, The said John J. O'Malley while presiding as a magistrate has repeatedly made partisan disposal of the cases heard before him therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 2 of this extraordinary session of 1938 approved the thirtieth day of July 1938 and in pursuance of the constitutional powers and duties of the House of Representatives is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a special committee consisting of seven members of the House of Representatives one of whom shall be designated as chairman which committee shall inquire into and concerning the official conduct of John J. O'Malley touching his conduct in regard to the manner in which he has and is conducting the office of magistrate and Chief Magistrate and shall inquire into the allegations set forth above and any other charges which may come to the attention of the said committee and be it further

Resolved, That the said committee through the chairman or the member designated by him shall have the power to issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chiarman or the member so designated by him requiring and demanding any proper person or persons to appear before it and answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books papers records and documents relating to the subject of inquiry as the committee may deem necessary The chairman or the member designated by him shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee Any person who shall wilfully refuse to appear and testify before said committee or to produce any books papers records or documents aforesaid shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall report to the House of Representatives its conclusions in respect thereto together with its recommendations to the end that the House of Representatives may take appropriate action thereon

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of study.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in all probability, the House is going to recess, either during the day or some time later, so that we can have another legislative day, until after the election. I understand that the date is, possibly, the fourteenth of November, and that will mean that there will probably be only two or three weeks, with the Thanksgiving Holidays intervening, in which this House could sit. Now, to undertake another impeachment proceeding, such as the one that is before this House, it would take a considerable amount of time and expense to start such impeachment proceedings at this time in a special session, with the short time remaining that this House can sit, because we cannot sit beyond December first, and it seems to me that such a proceeding would impose a very foolish burden.

The procedure outlined in Act No. 2, we have found in the investigation of the charges against the Governor, makes for a very cumbersome and a very difficult proceeding, and one that could not be accomplished in a very short space of time, if justice is to be done all the way around, and therefore, it seems to me that this matter should be submitted to the Committee on Judiciary General, which Committee could study the situation and ascertain what are the facts, so that at least a prima facie case could be made out, to determine whether such a proceeding could be instituted and carried through before the first of December.

Therefore, in order that there may not be further expense involved, and in order that we may not get into a complicated situation that could not be terminated before the first of December, and we would have an impeachment proceeding hanging fire, and the House would have to adjourn and such impeachment proceeding could not go on after that date, I feel that the sensible way to approach this would be to commit it to the Judiciary General for study by that Committee and to report to the House on the fourteenth day of November.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I ask this House to vote down the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, to send this resolution back to the Judiciary General Committee.

I want to say this: One of the purposes of the resolution taking the form it did rather than having it sent to the Judiciary General Committee, was to have the Committee investigate the charges so that a report could be made to this special session, or to the general session, at which time impeachment proceedings might be brought. Perhaps, if the Committee deems it advisable, it will hold meetings immediately, possibly two or three times a week, and since there is only one man being investigated, they might possibly start impeachment proceedings on the fourteenth of November, when we reconvene. If the Committee finds that it has not sufficient information, it will go on with the investigation until the end of this session and then file a report for the next Legislature to take action. Therefore, this resolution took the form of the resolution under which a special committee is now functioning, investigating the other civil officers of this Commonwealth, in that we have obtained the power, under our Special Act No. 2, which was passed by this session. I shall therefore ask this membership to vote down the motion and to give this special committee power to investigate the charges, because just this morning, if some of you have read the Philadelphia Record, you will find more evidence concerning this Chief Magistrate in the City of Philadelphia, who by his actions is disgracing the minor judiciary of Philadelphia, and it is about high time that something be done, and this resolution should be passed at once.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OMINSKY. Yes, I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the gentleman from Philadelphia, he said that this special committee could make a report and that it could be taken up at the next general session, is that correct?

Mr. OMINSKY. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the gentleman whether he understands that one legislative session could begin an impeachment proceeding, and that the report of the special committee appointed at this time could be received by the next session of the Legislature.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the question just propounded by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, I would say the answer would be no, but this is not an impeachment proceeding as yet.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that this resolution is not a part of an impeachment proceeding?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, it is a step forward toward that end.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the resolution is based upon Act No. 2 passed at this special session, and Act No. 2 pertains to a procedure for impeachment proceedings. Of course, this resolution is a part of an impeachment proceeding, and the committee appointed under Act No. 2, would be appointed pursuant to this resolution, and would be a committee of the House to conduct these impeachment proceedings. In other words under the law, the House practically is a grand jury; the special committee investigates and makes its report to the House, and upon that report the House can then determine whether the matter shall be sent to the Senate for trial. This whole proceeding would have to be conducted and completed, insofar as this resolution is concerned, before the first day of December; and it would be a physical impossibility to have an impeachment proceeding before this House and to have it certified to the Senate for trial, and have it completed before the first day of December. The proceeding would entail expense, there would be an appropriation to this committee, there would be counsel employed to conduct the investigation, there would be testimony to be presented before the Committee, and if I recall rightly from the experience of the present Committee, the testimony is costing the State from $3 to $5 a page. I do not know how many thousand pages of testimony would be introduced in a proceeding of this kind, but undoubtedly there would be all kinds of cases of people with grievances against the magistrates; political considerations would be dragged in, and it would probably be a very long record. Therefore this House would be called upon to expend money which would be a useless gesture at this time and would serve no other purpose than a political purpose, if any. It would not serve any useful purpose, because, as I said before, you could not complete the investigation and have a meeting of the House at which it could be determined whether we would certify it to the Senate for impeachment, and if certified to the Senate you could not complete the trial before December first. If not completed before December first, the entire proceeding would have to fall, and the new legislature would not be bound by any report from this Committee, it would not be bound by any determination of the House in this respect. If the proceeding were in progress or on its way through the Senate and the first of December came, it would fall; it would have to be taken up de novo by the new legislature beginning January first. Therefore it seems to me that before we rush into an impeachment proceeding on the basis of the resolution presented, which was submitted in the House last night, rushed to the Rules Committee and out of the Rules Committee and is here for the consideration of the House without any opportunity given to the members of the House to know anything about the foundation or the charges, or whether they are well founded or what should be done, it seems to me that the sensible procedure would be to send this to the Judiciary General Committee where it can be given the proper consideration.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is not my intention to prolong this debate. but I believe every member of this House can realize why the minority floor leader is strenuously opposing this resolution against the Chief Magistrate of the City of Philadelphia. If he had listened to one of the speakers last night, the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finnerty, he would have ascertained that the Chief Magistrate of Philadelphia today is discriminating against prisoners, asking them whether they are registered Democratic or Republican, and if they are registered Republican, by his actions, he has discharged them, and if they are registered Democratic, he has committed them for thirty days. If he had listened to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Finnerty, he would have remembered that on August 2nd, we called to the attention of this House the actions of this Chief Magistrate of Philadelphia, and if he remembers, we passed a resolution requesting the Board of Judges of the City of Philadelphia to take appropriate action, and they, in their wisdom, passed the buck back to this House. We feel that this resolution on the attitude of the gentleman who is now acting as Chief Magistrate of Philadelphia, warrants immediate action. In this resolution, we have not asked for any appropriation.

Now, the gentleman from Delaware knows we cannot get a bill through at this time for an appropriation to the committee, but we must have the regulating legislation itself, and when, and if a bill of that sort is introduced, then we can have argument as to wether or not an appropriation should be made, but if this committee, whoevere it may be, is willing to proceed immediately without an appropriation, and spend their time and perhaps their money to find out what injustices are being done in Philadelphia by the Chief Magistrate, I don't see how anyone can possibly object, except on a partisan basis, and, therefore, I ask that this motion be voted down and the resolution be passed at this time.

Mr. TURNER. I think the gentleman from Philadelphia has stated it very frankly. There is a reason why I am objecting at the present time, and that reason, as I have stated, is that I do not believe, if there is a real and earnest desire to enter into an investigation that will properly determine the issue, that there can be any reason for objecting to sending it to the Judiciary General Committee. If you are going to appoint an investigating committee and intend to have a real investigation you have to give that committee money, but if you do not intend to do anything else but to fish around and perhaps bring out a few glaring charges that may have some political effect at the present time, then you might just as well send it to the Judiciary General Committee, because they can. without money. do the same thing that the special committee could do, but there is not that intent and the desire is to put this in a place where it can be used within the next two or three weeks, and possibly smear the record with some charges which will have no opportunity to be answered. You will have no money with which to bring witnesses here, you will only have to bring those witnesses who will voluntarily come, because they have complaints to make, and the whole matter will be only a one-sided trial between now and election day. If we are in earnest about this, if we are as sincere as the gentleman from Philadelphia wants to be, then we ought to do it in the proper way and we ought to have this measure tried out first. Let us see what is in it before we spend the money and before we spend the time in a fruitless chase which we know in the end cannot lead us any place toward an impeachment proceeding, because of the time element.

Mr. SHEPARD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, because I know that our people have suffered under the illegal acts of this Chief Magistrate and some others just like him. They have intimidated the negro citizens of Philadelphia, they have tried to terrorize them, take away from them their freedom of ballot and registration in many ways. Magistrate O'Malley, particularly, has picked on negroes who were registered Democrats and has tried to terrorize them and intimidate them in the exercise of their franchise. Now, of course, it may cost some money, but why should the gentleman, representing the great Republican party quibble over a little cost, when a matter of justice is involved? We ought to be concerned about these poor people who have been suffering under such despotic rule as O'Malley has represented, we ought to be concerned about giving justice to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia, who suffer most and who have no opportunity whatsoever to defend themselves. We ought to rid ourselves and rid the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of partial magistrates like O'Malley and if this House can go into this matter and bring some measure of relief to those poor people who are trying to do a good job and follow the dictates of their consciences, then no amount of money should be spared. I am surprised at a member of the party, who is supposed to stand for what the Republican party used to stand for, quibbling in an hour like this, when justice is at stake, and I ask you to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, and pass this resolution and give relief to these people suffering under such despotic rule.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the indulgence of the House to speak more than my alloted number of times on this question, but the gentleman from Philadelphia has raised an issue that I cannot allow to pass by.

I cannot quite grasp the fact that the gentleman from Philadelphia, with all of the knowledge that he has of the present conditions and the things that are being done in reference to coercion, as far as suffrage is concerned, would have the effrontery to stand on the floor of this House and to question the motives of the Republican Floor Leader in this instance.

It is and has been the common practice of some of those on the other side of this House to infer time and time again, when the occasion arises, to impugn the motives of those who are trying to ask for something logical and sensible, to arise and shake the flag to make the voters tremble with the injustice that is being done to them, and yet as I sit in my office, day after day, during this investigation, and I have sat on this bench during this investigation and have pleaded with my colleagues to undertake the investigation of certain accusation against people high in office as to practices that are going on in this Commonwealth, and they have not raised one word, not in any instance have they raised their voices one bit to try to change the conditions of which I have knowledge and which are coming to me daily.

Just yesterday I received a letter from a man who said that he was an employe of the Public Assistance Department, and he told of the coercion that was being exercised upon those in the Public Assistance Department to make them contribute to the Democratic party and to make them go out and vote the Democratic ticket, and we all know that every employe on Capitol Hill—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the motion. The Speaker has been very lenient and allowed him to step away from the motion, and as long as he stuck to the subject matter I didn't think the point of order was necessary, but the gentleman is now far out of order and far away from the subject matter.

The SPEAKER. The point of order of the gentleman from Philadelphia is well taken; the Chair has allowed the speakers to get away from the subject to a certain extent, but there are certain limits beyond which they should not go.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. TURNER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, in his remarks in reference to this magistrate, stated that he was amazed that the Republican Floor Leader should arise and quibble over a picayune amount of money, when an injustice was being done to a lot of voters in the city of Philadelphia, who wanted to exercise their franchise. I therefore consider it and conceive it to be my right, and I feel that I should answer the gentleman from Philadelphia in a proper manner, but if the Chair desires to rule that I am not in order in that instance, I then conceive it to be my proper right and within my right, under a question of personal privilege, to answer the gentleman from Philadelphia in the manner in which I have answered him. I would like to continue and say to the gentleman from Philadelphia that we all know that every member of every department on this Capitol Hill has been required to secure 25 postal cards and address them to Republicans and other voters in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania asking them to vote the Democratic ticket—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to the point of order that it is not proper to speak upon a question of personal privilege when there is a motion before the House.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a statement on the point of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is ready to rule on the point of order of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I want to make a suggestion to the Chair on the point of order before the Chair rules.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will be glad to hear the suggestion of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, on the point of order raised by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, as to whether or not a question of personal privilege is in order, I submit that the original purpose and the real purpose of a question of personal privilege was for immediate attention. For example, if there is a draft in the room or if there is a bad light or anything of that kind, which is disturbing a member, his only course is to appeal to the Chair for attention on a question of personal privilege. Therefore, a question of personal privilege is always in order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is ready to rule on the point raised by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The business before the House was consideration of House Resolution No. 24, Printer's No. 74. During its consideration a motion was made to recommit the resolution to the Committee on Judiciary General. This is a privileged question, and the Chair wishes to read Rule No. 15 applying to privileged questions:

"No business regularly before the House shall be interrupted, except by motion—

For Adjournment.

For the previous question, namely, "Shall the main question be now put?"

For postponement.

For commitment.

For amendment.

To lay on the table."

A question of personal privilege is not a privileged question, and the Chair wishes to read Rule No. 67 —

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, will the Chair permit me to interrupt to make one suggestion to the Chair as to the parliamentary question involved?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I had asked for personal privilege. The Chair had ruled that I could have it. I had undertaken to speak on it and I was speaking on it. The point of order should have been raised at the time I requested personal privilege, upon which the Chair ruled.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman was out of order in discussing a question of personal privilege while there was a question pending before the House. The Chair has previously stated that the question of personal privilege is not a privileged question. The Chair wishes to read Rule No. 67 as follows:

"Any member may rise and explain a matter personal to himself by leave of the Speaker, but he shall not discuss any pending question in such explanation. Question of personal privilege shall be limited to questions affecting the rights reputation and conduct of members of the House in their representative capacity."

The question before the House was a privileged question, as stated in Rule No. 15 of this House. Therefore, the only question before the House is the motion to recommit the resolution to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Schrock, Yeakel, McDevitt, Sproul, Serrill, McKinney, Muir, Trout, Stewart, Wood, Davies, Stockham, Robert S. Hamilton, Boyer, Royer, Boose, Kline, Kane, Perry, Wilson and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question be not put?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. TURNER, SCHROCK and SPROUL and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, we undersigned, hereby challenge the constitutionality of House Resolution No. 24. Signed by Yeakel, Schrock, McDevitt, Sproul and Stewart.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McDevitt, together with the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Yeakel, the gentleman from Somerset, Mr. Schrock, the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, and the gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Stewart, raise the question of the constitutionality of House Resolution No. 24. The Chair submits the question to the House.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the constitutional point of order?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it is not my intention to go into any lengthy argument on this resolution. After all none of us could be very well prepared unless we had done some research and preparation after the original act was presented when we first went into session.

One point I wish to raise is that this resolution does not come within the call issued by the Governor. A reference to the whereas clauses in his proclamation will show some six in number. They are as follows:

"Whereas, Grave charges have been made against the Governor of the Commonwealth and other civil officers involving the administration of their high offices; and

"Whereas, The constitutional rights of the legislative and executive branches of the government are in danger of being invaded; and

"Whereas, It is imperative that charges against high public officers be heard publicly and as expeditiously as possible, to the end that the innocent should be vindicated and the guilty exposed nad punished; and

"Whereas, The General Assembly alone is empowered openly and publicly to conduct an investigation of such charges; and

"Whereas, The appropriations heretofore made by the General Assembly in relief of the unemployed will be exhausted before the convening of the General Assembly in regular session, thereby necessitating further appropriations for the purpose aforesaid; and

"Whereas, Other conditions have arisen in the Commonwealth requiring remedial or enabling legislation appropriate thereto."

Now, without going into any extended discussion there are two things which appear to be clear on the face of the proclamation. In the first place, we all know that there were charges made against some thirteen of the civil officers of the Commonwealth. Certainly when the special session was called there was no intention of investigating magistrates or going into the fitness for office of any particular man.

It is contended that this resolution is covered by the statement "and other civil officers." I wish to say, without any further discussion on the matter, I do not believe that this House is exercising its best judgment or that any court is going to say that the resolution comes within either the spirit or the specific purpose of the call.

The second point would be, this resolution is based on the formula outlined by Act No. 2. The constitutionality of Act No. 2 has not so far been questioned, and of course, therefore, its constitutionality has not been ruled upon by any court. Many of the members of the House, when that act was passed, thought it was invalid, that it was not a proper proceeding. That the proper proceeding was the time honored and accepted proceeding as provided for by the Constitution and by precedents in the House itself. I feel that Act No. 2 is invalid because it takes away from this House its sole right of impeachment. Act No. 2 would limit and prescribe the way in when impeachment proceedings should be conducted. Instead of leaving the whole question to the House, this will take into consideration any restrictions or orders that the Senate might impose, and also make it subject to approval by the Governor. I do not believe that this Legislature can pass an act of Assembly of this kind, which would bind future legislatures in their procedure, should they wish to institute impeachment proceedings.

Therefore, I ask the members of the House to support the challenge of the constitutionality and vote that this proposed resolution is unconstitutional.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am quite astonished to see that the member from Philadelphia has usurped the judicial prerogative in attempting to decide the constitutionality of an act that the House of Representatives has already passed, that has been passed by the Senate and has been signed by the Governor. I am a great believer in the tri-party distinctions of government, and I feel that this House at no time should indulge in questioning the constitutionality of any act. That function is one that entirely belongs to the judiciary. I am sure in speaking for the majority of this House, that should we enter into any deliberations in this House, that would be in any way impinge upon the judiciary, is an unconstitutional act itself. However, I might say, that the learned gentleman from Philadelphia has had occasion to read the recent Supreme Court ennunciations on Acts No. 1 and 4, and he also had occasion to read the opinion of Judge Schaeffer, especially presiding in Dauphin county, who handed down his verbal opinion upon the constitutionality of Act No. 2, and since both the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth and the Judge especially presiding in Dauphin County Court, have by dicta indicated that Act No. 2 is constitutional, far be it from the membership of this House to in any way try to circumvent that judicial expression. The constitutionality of this resolution, however, is properly raised when we are questioning the constitutionality of an act or proceeding in which we are to indulge. It is improperly raised when we question the constitutionality of an act or proceeding that has already been—

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is not speaking on the question before the House.

For the information of the Speaker, might I say that the question before the House is a question involving the constitutionality of a resolution providing for an impeachment proceeding, which is based upon Act No. 2, and the question has been raised as to the constitutionality, first, of the resolution, and, second, as t the act upon which it is based.

The arguments of the gentleman from York should be confined to the question before the House, as to the constitutionality, and he should not wander off into the realms of surmise as to what the Supreme Court might or might not have done, or what Judge Schaeffer has said, and what his feelings are on the tri-party system,—which is not exactly the right word or right definition, because this is not a tri-party government, it is a government composed of three branches, and a branch is not a party, except that occasionally the Democratic Party—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware has clearly explained to the Chair the question before the House. The Chair wishes to thank the gentleman from Delaware because the Chair did not know what the question was.

The point of order raised is well taken, and the Chair asks the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, to confine himself to the question before the House.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, as I understand from the gentleman from Delaware, I understand that the gentleman from Philadelphia has raised two questions, one the constitutionality of the resolution, which carries with it the attendant question of the constitutionality of Act No. 2, upon which the resolution was based. I did not have time to prepare my legal brief on this matter, nor have I had the time to make the intensive research that is necessary in order to adequately discuss this problem. However, I believe that we could easily brush aside the question of the constitutionality of Act No. 2, which was the second point raised, by calling to the attention of the membership of this House that in our system of government, composed of three specific branches—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, it is quite apparent that the gentleman from York had no opportunity to prepare himself as to the kind or manner of argument he should make, and I therefore ask the Chair to rule him out of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair not being a constitutional lawyer, is in a dilemma. The Chair again asks the gentleman to confine his remarks to the subject before the House.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to do so. The gentleman from Philadelphia has raised a further question, that this particular resolution is not within the call. If the members of the House will refer to the Governor's Proclamation in calling this General Assembly into session, they will see that the call specifically provides for the investigation of charges of or involving misdemeanor in office on the part of any person holding any civil office in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, with such further proceedings as may be necessary and proper and the appropriation of the necessary funds to conduct such an investigation and proceeding.

I submit to the membership of the House, and I feel sure that the gentleman from Philadelphia, as well as the learned Justice from Delaware, will concur when I indicate to the membership of the House that the "whereas" clauses which preceded the first call of the session had nothing whatsoever to do with the context of the proclamation calling the session itself. The whereas clauses are only an indication of the policy, just as the whereas clauses in this particular resolution have nothing to do with the resolution itself. The important legislation with which we are concerned comes directly under the first call of the Governor, and on that point the unconstitutionality of our action cannot be challenged.

The second point or question raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia indicates that this proceeding is unconstitutional, due to the fact that the constitutionality of Act No. 2 passed by this session, has not been determined. I say to the membership of this House that it is not our function to question the constitutionality of Act No. 2. I submit to the membership of this House that our action in the introduction of this resolution and our proposed action by the enactment of the resolution is entirely constitutional, and constitutional for the further reason that the enactment of the resolution by the membership of the House, or a concurrent resolution, enacted by the membership of the House and the membership of the Senate, is not legislation, and therefore, even though we did not have the call of the Governor's Proclamation specifically set forth, this House would have the power to indulge in any investigation whatsoever, to appoint any committee that is deemed desirable and to indulge in any activities properly belonging to the General Assembly, as long as we do not legislate outside of the call of the Governor. In this opinion I have the great honor to say that this opinion is concurred in by the Democratic members of the House, and I would ask the learned Justices on the other side of the House to join in that concurrence.

I further say to the members of the House, on the question of the constitutionality raised it should be determined in the affirmative, namely, that a resolution about to be enacted, and our action taken thereunder, is constitutional.

On the question recurring,

Will the House sustain the constitutional point of order?

It was not sustained.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Municipal Corporations to meet during the session of the House.

SECOND ACCOUNT OF COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE COSTS AND FUNCTIONS OF GOVERNMENT OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA

Mr. LEWIS. Mr. Speaker, I am instructed by the chairman of the joint legislative committee, under concurrent Resolution No. 2 of the session of 1937, to file with this House the second account and report of the expenditures of that committee.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal of the House and printed in full in the Appendix to the Legislative Journal.

STATEMENT BY Mr. KANE

Mr. KANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in this statement I want first to thank the membership of the House and Speaker for the courtesy that has been shown me and other Republican members. As a liberal or rather perhaps a progressive. I have a great liking for you as individuals but I am seriously disappointed in the principles of the Democratic Party. Let me say that when we have a Republican majority in this House, if I am present, I will fight to the last ditch to assure you the courtesies you have extended to me.

I have been asked by so many members of this House where I and other Pinchot leaders would stand since ex-Governor Pinchot's statement that I am going to give a public answer.

We who captained the Pinchot candidacy in the Republican Primary have been asked where we stand today. Here is our answer:

We believe the primary is to select the best candidate, the fall election to support the best party. We now intend to give our party the same loyal support we gave our former leader, Mr. Pinchot, in the spring primary.

We intend rather to sustain the progressive and liberal spirit within a party of honesty and integrity than to lend aid and comfort to Pennsylvania's democratic machine, which stands today convicted in the eyes of honest men of corruption and waste and whose leaders are practically at present fugitives from justice,—men who find it easier to attack our courts than to undertake to prove their own innocence. They stand convicted in the eyes of every liberal as the assassins of freedom. The unfortunates whose votes they can not buy they have tried to intimidate and coerce.

They have squandered public money for personal prestige. They have fanned the flames of class hatred and sectional prejudice. They have created a race problem in formerly free Pennsylvania by emphasizing all differences that exist between man and man, whether by reason of race, color or religion. They have enslaved democracy in order to establish a dynasty of political bosses.

They have increased the distress of our peopl by attacking every institution, every business, every individual which has managed to sustain independence of thought and action through six long years of dictatorial government.

As a State, Pennsylvania stands today substantially where we stood when Roosevelt took office. He has failed to meet any real needs of labor, business or agriculture. We believe recovery can only be gained by higher wages for labor in which we include white collared men, government employes and W. P. A. workers.

We demand that the expense of foolish experiments be stopped and that the American people be allowed to go back to work at American wages. We demand that business be freed of the mass of government regulations and its army regulators. We believe that unless and until private business once more becomes reasonably safe and reasonably profitable, there can be no sound or lasting recovery.

We have had an opportunity to meet Arthur James. We have known James J. Davis for years. They are fighting the good fight. They will keep the faith. They will acquit themselves like men.

We admire good sportsmanship, stout fighting hearts and frank, plain-spoken declarations.

We have chosen our candidates and are pleased with our platform. We will fight to the finish for the complete victory of the new united and progressive Republican party. We fight not for a man but for a principle, to save honest government in Pennsylvania.

We will fight the fight of freedom and we will do it under the banner of the party of Abraham Lincoln. We will prevent the new deal from establishing political slavery in Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

STATEMENT BY Mr. MARINO

Mr. MARINO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I believe that the statement of the previous gentleman will be better understood by those who read the proceedings of this House in the Legislative Journal, if the statement issued by the former Governor of this Commonwealth also be included in the record, and I desire to read the former Governor's statement The text of Governor Pinchot's statement is as follows:

"I'm a Republican, but I take no order from any boss. I'm an Independent Progressive Republican. That is where I always have stood. That is where I stand today.

"Like so many other Progressive Republicans throughout the State I am taking no part on a campaign run by and for Annenberg and Pew and their subordinates.

"I hate to think of what that pair would do to the church people, organized labor and to those who depend on different kinds of relief, if they got the chance.

"I hate to think of what would happen to the farmers, workers, small business men and the clean and decent people of this State, if Annenberg and Pew should succeed in getting control of Pennsylvania or even the Government of the United States."

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

STATEMENT BY Mr. WOODSIDE.

Mr. WOODSIDE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the Highways of Pennsylvania belong to the motorists and people of this State. Not even the few miles built during the Democratic Administration belong to that Party. But the New Dealers do not distinguish between that which is theirs and that which is the peoples.

Bill boards are expensive; so the Democrats have now resorted to the use of the roadbeds of this Commonwealth on which they are painting "Vote Democratic", "Vote Democrat" and "Democrat vote". I have here a picture of one of the many painted on the highway between Dalmatia and Sunbury in Northumberland County. I think it demonstrates to the people of Pennsylvania, not only the impropriety of the Democratic Party but is a typical example of its abuse of power and position.

There seems to be no limit to the extent to which they will go in this campaign. I would not be surprised if the next step would be to sell advertisements to be painted on the highway in order to raise additional millions for the Democratic Campaign Fund.

I think that the people of Pennsylvania are entitled to know more about the painting of these signs on the highways.

I should therefore like to publicly ask David Lawrence as State Chairman of the Democratic Party, whether he intends to have such signs painted on the State Highways in other counties of the Commonwealth or whether it is to be confined to Northumberland County.

I should like to publicly ask Mr. Brownmiller as Secretary of the State Highways to tell us why and upon what authority he permits the use of the State highways for political advertising.

I should also like to know from him whether it is true as rumored that these signs were painted on the roadbeds by highway employes, whether State equipment including the "caution", "men working" and "resume speed" signs were used, whether the work was done on State time and whether State highway paint was used.

I should like to publicly ask the Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Motor Police whether the use of the highways for advertising purposes has been reported to him by his men who have driven over these signs scores of times. I should like to know what he has done about this illegal use of the highways; or if he is just now learning about it, what he proposes to do.

I think that the people of Pennsylvania are entitled to a report from these three officials concerning this very flagrant misuse of power by those in control of our State Government.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

INTERROGATION

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KANE. If he is sure he wants to interrogate me, I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, his opinion of Governor Pinchot's attitude and whether he is deserting him because he is not mentally sound, or not physically sound, or any other trouble, that he cannot support him. The answer is merely yes or no.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I don't quite understand the gentleman's question.

Mr. SHEA. The question is, is Mr. Pinchot of equal poise and position in society to receive from you the plaudits that he did just a short while ago, or are you deserting him for his attitude through any physical or mental disability on his part; just simply answer yes or no.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I guess the answer to that will have to be yes and no or both, or either, or which.

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am looking back a few years, when I first saw Mr. Pinchot launch forth upon Summit Hill, before Davis' Drug Store—

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if he is interrogating me, or if he is making a speech.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose now does the gentleman rise?

Mr. SHEA. Personal privilege, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that the gentleman ask for unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, before giving my unanimous consent to address the House on the part of the gentleman from Philadelphia, I would like to have an offer of proof.

Mr. SHEA. What do you mean, an order of proof?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to explain to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Doctor Shea, that by an offer of proof I mean what the doctor means when he says there should be a free diagnosis of the case.

STATEMENT BY Mr. SHEA

Mr. SHEA asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am harkening back to the time I first saw Governor Pinchot, then, Mr. Pinchot launch his campaign, as I said, in the little town of Summit Hill, before Davis' Drug Store. There were only eight of us there, and I saw the launching forward of a great career. I saw the launching forward of a career of liberality, and, thank God, that liberality still stands; that liberality has stood through the years and through the days, and when I think of his wonderful achievements, and when I saw Governor Pinchot go out and launch the great forestry projects and the great care he gave to those rural communities, and the great acts that he did in his career, and when I recall his association with the great Theodore Roosevelt, and when the call for duty came, no more acclaim was given to anybody than was given to Governor Pinchot, and, ladies and gentlemen, he has maintained that liberality through the years, and when I heard him say that the stench of Annenberg and the dirty work of others brought great disgrace to the decent people of the Commonwealth, I couldn't stand it; I don't care how anybody else expressed themselves, but the honest people of the State of Pennsylvania understand.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. KILROY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his question of information.

Mr. KILROY. Mr. Speaker, a lot of us boys are trying to catch the train. Can you tell me what time this political rally will be finished?

The SPEAKER. About six o'clock.

STATEMENT BY Mr. JOHN A. SMITH

Mr. JOHN A. SMITH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to suggest to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside, that when he refers the various questions to Secretary Brownmiller, et al, he also request Secretary Brownmiller to dig into the files of the Department of Highways on the official publication of years ago, in which a full page was given gratis to the Gulf Refining Company, then the property of the Republican State Chairman.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. DAVID H. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938

Whereas, Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven, members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, while in the performance of their duties, were killed at Gettysburg; and

Whereas, These two men in carrying out their daily duties to promote the safety of motorists and pedestrians upon the highways, were called upon to make the supreme sacrifice of giving their lives to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as did those men who lie nearby, the shadows of whose tombstones mark the Valley of Death for these two members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police. In one case the men fought for the freedom from oppression; in the other case the men were fighting for the termination of death and injuries upon the highways. Honor may well be paid to them; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby marks the memory of their honorable death; and pays to them the highest tribute within the range of man, it is that unexpressible emotion of deepest pride and respect for those who have died honorable deaths; and be it further

Rsolved, That the General Assembly hereby expresses its sincere sympathy to the members of the deceased families of Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution shall be transmitted to the families of the deceased by the Chief Clerk of this House.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Messrs. McDEVITT, ROBERT S. HAMILTON, MALLEN and BLANK offered a resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, Word having been received of the death of former Mayor Harry A. Mackey of the City of Philadelphia, it is fitting that this Body pause from its labor and pay respect to his memory.

Harry A. Mackey was born at Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, on June 28, 1869 and, like his father, the late George W. Mackey, entered the practice of law. At the same time he commenced a political career, which gained him high honor and continued until the time of his death.

He attended the University of Pennsylvania and was captain of its football team in 1893 and won distinguished honors in the field of athletics. In his chosen profession of the law his career was marked with outstanding success. He made an intensive study of the law of negligence and in 1915 was appointed Chairman of the Commonwealth's first Workmen's Compensation Board.

Mr. Mackey was elected Treasurer of the City of Philadelphia and in November, 1927 was elected to the high office of Mayor of that city. His administration was noted for the splendid civic improvements accomplished during his tenure of office.

Upon retirement from the Mayoralty he traveled abroad and resumed his law practice in the City of Philadelphia, where he was greatly renowned for his ability and learning in law.

Mayor Mackey was actively affiliated with many fraternal, communal, civic and charitable organizations not only in the City of Philadelphia, but in the state and nation as well.

His loss is felt, not only by his widow and immediate family, but by his many friends and associates, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania mourn the passing of an outstanding Pennsylvania citizen, Harry A. Mackey; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be sent to his widow and surviving children with the deep sympathy of the members of this House.

SENATE MESSAGE

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 15.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has adopted the report of the Committee of Conference on the subject of the difference existing between the two Houses on Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 15.

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest and costs on county, city (except city of the first class), borough, town, township, school district, (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE REPORT ON SENATE BILL No. 15.

Mr. SAMUEL A. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time the report of the Committee of Conference on Senate Bill No. 15, Printer's No. 65.

The report was read by the Clerk as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, Committee of Conference on the part of the Senate and House of Represntatives for the purpose of considering Senate Bill No. 15, entitled: "An Act abating certain tax penalties, interest and costs on county, city (except city of the first class), borough, town, township, school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes, prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof," respectfully submit the following bill as our report:

C. GILBERT WOLFENDEN,
THOMAS E. KILGALLEN,
HARRY SHAPIRO,
(Committee on the part of the Senate.)

JOHN A. SMITH,
SAMUEL A. WEISS,
THOS. B. STOCKHAM,
(Committee on the Part of the House of Representatives.)

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on county, city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class), and poor district taxes; prohibiting the sale of real property for the non-payment of any such taxes for a certain period; and preserving certain tax liens, and providing for the extension thereof.

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 All unpaid penalties and interest imposed on paid or unpaid delinquent county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four and all previous years and all penalties imposed on such taxes for the tax years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven assessed and levied against any parcel o parcels of real estate and on paid or unpaid delinquent poll taxes levied for any of such years are hereby abated without the necessity of further action by the authority levying the tax if the unpaid delinquent taxes are paid as hereinafter provided This section shall not be construed to abate the interest accrued on the taxes for the years of one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven but no further interest shall be imposed on such taxes after the payment of the first installment as hereafter provided so long as the taxpayer complies with the provisions of this act.

In order to receive the benefits of the installment system of payment provided by this act twenty per centum of the delinquent taxes due for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and for all previous years and of the accrued interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes shall be paid on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-one and the final twenty per centum on or before the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and forty-two And provided That the respective current taxes (the institution district taxes in lieu of the poor taxes) on such parcel or parcels of real estate and on delinquent poll taxes levied for the years subsequent to the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight during such installment periods assessed and levied by such taxing authority shall be paid before they become delinquent For the purposes of this act a tax shall be deemed to become delinquent on the date when a penalty attaches to the tax If and whenever any of the said current taxes or any of the said installments are not paid when due and payable as herein provided then and in that event there shall become due and payable for such year a sum equal to one-fifth of the total amount of the abated penalties and interest in addition to the other payments required to be paid under this act during that year which said additional sum shall be payable and must be paid at the time the next succeeding installment payment becomes due under this act If such additional sum is not so paid then the total amount of the abated penalties and interest less the aggregate of any such additional sum theretofore paid shall be revived and added to the unpaid taxes with the same force and effect as if such abated penalties and interest or portion thereof had never been abated and the taxpayer shall not thereafter be entitled to any further benefits or privileges under this act.

Section 2 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption may anticipate the payment of the unpaid delinquent taxes for the tax year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and previous years at any time on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight by paying the entire amount of such unpaid delinquent taxes and interest due on the one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven taxes and receive the benefit of this act and in such cases payment of the taxes assessed and levied for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight shall not be required at the time of such payment

Section 3 This act shall be construed to apply to all such taxes penalties and interest whether or not liens therefor had been returned for non-payment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary of the county or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court in said county or where real property has been sold to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and the period of redemption has not expired but this act shall not be construed to apply to cases where real property has been sold other than to a county city borough town township school district or poor district at a tax sale or on a tax lien and where the period of redemption has not expired. The taxpayer shall be liable for the payment of all costs incurred except the solicitor's fees where liens for such taxes have been returned for non-payment or have been filed in the office of the prothonotary or proceedings for the collection thereof have been instituted in any court

Section 4 The benefits of this act shall extend to and accrue to any successful bidder or purchaser at sheriff's or other judicial sale grantee transferee mortgagee or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale or other party in interest in the parcel or parcels of real estate against which the above mentioned taxes have been assessed and levied whether separated or not

Section 5 Any taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption shall have the right to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any parcel or parcels of real estate without being required to pay the unpaid delinquent taxes assessed and levied against any other parcel or parcels of real estate in the same ward district or other municipal subdivision

The county commissioners of each county may at their discretion and at the cost of the county cause to be published two times in not more than two newspapers of general circulation throughout the county a notice to the taxpayers giving a synopsis of the terms of this act setting forth the benefits provided by the act and the necessary conditions required by the taxpayers in order to receive the same Upon application either in person or in writing by any taxpayer or owner the tax levying authorities the tax collector the receiver or receivers of taxes or the person or persons charged with the collection of such unpaid delinquent taxes or the person or persons in whose custody the records of such unpaid delinquent taxes are kept shall furnish to such delinquent taxpayer or owner a statement of the unpaid delinquent taxes owed by him to such municipal subdivision showing the face amount the penalty if any the interest if any and any costs or other charges in detail against such real property as shown by the records in his custody

Every collector of taxes whose duty it is to send to the respective taxpayers any notice or statement of their annual taxes shall include in each such notice or statement an additional notice of the date when the next installment payment is due under the provisions of this act

Section 6 In order to enable the taxpayer or owner having the right of redemption under a tax sale to receive the full benefits of this act no real property shall be sold for non-payment of taxes before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and any tax sale shall be adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended as often as may be necessary for this purpose If any tax sale is adjourned or readjourned or right of redemption extended after advertisement or sale no additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for the adjourned or readjourned sale or right of redemption No such adjournment or readjournment or redemption failure to advertise or hold any such tax sale shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or sale had subject to redemption but the lien of all such taxes shall be fully preserved during the entire installment period herein provided for if the taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act Provided however That in every case where a taxpayer avails himself of the privileges or benefits of this act the period during which payment of said unpaid delinquent taxes is postponed or continued under this act shall not be included in computing and determining whether or not any right of the tax assessing and levying authority has been barred or lost by reason of the provisions of any statute now existing or hereafter enacted limiting the right of the said tax levying and assessing authorities to file preserve or maintain the lien of the said taxes

Section 7 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of the provisions hereof are held to be unconstitutional the decision shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included herein

Section 8 The act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws one hundred twenty-nine) as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred forty-four) the act approved the fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six (Pamphlet Laws ten) and the act approved the fourteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred two) shall continue in full force and effect as to any and all taxpayers who have taken advantage of and are not in default in the provisions thereof All other acts and parts of acts general local or special inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby suspended during the time this act shall be in effect

Section 9 Nothing in this act shall be so construed as to prevent any taxpayer who has heretofore taken advantage and accepted the benefits of any of the acts referred to in section eight and who has lost or who prior to the thirty-first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight may lose the rights benefits privileges and opportunities under such act from taking advantages and receiving the benefits of this act

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to debate at any length the report of the Committee on Conference on Senate Bill No. 15. I do think, however, that the record should be corrected as to some statements concerning it. During the passage through the House figures were submitted to the House by several of its members for the purpose of proving that tax delinquency has decreased under the present program of tax abatement. In doing that the speakers have made it appear that the total delinquency for taxes by these various counties was reduced year after year under the present plan of tax abatement bills. I believed at the time, although I did not have any figures available and had not looked into the matter, that that was an impossibility. I based that upon my personal knowledge of the various municipalities that I represent and about whose financial conditions I knew something.

Upon further investigation I find that what they were doing was to submit the delinquent taxes for a particular year and in that manner it appeared to this House that the total delinquency was decreasing year after year under these tax abatement bills. Now, as a matter of fact, not only on account of the bills but on account of the continuation of the sales which have been carried on year after year, the total amount of delinquency has continually increased, so that in Dauphin County, and I think that is probably true of all of the counties of this Commonwealth, the total tax delinquency today is larger than it has ever been in the history of the Commonwealth. I think that that correction on the record should be made so that the people will not be misled by the figures that were used by some of the members of the House, including the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Smith, during the passage of this bill through the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee of Conference?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the report of the Committee of Conference was adopted.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

STATEMENT BY Mr. ECKELS.

Mr. ECKELS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, several weeks ago the press carried a news item that the Communists and their party had endorsed the candidacies of Governor George H. Earle and Charles Alvin Jones for the offices of United States Senator and Governor of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Jones issued a statement in which he neither accepted nor repudiated this proffered support, but so far I have watched the papers in vain for any statement from Governor Earle regarding the matter.

Candidates for high office in other states have been prompt in their repudiation of such support, and I believe that it is a question of whether or not high officials and candidates shall by their silence lend encouragement to such undemocratic organizations, and that this House is entitled to know the attitude of Governor Earle on this question and to have an unequivocal statement from Mr. Jones.

I therefore desire to introduce the following resolution and ask that it be read for the information of the House.

RESOLUTION

Mr. ECKELS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution and ask the unanimous consent of the House that it be read.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have the resolution read for the information of the House? Are there objections?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in view of the fact that the resolution does not also contain an inquiry as to the Fascists affiliation between the Republican chairman, Mr. Fletcher and the Republican Party, I am constrained to refuse my consent to this resolution, and I ask that it be referred to the committee in the usual order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

STATEMENT BY Mr. LONG

Mr. LONG asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, my attention has been called to a statement released to the Press yesterday by the Hon. James J. Davis, United States Senator from Pennsylvania and a candidate for reelection to that office. The Senator says:

"It is never pleasant to bring to the attention of your committee (the Shepard Committee in Washington) "and the Nation the disgraceful conduct of officials of the State wherein I reside, but in view of the facts set forth in the enclosed papers, I am constrained to bury the State pride and request your committee to investigate in behalf of thousands of Philadelphians who have or will be disfranchised".

Enclosed with this statement is a letter of the Committee of Seventy, which states that the members of the Registration Commission have discriminated in certain groups of voters and have purposely intimidated or harrassed them. This political release was timed to beat the gun on a constructive and non-political report of the Committee to investigate the alleged disfranchisement of voters in the city of Philadelphia by a Committee appointed by Governor Earle, on which equal representation of both parties was given. This Committee has sat for the last two months and has at all times been available to everyone including the Committee of Seventy and the Republican City Committee of the City of Philadelphia, to hear any and all charges concerning disfranchisement, including any charges of intimidation or discrimination on the part of the Registration Commission or of anyone else. During all that time no evidence of any kind was presented to the Governor's Committee which would substantiate any charge of discrimination, harrassment or intimidation of voters on the part of the Registration Committee. Furthermore, no evidence of any kind that would substantiate any charge of disgraceful conduct on the part of the Commission was disclosed or presented, either by the Committee of Seventy or by the Republican City Committee of Philadelphia. Such political releases are unworthy of belief and serve no constructive purpose, either politically or in preventing the disfranchisement of voters in Philadelphia. It is my opinion that the Senator's pride has been buried in vain.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

SENATE MESSAGE TAKEN FROM TABLE.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Senate message which was laid on the table on Monday, October 17, 1938, be taken from the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to oppose the motion of the gentleman from Monroe, Mr. Achterman, and I ask for a roll call.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, does it require a constitutional majority to take the Senate message from the table?

The SPEAKER. No. Only a majority of those voting.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. TURNER, McDEVITT and WOOD, and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), That in any recess of the Senate and the House of Representatives during a Regular or Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives may jointly reconvene the Senate and the House of Representatives at a date prior to the date already fixed for reconvening.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I have refrained from presenting the usual motion to place the question of the constitutionality of this resolution before the House, feeling that no greater purpose could be served by that than by raising the question in reference to concurrence by the House in the Senate resolution.

I wonder whether all the members of the House really understand exactly what this resolution does. I do not believe that there are many more important questions which have come before any legislative session than this one before us now. We are setting a precedent; we are setting what appears to me and a great many others to be something that is a very dangerous precedent. The question before us does not have anything to do with the matter as to whether we are Republicans or whether we are Democrats. It is a matter that pertains very vitally to the entire procedure of this House. It is a delegation of the authority or power of the House to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House to call us back into session at any time they may desire between now and the fourteenth day of November, which is the date in another resolution which I believe will follow and which this House will be asked to adopt. In other words, we are on the point of a recess from this date until the fourteenth of November. With that I have no quarrel. I think that a recess is necessary. I think we have wasted a tremendous amount of time and a tremendous amount of money during the weeks that we have dragged out this special session. I do not want to go into that because I might get over-zealous on a question that might raise partisan issues, and this issue would be beclouded, and it is too important to be beclouded by any question of politics or what has happened here. I am in accord with the idea that it is necessary for this House to recess. The desire evidently on the part of those in the majority, as expressed by the Rules Committee, is that they want to recess until the fourteenth day of November, but they are afraid that something may transpire in the meantime and some contingency might arise where they might want to call us back, so they have devised this scheme by which the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House can call us back. The Constitution merely says that we cannot adjourn either House for more than three days without the consent of the other, and it carries with it a provision that you have got to have a date set to which you adjourn. Now, it is the duty of the two Houses to set a specific date upon which we shall reconvene, but if we are going to say to the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, that the date set is certain, but you may want to call us back, it seems to me that then we are violating the Constitution; we are making that date uncertain, we are making the date subject to the decision of the two presiding officers, which is uncertain.

I believe that no question which may arise in the two or three weeks intervening during the recess will be of such vital importance that it would lead you, my Democratic colleagues, to take a step in that direction, which is extremely dangerous. One of the great things that has always appealed to me, and I think has appealed to students of political government in many other states, is the fact that in the Legislature of Pennsylvania, both through the Constitution and through our rules and through our customs and procedure, we have thrown many safeguards around our proceedings. We have provisions that make it certain that the people shall have an opportunity to know about legislation; that legislation shall not be passed without the members having on their desks the bill or bills so that they may have an opportunity to see and read what is being proposed in the Legislature. Our Constitution provides about the reading of a bill on three separate days, which is a great safeguard and a great protection to the people of Pennsylvania. That is true in order that we may not have hasty and ill conceived or ill considered action before the people shall have an opportunity to speak thereon, and to say now that we can delegate to the two presiding officers the power to call us at any time after the members of the legislature know the exact date to which the House is adjourned, so that he may know on what date he is required to be there, to make it possible for them to call us at any time is establishing a precedent that is taking away from us our safeguards. I am firmly convinced that if this resolution is passed, and if the President pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House should recall us, that any member of the House would be perfectly justified in absenting himself from such a session, and the proceedings of that session would be open to attack in the courts, and therefore, you might get us into an involved or entangled position which might lead to litigation and which might interfere with some of the things we are here to do. Merely for the sake of what may by the leader of the Democratic side be conceived to be a condition that might possibly arise, to take a step away from all of the procedure that we have had over all of the background of this Legislature, and to take the risk of being unconstitutional, or the session being unconstitutional, or the things done here unconstitutional, and also to lay down a practice for the future that might be said to be a precedent in the future, to control some legislature, I feel you ought not to do it. I tried to have this measure kept on the table in order that we would not have to debate it, but as it has come up before us, I ask you to vote "no" on the adoption of this resolution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will call the roll.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, may I ask that you rescind your order for a roll call. I would like to rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections, the Chair will rescind its order for a roll call. The Chair hears no objection.

The gentleman from Delaware will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, as a resolution, it would only take a majority of this House to concur in this resolution, would it not?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, a majority of those voting?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, not a constitutional majority?

The SPEAKER. A constitutional majority is not required for concurrence in this resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, as the resolution is setting up a procedure and deals with the question of adjournment, should it not require a constitutional majority?

The SPEAKER. In reply to the question raised by the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, the only constitutional majorities that are required are those set up in the Constitution, that is, for the passage of legislation. It does not require constitutional majority for concurrence in a Senate Resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would point out to you that this resolution is enactment of legislation in the same sense as a bill. It is a delegation of authority and power of the House. That delegation cannot take place without a measure being placed before both Houses and sent to the Governor for his signature. The mere fact that it is in the form of a resolution, not in the form of a bill, does not seem to me to change it in substance. The fact is that it is legislative action. I do not believe that the House or the Senate can by the ordinary resolution, as we usually conceive a resolution, delegate the power which is here given to the President pro tem and the Speaker, to reconvene the Legislature. There is no power given under the Constitution to convene the Legislature except by—

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman propose to raise a constitutional question on the matter now before the House?

Mr. TURNER. No, I am raising the question with the Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has already ruled that only a majority of those voting is required to concur in the resolution.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I am renewing my inquiry with the Speaker, believing that the Speaker might, like he did a little while ago, reverse himself, if he comes to a conclusion after having received additional information which he had not had an opportunity to consider. When we speak of resolutions, when we speak of ordinances in some municipalities, we have two different kinds of resolutions. We have those that are commonly understood to be resolutions and we have those which are merely motions. We have resolutions which are by way of legislative enactment. The Constitution of Pennsylvania says that the Governor is the only one under the Constitution of Pennsylvania who is given the right to convene the Legislature. The Legislature itself is given no power to convene. It is given the power to adjourn from time to time. It may not delegate that power. It seems to me if this resolution is giving the power of the Legislature to the President pro tem and the Speaker of the House, that this resolution loses its form as an ordinary resolution, as we understand it, and takes on the nature of a bill, because it must go to the Governor for signature; it has passed the Senate and it is now passing the House, and would therefore require a constitutional majority of 105.

The SPEAKER. The Chair adheres to its original ruling that it requires only a majority of those present and voting to concur.

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. TURNER, SCHROCK and WOOD, and were as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Senate message which was laid on the table on Monday, October 17, 1938, be taken from the table.

The motion was agreed to.

The message was read by the Clerk as follows:

SENATE MESSAGES

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, October 17, 1938.

Resolved, (if the House of Representatives concur), that when the Senate adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, November 14, 1938, at 9 P. M. and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week it reconvene on Monday evening, November 14, 1938, at 9 P. M.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented for concurrence bill numbered and entitled as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 61. (House Bill No. 92.)

An Act to ratify, confirm and make valid the joint legislative committee created by Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial Number 106, approved March sixteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven, and authorized thereby to make an investigation of the tax burdens placed upon industries in Pennsylvania and other industrial and mining states, together with its actions, proceedings, expenses and expenditures and the appropriation made to said committee and making a further appropriation.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BLANK. (Concurrent) Resolution No. 26.

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938.

Whereas The taxing power of the City of Philadelphia is derived from the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas The Council of the City of Philadelphia has, by ordinance enacted, imposed a tax on sales in the City of Philadelphia which has directly resulted in a precipitous drop in sales of between twenty per centum and thirty per centum and has seriously and adversely affected the best interests of the merchants of Philadelphia; and

Whereas A sales tax directly taxes that section of our population that can least afford to be taxed; and

Whereas Despite the expressed and overwhelming objection of the people of the said City of Philadelphia, said City Council has enacted such a sales tax; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a sales tax by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or by any political subdivision thereof shall be illegal; and be it further

Resolved That it is the intention of the General Assembly to enact, by legislation, a prohibition of said sales tax at the next regular session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved That the Council of the City of Philadelphia be advised not to extend the sales tax ordinance beyond December 31, 1938, the date of its expiration and that said Council of the City of Philadelphia shall omit from its calculations the estimated receipts to be derived from the continued imposition of a sales tax; and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the President of the City Council of Philadelphia and to the Mayor and Controller of said city.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. ECKELS. Resolution No. 27.

In The House of Representatives, October 15, 1938.

Whereas, it is common knowledge that numerous isms consisting of Nazism, Fascism and Communism have infected the American systems of Government and organizations have set themselves up advocating the change in our present system of Government.

Whereas, various investigations and reports have proved that they are undermining our Democratic form of Government and there is danger that unless public officials and persons running for public office express their disapproval of such un-American and un-Democratic ideas and propaganda, encouragement will be given to the spread of these dangerous views breeding class hatred and race hatred in which this American form of Government has been unaccustomed until recent times, and,

Whereas, candidates for public offices in various states have refused to accept the endorsement and support of such un-American and un-Democratic organizations advocating Communism, Nazism and Fascism, and,

Whereas, the public press carried a statement that the Communist Party has endorsed the candidacy of Governor George H. Earle, III, for the United States Senate and Charles Alvin Jones for Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and,

Whereas, the said candidates for public office have until this date neither accepted, approved, rejected or repudiated the support, endorsements, and cooperations of the Communists and its party, now therefore be it,

Resolved: That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania address a communication to the said Governor George H. Earle, III, and Charles Alvin Jones requesting them as candidates for public office to state promptly and publicly whether either of them individually or jointly accept, reject or repudiate the endorsement or the offer of support and aid of the Communists and their party to further their candidacy for the offices of United States Senator and Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania respectively and be it further,

Resolved: That the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives be directed to forward a certified copy of this resolution immediately upon its passage to the said Governor George H. Earle, III, and Charles Alvin Jones requesting that they reply immediately to the House of Representatives and by public statement to the inquiry herein.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTIONS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938.

Whereas, Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven, members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, while in the performance of their duties, were killed at Gettysburg; and

Whereas, These two men in carrying out their daily duties to promote the safety of motorists and pedestrians upon the highways, were called upon to make the supreme sacrifice of giving their lives to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as did those men who lie nearby, the shadows of whose tombstones mark the Valley of Death for these two members of the Pennsylvania Motor Police. In one case the men fought for the freedom from oppression; in the other case the men were fighting for the termination of death and injuries upon the highways. Honor may well be paid to them; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby marks the memory of their honorable death; and pays to them the highest tribute within the range of man, it is that unexpressible emotion of deepest pride and respect for those who have died honorable deaths; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly hereby expresses its sincere sympathy to the members of the deceased families of Joseph R. Williams and Charles Craven; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution shall be transmitted to the families of the deceased by the Chief Clerk of this House.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 11, 1938.

Whereas, The Governor's Highway Safety Council has made great strides in curbing accidents upon the Highways and

Whereas It is believed that these accidents could be further substantially reduced by the adoption and enforcement of regulations under which would divert heavy truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and holidays because on such days certain highways are overcrowded with passenger cars resulting in many accidents through tie-ups delays and attempts to pass and other traffic hazards

Whereas From time to time various bills have been introduced in the General Assembly to promote safety upon the highways through the regulation and control of truck traffic and up until the present time no effective action has been taken to relieve this continuing dangerous situation which has resulted in so many needless deaths and injuries therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Pennsylvania Motor Police are hereby authorized and directed to conduct an investigation and survey concerning the controlling of heavy truck traffic on Sundays and holidays on certain highways to determine the number of such accidents occurring on Sundays and Holidays the number of persons killed and injured the reasons therefore the advisability of diverting such truck traffic upon certain highways on Sundays and Holidays and to report to the next Regular Session of the General Assembly their findings and recommendations.

AMENDED SENATE BILL CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representativs to Senate Bill numbered and entitled as follows, viz:

SENATE BILL No. 20.

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class.

BILLS SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 20.

An Act abating certain tax penalties interest and costs on city and school taxes in cities of the first class and school districts of the first class

SENATE BILL No. 15.

An Act abating certain tax penalties and interest and costs on county city (except city of the first class) borough town township school district (except school district of the first class) and poor district taxes prohibiting the sale of real property for the nonpayment of any such taxes for a certain period and preserving certain tax liens and providing for the extension thereof

Whereupon, the Speaker, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication which was read by the Clerk as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE
WASHINGTON

October 17, 1938.

My Dear Mr. Callahan:

The President has asked me to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of a resolution adopted by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on September 26, 1938, expressing approval of his efforts in the promotion of peace.

The action taken by the House of Representatives is very much appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

For the Secretary of State:
G. MESSERSMITH
Assistant Secretary.

Mr. Thomas J. Callahan, Chief Clerk,
House of Representatives,
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. HESS, from the Committee on Municipal Corporations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 86, (Senate Bill No. 30), entitled:

An Act authorizing the compromise of delinquent taxes on real property and the penalties interest and costs due thereon before a tax sale of such real property and providing the procedure in such case.

BILL ON FIRST READING

Mr. HESS asked and obtained unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 86, (Senate Bill No. 30), read for the first time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 86, (Senate Bill No. 30), entitled:

An Act authorizing the compromise of delinquent taxes on real property and the penalties interest and costs due thereon before a tax sale of such real property and providing the procedure in such case.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the question involved is simply this: some little time ago, and I do not wish to take the time of the House too long, Dr. Shea of Philadelphia, a good friend of mine, asked me some questions that were difficult for me to understand. Now, that some of the members have made clear to me what he asked, I would like to answer one of the questions which I think reflects on my personal character. I believe he asked the question whether I had deserted Mr. Pinchot or if Mr. Pinchot had deserted me—

The SPEAKER. Is Doctor Shea present?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I am very glad that the gentleman has come back because we are good friends and I would like to clear up this point.

Mr. Speaker, I do not feel that there is any necessity for a charge of desertion among the members of the House, for example, if people disagree as to the methods to be pursued on a given question or in pursuit of a common purpose nor do I feel that the Doctor, if he were in the full possession of the facts in this case, would feel the necessity for asking such a question. I am sure that he and the other members on the Democratic side would have the utmost confidence that if I were among their friends and supporters they would have no need to fear that there would be any desertion on the eve of election day. I feel that some of the Democratic members, the members of the Democratic party, are under a misapprehension as to the cause of the statement of my friend, Mr. Pinchot, and I am very glad indeed to hear the very laudatory remarks of Dr. Shea with regard to Governor Pinchot and his past record. I am heartily in accord with that.

I wish to say this: I called Governor Pinchot on the telephone last night and had quite an extended conversation with him in regard to remarks made in his statement, which is being construed by the Democratic leaders and by a good many of his old friends, as a left-handed endorsement of the Democratic ticket. He stated most emphatically that any such construction was unwarranted and incorrect, and that his statement included, among other things, the definite statement that he would abide by the Republican primary. Furthermore, he was going to support the Republican ticket in his own county, and, dealing specifically with the question of any personal desertion, the Governor assured me that if he were in my county he would give me every possible support this Fall.

I want to say before we part on this recess, I believe that all true liberals reserve to themselves the right to criticize the methods, both of the leadership and the candidate of any party, without feeling that there is any necessity for any tirade or invective against them, and I do not believe that any of us think that all of our associates are necessarily one hundred per cent perfect. I believe that every man who considers his opinion worthy of his own respect reserves to himself the right to change his course of action if he is subjected to any unnecessary torment, abuse and insult. I do not think there is anything wrong about that. I reserve that right to myself and I believe that most of you do. I am sure that Doctor Shea will be clear on the point when I say that Governor Pinchot has not, in any sense of the word, deserted me, and as far as I am concerned, he is not an issue in the campaign. It should be clear that Governor Pinchot has assured me personally that he intends to abide by the result of the Republican primary, and that any construction of his statement to be that he has endorsed the Democratic ticket is not warranted by the statement and is not true in fact. I wanted to clear that point up before we adjourned.

STATEMENT BY Mr. SHEA

Mr. SHEA asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, just a statement to the House, if you will permit me. Not only do I have the utmost regard for Mr. Pinchot, but I have the utmost regard for the Kane family, whom I have known for many years. I taught in the Jefferson Medical College across the street from where his cousin, Francis Fisher Kane lived. I knew his family, and I knew them day in and day out for the last thirty-two years. All I can say is that my feeling toward you is one hundred per-cent, and is one of the utmost respect, and I still think that Mr. Kane is one of the greatest Liberals we have in the State of Pennsylvania.

INTERROGATION

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Shea.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SHEA. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the Doctor from Philadelphia whether Mr. Pinchot was one of the greatest liberals in Pennsylvania when he said "I can't stand Guffey."

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker, who does the gentleman mean by Guffey?

Mr. TURNER. I do not wonder that the gentleman does not know.

Mr. SHEA. Mr. Speaker, I think that Mr. Pinchot probably has gotten better acquainted with Mr. Guffey.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The Special Investigating Committee of the House will resume their hearing at eight o'clock this evening in the Hall of the House.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. SARRAF. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, November 14, 1938, at 9:00 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 4:54 p. m.) the House adjourned until Monday, November 14, 1938, at 9:00 p. m.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1938. No. 28.

SENATE

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Harvey Huffman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. As we reassemble tonight, approaching the final hours of this fellowship of service, bless every one of these Senators and those who labor here in earnest and conscientious endeavor.

We thank Thee, that although by reason of diverse perspective and divergent paths, there may be variance of alignment, yet there has been manifested that fine spirit of personal good will, of friendship and mutual respect. Bestow Thy blessing upon him who tonight enters upon his duties as a member of this Body, taking the place of an honored and worthy sire. May he ever be inspired by the high ideals of him whose name he bears.

So near to time and place, and looking upon our transactions here through the defective lens of human imperfection, for right appraisement we must look to the future and to Thee. But we know that "Truth, crushed to earth, shall rise again,

Thine own eternal years are hers;
But Error, wounded, writhes in pain,
And dies amidst his worshippers."

We would here and now dedicate ourselves to our beloved Commonwealth, that in these remaining days, we may devote our best in mind and heart and life to those whom we represent. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

COMMUNICATION FROM SECRETARY OF STATE OF UNITED STATES WITH REFERENCE TO THE PALESTINE PROBLEM

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE
WASHINGTON

October 24, 1938.

My dear Mr. Morlock:

The Department has received your letter of October 20, 1938, enclosing, by direction of the Senate of Pennsylvania, a copy of a resolution adopted by the Senate of that State on October 17th and concurred in by the House of Representatives on October 18th, with reference to the Palestine problem.

You may be assured that this Government is giving constant attention to all phases of the situation to which the resolution refers. As of interest to you in that connection, and as indicating the thought which we have been devoting to developments concerning Palestine, I enclose a copy of a public statement on the subject which it is believed will be found self-explanatory.

Sincerely yours,

For the Secretary of State:
PAUL H. ALLING
Acting Chief
Division of Near Eastern Affairs.

Enclosure:
Public statement.

John C. Morlock, Esquire,
Secretary, Senate of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

October 14, 1938.

Within the past few days this Government has received a large number of telegrams and letters from individuals and organizations in the United States concerning the Palestine situation, with particular reference to the reported possibility of the application by the British Government of a new policy with respect to that country. It is obviously impracticable to reply separately to the many communications which have been received and this statement is therefore being issued in lieu of individual answers.

As is well known the American people have for many years taken a close interest in the development of the Jewish National Home in Palestine. Beginning with President Wilson each succeeding President has on one or more occasions expressed his own interest in the idea of a National Home and his pleasure at the progress made in its establishment. American sympathy in a Jewish Homeland in Palestine was further manifested by the Joint Resolution of Congress signed by the President on September 21, 1922, recording the favorable attitude of the United States toward such a Homeland. In submitting the resolution the House Committee on Foreign Affairs reported that it:

> "expresses our moral interest in and our favorable attitude toward the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish people. It commits us to no foreign obligation or entanglement."

It is in the light of this interest that the American Government and people have watched with the keenest sympathy the development in Palestine of the National Home, a project in which American intellect and capital have played a leading role.

On several occasions this Government has brought its views regarding the rights of the United States and its nationals in Palestine to the attention of the British Government. As recently as 1937 a formal exchange of correspondence took place and the following self-explanatory paragraph is quoted from the concluding note dated August 4, 1937, communicated by the American Ambassador in London to the British Foreign Office:

> "In expressing satisfaction and appreciation for the assurances furnished that His Majesty's Government intends to keep the United States Government fully informed of any proposals which may be made to the Council of the League of Nations for the modification of the Palestine Mandate, I am instructed to request that these proposals may be communicated to my Government in ample time to enable it to determine what, if any, observations it may desire to make with a view to the preservation of American rights in Palestine."

It is expected, therefore, that this Government will have an opportunity to submit its views to the British Government with respect to any changes affecting American rights which may be proposed in the Palestine Mandate. These rights, which are defined by the American-British Mandate Convention of Treaty of December 3, 1924, comprise non-discriminatory treatment in matters of commerce, non-impairment of vested American property rights, permission for American nationals to establish and maintain educational, philanthropic and religious institutions in Palestine, safeguards with respect to the judiciary, and, in general, equality of treatment with all other foreign nationals.

The rights of the United States in connection with any changes in the terms of the Palestine Mandate are set forth in Article 7 of the above-mentioned Treaty, which reads as follows:

> "Nothing contained in the present Convention shall be affected by any modification which may be made in the terms of the mandate, as recited above, unless such modification shall have been assented to by the United States."

This article is substantially identical with corresponding articles included in eight other existing agreements concluded by this Government with respect to the mandated territories of Syria and the Lebanon, former German islands in the North Pacific, French Cameroons, French Togoland, Belgian East Africa, British Cameroons, British East Africa and British Togoland. None of these articles empower the Government of the United States to prevent the modification of the terms of any of the mandates. Under their provisions, however, this Government can decline to recognize the validity of the application to American interests of any modification of the mandates unless such modification has been assented to by the Government of the United States.

It is the Department's understanding that the Palestine Partition Commission, which was appointed some months ago to make recommendations with respect to partition, will make its report to the British Government at the end of this month and that no decision will be reached by that Government on the subject until after an opportunity has been had to give consideration to that report. In reply to a question in the House of Commons on October 6, 1938, Mr. MacDonald, British Colonial Secretary, is reported to have stated that the House of Commons would not be in the position of having to confirm or reject a decision already taken and put into operation but would have an opportunity of considering the policy before it was adopted and put into operation by the British Government.

The Department will, of course continue to follow the situation closely and will take all necessary measures for the protection of American rights and interests in Palestine.

BILL INTRODUCED

Mr. WOODWARD read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 66, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article five of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by adding thereto section twenty-eight providing for one general court of common pleas.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Centre, Mr. Thompson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. THOMPSON. Mr. President, a few weeks ago there was appointed from the two Houses of the Legislature a Joint Legislative Commission to investigate certain forms of commercialized gambling in Pennsylvania, principally the gambling activities surrounding race track gambling and the transmittal of information from the race tracks to the different bookmakers in this State. In this investigation which has been pursued by this committee for a number of weeks we found that a very extensive racket existed in Pennsylvania, that the number of bookies throughout the State operating in Pennsylvania ran up literally into several hundred and that practically every community was affected in this State by this organized form of race track gambling.

We have also found that the wire service which transmitted the news of the results of the races and the odds upon the horses and that sort of information is essential to the maintenance of this sort of gambling. As the first and partial report of this committee we desire to offer certain legislation at this time. The committee will report in detail, we hope, probably within a week if this report can be prepared. We do offer at this time, Mr. President, legislation which we believe will correct this evil as it exists in this State today and eliminate this racket which has been going on in Pennsylvania, which is by all odds the largest organized racket that ever existed in this State.

BILLS INTRODUCED

Mr. THOMPSON read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 67, entitled:

An Act making illegal the furnishing of certain telephone and telegraph wires and services by certain public utilities for use in the dissemination of information in furtherance of gambling; making it unlawful for any public utility to furnish private wires except by written contract; conferring and imposing upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty to disapprove all contracts for private wires used for or intended to be used for the transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling; making illegal the furnishing of certain wires by certain public utilities after the disapproval of the contract therefor by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission; making illegal the use of certain wires for purposes other than those specified in the written contract therefor; imposing penalties; making the dissemination of information pertaining to horse racing over certain wires prima facie evidence that the same is in furtherance of gambling; prescribing the burden of proof in proceedings hereunder; and providing for appeal.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 68, entitled:

An Act making illegal the use of devices and methods of transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling; declaring the dissemination of certain information to be in furtherance of gambling; providing for the seizure and forfeiture of devices used in furtherance of gambling; and imposing penalties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SIPE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 69, entitled:

An Act validating certain proceedings and elections of counties, cities, boroughs, townships, school districts and other incorporated districts or municipalities, had and held pursuant to the provisions of an act approved the twentieth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities, to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof" and the amendments and supplements thereof; and validating bonds issued or authorized to be issued in pursuance of such proceedings and elections.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I crave the indulgence of the Senate for a minute or two, to tell what this bill is about. Back in Butler County, one of the counties in my district, is the town of Chicora whose school board decided that it would avail itself of the benevolence of the Thompson Act and get some Federal money to put up a new high school building. The amount of money which will come out of the Federal treasury for that project is approximately fifty thousand dollars.

Unfortunately however the lawyer who did the legal work in connection with the bond issue that the school board has to float, had a lapse and failed to advertise the matter the required number of weeks, so the school district is in this situation: the government deadline will expire on the last of the year and that does not give enough time to correct the lapse in the legal setup unless we do it by a validating act here in the Legislature. Therefore I am presenting this bill validating that bond issue. I might say that the bonds are already sold and in the hands of the purchasers. I am appealing for unanimous support of this bill. I do not want to see that fine little town of Chicora lose this high school building. My uncle was principal of those schools at one time and I myself attended them for a time.

I have a special plea to make to the Republican members of the Senate to support this bill. The legal luminary who did the legal work, who had the legal lapse in the legal work, is a fine warm personal friend and political enemy—the Republican County Chairman of Butler County. Of course, let me repeat that I am for the bill one hundred percent. What is a Democratic Senator for, except to correct Republican mistakes, anyway?

Mr. LAW read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 70, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to section eight, article two of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes.

RESOLUTION EXPRESSING HORROR AT TREATMENT OF JEWISH CITIZENS IN GERMANY

Mr. WOODWARD offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate, November 14, 1938.

Whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was founded by William Penn for tolerance and religious liberty and settled by Germans from the Rhine Valley who have always supported these principles of toleration and religious liberty, and

Whereas the Nazi Government of modern Germany has become not only intolerant and oppressive in theory but in practice is guilty of uncivilized and cruel persecution of its Jewish Citizens, be it therefore

Resolved that representing the outraged opinion of ten millions of law abiding people in this Commonwealth we condemn before the world tribunal this action of the Nazi Government of Germany and that we express our horror of this latest exhibition of barbarism on the part of the Nazi Government and that we express our heartfelt sympathy with its victims.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE BILL FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented for concurrence bill of the House, as follows:

House Bill No. 50 (Senate Bill No. 71), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for preliminary expenses in proposed acquisitions of real property from housing authorities.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, with reference to the bill that he just presented.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I recognize the urgency of the subject matter of the bill which the Senator presented. I have, however, some doubts as to its legality or constitutionality at this time by reason of the fact that it may or may not be within the Governor's call, and I would like to ask the Senator from Armstrong whether he submitted the matter to the constitutional lawyer of this Senate as the last act of the constitutional lawyer of this Senate, the Senator from Mercer, Mr. Law.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I submitted it to the Attorney General. Probably that is almost as good.

RECESS

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess for ten minutes.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SECRETARY

The Committee on Judiciary General will meet in Room 302.

Immediately following that meeting the Committee on Appropriations will meet in Room 265.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. SHAPIRO, from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 69, entitled:

An Act validating certain proceedings and elections of counties, cities, boroughs, townships, school districts and other incorporated districts or municipalities, had and held pursuant to the provisions of an act approved the twentieth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four, entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalitics, to provide for the redemption of the same, and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof," and the amendments and supplements thereof; and validating bonds issued or authorized to be issued in pursuance of such proceedings and elections.

Mr. KILGALLEN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make a report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. KILGALLEN, from the Committee on Judiciary General reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 68, entitled:

An Act making illegal the use of devices and methods of transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling; declaring the dissemination of certain information to be in furtherance of gambling; providing for the seizure and forfeiture of devices used in furtherance of gambling; and imposing penalties.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 65 (House Bill No. 82), entitled:

An Act to amend sections two hundred two four hundred one and two thousand three hundred eighteen of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws one hundred seventy-seven) entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments boards commissions and officers thereof including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools or Teachers Colleges abolishing creating reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments boards and commissions defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative departments boards commissions and officers fixing the salaries of the Governor Lieutenant Governor and certain other executive and administrative officers providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments boards and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments boards and commissions shall be determined" as amended by creating as departmental administrative boards in the Department of Welfare and conferring powers and duties upon boards of trustees for the respective institutions acquired by the Commonwealth from counties cities and institution districts for use as State mental hospitals.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Wlil the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in this bill there are some typographical errors to be corrected, so I ask unanimous consent to offer the following amendments to correct merely typographical errors.

Amend section 3, page 15, line 12 by inserting after the word "institution" and before the word "district" the following: "acquired by the Commonwealth from any county city or institution"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That said bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, November 14, 1938.

The House met at 9:00 p. m.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we are assembled together this evening primarily as servants of our beloved Commonwealth. We represent all sections of the state and come at the mandate of all citizens. There is along with things pertaining to the need of our commonwealth a matter of grave significance weighing heavily upon our minds. Our minds are in tune with the prevailing minds of the whole civilized world, in an appeal unto Thee to stay the hand of persecution. We do not pray against Thy will for a persecuted people; a people who are not up in armed forces to demand justice; a people who are desirous only of the right to pursue a peaceful life and enjoy happiness as is granted to others: a people who are thrifty, and seldom seen begging bread, where opportunity is offered; a people who take their place in responsible position and acquit themselves with distinction; a people who have made great contributions to science, to literature, to art, to political economy, to philanthropy and other avenues of service. In parts of this world their persecution is barbaric, bestial and unthinkable in this advanced age of civilization. We are not thinking of armed intervention. We now are thinking of the one place of battle, Thy throne, and the only consistent weapon, that of prayer. This week throughout the world, a united Christendom, is accenting the efficacy of prayer in behalf of the downtrodden Jew. And in behalf of this Assembly tonight, I lift my humble voice unto Thee to stay the cruel hand that is meting out this vicious destruction of human happiness.

In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Tuesday, October 18, 1938.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Tuesday, October 18, 1938, when, on motion of Mr. HABERLEN the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 86, (Senate Bill No. 30), entitled:

An Act authorizing the compromise of delinquent taxes on real property and the penalties interest and costs due thereon before a tax sale of such real property and providing the procedure in such case

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 83, Senate Bill No. 39, Printer's No. 54, was passed over at the request of Mr. OMINSKY.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 50, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for preliminary expenses in proposed acquisitions of real property from housing authorities

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, House Bill No. 50 permits going ahead and providing for first and necessary preliminary action in acquiring additional properties for the extension of Capitol Park and the erection of new and much needed State office buildings.

Quite naturally the people of my district in the city of Harrisburg are very much interested in the enactment of this bill. However, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, I assure you that this is not a selfish interest. In order to prove my statement, I will direct your attention to, the August, 1938, issue of the monthly bulletin published by the Department of Internal Affairs of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, on pages 18 and 19, we find under title of "Table Tells," interesting story about parks. This report shows that the city of Harrisburg has the largest number of parks of any city in the state. In total number of park acreage, we rank fourth. Under population per acre of park, we rank second, having 73 persons per acre of park area.

Under acres used for active recreation, we rank third having 218 acres.

Therefore, may I again state that it is not because of the need of additional parks by the city of Harrisburg but rather it is because of our pride in civic and state improvements that I speak in connection with this bill.

Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, by enacting this legislation, we open the way for much needed improvements to our state property.

We are now paying rent of more than a quarter of a million dollars annually for buildings in Harrisburg used by state departments for offices. One of these buildings now being used by the Department of Labor and Industry is an old market house built more than a half century ago.

You, gentlemen, have had occasion to visit state departments housed in some of these old buildings so you know of the deplorable conditions of our office housing, and I am directing your attention to the fact that for these unfit buildings we are paying enormous rents.

By extending the Capitol grounds another two blocks, we not only improve and beautify these surroundings of the Capitol group of buildings, but this extension is necessary for space for new office buildings.

May I say personally and as a representative from the First District of Dauphin county, comprising the city of Harrisburg, I am highly in favor of erecting sufficient office buildings, regardless of the number required, in order that the taxpayers of this Commonwealth may cease paying hundreds of thousands of dollars for the use of old buildings.

May I say to the Members of the House that regardless of which part of the State you may represent, this is your problem as much as Dauphin County's problem.

Your constituents have a certain pride in providing efficient and comfortable office buildings in order that our State employees may render the people of the Commonwealth their services in a comfortable and efficient manner.

Therefore ladies and gentlemen of the House, I hope and believe that you will support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeabyl to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. SPENGLER and DICKINSON asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

An Act to amend sections one hundred eight five hundred six five hundred seven eight hundred thirteen eight hundred fourteen and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred nine) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts validating the merger of certain school districts redefining indebtedness of school districts empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Sub-section (b) of section one hundred and eight of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws three hundred nine) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by section one of the act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws six hundred five) is hereby further amended to read as follows

[(b) From and after the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight all school districts now existing in which no teacher has been employed prior to the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven for the school year one thousand nine hundred thirty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (1936-1937) shall be merged with other districts and the lands comprising the same together with any property or equipment owned by any such district shall become a part of and belong to such district or districts as the court of common pleas of the county in which the property is located shall determine It shall be the duty of the county board of school directors to prepare and present petitions for such mergers in accordance with standards and regulations set up by the State Council of Education In like manner all school districts employing prior to the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven for the school year one thousand nine hundred thirty-six one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (1936-1937) ten teachers or less shall be merged with other districts on and after the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and forty-one if the electors of any such school district shall first have consented to such merger The question of such merger shall be submitted to the electors at the municipal election in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine and at least ninety (90) days previous to such election the court of common pleas shall have determined the district with which such district shall merge upon petition of the county board of school directors as hereinbefore provided for districts now having no teachers The question to be submitted to the electors shall be framed by the court and be by it certified to the county commissioners for submission to the electors of the district so proposed to be merged Such submission shall be in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to such question In any such instance in which a school district is merged with another district or districts by the terms of this act each school director of the district which is discontinued shall automatically become a member of the board of school directors within the district to which the territory in which he resides has been annexed and he shall continue to serve as a member of the said board until his term of office has expired]

(b) On or before the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine [each] and thereafter at such times as the county board of school directors shall deem advisable said board with the advice of the county superintendent and pursuant to standards and regulations promulgated by the State Council of Education shall prepare and submit to said council a plan for the merger of school districts or parts of school districts and for the reorganization of attendance areas and administrative units

The said standards and regulations prescribed by the State Council of Education pertaining to attendance areas and administrative units shall take into consideration the following factors Topography density of population community interests facility of transportation financial ability school organization and existing school plants

Upon the approval of said plans for the merger of school districts or parts of school districts by the State Council of Education, it shall be the duty of the county board of school directors to prepare and present petitions for such mergers to the court of common pleas of the county wherein such district or parts of districts lie The petition for any such merger shall request the submission of the question of such merger to the electors of all the districts or parts of districts proposed to be merged at the next general or municipal election to be held at least ninety (90) days after the presentation of said petition. The question to be submitted to the electors shall be framed by the court and be by it certified to the county commissioners for submission to the electors of the districts or parts of districts so proposed to be merged. Such submission shall be in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to the submission of similar questions. If a majority of the electors of each school district or part of a school district, voting at said election shall be in favor of said merger as shown by the returns of said election, a certificate of the returns shall be filed with the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the prothonotary of the court of common pleas, the county board of school directors and the board of school directors of each of said school districts.

No such merger shall be effective in any district or part of a district voting thereon unless the majority of the electors of the [district or parts of districts] district or part of the district proposed to be merged shall have first assented to said merger in accordance with the question submitted Provided That whenever such assent shall have been given by the electors said merger shall become effective on the first Monday in July next succeeding said election

In any instance in which a school district is merged with another district or districts by the terms of this act, the directors then in office in each of said districts shall continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms, and shall jointly constitute the board of school directors of the resulting merged school district. At the first municipal election after such merged school district is created and at each subsequent municipal election, there shall be elected in such resulting merged school district the same number of school directors, and for like terms, as is provided by law for school districts of the class to which such resulting merged school district belongs, so that, upon the expiration of the terms of the directors of the former districts which were merged, the board of school directors of such resulting merged district shall be composed of the same number as in other districts in said class.

Whenever any school district or part of any school district shall be merged with any other district or districts the lands comprising the same together with any property or equipment owned by any such district shall become a part of and belong to such other district or districts, and the debts and liabilities of any such district shall become the debts and liabilities of such other district or districts in the same manner as is provided by law in the creation of union school districts.

Section 2 Sub-section (c) of section one hundred eight of said act is hereby amended to read as follows

[(c) The provisions of clause (b) of this section and of clause (c) of section eight hundred fourteen shall not apply in the case of any school district affected if the district has since the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven and not later than the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven obtained from the State Council of Education the approval of a plan of consolidation of two or more districts as a union district and has actually accomplished and completed such a consolidation before the effective dates set forth in clause (b) of this section]

(c) The merger of any school district prior to the effective date of this act is hereby ratified and confirmed and is a valid merger under the terms of this act Provided That the provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any such merger which has been made the subject of litigation in any court of the Commonwealth instituted prior to the passage of this act and still pending and undetermined

Section 3 The third paragraph of section five hundred and six of the said act as last amended by section one of the act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 2860) is hereby further amended to read as follows

In school districts of the second third and fourth class the indebtedness of any such school district including the bonded indebtedness [together with the temporary indebtedness] shall never exceed seven (7) per centum of the last assessed valuation of the taxable property for school purposes therein

RESOLUTION No. 23.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 23, Printer's No. 73.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 17, 1938.

Whereas, it has become increasingly evident in the world today that minorities are suffering greatly as a result of the change from Democracies to Dictatorships, and

Whereas, the Jews as a minority in the several countries of the world and particularly in Europe are finding it more difficult to remain in the countries of their birth and of their citizenship because of the persecution against them as a minority group, and

Whereas, all the countries of the world have set up immigrant limitations and restrictions on the number of immigrants admitted thereby limiting the number of the Jews who may enter from persecuted countries, and

Whereas, the only country which may be the chief haven of refuge for the oppressed race is Palestine where hundreds of thousands of Jews have settled in the past twenty years and have converted it from a land of swamps and lack of habitation to a land of opportunity and hope, and

Whereas, under the Balfour Declaration and the passing of the Lodge-Fish Resolution in Congress in 1922 the British Government and the American Government have expressed their desire to aid in developing Palestine as a Homeland for the Jews, and

Whereas, as a result of this expression on the part of both Governments a mandate has been set up for the British Government to carry out the purposes of the Balfour Declaration, and

Whereas, the recent activities in Palestine have created some doubt as to whether the British Government will forsake its obligation and mandate, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) that the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memoralize the President of the United States and the Secretary of State to make known that it use its good offices with the British Government to adhere to its commitments and the obligations in accordance with the Balfour Declaration and its mandate of Palestine, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to His Excellency, the President of the United States and the Secretary of State.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

RESOLUTION DROPPED FROM CALENDAR

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that a similar joint resolution from the Senate was adopted by this House and was sent to the President of the United States and received action by the United States Government, I move that this resolution be dropped from the calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. MOOMAW, asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Judiciary Special to meet during the session of the House.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The Committee on Rules will meet immediately in the Speaker's office after adjournment of this session tonight.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MOUL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 1:00 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 10.07 p. m.) the House adjourned until Tuesday, November 15, 1938, at 1:00 p. m.

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1938. No. 29.

SENATE

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1938.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Harvey Huffman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL. D., offered the following prayer:

We would humble ourselves before Thee O God and exalt Thy Holy name in adoration! As children crying in the night, as children crying for the light, we would know Thy will that we may keep Thy commandments; we would seek Thy paths, that we may walk in Thy ways.

The fleeting days admonish that time presses. May we see in every hour a golden chain, studded with sixty precious gems. We would prize monuments above tombstones for the tomorrows as they come and go. Grant unto us a wisdom which discerns its own limitations, a wisdom which seeks the wisdom from above.

Held us to answer the challenge of Thy Grace in honest service of our day and generation; and to merit the benedictions of generations yet unborn. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PYTKO, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

COMMUNICATION

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate communication from Arnold Shukotoff, Chairman of American Federation of Teachers, urging the General Assembly to defeat any attempt to weaken the Teachers Tenure Act and expressing gratitude for its passage.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced presented in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, nominations for appointment as Notaries Public which were laid on the table.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

He also presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations.

GEORGE H. EARLE.

The PRESIDENT. We will now resume the consideration of the Calendar.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 67, entitled:

An Act making illegal the furnishing of certain telephone and telegraph wires and services by certain public utilities for use in the dissemination of information in furtherance of gambling making it unlawful for any public utility to furnish private wires except by written contract conferring and imposing upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty to disapprove all contracts for private wires used for or intended to be used for the transmission of information or devices in furtherance of gambling making illegal the furnishing of certain wires by certain public utilities after the disapproval of the contract therefor by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission making illegal the use of certain wires for purposes other than those specified in the written contract therefor imposing penalties making the dissemination of information pertaining to horse racing over certain wires prima facie evidence that the same is in furtherance of gambling prescribing the burden of proof in proceedings hereunder and providing for appeal.

The Whereas clause was read as follows:

Whereas It has been shown that the leasing of telephone and telegraph wires from public utilities for the purpose of disseminating information pertaining to horse racing has been used generally throughout this Commonwealth in the furtherance of gambling and plays an essential part in the operation of illegal bookmaking establishments and pool rooms and has resulted directly and indirectly in the commission of other serious crimes and that the elimination of the dissemination of such information will be of material assistance to law enforcement authorities enforcing existing laws against gambling and the maintenance of gambling establishments

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the whereas clause?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move to amend, Whereas Clause, by striking out the lines on page 2, beginning with the word "Whereas" and ending with the word "establishments"

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, with respect to these amendments they are to make a laughing stock of this bill as submitted here as a preliminary action of the committee appointed to investigate the use of telephones and telephone wires in gambling transactions. The amendments suggest that we take in every form of sports and designate it as a gambling activity. I can understand the attitude of the gentleman who offered the amendments, but I think the situation is a little more serious than those amendments would make the situation appear to be.

This bill was submitted to certain people and an opportunity given them to investigate what effect it would have on those people who are mostly interested, namely the Bell Telephone Company, whose wires were being used, and as a result of a conference with counsel for the Commission and the Public Utility representatives and representatives of this telephone company, amendments have been suggested and prepared which will be offered to these bills at the proper time, and I ask my colleagues in the Senate to vote these amendments down.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I resent very strenuously the implication that these amendments make a joke out of this bill and I want to make it clear, gentlemen, that these amendments are offered in good faith. I am in hearty accord with the idea of stopping gambling in this State and the use of facilities for gambling purposes, but it is a matter of common knowledge that there is gambling on other things besides horse races, and it seems to me if we are going to stop gambling or the dissemination of information with reference to gambling that we ought to stop it with reference to other things besides horse racing.

Now, it is known that there is gambling on the Treasury balances and on numbers games and on all sorts of football, base ball, athletic contests, and wrestling matches, and this amendment of mine, if the Senate please, only provides—Section 1 gives definitions—all through in fact the word "gambling" is used without defining it. Section 1 has definitions of what the Commission means, dissemination means, person means, private wires, public utility, but it has no definition of the word "gambling" and the companion bill Number 68 provides that it is designed to prevent the giving out of information with reference to it which will be used in the making or laying of any wagers, or bets on horse-racing.

I have similar amendments to offer to Bill Number 68: the effect of them will be to prevent the making of wagers or bets not only on horse-racing but on elections, prize fights, wrestling, football, base ball, ice hockey, cards, roulette, pin ball, shuffle board, pool, billiards, Treasury balances, numbers games, sweepstake races and horse races. Now if these bills are offered in good faith, if this Senate wishes to stop this use of wires, of which I am in hearty accord with, I think we ought not to say gambling is all right on everything but horse races. Let's stop it on all these other rackets that are going on in this State, and I am in hearty accord with it, and the district I represent is opposed to gambling. I am going to vote for these bills and I want a bill that will stop it and not simply stop one phase of gambling.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I still am quite sure that the gentleman from Tioga doesn't seriously contend that he resents my statements that this amendment is intended to make the bill a laughing stock. Gambling is a crime which has been defined by many decisions of the Supreme Court. The gentleman very well knows that the activities of the Commission and the vice intended to be corrected was not betting on wrestling matches or betting on boxing or football games, because telephone wires are not used in connection with those bets. The vice it was aimed at is the use of telephone wires for the purpose of selling the information relating to horse-racing and the conseqeuent vices that go with that kind of business, namely making it possible for bets to be placed after races have been run. That is one of the things that was brought out in the activities of the Commission, by the evidence before the Commission. But the main thing aimed at was to stop the use of wires in a business which has grown up to be a large industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and which business has been strictly confined until the recent elections to trasmitting information as to horse races.

Of course in the last election its activities were used and broadened so that they could advise the people how to vote on election day too, but that will only happen probably once in every four years. But the business, generally speaking, prior to the last election, was used merely for the purpose of disseminating information relating to horse-racing. We are concerned with that only. I know of no telephone wires except between friends who make wagers, that are used to disseminate information relating to football games. I know of no telephone wires that are used to sell information relating to hockey games. I haven't heard that the Commission found any such information; as far as I know the Commission hasn't heard any evidence concerning that. If the gentleman is interested in stopping gambling in the form that we are dealing with it now, on horse-racing, he can vote for this bill and be certain he will be aiming at a particular, known industry. If he has information that there is gambling of other kinds or that the wires are being used for any other kind of gambling, I will join him in voting for another bill which I hope we will introduce to correct that. But for the present I think "Sufficient is the day to the evil thereof."

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I am very glad to be interrogated.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga tell us whether he has reason to believe that it is the intention of these parties, or if there is a possibility that they will transfer their activities to these other fields that he refers to if the horse-racing end is made illegal?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I have no such information but I think there is some danger of that, and I want to call the Senate's attention that I have included in my amendments horse-racing, which will prevent horse-racing and also prevent the transfer of these activities to any other form of dissemination of information for gambling purposes.

Mr. President, it is difficult for me to understand the objections to these amendments on the ground that they include other forms of gambling. I agree we should stop horse-race gambling but I say let's not stop there. I am for stopping horse-race gambling but I cannot understand the objections to making it cover the other forms of gambling also.

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, I have the highest regard for the intelligence and the intellectual development of the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett. It is for that reason, too, that I am of the opinion that those amendments that he has just introduced were drawn in one of his lighter moments and in a spirit of joviality rather than in a vein of seriousness.

I have spent several weeks as a member of the Gambling Commission and we had no evidence at all that there is a syndicated racket going on in connection with other fields of endeavor than horse-racing. If Senator Owlett had any of that evidence he could have produced it before the Commission and we would have been glad to consider it. We are endeavoring to wipe out a syndicated racket that consorted with crime and the underworld, and the notes of testimony taken before our Commission will indicate that, sir, and if the Senator at any future time has reason to believe or notices that there is any connection between a wire service to which we have reference in our bills, between those who gamble and those who accept bets on wrestling, hockey and other sports, these bills can be amended. But to me it now appears evident that this is nothing more than an attempt to sabotage the two bills.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Pytko.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Pytko, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, Is this bill designed to prevent the dissemination of information with reference to horse races only?

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, It is because it is only in that connection that we encountered a syndicated racket.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator if he can explain how this amendment if adopted will in any way not stop the very evil that he is aiming at, namely the dissemination of information against horse-racing; how will the bill not stop it if this amendment is added?

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, making the Bills under discussion all embracing will make them nothing more than a joke, and the Senator knows it.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it will prevent the gambling on horse-racing and it will prevent, if there is any other, the gambling on other sports. We all know there is sweepstakes information going all over this State. Everybody knows that.

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, I don't.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, perhaps the Senator's Commission was only interested into looking into one thing. I think it is a matter of common knowledge that there is betting on Treasury balances, and that there is sweepstake information going all over this State. There is betting on football games—they lease wires to broadcast games and they lease them from the telephone companies, and there is betting on those games and everybody knows it. I ask you again, if you are interested in preventing the dissemination of information that is used for gambling purposes, and we include the evil that you say you have discovered, why can you object to including other information which may lead to the same gambling? I don't see the logic of it.

Mr. PYTKO. Mr. President, that question has already been answered. It is only in connection with horse-racing that we found the news dissemination service operating as it does, under a syndicated racket.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. OWLETT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—13

Buckman,	Homsher,	Law,	Rupp,
Chapman,	Howell,	Owlett,	Sones,
Gelder,	Jaspan,	Rodgers,	Wolfenden,
Heyburn,

NAYS—15

Barthold,	Kilgallen,	Rankin,	Sipe,
Eroe,	Kunkel,	Rice,	Stiefel,
Frey,	Mundy,	Ruth,	Huffman,
Henney,	Pytko,	Shapiro,	Pres. Pro. Tem.

Haluska, present and not voting.

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the whereas clause?

It was agreed to.

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Definitions The following words terms and phrases shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section unless the context clearly indicates otherwise

(a) "Commission" means the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission of this Commonwealth

(b) "Dissemination" means the act of transmitting distributing advising spreading communicating conveying or making known

(f) The singular shall include the plural

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 1, page 3, line 21 by striking out after the word "telegraph" and before the word "the" the word "for" and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "to"; amend Section 1, page 3, line 21 by inserting after the word "public" and before the word "compensation" the following: "for."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Barthold,	Heyburn,	Owlett,	Sipe,

Henney,	Mundy,

NAYS—3

Kunkel,	Pytko,	Shapiro,

Haluska, present and not voting.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for any public utility to furnish to any person any private wire for use or intended for use in the dissemination of information in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 2, page 3, line 24 by inserting at the beginning of said line the word "knowingly."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The third section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 3 It shall be unlawful for any public utility to furnish to any person any private wire except in pursuance of a written contract signed by the public utility by the person contracting for said private wire and responsible under the terms of the contract for the payment for the service and by the person in possession or control of any place or location designated in the contract for installation or connection of said private wire which contract shall include a detailed written statement of the purpose for which such private wire is intended to be used

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 3, page 4, line 9 by adding at the end of the line the following: "provided that this section shall not apply to the furnishing of any private wire in case of public emergency or where the furnishing of the said private wire is for a temporary purpose not to exceed 48 hours."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 4 It shall be unlawful for any public utility to furnish to any person any private wire without first furnishing to the Commission a duplicate original of the written contract referred to in Section 3 The Commission shall examine the same forthwith and conduct such investigation as it may deem necessary and if upon examination of the contract or after investigation or otherwise at any time the Commission shall find that the said private wire is intended for or has been used for or is being used for the transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling the Commission shall disapprove the said contract and give notice of such disapproval to the contracting parties Thereafter it shall be unlawful for any public utility to furnish the said private wire provided for in the said contract

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 4, page 4, line 24 by adding at the end of the line the following: "provided that this section shall not apply to the furnishing of any private wire in case of public emergency or where the furnishing of the said private wire is for a temporary purpose not to exceed 48 hours."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 5 Any public utility or other person party to the contract who shall feel aggrieved at the action of the Commission in disapproving any contract for any private wire shall be entitled to a hearing upon written request as is provided by law in similar cases

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 5, page 4, line 28 by inserting after the word "hearing" and before the word "upon" the following: "before the Commission"; amend Section 5, page 4, line 29 by striking out after the word "request" the following: "as is provided by law in similar cases."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The sixth section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 6 It shall be unlawful for any person who has been furnished a private wire by any public utility in accordance with the provisions of this Act to use such private wire for any purpose other than that specified in the contract provided for in Section 3

The seventh section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 7 To further effectuate the purposes of this act it is hereby provided that the contract first referred to in Section 3 hereof shall constitute prima facie evidence that such private wire will be used in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes where it shall appear in such contract that such private wire will be used for the dissemination of information pertaining to any horse-racing race track race horse betting betting odds or any information relative thereto

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend Section 7, page 5, line 11 by inserting after the word "contract" and before the word "that" the following: "or otherwise"; amend Section 7, page 5, line 12, by inserting after the word "used" and before the word "for" the following: "is intended to be used or has been used."

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 8 In any proceeding before the Commission under this Act and in any hearing or proceeding on appeal the burden of proof shall be on the public utility and/or the person contracting for such private wire to show that the private wire has not been used or is not being used or is not intended for use in the furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes

Section 9 For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Act the Public Utility Commission shall have all the powers granted to it under the laws of this Commonwealth Appeals from orders of the Commission under this Act may be taken in the same manner as now or hereafter provided by law for appeals from other orders of the Public Utility Commission

Section 10 Any person or public utility who or which shall violate any of the provisions of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of not less than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or undergo imprisonment for not less than one (1) year nor more than three (3) years or both at the discretion of the Court

Section 11 The provisions of this Act are severable and if any of its provisions shall be held unconstitutionoal the decision of the Court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this Act It is hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this Act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included herein

Section 12 This Act shall be deemed an exercise of the police power of the Commonwealth for the protection of the public welfare health peace safety and morals of the people of the Commonwealth and all of the provisions of this Act shall be liberally construed for the accomplishment of this purpose

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act making illegal the furnishing of certain telephone and telegraph wires and services by certain public utilities for use in the dissemination of information in furtherance of gambling making it unlawful for any public utility to furnish private wires except by written contract conferring and imposing upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty to disapprove all contracts for private wires used for or intended to be used for the transmission of information or devices in furtherance of gambling making illegal the furnishing of certain wires by certain public utilities after the disapproval of the contract therefor by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission making illegal the use of certain wires for purposes other than those specified in the written contract therefor imposing penalties making the dissemination of information pertaining to horse racing over certain wires prima facie evidence that the same is in furtherance of gambling prescribing the burden of proof in proceedings hereunder and providing for appeal.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 68, entitled:

An Act making illegal the use of devices and methods of transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling declaring the dissemination of certain information to be in furtherance of gambling providing for the seizure and forfeiture of devices used in furtherance of gambling and imposing penalties

The first section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

Section 1 It shall be unlawful for any person, or persons partnership association firm or corporation whatsoever to disseminate transmit distribute furnish advertise spread print publish or otherwise make known within this Commonwealth by means of telephone telegraph radio loud-speaker written or printed matter or by any other device or in any other manner any information in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes or to assist or abet in any manner in any of the acts forbidden by this statute

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 The dissemination transmission distribution furnishing advertising spreading printing publishing or otherwise making known within this Commonwealth by means of telephone telegraph radio loudspeaker written or printed matter or by any other device or in any other manner of any information pertaining to the making or laying of any wagers or bets on horse races any betting odds on any horse race whether such betting odds be indicated by name number symbol code or otherwise any pay-off price or amount paid to bettors as the result of the running of any horse race any prediction suggestion or advice relating to the order or relative position in which any participant or participants in any horse race will finish whether such prediction suggestion or advice be indicated by name number symbol code tip or otherwise any system code formula or other method purporting to aid guide or assist any person in determining the order or relative position which any participant or participants may finish in any horse race any rating or estimated comparative racing ability of any horse whether such rating or estimated comparative racing ability be indicated by name number symbol code tip or otherwise shall be deemed in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I move to amend section 2, page 2, line 7, by inserting after the word "on" the following: "elections, prize fights, wrestling, football, base ball, ice hockey, cards, roulette, pin ball, shuffle board, pool, billiards, treasury balances, numbers games, sweepstake races, and on"

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, for the information of the Senate, this amendment merely changes Section 2 which now reads, "The dissemination transmission distribution furnishing advertising spreading printing publishing information otherwise make known within this Commonwealth by means of telephone telegraph radio loud speaker written or printed matter or by any other device or in any other manner of information pertaining to the making or laying of any wagers or bets on horse races."

Now this adds there, making it a crime to disseminate this information either by printing or telephone, of betting and wagers not only on horse races but on elections, prize-fights, wrestling, football, ice hockey, etc. In other words it makes it a crime to disseminate this information by printing matter or by wire, of bets on the things I enumerated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. OWLETT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—12

Buckman,	Heyburn,	Jaspan,	Rupp,
Chapman,	Homsher,	Owlett,	Sones,
Gelder,	Howell,	Rodgers,	Wolfenden,

Eroe,	Kunkel,	Rice,	Stiefel,
Frey,	Mundy,	Ruth,	Huffman,
Henney,	Pytko,	Shapiro,	Pres. Pro. Tem.

Haluska, present and not voting.

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the first section was agreed to.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the first section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr, President, I move to amend page 1, line 3 by inserting after the word "ever" the following: "knowingly"

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAPIRO and were as follows, viz:

It was agreed to.

The second section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to.

Section 2 The dissemination transmission distribution furnishing advertising spreading printing publishing or otherwise making known within this Commonwealth by means of telephone telegraph radio loudspeaker written or printed matter or by any other device or in any other manner of any information pertaining to the making or laying of any wagers or bets on horse races any betting odds on any horse race whether such betting odds be indicated by name number symbol code or otherwise any pay-off price or amount paid to bettors as the result of the running of any horse race any prediction suggestion or advice relating to the order or relative position in which any participant or participants in any horse race will finish whether such prediction suggestion or advice be indicated by name number symbol code tip or otherwise any system code formula or other method purporting to aid guide or assist any person in determining the order or relative position which any participant or participants may finish in any horse race any rating or estimated comparative racing ability of any horse whether such rating or estimated comparative racing ability be indicated by name number symbol code tip or otherwise shall be deemed in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes

The third section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 3 It shall and may be lawful for any sheriff constable or other officer of justice with or without warrant to seize upon secure and remove any device or machine or other instrumentality of any kind character or description whatsoever used and employed for the purposes of the dissemination transmission distribution furnishing advertising spreading printing publishing or otherwise making known in any manner any information in furtherance of gambling or for gambling purposes and to arrest with or without warrant any person setting up employing or using the same And it shall be the duty of such sheriff constable or other officer to make return in writing to the next court of quarter sessions of the proper county setting forth the nature and description of the device machine or other instrumentality so seized upon and the time place and circumstances under which such seizure was made and the said court upon hearing the parties if they should appear if satisfied that such device machine or instrumentality was employed and used for the purpose of unlawful dissemination transmission or distribution of information in furtherance of gambling as aforesaid shall adjudge the same forfeited and order it to be publicly destroyed and at the same time order such reasonable costs and charges to the seizing officer as they shall deem adequate and just to be paid by the owner or possessor or user of such device machine or instrumentality or in case of his default or in case he cannot be found to be paid as costs are now by law paid upon indictments and such adjudication shall be conclusive evidence to establish the legality of such seizure in any court of this Commonwealth in any cause in which the question of its legality shall arise and in any case in which a decree of forfeiture shall not be pronounced if said court shall upon the evidence be satisfied that there was probable cause for the seizure they shall certify the same which certificate shall be a bar to any action brought against the officer for or on account of such seizure in those cases in which the said officer returns or offers to return such device machine or instrumentality and in all cases shall prevent a recovery in damages for any sum beyond the real value of the device machine or instrumentality seized

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I move to amend line 9, page 4, by adding after the word "seized" the following: "provided that this section shall not apply to the property, agents, or employees of any public utility with respect to any private wire where the public utility has filed with the Public Utility Commission the duplicate original of the written contract for the said private wire and has otherwise complied with the terms of the statute regulating the furnishing of private wires"

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fourth fifth sixth and seventh sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 4 Any person partnership association firm or corporation who or which shall violate any provision of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and a fine of not less than Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) nor more than Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) or to undergo imprisonment for not less than one (1) year nor more than three (3) years or both at the discretion of the Court

Section 5 The provisions of this Act are severable and if any of its provisions shall be held unconstitutional the decision of the Court shall not affect or impair any of the remaining provisions of this Act It i. hereby declared to be the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provisions not been included herein

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1938

The House met at 1:00 P. M.

The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Most gracious Lord, we are happy that we may call upon Thee any time, any place. Anywhere Thy sanctuary may be established—in cathedrals, synagogues, chapels, at the fireside, on the mountainside. Church spires are evidences of Thy presence in given communities, but Thy dwelling place, Thy Kingdom, is in the hearts of men and women. We pray it may be the testimony of each and every one of us that Thy shrine be established in our hearts, and that morning, noon and evening we open the gates of our heart sancturies to let the Lord of Host come in for cleansing. May Thy beauty be seen in all of us.

We do pray, in His name. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WALSH. RESOLUTION No. 28.

In the House of Representatives, November 15, 1938.

Whereas, The Philadelphia Housing Authority, in conjunction with its slum-clearance program, is about to undertake the construction of a low cost housing project upon the old Glenwood Cemetery site; and

Whereas, Adjacent to the Glenwood Cemetery site is a large stable owned by the City of Philadelphia; and

Whereas, The said stable building is not only unsightly in appearance, but presents a health menace to the community; and

Whereas, The Northwest Business Men's Association, has for a period of many years endeavored to have the old Glenwood Cemetery removed and has advocated the use of the site for the building of modern homes; and

Whereas, the Northwest Business Men's Association, in conjunction with the cemetery removal, urges the Philadelphia Housing Authority to condemn the Philadelphia City Stables located adjacent to this site; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby urges the Philadelphia Housing Authority to condemn the said city stables of the City of Philadelphia, located adjacent to the Glenwood Cemetery property at 27th and Glenwood Avenue; and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of this House shall send a copy of this resolution to the Hon. Frank Smith, Chairman of the Board of the Philadelphia Housing Authority, at 658 City Hall, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. MOOMAW and OSTROFF

HOUSE BILL No. 95.

An Act licensing and regulating the business of transmitting and disseminating racing information providing for the issuance of licenses by the Public Utility Commission authorizing the Public Utility Commission to make examinations and issue regulations and prescribing penalties for the violation of this act

Referred to the Committee on Public Utilities.

STATEMENT BY MR. KANE

Mr. KANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker adn members of the House, on October 18, 1938, I made a statement to the members of this House and particularly to my Democratic colleagues, in which I Isaid, among other things: "When we have a Republican majority in this House, if II am present, I will fight to the last ditch to assure you the courtesies you have extended to me." Now that that prediction has come true and the check, so-to-speak, has become payable, let me say that I will do all that I can to make it good. All of the Republican members of the House, I believe, wish to thank the Speaker and the Democratic members for those many courtesies which were extended to us.

Last week the Republicans in Pennsylvania and throughout the Nation scored a landslide victory. It was a victory that will hearten business throughout the country. Some people may regard it as a mandate from the people. As my little county delivered a 9,000 majority, perhaps I have seen the public reaction at close view, and it seems to me that two things have been made abundantly clear.

The first one is that a government in Pennsylvania, to retain the public confidence, must not only avoid evil but must also avoid the appearance of evil.

The second is that the mandate given by the people to the Republican party is a mandate to install a better government in Pennsylvania and nothing else.

They tell a story about a stern old Scotch minister who was reading the Bible aloud to the members of his congregation, and when he came to that part where it read, "Vengeance is mine, sayeth the Lord," he closed the good book with a bang and said: "Aye Laird, weel Ye knew to keep the good part to yourself." And, since the Almighty, reserved this part, we should not assume it. Well, the Republican party was not given a mandate by the people to promiscuously swing the axe of vengeance. We were not given a mandate to man the State service with our political favorites. We are charged with the duty of improving the government of Pennsylvania and the hard task of re-establishing private employment. In this we must not only avoid corruption and waste, but even the slightest appearance of it, and to this task we invite the co-operation of the re-elected Democratic members.

Again, on behalf of myself and my colleagues, as this session draws to a close, I wish to thank the Speaker and the Democratic members for the many courtesies and considerations which we have received.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. OMINSKY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Public Utilities to meet during the session of the House.

BILL SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows, having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 30.

An Act authorizing the compromise of delinquent taxes on real property and the penalties interest and costs due thereon before a tax sale of such real property and providing the procedure in such case

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

STATEMENT BY MR. COSTANZO

Mr. COSTANZO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Statements have appeared in the public Press to the effect that the evidence presented to the Legislative Committee investigating the official conduct of Chief Magistrate J. J. O'Malley establishes the fact that Magistrate O'Malley has discharged his duties in compliance with the laws governing the duties of magistrates.

In the absence of Representative Hering, Chairman of this committee, and on behalf of the majority members thereof, I wish to say to the members of this House that such statements are unauthorized. The committee has held public hearings in Philadelphia. A great deal of testimony was heard by the committee at these hearings. The committee has not completed its analysis of the testimony and has, therefore, not reached any conclusion concerning the results of the investigation. A complete report will be made to the Speaker at a future date.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Legislative Journal.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1938. No. 30.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1938.

The Senate met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Harvey Huffman) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Thou art our strength and our song, O God, our sun and our shield, the rock of our salvation and we exalt Thy Holy Name. As we confront the problems of each new day, we acknowledge our need of wisdom and grace, a strength beyond our own. Bestow upon us Thy friendly Spirit, and may the arena of disputation and combat give way to comradeship and collaboration, as we face the duties of the hour and the day before us. Anoint our eyelids for a vision which will pierce the mists of confusion and doubt and bring near

". . . . . that season
By gifted ones fortold
When men shall live by reason
And not alone for gold;
When, man to man united,
And every wrong thing righted.
The whole world shall be lighted
As Eden was of old."

For the happiness of our people, for the weal of the world, may Thy sufficient grace be upon us, to Thine own glory. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RUPP, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

SENATE

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1938.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Our Lord, our God, our Father—

"There's a wideness in Thy mercy,
Like the wideness of the sea;
There's a kindness in Thy justice
Which is more than liberty."
"For the love of God is broader
Than the measure of man's mind,
And the heart of the Eternal
Is most wonderfully kind."

We voice these words of a great Catholic heart, as expressive of our own Thanksgiving and praise; and our hearts cry out with the Psalmist of Israel, "He hath not dealt so with any nation."

At the threshhold of our festal Thanksgiving season, may we answer the challenge of Thy goodness to us, as friends indeed to friends in need, among the bleeding, persecuted millions of tyrant lands.

And may we bear witness before the nations peace and joy in the Spirit of brother love. And may the grace of God be upon us, and guide us in thought, and word, and deed. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR THE HONORABLE JOHN G. HOMSHER, LATE SENATOR FROM THE THIRTEENTH DISTRICT

The Senate met at 10:00 o'clock, P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by resolution of the Senate for holding memorial services in memory of the Honorable John G. Homsher, late Senator from the Thirteenth District, the Senate will be in order and the services will be opened with prayer by the Chaplain.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL.D., offered the following prayer:

Our Gracious Heavenly Father, our thoughts, at this solemn hour, are borne by swift wings to a quiet churchyard, and we stand beside a new-made grave. The autumn winds whistle their weird awakening notes; the turtle dove, in somber, leaden garb, may coo his mournful dirge; or perhaps a boisterous thrush, or one of his mimic tribe, may chatter his defiance of the sacred spot; but the one we seek is not there—we turn from the sleeping dust, and we seek no longer the living among the dead.

By wings as swift, but we know not how, we find ourselves in these familiar haunts, within the walls of this historic chamber. Our vision falls upon this Senate floor, and he has vanished from his desk. We shunt our gaze to the presidential chair, and the gavel of years agone is wielded, and the chair is occupied by a mourning friend.

He is not here; he is risen from the mortal sphere, in the promotion of the just made perfect. Unseen within the scope of fleshy eyes, he has joined the unseen hosts, and his life lives on, in the music of the choir invisible.

We thank Thee, our Father, for the Voice from the sky, "Blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord from henceforth; for they shall rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

We thank Thee for the life of this good man, Senator Homsher; for the benediction which has fallen from his spirit and example upon those with whom he mingled; for his life-demonstration that one may be honest, true, frank, courageous, loyal to his convictions, yet gain and retain the respect, and admiration, and confidence, and friendship, and affection of his associates, irrespective of opinion or alignment.

May the grace of Thy consolation be upon those, his intimates through long years of comradeship. May the grief of loved ones be assuaged by the comfort of a lively hope.

As the mantle of the father falls upon a son, may a double portion of his spirit rest upon him; and may children, and children's children ever realize the wealth of the legacy of a good life, and a good name.

Linger with us as we tarry here, and by Thy Grace, translate our fellowship of sorrow into a sweet communion of cheer and hope.

Oh, our Eternal God, we believe in the Life Everlasting!

"Thou wilt not leave us in the dust;
Thou madest man—he knows not why;
He thinks he was not made to die;
And Thou madest him: Thou art just."

Help us so to live here, in the service of our day and generation, that when our summons comes, Thou canst use us to Thy glory in the realm of the ages. Amen.

Mr. BUCKMAN offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, November 21, 1938.

WHEREAS, Almighty God in His infinite wisdom has removed from his earthly abode our fellow Senator and honored friend, Senator John G. Homsher, of the Thirteenth Senatorial District of Pennsylvania; and

WHEREAS, thirty-eight years of active, devoted and continuous service to his County and to the Commonwealth deserve at the hands of his colleagues some special commendation; and

WHEREAS, his important and almost lifelong official services were such as to bring him distinction and mark him as one of the Commonwealth's foremost citizens, and whose pleasing personality and friendly disposition brought to him the friendship and respect of his associates, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, that the Senate give expression of the loss it has sustained by the death of our colleague and friend, whose qualities of mind and heart brought to him prominence and honor; and

RESOLVED, that it be the sentiment of the Senate of Pennsylvania that in the death of Senator Homsher there was closed one of the most memorable and illustrious careers that was ever vouchsafed a son of Pennsylvania. During all those years he was never unfaithful to a trust, never lessened his loyalty to his associates nor sought any excuse to deviate in the slightest degree from his pledged word; and now be it

RESOLVED, that we tender to the family of the late Honorable John G. Homsher this testimony of our sympathy in the great loss of this public spirited man, and that we direct a copy of this resolution, duly engrossed and attested, to be forwarded to the members of his family.

CLARENCE J. BUCKMAN, Chairman
SAMUEL W. SALUS
HENRY J. PIERSON
CHARLES W. SONES
C. HALE SIPE

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President and Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania:

In rising to move the adoption of this resolution, I do so with a heavy heart. Death has removed from our midst one of the most lovely characters I have ever known. The late Senator Homsher was a member of this Senate twenty-eight years ago, when I first came into this body as a mere farmer's boy. We have served together continuously since that time. He was devoted in his duties, faithful in his attendance in this chamber and at all times careful and considerate in his actions and in the treatment of the members of this body. He did not always vote as I did, Mr. President, but the fact that there were factional differences existing between us never made a particle of difference in our personal relations, and I believe that to be true between him and every other member of the Senate.

In speaking of the late Senator Homsher, I am going to quote from him and use his own words when he delivered an address at the memorial services held in this Senate for the late T. Larry Eyre on Tuesday, March 22nd, 1927, when I say that Senator Homsher "was a man of striking personality and was possessed of such a refined and delicate charm of manner that made him a marked man in any assemblage. These qualities may be cultivated, but they cannot be assumed. They must emanate from the spirit within of kindness, fairness and generosity, and no man can long appear other than the sentiments he holds and cultivates would make him. It would be well, indeed, if more attention would be paid to the cultivation of those ethics which he exemplified in such a full degree in our education. Their possession adds a brilliancy to any other attainments, no matter how profound or exalted they may otherwise be."

This is an hour for serious reflection and for solemn meditation of things not temporal, but eternal. We meet not to grieve, but to glorify. We do not contemplate the pains of death, but we fondly recall the brotherly love that we knew in the living while we try, with the eye of faith to catch some glimpse of the glories of that realm to which their spirits have ascended.

No more fitting or beautiful custom has ever been instituted than this simple ceremonial, this modest and entirely appropriate commemoration of the virtues of the dead. There is not one among us but who is better for such an occasion. We are drawn away from the world where the care and the duties toward the living are constantly before us. The drudgery of every day life, dreams of ambition and visionary aspirations may harden and warp our natures, but in the tenderness of our thoughts of the loved ones gone, in the kindness of our expressions of those departed and the sincerity with which we bring our humblest tributes of respect, we become softened in our whole being and at peace with the world.

John Homsher, as we were pleased to know him and shall be pleased to remember him, was a man of superior parts, a man among men, a natural born leader of men; for many years an astute political leader and a forceful figure in the political life not only of his own County of Lancaster, but of the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Wise in counsel, devoted to his party and to his party's convictions, loyal and true to his friends, who were loyal and true to him—as was manifest on many occasions throughout his long political career.

And what higher compliment can be paid to man than to say that those who have known him longest and known him best, those who were his playmates and his schoolmates in those olden, golden yesterdays, those who grew up with him to maturity, who were his associates and his neighbors during the active years of his life and those who were his constituents and loyal supporters in these later and declining years, loved, honored and respected him?

Senator Homsher was not a man of big business, as we know that term today, but all during his youthful life he served his neighborhood, then his County, then his State, first as a school teacher, then as a surveyor and conveyancer, then as a publisher of a local newspaper, and lastly as a member of the House of Representatives for eight years and as a member of the Senate for thirty years. To him came the unusual and so far as I know he was the only one ever to be honored by being elected as President pro tempore of the Senate on two occasions.

I attended his funeral, together with other members of this body, at Strasburg in a large Mennonite Church. I wish all of you could have seen the hundreds of friends and neighbors from among the plain people, men, women and children, some of them bent from toil and the passage of years. It was a most impressive funeral.

In my own acquaintance with Senator Homsher I learned to esteem him as an honored friend, and I felt a personal bereavement in his passing. I believe that his great spirit still lives and that we who knew him are better for our associations with him, and that the State is better because he lived. And now that he has passed to the other side of the river of that Great Divide; and there may he have heard that Blessed Summons, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Mr. SONES. Mr. President and members of the Senate, we have met to do honor to a true nobleman of our Commonwealth, a member of this Body, the Hon. John G. Homsher of Strasburg, Lancaster County.

His record, not only as a legislator, but as a man, is one that any individual may be proud of; he was a real legislator. Elected, as he was, for the first time, to the House of Representatives, serving there with honor from 1900 to 1908. He became a member of the senate in 1909 representing the 13th District, serving continuously until his passing in August last. More honors were bestowed upon him than any other member of this Body, having been elected president Pro Tem of the Senate twice the highest honor given to any man by the Senate of Pennsylvania. He served a period of thirty years, with a legislative record of nearly forty years. He was the Dean of the Senate.

Senator Homsher was a man of fine character, of even temperament, which endeared him to his host of friends. He possessed excellent judgment, was unbiased, and not only the constituents of his district, but the people of the Commonwealth realized his qualifications as a legislator.

I have served with him on important Conference Committees on many occasions where some of the most important legislation on our Statute books today were enacted into law. His genial presence, ready smile and kindly ways will be missed in this Body. He was always ready to say a kindly word for another Senator irrespective of Party and gave the glad hand to all newcomers. He was true to his word and his friendship stood the test of time. To know him was to love him.

Shortly before his passing in August last, I received a letter from him. In the same was a paragraph reading as follows: "If I had written to you as many times as I have thought of you since last we met, you would have been overwhelmed with letters." When this letter was written, he was not aware a Special Session of the Legislature had been called.

Fellow Members we have lost a friend, a kindly gentleman, but the remembrance of him will always be green in our memories.

> Farewell, that word has broken hearts,
> And blinded eyes with tears—
> Farewell, one stays—and one departs,
> Between them roll the years."

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President and members of the Pennsylvania Senate, the passing of Senator Homsher, the grand old man of the Pennsylvania Senate, brings home forcibly to the members of this body the truth that in the midst of life we are in death.

On all sides we are confronted with evidence of the reign of the grim Monarch, called Death. We drive along our highways and find them lined with cemeteries and depositories for the dead. We see the gloomy hearse; we hear the tolling bell; we hear the ring of the workman's chisel carving epitaphs.

Yes, the reign of death is universal. The babe in its mother's arms; the child prattling at its parent's knee; the boy just opening into adolescence; the maiden in the loveliness of grace, culture and beauty; the young man of talent, promise and joyous parental hope; the matron who is the delight of her children and husband; the father who is the protector of those children and matron; the widow lingering by the grave of her buried love; the aged man whose form has been bent by a life of care—each of these, Mr. President, represents a class from which death has snatched and is ever snatching his victim.

But when a venerable man like Senator Homsher falls asleep in the arms of his Maker and feels upon his aged brow the breath of the eternal morning, we are reminded of the words of the comforter of old: "Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

I have many grateful recollections of Senator Homsher, a kindly man, a fair minded man, a man of convictions. Next to the pleasure of having a man like Senator Homsher as one's ally, is the pleasure of having such a man as an opponent. In differing with Senator Homsher one never felt that he was battling against the venerable Senator personally, but that he was battling with him and for him in that grand warfare whose final issue will be that which all good men desire, namely, the establishment of truth.

In my association with Senator Homsher I found that he was in many respects a man after my own heart, interested in many of the things in which I am interested—interested greatly in early Pennsylvania history. Scion of the Pennsylvania German and Swiss pioneers that he was, he knew their history and reveled in their lore. He knew that the group from which he descended, as early as 1686, issued the very first protest against human slavery on the American Continent, and he gloried in this fact. He knew that, that protest at Germantown was the spring that was the source of the rill that became the mighty river that overflowed on the battlefields of the great Civil War; and he deplored the fact that so many Pennsylvanians seem to believe that the agitation against slavery on this Continent began in New England among the templed hills of the Puritans. He took pride in the fact that the group from which he descended, in the dark days of the American Revolution were all on the side of liberty; that they produced no Tories; that they kept Washington's army from starving to death at Valley Forge, the Gethsemane of the Revolution, when Congress failed; that they produced the speaker of the first American Congress, also of the third American Congress and President of the Pennsylvania Convention that ratified the Constitution of the United States.

I shall never forget a conversation that Senator Homsher and I had along these lines in an evening hour. The sun was streaming through the western windows of this chamber in its dying glory; God was painting the sunset with radiant finger and glories eternal were lingering in the western sky like fires on mystic alters, when Senator Homsher directed the conversation along the lines of how unfair a lot of major historians of the United States have been to the German and Swiss pioneers of Pennsylvania.

Particularly this fair minded and truth-loving man resented the fact that one of the greatest of the New England historians, Francis Parkman, in one of his major works on Colonial history, went out of his way to revile the German pioneers of the Keystone State, descendents of that Alpine race that overthrew the Roman Empire. Writing of events that took place along the lower Susquehanna in the year 1763, Parkman says: "The counties east of the Susquehanna supported a mixed population, among whom was a conspicuous swarm of German peasants who had been inundating the country for many years and who as a class were dull and ignorant boors, a character not wholly inapplicable to the great body of their descendents."

Senator Homsher resented Parkman's statement. Together we analyzed it and found that the only truth in the statement is the declaration that as early as 1763 the stock from which Senator Homsher sprang, was a large part of the population of eastern Pennsylvania and had been coming to this section for many years prior thereto. Together we recalled that the German pioneers were the first to follow William Penn to Pennsylvania, the first of them coming the very next year after the great Quaker first set foot upon the shores of the western World, their leader being Francis Daniel Pastorius, the Pennsylvania Pilgrim, the most broadly educated man in America in his day. Together we recalled that at Germantown, the German pioneers established the first, the largest and most successful printing house in Colonial America. Together we recalled that at this printing house they printed the first text books in all America, the first works on biography in all America, the first works on astronomy in all America, and printed the first Bibles in all America, printing the New Testament five times and the Old Testament three times, fifty years before any Bibles were printed in this western world by descendants of the Mayflower.

Together Senator Homsher and I recalled that at Ephrata in his own county of Lancaster, another group of what the New England historian in either his ignorance or prejudice or both called, "dull and ignorant boors," printed the first work on music in all America and the Martyr Spiegel (the Book of Martyrs), largely a history of the martyrdom of the Mennonites, a ponderous volume of fifteen hundred pages and the largest book printed in Colonial America. Together we recalled that the Pennsylvania German pioneers alone printed more books in the Colonial period than the whole of New England. Together we recalled that many of the leaders of this great racial group, in early Pennsylvania, were graduates of German Universities.

Together Senator Homsher and I recalled that when the dark hour of the American Revolution came, the Pennsylvania German pioneers were about one-third of the population of Pennsylvania and that they then had ten newspapers while the other two-thirds, the English speaking part of the population, had eight; and we came to the conclusion that if this stock were what Parkman calls them, "dull and ignorant boors," what under Heaven shall we say of our English speaking ancestors?

As to the descendants of the Pennsylvania German pioneers, every well informed person knows that they have taken front rank in agriculture, in industry, in the learned professions, in religion and in the arts and sciences. Among them have been such merchant princes as John Wanamaker and Henry Buhl. Among them have been such captains of industry as Henry C. Frick and Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury in the cabinets of three presidents. Among them have been eleven Governors of the Commonwealth, including that renowned champion of popular education, George Wolf, during whose administration, 1829 to 1835, the Pennsylvania Public School system was established.

Yes, Mr. President, I shall carry to the grave the recollection of this conversation with the venerable Senator, scion of the German and Swiss pioneers of Pennsylvania, who knew their history and reveled in their lore; and it is fitting that his dust reposes in the soil of his native county and amid the hallowed associations and mighty memories of its heroic past, where the smiling fields he loved so well yield their fruitful increase and where barns like castles rise. Peace to the ashes of Senator Homsher.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the Resolution?

HOUSE CONCURS IN AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL NO. 82

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced presented communication from the House of Representatives informing the Senate that the House has concurred in amendments made by the Senate to House Bill No. 82, entitled:

An Act to amend sections two hundred two four hundred one and two thousand three hundred eighteen of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177) entitled "Administrative Code of 1929" as amended by creating as departmental administrative boards in the Department of Welfare and conferring powers and duties upon boards of trustees for the respective institutions acquired by the Commonwealth from counties cities and institution districts for use as State mental hospitals.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE BILL NO. 39

He also returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 39, entitled:

An Act to amend and reenact section five hundred and twenty-four of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by limiting and prescribing the method of fixing the levy of school taxes in school districts of the first class.

with the information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

BILL SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 39, entitled:

An Act to amend and reenact section five hundred and twenty-four of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by limiting and prescribing the method of fixing the levy of school taxes in school districts of the first class.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

HOUSE MESSAGE

SENATE BILL NO. 40. RETURNED WITH AMENDMENTS.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced returned to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend sections one hundred eight five hundred six five hundred seven eight hundred thirteen eight hundred fourteen and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts validating the merger of certain school districts eliminating certain powers of county boards of school directors and redefining indebtedness of school districts empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that Rule 21, which requires amended bills to be noted on the calendar, be in this case dispensed with, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the amendments made by the House of Representatives to the foregoing bill.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Said amendments having been twice read and printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, the House amendments have taken all the power away from the local county boards and placed it back in the Department at Harrisburg, and we feel that is taking home rule away from our county boards. Therefore, I would ask the members of the Senate to vote the amendments down.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Gelder,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

The PRESIDENT. We will now proceed to the consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 36 (House Bill No. 8), on concurrence in House Amendments recalled from the Governor postponed.

Mr. LAW. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE INSISTS UPON ITS AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL NO. 40

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House insists upon its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend sections one hundred eight five hundred six five hundred seven eight hundred thirteen eight hundred fourteen and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled

"An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts validating the merger of certain school districts eliminating certain powers of county boards of school directors and redefining indebtedness of school districts empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation increasing the salaries of members of the county boards of school directors and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, I move that the Senate insist on its non-concurrence in the amendments made and insisted upon by the House of Representatives, and that a Committee of Conference be appointed to confer with a committee of the House of Representatives (if the House should appoint such committee) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Ordered, that Messrs. RUTH, SIPE and DEITRICK, be said committee on the part of the Senate and that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

HOUSE MESSAGE

RESOLUTION MEMORIALIZING PHILADELPHIA CITY COUNCIL TO DISCONTINUE SALES TAX

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives which was twice read as follows and referred to the Committee on City Government.

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938.

Whereas The taxing powers of the City of Philadelphia is derived from the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas The Council of the City of Philadelphia has, by ordinance enacted, imposed a tax on sales in the City of Philadelphia which has directly resulted in a precipitous drop in sales of between twenty per centum and thirty per centum and has seriously and adversely affected the best interests of the merchants of Philadelphia; and

Whereas A sales tax directly taxes that section of our population that can least afford to be taxed; and

Whereas Despite the expressed and overwhelming objection of the people of the said City of Philadelphia, said City Council has enacted such a sales tax; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a sales tax by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or by any political subdivision thereof shall be illegal; and be it further

Resolved That it is the intention of the General Assembly to enact, by legislation, a prohibition of said sales tax at the next regular session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved That the Council of the City of Philadelphia be advised not to extend the sales tax ordinance beyond December 31, 1938, the date of its expiration and that said Council of the City of Philadelphia shall omit from its calculations the estimated receipts to be derived from the continued imposition of a sales tax; and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the President of the City Council of Philadelphia and to the Mayor and Controller of said city.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

Mr. EROE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senate has just confirmed the seven nominees for cabinet offices and has rejected three nominees because, apparently, their terms may extend beyond January 17th. I want to recall to the minds of some of the members of the Senate now present that in 1935, when I sat on the other side of the house, I made the statement then concerning the incoming Governor, the present Governor, that that Governor was not my candidate but that he was my Governor. I want to repeat that statement now and say that while Mr. James was not my candidate, on the 17th of January he will be my Governor, and so far as I am concerned I will go along in every method that he suggests to provide better conditions for the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

But with equal force I serve notice on the gentlemen on the other side that when it comes to nominations for candidates suggested by the Governor, when their appointments are for other than cabinet offices, I shall act in accordance with the lessons I got here tonight, and I serve notice that after January 17th, when nominations are suggested by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I shall not be bound by the feeling that he is my Governor any more than the present members of the Senate on the other side seemed to recognize that fact. They seem to feel that nominations are the subject of political action, and political controversy. I shall govern myself accordingly.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE INSISTS ON ITS AMENDMENTS TO SENATE BILL NO. 40 AND APPOINTS COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced informed the Senate that the House insists upon its amendments non-concurred in by the Senate to Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

An Act to amend sections one hundred eight five hundred six five hundred seven eight hundred thirteen eight hundred fourteen and one thousand one hundred thirty-three of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" as amended by providing for the merger of certain school districts with other districts validating the merger of certain school districts eliminating certain powers of county boards of school directors and redefining indebtedness of school districts empowering the county boards of school directors to employ an attorney and fix his compensation increasing the salaries of members of the county board of school directors and providing for limitations on the appointment of district superintendents and has appointed Messrs. Achterman, Simon and Woodside as a Committee of Conference to confer with the similar Committee of the Senate (already appointed) to consider the differences existing between the two houses in relation to said bill.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, November 21, 1938

The House met at 9:00 P. M.
The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Most gracious Lord, we come to Thee, at this thanksgiving season, with praise and thanksgiving. Thy word teaches us that we ought always give praise unto Thee, but a season of special emphasis seemeth good unto man. Even in our festivities, we forget not Thy bountiful gifts. As individuals we praise Thee, as a body we acknowledge Thy leadership, and as a state we join the entire nation in expressing gratitude unto Thee for the many blessings of the year. In this season those of us who enjoy the blessings of peace, plenty of material comforts and happy homes, our hearts are warmed unto those who suffer from afflictions, and from want of the necessities of life; who are homeless, who are denied the right of pursuit of happiness and to worship Thee according to the dictates of their conscience. Oh may they have a surcease of hardship, and enjoy again a happy place among the races of mankind.

We do pray in Christ's own name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. HARKINS filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am voting "aye" on this bill because I am informed that there is a serious financial situation in the Philadelphia school system and because it does not cause a mandatory rise in the tax millage but only vests a discretionary power in the school board. I believe that an emergency exists and that this bill will solve the situation until the regular session of 1939.

Mr. OSTROFF filed the following reasons for his vote:

I vote "aye" on Senate Bill No. 39 in order to insure the continued welfare of the Public School System. I believe that safeguards should be set up to protect the real estate owner against oppressive taxation. However, that legislation must be adopted by a regular session of the legislature after due deliberation.

The condition of the public schools in this emergency must be considered. In view of the emergency, I am supporting this measure which gives temporary relief.

SENATE MESSAGE TAKEN FROM TABLE

Mr. SHAW. Mr. Speaker, I move that the Senate message on House Bill No. 82, which was laid on the table on Tuesday, November 15, 1938, be taken from the table.

The motion was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

BILL SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

Bills numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

HOUSE BILL No. 8.

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Property and Supplies for the payment of rates rentals and other charges that may become due on leases and other contracts executed with the General State Authority for the use and occupancy of various projects structures buildings and facilities of the Authority or for the services rendered by the Authority or its projects.

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

RESOLUTION No. 7

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 7, Printer's No. 80.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, August 15, 1938.

Whereas, During the past two decades, the automobile industry has developed rapidly with attendant reduction of prices to such an extent that the great majority of families and business firms now own and operate motor vehicles; and

Whereas, The general use of the automobile and other motor vehicles created the demand for more improved streets and highways, a portion of which cost is born by the revenue procured from motor vehicle licenses and gasoline taxes, while the real property owners have been required to maintain most of the city and borough streets for the benefit of such motor vehicles, as well as to mortgage their properties through municipal bond issues by city, county, borough and township governments for further improvements of streets, alleys and for maintenance of the same in addition to supplying through direct taxation on such real properties, including the homes and farms of this Commonwealth, sufficient funds to provide the essential safety devices and motor patrols for the facilitation of motor vehicular traffic; and

Whereas, The unfair tax burden place upon realty owners for financing the expenses of traffic patrols, traffic signal lights and their maintenance, better traffic committees, traffic planning commissions, traffic courts with its attendant costs of magistrates, etc., stolen car division of detective forces, and homicide squads, and many other direct costs of a similar nature, such as the civil and criminal divisions of the courts of common pleas, and the municipal and county courts, for the settlement of claims resulting from the popular use of the automobiles and trucks; and

Whereas, Real estate owners who own twenty-six per centum (26%) of the total wealth of this Commonwealth are now required to pay approximately ninety per centum (90%) of the cost of all local government, including aforementioned safety devices and measures for the protection of automotive traffic, and in addition the cost of operating the public schools, which tax burden is admittedly out of all proportion and should be remedied at the earliest possible time through equitable legislation; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives in Extraordinary session assemble request and direct the State Highway Department to make a survey of the costs to the municipalities of the Commonwealth for all such traffic regulation and safety services attributable to the automobile and motor truck usage of the municipal streets and highways for the purpose of enabling the next general sesion of the Legislature to properly draft bills to relieve the real property owners of such municipalities of the entire cost of such services resulting from the popular use of automotive equipment; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the State Highway Department shall present to the House of Representatives, at the next regular session, a report of the facts obtained by the above specified survey.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

RESOLUTION No. 26

Mr. BLANK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 26, Printer's No. 81.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, October 18, 1938.

Whereas The taxing power of the City of Philadelphia is derived from the Legislature of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas The Council of the City of Philadelphia has, by ordinance enacted, imposed a tax on sales in the City of Philadelphia which has directly resulted in a precipitous drop in sales of between twenty per centum and thirty per centum and has seriously and adversely affected the best interests of the merchants of Philadelphia; and

Whereas A sales tax directly taxes that section of our population that can least afford to be taxed; and

Whereas Despite the expressed and overwhelming objection of the people of the said City of Philadelphia, said City Council has enacted such a sales tax; therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That it is the sense of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a sales tax by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or by any political subdivision thereof shall be illegal; and be it further

Resolved That it is the intention of the General Assembly to enact, by legislation, a prohibition of said sales tax at the next regular session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved That the Council of the City of Philadelphia be advised not to extend the sales tax ordinance beyond December 31, 1938, the date of its expiration and that said Council of the City of Philadelphia shall omit from its calculations the estimated receipts to be derived from the continued imposition of a sales tax; and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the President of the City Council of Philadelphia and to the Mayor and Controller of said city.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, very briefly and to the point, this particular resolution certainly does not come within the call of this Legislature. I can hardly see where it is any part of the business of this House to tell City Council of Philadelphia whether they should levy a sales tax or not. They happen to have that power under the Act of 1932. They have the power to levy any tax not specifically levied by the State. I think if we want to give advice to the people, we could give a whole lot better advice than by telling them how to run the fiscal affairs of a city, particularly where it is in bad shape, and to talk about not increasing the tax on real estate, you cannot possibly expect them to operate the city on plain air, mostly hot air. I am inclined to think that this resolution merely represents cheap politics, and I don't think it is worthy of the sponsor.

Mr. BLANK. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am very much surprised to find that there is a member of this House who thinks so little of the constituents he represents as to be able to arise on the floor of this House and by inference advocate the sales tax. I do not know too much about legislation but I do know that those of us who are here are here for the purpose of representing the best interests of the majority of our constituents. Possibly a sales tax represents the best interests of the majority of the constituents of the representative from Philadelphia who just spoke. I know that it does not represent the best interests of the majority of the constituents in my district, and I very much doubt whether it represents the best interests of the constituents of any member of this House.

A sales tax is one that taxes those who are least able to pay. The government must raise a certain amount of money with which it can pay its expenses, and I certainly feel, and I think the majority of the members of this House feel, that that money should not be raised from those who are least able to pay. When this resolution which was offered by me was first called to the attention of the sponsor of the city sales tax in Philadelphia, he said, "Let the Legislature mind their own business, we will mind ours.' What he did not know is that it is our business. What he did not know is that the right of any municipality or political subdivision of this state to tax, comes from the power directly granted to it by this legislature, and where any political subdivision, particularly the city of Philadelphia, will dare to rock and sock the people of the city of Philadelphia with a sales tax and are so subservient to those interests who are opposed to any decent form of tax and who are in favor of a sales tax, then I say it becomes the business of this House to tell them what they may and may not tax. The purpose of this resolution is to indicate to the city council that this parent body does not approve the sales tax, and if they see fit to reenact a sales tax for next year, then I call upon the membership of this House to pass this resolution, and to pledge that next year they will outlaw a sales tax anywhere in the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am still conscious of the fact that I am a member of the House and not a member of City Council. The City Council of Philadelphia will perform its duty in accordance with its own best interests and in accordance with the best interests of the people of the city of Philadelphia. The whole City Council comes up for election next year. I imagine they can tell the pulse of their voters. I understand that a great many voters voted Republican at the last election even though the sales tax was made an issue in that campaign.

Let me say this in conclusion, I am neither for nor against a sales tax. I do not believe we have any right to tell the Council of the city of Philadelphia what they should do in regards to a sales tax. The City Council of Philadelphia is responsible to the people who are affected by this resolution.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, just a short statement relative to this resolution on the sales tax. I think all of us know that the Governor-elect pledged himself and his party against the sales tax of Pennsylvania. This will be the first opportunity given the present minority and the future majority of the Republican party in this House to say whether or not they will fulfill their pledges. If they vote against this resolution it will show the people of Pennsylvania that it is not their intention beginning now to fulfill the pledges that have been made to the people during the last campaign.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, very briefly and to the point also Mr. McDevitt has failed to point out that in the last election the Democrats carried a majority of council.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is speaking about an election in Philadelphia. We have a question before us on a resolution with reference to a sales tax. There is nothing in the resolution about pledges of parties or politics. It is now twenty minutes of twelve.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in spite of the fact it is twenty minutes to twelve, that doesn't mean a thing to most of you fellows anyway. I think we have a tendency here to get away from the real question. This is not a question as to whether or not the Republican party pledged itself to do or not to do something in the coming session of the legislature. The question is purely one, it seems to me, of whether this legislature shall by resolution try to tell a municipal government how it shall run itself. We do have control, of course, of a municipal government by the enactment of laws. We can say what they shall tax and what they shall not tax. We can say how they shall tax and how they shall not tax. But, after all, there is a matter of home rule involved. There is a question involved of a legislative body created by the people of Philadelphia to carry on its affairs, after the legislature has given that body the power to carry on its affairs; there is a question involved of the legislature by resolution attempting to tell them whether they shall or shall not do something. If you would carry that a step further we might be telling the council of the city of Philadelphia or the council of the city of Pittsburgh or Harrisburg or Chester or some other city in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Commissioners of Townships or the councilmen in the various boroughs, how they are to act on various matters that come before them. I believe that the city of Philadelphia can take care of itself. I believe that they know thir own affairs. They know the questions that come before them. I say this would be far out of place; it would be highly improper; it would be an infringement by this body upon the powers and prerogatives of a sovereign body. It would be just as improper for the council of the city of Philadelphia to try to tell us here in the legislature what we should or should not do.

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. BLANK, WALSH and JAMES A. SMITH.

Messrs. TURNER, SCHROCK and WINNER asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

OBJECTION TO UNANIMOUS CONSENT WITHDRAWN

Mr. KILROY. Mr. Speaker, through my objection to having Senate Bills 67 and 68 read for the first time it means keeping this House an extra day, especially in Thanksgiving Week, and also because of information that it is agreed upon in Committee, to have it referred back after second reading, I withdraw my objection.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kilroy, withdraws his objection to having Senate Bills Nos. 67 and 68 read for the first time.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. The bills are not before the House, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the gentleman from Philadelphia was making that as a statement. They can be brought up by unanimous consent of the House.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUESTED

Mr. OSTROFF. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House to have Senate Bill No. 67 read for the first time.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the title of Senate Bill No. 67.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, are these two bills for which unanimous consent was asked to be read for the first time?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I understand that the order of the Chair is to have them read for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER. To have the titles read for the information of the House.

The Clerk will read the title to Senate Bill No. 67 for the information of the House.

The title was read by the Clerk as follows:

An Act making illegal the furnishing of certain telephone and telegraph wires and services by certain public utilities for use in the dissemination of information in furtherance of gambling making it unlawful for any public utility to furnish private wires except by written contract conferring and imposing upon the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the power and duty to disapprove all contracts for private wires used for or intended to be used for the transmission of information or advices in furtherance of gambling making illegal the furnishing of certain wires by certain public utilities after the disapproval of the contract therefor by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission making illegal the use of certain wires for purposes other than those specified in the written contract therefor imposing penalties making the dissemination of information pertaining to horse racing over certain wires prima facie evidence that the same is in furtherance of gambling prescribing the burden of proof in proceedings hereunder and providing for appeal.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 97, (Senate Bill No. 67), read for the first time. Are there objections?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I object.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUESTED

Mr. OSTROFF. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 98, (Senate Bill No. 68), read for the first time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have House Bill No. 98, (Senate Bill No. 68), read for the first time. Is there objection?

The Clerk will read the title for the information of the House.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I think the House understands what the measure is, and to save the time of the House, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections and consent is not granted.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULES

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of the rules on Senate Bills Nos. 67 and 68, so that they may be acted upon for the first time.

In making this request I might say that as Chairman of the Judiciary Special Committee, the agreement as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Kilroy pointed out in withdrawing his original objection, these bills, in order to save a legislative day this week and in the interests of economy, we will have a committee meeting which will be next Mnday evening and the Committee agreed to have them recommitted after second reading tomorrow. There are several considerations and amendments in there and I am fearful that if they do not get second reading until Monday, it will prohibit the consideration of amendments which, I believe, some people would like to have considered in the bills. I would therefore ask that the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Turner, withdraw his objection and ask for a suspension of the rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I would be the last one to object to anything that would save the time of the membership of this House or to oppose the orderly advance of any legislation. I agree with the gentleman from Franklin, Mr. Moomaw, that these two bills need attention and amendment, as they are far-reaching in effect.

I have only given them very slight study during the time I had today, but as I see it they are bills which the people of Pennsylvania ought to have every opportunity to study and know something about them. One of the great safeguards to the people of Pennsylvania has always been that provision in the Constitution that requires bills to be read on three separate days. These bills went to the committee tonight. They were rushed out by the committee and they now come on the floor and consent is asked to have them read for the first time. They can be read for the first time tomorrow. We are not going to adjourn until Monday or Tuesday of next week. You will have time to pass them if they are proper. I do not just arbitrarily object but I cannot withdraw my objection. I think that the chairman of that committee ought not to ask that on measures of this kind as they are very intricate and he ought not to ask us to give hasty consideration and should let them go on in their ordinary course.

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, for your information these bills were first introduced on November 14th, and passed the Senate on last Wednesday and up until this evening, from no one who is supposed to be seriously affected by them, have we had any opposition until an hour ago. There were a couple of technical amendments by the utilities which were vitally affecting them. Otherwise, they were perfectly satisfied with the bills. Most of these amendments were put in in the Senate but there are a few technical amendments that will be considered by this committee and will no doubt be incorporated.

POINTS OF ORDER

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware will state his point of order.

Mr. TURNER. Mr. Speaker, is the bill that is before us on the desks of the members?

The SPEAKER. The bill should be found in the Senate file.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia will state his point of order.

Mr. TUMELTY. Mr. Speaker, does it make any difference whether the bills are on file or not when it comes to a question of suspending the rules? I think that is what we are to vote on.

The SPEAKER. The motion is made for the specific purpose of considering these two particular bills. It is the uniform practice to have bills on file. We will wait a few moments and the bills will be on file. The Sergeant-at-Arms will file them.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULES WITHDRAWN

Mr. MOOMAW. Mr. Speaker, in view of the lateness of the hour and the lightness of the membership, I wish to withdraw my motion to suspend the rules upon consideration of Senate Bills 67 and 68.

The SPEAKER. The motion to suspend Rules 14, 41 and 43 has been withdrawn.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

The Committee on Welfare will meet tomorrow, Tuesday, at 10:00 a. m. in the Chief Clerk's office.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. BOLTZ. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow at 1:00 p. m.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 12:11 a. m.) the House adjourned until Tuesday, November 21, 1938, at 1:00 p. m.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Extraordinary Session of 1938

Vol. 22 HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1938. No. 32.

SENATE

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1938.

The Senate met at 1:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Thomas Kennedy) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. GEORGE WALKER BUCKNER, LL. D., offered the following prayer:

Our good and gracious God and our Father, the coming of another day laden with its blessings, impels to gratitude and appreciation and we offer our tribute of praise and thanks. The new day brings to us blessings which perhaps we fail to see. They come to us as duties and responsibilities, in the daily tasks of life.

Open the eyes of our understanding, that we may know the joy of duty done, of obligation fully met, the pleasure of bending to our tasks. We are living in great and awful days. Give us heart and courage, and in these fleeting hours help us to make history rather than to mark time.

God bless our beloved land that we may be a blessing to all the lands; and the glory shall be Thine forever. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. RICE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. RICE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until Monday, November 28, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

Mr. LAW. Mr. President, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.
The Senate adjourned at 2:56 o'clock P. M., until Monday, November 28, 1938, at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1938.

The House met at 1:00 p. m.
The SPEAKER, (Roy E. Furman), in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EPHRAIM Z. GALLAHER, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we petition Thee, today with solemn and sincere feeling. Thou who hath in times past given ear to supplications of special interests, we ask that Thou wouldst sustain us to-day. We speak for American Womanhood. Out of the storm and fury of world disorder there comes the unwarranted charge of a low and base scale of entire American Womanhood. This is a charge against our homes, as woman is the queen of our home. It is a flagrant slander of all with which woman in America has part and parcel, public and private.

Our petition, therefore is a public defense of American Womanhood, and a protest of the malicious statement of a mad-man.

In Thy holy name, we pray. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday, when, on motion of Mr. VALIBUS, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal approved.
